Are not going to be lower. French walnuts are advancing and speculators and jobbers snapped up nearly all the California nuts at opening prices as soon as the prices were announced.

THE GOODS ARE RIGHT

And the Profit to the Trade Is Also Right.

The trade of the Egg-O-See Co., manufacturers of Egg-O-See, is being built on the solid foundation of satisfaction to the consumer and fair profit to the dealer.

When these two prime requisites are assured, together with business push and acumen, the success of any article may be considered as certain, and all these are united in favor of Egg-O See.

The article is one of superior merit, and the company manufacturing it have recently let contracts to the amount of $500,000 for the purpose of acquainting the consumers with its claims upon their attention as a high class cereal food.

On this coast of salesmen and demonstrators are at work under the personal direction of Claude E. Pierce, proving the goods and creating a demand which the grocer has only to stock Egg-O-See to benefit from.

WILL NOT MOVE.

In regard to a rumor that they were to move their big plant across the bay, an official of the Western Meat Company said: "My company has no intention whatever of removing to the other side of the bay. The company is now employing 1,800 men in its $4,000,000 plant, occupying 4,500 acres in South San Francisco, and it would be out of the question to even consider removing."

PRINCIPLES AT STAKE.

Valuable Co-operation of California Retail Grocers Will Be Shown.

Honest competition is a desirable thing in trade.

No honest man wants to be forced to compete with bunco steerers and sure thing gamblers.

Certain wholesale grocers of San Francisco are taking steps to force this kind of competition on the grocers of Los Angeles, and, indirectly, of northern California. A big department store of Los Angeles, in order to attract unsuspecting victims into its other departments, where they can make up the loss on groceries by selling them other lines, the value of which they do not know, has put in a grocery department and makes a specialty of offering these lines at prices that are sometimes less than cost.

The enormous expenses of this establishment require a large margin of profit. Therefore, when one line is sold with too small a margin, the "sucker" is always made to pay more for some other goods, since the department store has to pay dividends.

The Los Angeles department store decided to work this bunco game on the people of Los Angeles at the expense of the Los Angeles retail grocers.

The Los Angeles jobbers refused to be parties to such disreputable methods.

The store in question found certain San Francisco jobbers ready to help them without regard to consequences.

These jobbers did not care that the action they were taking would disrupt trade conditions in Southern California which for the past year have been better than for a quarter of a century. They did not care that if they broke up the maintenance of prices in Los Angeles that it would put back seriously the movement to better trade conditions in San Francisco and other Northern California cities.

Thinking only of making an immediate sale, blinded by the prospect of securing a few extra nickels, they were willing to co-operate with a firm whose avowed purpose was to steal business and take thousands of dollars out of the pockets of the retail grocers whom they have to thank for their enormous accumulations of wealth.

Two San Francisco wholesalers have refused absolutely to sell goods to firms whom they consider as following improper and dangerous trade methods. These firms are:

Hass Bros.
J. H. Newbauer & Co.

Another San Francisco firm has said that had they known what the conditions were as they read them in the Advocate, they would not have sold a dollar's worth of goods to this department store, since they did not want to act in a manner that would hurt the grocery trade of any part of the state.

The Advocate hopes every wholesale grocer in San Francisco will take that stand in regard to this matter.

FAIR PLAY.

A Review of Municipal Conditions and Prejudices and the Causes Therefor.

Many of the best citizens of San Francisco honestly believe that the administration of Mayor Schmitz has been disgracefully dishonest and that the commercial and industrial condition of the city of San Francisco is deplorable.

This impression has been created through constant repetition by three of the leading newspapers of the city, together with an active campaign by men whose position in the business world is such that a statement from them with regard to commercial matters woul be accepted ordinarily by the great mass of citizens as being true, since their business acquaintances would not deem them capable of exploting statements that would tend to seriously injure a reputable man or the good name of the city of San Francisco unless they had good and sufficient proofs to warrant their assertions

It is a great misfortune that they have proven unworthy of this confidence.

If one-tenth of the corrupt practices attributed to Mayor Schmitz and his supporters by these men and their newspaper allies were true, the city of San Francisco would be up in arms, dozens of indictments would be on the Court files and San Francisco, commercially and industrially, would be paralized.

The prosperity of the city due largely to industrial peace, speaks for itself. New buildings, and increased bank clearings tell the story.

Who Pulls the Strings.

It is interesting to study the causes which have impelled action on the part of the newspapers and certain leaders among our merchants who are so industriously defaming San Francisco by giving wide publicity to false statements concerning her political and commercial conditions.

There are four influences that have tended to bring about these conditions:

The Politicans—The most active element in the movement for discrediting the administration is a small band of disgruntled and jealous politicians whose record for rottenness and dishonesty was such that the entire Republican party arose to drive them out a few short years ago. With these men are associated a number of practical politicans representing the large corporate interests who, while personally clean themselves, are willing, in politics, to accept the service of any creature no matter how despicable in order to win success. With these practical politicans are allied certain citizens who are anxious and willing to fulfill their civic obligations by assisting in local politics in a practical way, but who lack sincerity since they know the dishonest motives of the men with whom they are allied, and yet are prepared to work with men they must despise in order to win success in their fights. They are also assisted by numerous clean minded and patriotic but misguided citizens among whom are several grocers, who be-

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Advertise the new goods.

Lamp goods to the front.

Fruit jars are still moving.

Keep the store clean. It pays.

Keep everything under glass that is possible.

Don't be afraid of price cards. They help a lot.

Use a good quality of wrapping paper and bags.

Cheese is strong. The demand seems to be unusually heavy.

Cured fish is moving better each week. It is high, as a rule.

Don't neglect that window after the fruits and vegetables are taken out.

Collections are now in order. Promptness in them will save money.

Pancake flour is coming to its own again. Get a good line in. Syrup goes with it.

A new scale might save you some profits that are now going out in "down weight."

Don't buy too heavily just now. This is often the tendency when a big trade is in sight.

Look out for the box-car men. Notify your food commissioner when they are to deliver the goods.

Why not treat premiums like trading stamps have been treated in many places—leave them alone?

Now is a good time to make a beginning on selling the boxes and barrels instead of giving them away.

Pickles are still being put up. That means a demand for spices and vinegar. Also jars, both stone and glass.

When in doubt cut out the big quantity. You will never be "stuck" on the goods you leave in the other fellow's hands.

Good fixtures in the store not only present an attractive appearance and save stock and time, but they also economize space.

The supply of shore mackerel is said to be way short of that of last year—25 per cent. Prices have been steadily advancing.

All the tales from the tomato packing districts of the east are to the effect that the crop is short and that prices are likely to be almost anything.

Make up combinations of groceries to sell for a dollar or two or five. These are always attractive. That's how some of the mail order houses get business.

Canned fruits and vegetables should be sold by the case now. There is a certain part of the trade that always buys in these quantities. Go after this business.

Candy manufacturers are very busy. It is generally believed that the fall and winter business will be a record breaker. Everybody is able to buy candy this year.

Exports of canned beef for eight months ending Aupgust were 48,682,304 pounds, valued at $4,739,471; against 30,012,803 pounds, valued at $3,029,348, for corresponding time the previous year.

Recent advices state that the Maine pack of corn is late and will probably not be completed much if any sooner than September 24th. Present indications are that there will be a normal but not large pack.

Rolled oats are a very strong pro position these days. This in spite of the fact that the oats market is easy. The demand for the finished product is very heavy, however, and the mills are said to be made to fill all orders.

The rise in tomatoes is somewhat sensational. The great bull factor has been unfavorable weather for the crop. There is big money in packing No. 3 Standards at 95 cents and $1.00, the present asking price at factory. Read carefully advices from Baltimore in the regular market report.

The outlook for the cranberry crop on the Cape this year is even poorer than it was a month age, at the time of the meeting of the Cape Cod Cranberry Growers' Association in Wareham, when it was estimated that this year's output would reach only about 69 per cent. of last year's crop.

Have you noticed how the big department stores strive for a trade in tea and coffee? They do not make prominent cheap grades, but advertise their own blends and generally at full prices. They make quality the main object, realizing that if coffee in the cup gives gratification to the buyer, the price will not count. These blends sell from 25 to 40 cents, with the push on a 35 cent coffee, or three pounds for a dollar.

Except to the grocer who has been "stuck" once too often with unsalable breakfast foods the progress of this commodity is interesting. About the same number are on the market that has been for the past year and there have been few if any new ones launched nor have many died in that time. A certain few seem to have a practical monopoly of the demand now and others have ceased to try to butt into the charmed circle.

A sweeping order has been issued by Commissioner of Internal Revenue Yerkes imposing upon manufacturers and dealers in patent medicines composed largely of distilled liquors the liabilities of dealers and rectifiers in liquors. Druggists and others handling such patent medicines must pay the license required by law of a retail liquor dealer, according to Mr. Yerkes' decision today. After December 1st, 1905, licenses will be required for the handling of such goods.

The world is pointed straight for cheap sugar. At present the promise is for a visible supply on September 1st, 1906, larger than ever before recorded. The visible supply on September 1st last was unusually small, smaller than for a number of years. The abundant promise in the beet and cane industries assures us cheap sugar during the ensuing year, and a consumption of the article on a scale permitted by the generous supply and a low range of prices. The market price has already sunk quite low, but a lower level is expected to be reached.—"Merchants Review," New York.

The coffee and tea consumer is less often won by promise of cut prices than is the buyer of cheap canned goods. The exjerienced coffee and tea drinkers are aware that price cuts come out of the quality. They are perhaps more often drawn by hopes of superior quality, superior to the general, without much thought about price, than any other class of buyers, and yet if there is one thing the average tea-store manager insists upon it is the use of premiums—something to make consumers forget the appearance and fragrance of fine goods, and inducing them to sink disappointment in an ornamental piece of furniture.

HURRAH FOR TEXAS.

Dallas should win the votes of all Pacific Coast delegates for the National Convention of 1907. Julian Capers writes:

Dallas, Texas, Sept. 25th, 1905.

Friend Powers:—As you are aware this city has announced as a candidate for the 1907 convention of the National Association.

We did the best we could at Kansas City, but you were too many for us, now this time we are going to prepare for a great fight. We are going to take a car load of people from this great state and we are going to make the fight of our lives.

Will you not help us?

Geographically speaking, it would be to the interests of your people to have it come here.

We nor any portion of the South has ever yet had a National Convention of this body. We certainly deserve some recognition for our loyal support of the National, and the splendid local and state organization we have built up.

I thank you in advance for your help and support. With personal best wishes I remain,

Yours very truly,

lieve these politicans to be acting from disinterested motives!

The Citizens Alliance—This organization is headed by a man who openly boasts that he is merely a temporary resident of San Francisco and therefore would not be personally affected by any havoc he may cause. It was created to destroy the power of the labor unions at any cost. A part of the price they are willing to pay would seem to be the reputation of the city. It is the influence of individuals in the management of this organization that accounts for the activity of certain large commercial interests There are other business men who follow these merchants whom they recognize as leaders because they do not believe these men would foster lies in order to accomplish their ends.

The Newspapers—The same commercial influences that have aroused the activity of merchants are able to control those concerns who are the large advertisers in the daily papers—and the policy of every paper in the land is influenced more or less, (principally more), by the requirements of the business office. To these conditions is added the further deplorable fact that the papers of San Francisco are all "one man" papers and the one man, in every instance has acquired a vast arrogance through long continued and undisputed yielding to their demands by politicans who were willing to accord patronage in return for support and "leading citizens" who were willing to surrender money or residence propetty rather than face an exposure of personal delinquencies When these papers were disgruntled by refusals to accede to demands for patronage or money, or both, they yielded without much pressure to the demands of their advertisers and the politicians to assist in a campaign of calumny. They influence many readers who believe they are acting from disinterested motives, even when they praise rotten politicians whom they excoriated only a few months before.

Gas, Water and Street Cars—All these great corporations are opposed to the local administration. Schmitz stands for Municipal Ownership; for cheaper gas; for proper water rates and for taxation on a business basis. All these things. these corporations do not want and their chief officers and large stockholders, all "leading citizens" who have for years back purjured themselves and bribed rotten officials, finding new methods necessary have helped to raise the cry of "Graft" and try to kill by defamation the man who represents a power they cannot debauch. In this they are assisted by many honest, clean minded, patriotic citizens who believe these "leading citizens" to be honest and acting from disinterested motives.

Deeds Not Words.

Why do not these men who talk so much of the rottenness of the administration find something tangible?

A third of the office holders of the city are Democrats. Half the remainder are enemies of the Schmitz regime.

All these men would be glad to "kill" the administration. If there was graft that touched the Mayor, it would have been pointed out long ago especially with two unfriendly grand juries assisted by a posse of private detectives and a Democratic District Attorney anxious to "do up" Schmitz.

Dishonesty, graft and other crookedness cannot be easily concealed especially in the case of a city's chief executive and particularly when the District Attorney, the Grand Jury and the Supervisors would gladly expose any corruption they could find.

Individual Instances.

If the present administration were one of graft the grocers would be the first to suffer.

Have they been bled?

The Advocate doesn't know of an instance.

We do know of many favors granted where money could have been secured, however, and there was not even a remote hint that it would be acceptable.

Do you know of any instances that besmirch the fair fame of Mayor Schmitz?

If you don't know and your friends don't know and the Grand Juries can't find any, are there likely to be any?

The present administration has been friendly to the retail grocery interests.

What has the other side to offer?

JOS. A. STULZ HONORED.

Will Be Nominee of Three Tickets for Public Administrator.

Many honors have been thrust upon Joseph A. Stulz in the past. As president of the local Grocers' Association, as president of the State Grocers' Association, as vice president of the National Grocers' Association, as president of the Automatic Direct Line Telephone Co., he was accorded great consideration without requesting it. And last week, leading Union Labor men, Republicans and Democrats, conferring as to a man well fitted to serve as Public Administrator united in deciding to proffer the nomination to Mr. Stulz.

When a man chooses an administrator supervise the proper handling of his estate after his death, he selects a man known as a successful business man of whose integrity he is sure and in whom kindness and gentleness are predominant qualities.

When a city chooses a Public Administrator to supervise the proper handling of the estates of those who have not provided for the settlement of their estates by will, they should use the same judgment.

Would it be possible to find a man more suitable for the place in every way than Joseph A. Stulz?

Every grocer, every clerk, every driver, every customer, every traveling man, every wholesaler and every other person who knows him will unite in exclaiming: "Stulz is the man."

Mr. Stulz's name will be found on three (3) tickets: the Union Labor, the Independent Republican and the Independent Democratic.

He will have the enthusiastic support of hundreds of men who would vote for him even if they did not vote for any other candidate on these tickets.

WINNING FRIENDS DAILY.

A Simple, Easy and Accurate System of Keeping Accounts.

The retail grocers of San Francisco, following in the line of their brothers in Southern California, are rapidly awakening to the advantages of the McCaskey Account Register.

Thousands of merchants in this country have found that this system, above all others, insures them at all times a knowledge of their business impossible for them to obtain in any other way, at the same time their bookkeeping is simplified and rendered vastly more easy.

Hawley & Frank, the Pacific Coast agents, have a most efficient force of salesmen, who are explaining to the grocery trade the merits of the McCaskey system, and are meeting with unexpected success in securing orders.

If you are interested in getting a good account system write them to their San Francisco office in the James Flood Building.

THEY CATCH TRADE.

At no season of the year is there any article that a grocer handles which more tends to render his store attractive to good livers than olives in bottles.

The "White Label" Queen olives of the Seville Packing Company make a notable addition to any show window or show case, and never fail to attract the very best class of customers to the store displaying them.

The Pim-Olas, also put up by the Seville Company, are a high class article, and equally attractive with the olives packed by this company, and like the former they yield the dealer a most satisfactory profit.

SHOULD BE IN STOCK.

Small Meal Packages Which Lessen Waste in Handling Mill Products.

The Del Monte Milling Co. are putting up a line of meals that is certain to prove of exceptional interest to the grocery trade. They are in small packages, so that the dealer who carries them can meet the demand for small quantities, without the necessity of weighing them out on each individual order, and suffering the loss from leakage, down-weight, careless weighing of hurrying or careless clerks attendant upon the old fashion of serving meals.

A GENERAL DELIVERY.

Escondido, Cal., September 22nd—According to the Advocate of this city four of the big grocery stores in Escondido have decided to club together and run a common delivery service. They will ask for bids from someone to furnish a team and drive the same. It is understood that these firms will not do any more house-to-house soliciting for trade in town.

EFFECT OF CUTTING.

Because of the cut of 60 cents per case made in red Alaska salmon, the Alaska Packers' Association announced on September 28th that, for the first time in 12 years, it would not declare the usual monthly dividend. In explaining their action in cutting the price of red Alaska, to the stockholders, the directors say:

"This had the immediate effect of moving surplus stocks into consumption. The volume of sales has been phenomenally large insuring an enormous reduction of stocks and a great increase in consumption. This was deemed a wiser policy to be adopted at this juncture, although at the expense of immediate profits, than to continue to maintain a high level of prices while holding increased quantities of salmon, augmented from the present season's pack, and becoming further burdened with constantly accumulating carriage charges."

The directors express expectation that they will be able to resume the payment of dividends before long. The Alaska Packers' Association have up to date paid 141 concesutive monthly dividends, aggregating $5,469,371.75 since its incorporation in 1893.

The business steadily increased at this point to such an extent that it demanded larger quarters which were secured at northwest corner of 8th and F streets in 1895. The quarters again proving too small, a move was made in 1899 to the double storeroom at northeast corner of 6th and E, where the store remained until September 12th when it was moved to elegant new quarters in the Fox-Heller building at 847 to 853 Fifth street. SUGAR.

Locally there has been no change. The market is quiet.

New York, Oct. 3rd—Raws are steadier. 1,000 tons Cuban sugar afloat, nearby sold today at 3⅝ cents 96-degree test.

Last Saturday raws sold on a basis of 3 11-16 cents. On Monday the market for raws opened weak, seller's basis 3.56 cents. Steadier on Tuesday. Refined is in limited demand. There was a decline of 20 points by Arbuckle on Thursday, Sept. 28th. On Saturday, Sept. 30th the American and Howell refineries reduced refined 10 points to basis of 4.70 cents net, less 1 per cent for cash. There have been no changes since.

New York, Sept. 26th—M. G. Wanzor reports:

"There have been sales of raw during this week at 3¾ and 3⅝ cents. Although prices are little lower than last week, the tone of the market has improved preceptibly. This is the result of a better feeling in Europe. If the higher prices shown by the Europeans can be maintained the American market will not remain long irresponsive."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The Eastern market has firmed considerably in the past few days, and locally there are larger enquiries than for some time.

"Europe is outbidding this country in the Salvador market, paying a price that would make it cost more laid down in San Francisco than it is selling for here.

"If Europe continues buying at present prices there will be an advance in San Francisco prices on Salvador coffees."

Honolulu, H. T., Sept. 22nd—There have been frequent rains in Kona which have done much damage to the coffee crop.

New York, Sept. 23rd—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"An exhaustive statement published this week by the Bureau of Commerce and Labor at Washington, D. C., quoats statistics that a duty of 3 or 4 cents per pound would be of great benefit to the United States possessions besides bringing a revenue of nearly $38,000,000 in the United States Treasury without curtailing consumption. It remains to be seen whether Congress will pass such a measure. In the meantime buyers through the country will do well to protect themselves in the way of carrying larger stocks. Ruling prices are not high considering the improved statistical position of the article."

TEA.

New York, Sept. 26th—John B. Brown & Co. report.

Congous—Last mail advices from Shanghai report a smaller business as the prices demanded by the natives are too high to warrant shipments to the United States except at apparent losses.

Pingsueys—Prices hold firm at last week's quotations which were an advance of 1 to 2 Taels for good chops. Late arrivals of second crop are rather poor in quality but still are meeting with favorable attention.

Fychows—Finest Fong Mees and Chun Mees are selling at full rates.

Country Teas—First Young Hysons and First Imperials will be scarce and the quality of these grades will be interior. We still predict a shortage for the season to be 25 to 30 per cent compared with last year's average exports.

Indias and Ceylons—The general average of Assams and Darjeelings which are offered show exceptionally fine quality but the prices are extreme. The choicest liquoring tippy teas are held at $1.65 to $3.00 per pound.

Formosas—An active business is reported; prices for grades fully up to superior and below have advanced and very little tea can be secured under 16 cents cost and freight.

Japans—There is but a limited offering of desirable stock. Low grade teas will cost on an average at least 5 cents per pound, higher than the same grades sold at last year.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"Jap Rice—The mills in the South have put up their prices another ⅛ and some of the mills have withdrawn from the market owing to the wet weather during harvesting. It looks now and we can almost say without doubt, 'Look out for extreme prices on every grade of rice during the season of 1905 and 1906. We consider that money put into rice at present prices will be the best investment of any staple on the market.

"Fancy Head Rice—The jobbers and dealers are selling in ten bag lots for less money than they can lay the goods down in car load lots. Our advise is to buy, not only for your immediate wants but what you will need for the next six months."

New York, Sept. 26th—Dan Talmage's Sons Co. report:

"Prices are strong, and recent arrivals are held at quite an advance over previous range of values. Receipts are light and mostly sold to arrive. Offerings of Old Crop have been rapidly reduced, so that at present writing, stock of all kinds are at a minimum point probably less than at any equal period past decade.

"At New Orleans, active conditions prevail, and under stimulus of free enquiry values are well sustained at trifle advanced figures. Receipts of rough are forty per cent less, and sales of cleaned about ten per cent more than at equal date last season."

Charlestown, S. C., Sept. 25th—Samuel G. Stoney, reports:

"Crops will turn out much below the estimates made on September 1st. Some planters claim that there will be 10 to 15 per cent less than what they had every reason to expect during the cutting of the rice. This condition, together with the very small acreage, will reduce the supply of Carolina rice to the lowest point we have had for many years. The quality of the rice is very high. The grain seems to be well graded and makes attractive samples."

CANNED FRUITS.

The market in all canned fruits is firmly established. Those who have bought futures this year will be able to sell at a profit. Pears have firmed noticeably during the week. Prices have been withdrawn on 3-lb. extra apricots, 2-lb. extra apricots have been advanced 20 cents. 2½-lb. lemon cling peaches have been advanced to $2 per dozen which is 15 cents over opening prices. Prices are withdrawn on water and gallon pie peaches. The practical failure of the Baltimore peach crop has helped to strength the California market materially.

CANNED TOMATOES.

The market, locally is very strong and is firming.

New York, Oct. 3rd—Many rejections are being made on account of quality, the market is unsettled with offerings of standard 3's at 90 and 92½ cents.

Ogden, Utah, Sept. 27th—Manager Pierce of the Utah Canning Company, says:

"Last week's frosts caused $15,000 damage to tomatoes. The crop promised about 20 per cent of the normal. This cold spell has ruined half the vegetables left on the vines. The canners of Weber Company usually put up 300,000 cases. This years' pack was estimated at 30,000. Because of the frosts it will probably not be more than 5,000."

Ridgeville, Del., Sept. 22nd—H. B. Cannon reports:

"The weather is entirely too wet for tomatoes. The pack practically ends this week. During the first four days of this week I was able to run only 8 hours with one of my three lines of machinery. Tomatoes must go higher."

Aberdeen, Md. Sept. 23rd—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"While some of the packing houses will not close for a week yet, circumstances indicate that there will be only a half pack on the peninsula of Maryland and Delaware which is the greatest tomato producing section of the United States. A few canneries that were able to get fruit at moderate figures are establishing prices on general quotations. Although round lots are difficult to secure and considerable buying would soon force all prices above

THE DEMAND FOR Malta-Vita

The quality of Malta-Vita explains its rapidly increasing sales. Malta-Vita doesn't belong to the tasteless variety of flaked wheat foods. It's good to eat and the public is finding this out. Malta-Vita's crisp brown flakes are healthful, too.

NO PREMIUMS USED

Premiums are not given with Malta-Vita. It is sold strictly on its food merits, and intelligent people appreciate this fact.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

$1.00. There is a decided scarcity of strictly standard tomatoes since many packers are seeking to secure quantity by filling the tins with water while branding them as standards. This practise will, of course, prove detrimental not only to the interest of the dishonest packers but to the industry as a whole."

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 22nd—Finney & Robinson report:

"We had two very severe rains recently causing the tomatoes to rot on the vines. An order for 10,000 cases of Standard 3's at 90 has only been partly filled, as only 2 or 3 cars could be bought at that price. When the buying once starts in, we think tomatoes will sell freely at over $1.00.

Princess Anne, Md., Sept. 23rd—C. M. Dashiell reports:

"The tomato season of 1905 has been unprecedented. The packing is practically over although no frosts have come yet to kill the vines. It seems to be admitted that there will not be enough tomatoes to go around.'

Newport, Tenn., Sept. 19th—Stokely Bros & Co report:

"The tomato pack this year was no more than half the average crop."

New York, Sept. 22nd—The crop this year will be far below the average of the last three years which was 5,500,000 cases. In Virginia, a packer who in 1901 put up about 35,000 cases from 500 acres, this year will put up about 17,500 from 625 acres. One section of Virginia which ordinarily packs about 400,000 will this year pack only 50,000.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Sept. 22nd—The "Trade" reports:

"There will probably be a fair average pack of corn as far as quantity is concerned. The indications are for steady prices during the fall and winter at present quotations. The spot market is steady and there is no interest as all buyers seem well supplied.'

RAISINS.

The 1905 crop of raisins is estimated by some authorities to be about 35 000 tons. The 1904 crop was 50,000 tons of which 20,000 was very poor stock used largely in manufacturing and there was a carry over of about 30,000 tons from 1903. This means that the 1905 crop is about one third of last seasons supply and will have to cover the requirements until October of next year without any carry over to help.

Fresno, Sept. 29th—One of the outside packing concerns is said to be offering fancy seed 1905 crop at 6¾ cents, f. o. b. Fresno.

New York, Sept. 28th—The sale is reported of a car of outside fancy seeded 1905 at 7 cents Coast.

Fresno, Sept. 27th—Nearly all the first crop raisins are dried and stacked. Many of them are already in the packing houses.

PRUNES.

New York, Oct. 3rd—Santa Clara 40's are being offered at 3¼ cents, Coast basis and sales have been made of outside 40's, 50's and 60's on a 3 cent basis. Offerings are made of Santa Clara 40's to 90's at a 3½-3¾ cent Coast basis. Supply of spot fruit is limited.

New York, Sept. 25th—Courtney C. Hauck, a prominent fruit broker of New York, in an interview with the "Commercial" today says:

"One of the remarkable features of the prune situation in California is that even at this early date, crops are practically out of growers' hands. Good authorities estimate only about 300 cars left in first hands of which all but 20 per cent is controlled by packers. The growers expect 4 cents, 4-sizes bag basis, for what they have left. An order sent out to the Coast for 10 cars of 40-50's would cause an advance of ½ cent. There are very few small sizes and 30-40's are scarce."

Santa Rosa, Sept. 28th—The quality of this year's prune crop is very fine. Several cars have been shipped to Philadelphia for trans-shipment to France, England, Germany and other European countries.

DRIED APPLES.

Lockport, N. Y., Sept. 22nd—W. E. Shaeffer reports:

"The local market in exaporated apples is higher than the New York market. The farmers are selling their fruit green for immediate consumption and only the off quantity fruit will be used for drying. The large exaporators have given up all hope of satisfying demands this season. The output will not be more than 25 per cent of last seasons. It would not be at all surprising to see 10 cent apples for November delivery."

Sodus Center, N. Y., Sept. 25th—E. B. Mather reports:

"Putting speculation aside, the present prices of evaporated apples are low as against the prices at which green apples are being bought and sold."

New York, Sept. 26th—Delmarle Bros report:

"No offers of dried apples are coming in from the country to sell. In fact, dealers show more inclination to buy. Dealers in the country are expecting dried apples to sell for 8 cents and over."

PEACHES AND APRICOTS.

New York, Sept. 30th—Spot peaches and apricots are scarce. Choice Crawfords, 50-lb. boxes, are quoted at 8½ cents Coast and choice Royal Cots at 8¼ cents.

WALNUTS.

J. K. Armsby Co. report:

"California nuts are practically out of first hands. Buyers confirmed orders readily at opening prices and, as the crop was light, there was very active buyings."

New York, Oct. 3rd—Cables announce further slight advance abroad on French walnuts. California walnuts are active and strong.

Santa Ana, Sept. 28th—J. A. Montgomery, Secretary of the Southern California Walnut Growers' Association reports:

"A market could be found for twice the present output at prevailing prices. The Southern California output for this season has almost entirely been sold. Our Association represents 25,000 acres of walnut groves. They shipped 506 cars last year. The crop this year will be about 75 cars less. The prices are 1 cent above last years' prices. Present weather conditions are favorable to a good crop of clean nuts."

ALMONDS.

New York, Oct. 3rd—The market is quiet and steady.

Yuba City, Sept. 27th—The Association of Almond Growers have apparently become tired of "holding the umbrella" for the smart "outside growers" who refuse to enter the Association and sell their crop at a shade less than the price the Association makes. The outside growers this year made contracts with their buyers to sell at a price to be fixed later by the Association. The Association, instead of fixing prices, however, shipped their almonds to selling agents in the East making private contracts with each agent to sell the almonds without making the price and terms of the contract public. There are numerous Associations in California and a movement is now on foot towards consolidating them under one head as the Walnut Growers' of Southern California are consolidated.

HONEY.

Bishop, Cal., Sept. 27th—The Bee Keepers' Association at a recent meeting sold the entire crop of honey at 9 cents per pound, delivered at the Valley Railroad Depot. The price holds for all acceptable goods whether first or second class. The crop is very short, being estimated at about 60 tons.

Denver, Colo., Sept. 19th—The Colorado Honey Producers' Association says:

"The Colorado crop will not be more than what is needed for home consumption. We will probably not have a carload to ship out of the state."

BEANS.

Ventura, Sept. 28th—The bean harvest is in full blast. The yield is said to even exceed the estimate of a few weeks ago. The total for the crop has been estimated at 650,000 sacks. Some growers have contracted for 3 cents. Others are asking 3¼ to 3½ cents.

Sacramento, Sept. 20th—Beans are from ten days to two weeks late this year. The crop outlook is reasonably good. With favorable weather conditions. California should harvest a crop considerably above the average. Limas are in much better condition than was first reported. Growers are very firm

FIGHTING THE TRUST.

Tobacco Dealers Consider Plans for More Effective Action.

PRESIDENT PARRY REPORTS.

Grocers and Other Handlers of Tobaccos Will Be Asked to Help.

President J. S. Parry addressed a large and enthusiastic meeting of the Retail Cigar Dealers' Association of San Francisco on Wednesday evening. He reported the details of the work of the Retail Cigar Dealers in conjunction with the Grocers' Associations and others by which was secured the passage of a law, making the giving of trading stamps and coupons illegal. He spoke of the action to be followed in the future in combating the giant tobacco trust. This monopoly, he pointed out was not only seeking to steal away the trade of the smaller dealers by unfair competition but was forcing up rents to such an extent that profits were reduced to a mimimum.

Grocers Are Interested.

In concluding his address, Mr. Parry said:

"I would suggest also that, inasmuch as the retail grocers of our city and State and Coast are very large handlers of tobacco and cigars and have heretofore willingly and vigorously assisted us when called on, that an appeal be now made to them, calling to their especial attention the seriousness of the situation which affects this branch of their business and ours alike. I advise therefore, that we request both the local Grocers' Association of San Francisco, and also the California State Grocers' Association to appoint committees of three to confer with a like committee from our Association in order that proper and effective plans may be decided upon and put into action to the end that we may protect ourselves against our common enemy."

After denouncing the methods employed by the trust to lessen profits and divert the trade of the independent dealer to their own stores, Mr Parry dwelt upon the necessity of concerted action. He urged particularly a "war of agitation, education and publicity of these conditions to our entire people."

The Trading Stamp Fight.

Mr. Parry paid a fitting tribute to the efforts of Attorneys C. A. Son and Allen G. Wright in the interests of the anti-trading stamp bill. Various associations contributed $1,030.50 to help get the law of which the cigar dealers contributed $250. The expenses were $1,018.70 as the lawyers cut their fees in half when the Supreme Court adjudged the law unconstitutional.

Mr Parry stated that a meeting of the Advisory Board and Directors would be held to consider further plans for "killing or curing the coupon and some other evils." He then made the following recommendations:

First—That the Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association affiliate with the national organization.

Second—That the "Independent" stamp be placed on all packages so that both dealer and consumer can distinguish them from trust goods.

Third—The appointment of a special committee to work with the "Anti-Japanese-Chinese League" and all Labor Unions, etc., to defeat the attempts being made by the Tobacco Trust for a lower tariff on tabacco and cigars brought in from the Philippines and protect American labor from the necessity of competing with coolies.

Fourth—To prepare a measure similar to the Atjen-Tawney bill.

Fifth—That steps be taken towards sending a representative of the Association to participate in the conference of independent tobacco growers, manufacture and dealers which is to be held at New York, October 23rd to 29th in connection with the Independent Tobacco shows.

In explaining his ideas of the possible value of this conference, Mr. Parry said.

To Fight Trust Coupons.

"I believe a system of amalgamation of the entire independent interests can be devised, combining every interest from the man that plants the seed to the consumer. By a system of stamps or coupons, authorized by such amalgamation, with proper and sufficient places of redemption, we would not only stay our loss of trade to the trust coupon system, but regain for us that which has already been taken away.

"Now that our effort, has been lost in trying to wipe out the coupon evil I am forced, against my will, to advocate the fighting of fire with fire and believe the only way even that can be successfully done is by the amalgamating of all independent interests, the manufacturer identifying his goods with the independent stamp on all packages and furnishing the retailer with amalgamated independent coupons to the amount of each and every order. Of course coupons will have to be arranged so the manufacturer will get fair play, but that is only a matter of detail and can be very easily adjusted."

Mr. Parry's address was warmly applauded and every suggestion was approved with much enthusiasm.

Mr. Parry's report was listened to with marked attention on the part of the cigar dealers present, and after brief discussion all its recommendations, with the exception of that relating to sending a delegate to the New York Tobacco Show, which was referred to the Board of Directors, were adopted unanimously.

The Board of Directors meet next week to consider important matters relating to the welfare of the trade, and will undoubtedly send a delegate to the New York meeting this month.

I. Danziger, the enterprising Pacific Coast representative of the West Indies Cigar Co., is away on a trip to the country in the interest of his house.

WINS NEW TRADE.

From many parts of California, Nevada and Arizona retail grocers are writing the Cudahy Packing Company telling them of the value they have found in the Diamond "C" hams and bacons. Because of the splendid flavor and fine appearance of these goods, the customers are so thoroughly satisfied that they not only come back for more, but usually send their friends.

It is on the basis of quality that permanent business is built up and it is on the basis of quality that the Cudahy Packing Company have been able to build up its enormous trade on Diamond "C" goods.

TALKS OF THE TRUST.

Eastern Dealer Declares His Business Has Grown as Never Before Since He Lined Up as an Independent.

Robert E. Lane, the head and front of the independent movement in the East, for 18 months national president of the Cigar Dealers' Association of America, and now president of the Retail Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association of New York, has been telling Tabacco some pertinent facts about his fight with the trust.

To thoroughly appreciate the force of Mr. Lane's remarks, it may be well to recall that he is the biggest individual retailer in New York, and within the past few years he has branched out extensively as a manufacturer With the possible exception of M. A. Gunst & Co., of San Francisco, Mr. Lane is undoubtedly the largest retail handler of cigars in the United States.

"Experience has taught me," said President Lane, "that a business man never accomplishes anything that is really worth while without taking some chances. I fully realized this when I decided to align myself with the independent movement. Many friends, both in and out of the trade, told me that I was making a mistake, that the wise thing for me to do was to avoid antagonizing the trust in any way.

"Well, I have been thinking the matter over lately, and I have come to the conclusion that either I am a fool, and most of the other prominent dealers in the East are right in knuckling down to the trust, as most of them have, or else I am right and most of the others are foolish.

"I am prepared to say, however, and say most positively, that I have no regrets for the course I have followed. Since I adopted the position which I have maintained for the past several years, my business has prospered and grown faster than ever before, and while I do not care to boast, I will say that my receipts during the past year have been larger by many thousands of dollars than in any previous year since I have been in business.

"My sales of imported cigars are large, especially during the holiday season. Only a few years ago my total sales of imported cigars in the holiday season were 90 per cent trust brands, and 10 per cent independent goods. In a single year the proportions were reversed, and I sold only 10 per cent of trust goods, and 90 per cent of the product of the independent manufacturers. Since that season my sales of trust goods have hardly averaged one per cent, although my total volume of sales of imported cigars have increased enormously.

"Located as I am in the financial district, I have a large number of customers who are intimately associated with various combinations and trusts, and when I first declared my antagonism to the tabacco trust, I naturally expected to lose many of these customers. To my surprise hardly one of them left me, and what is more many of the bankers, brokers, and counsellors for different trusts, have made a special point of asking me to be sure and give them cigars from the independent factories, as they were convinced that the brands of cigars controlled by the tobacco trust had greatly deteriorated in quality.

"Many threats have reached me from time to time as to the big sums of money the trust was ready to spend to punish me and drive me out of business, but there is an old saying that threatened men live long, and my business is in a healthier condition today than ever before.

"It seems to me, however, that the independent manufacturers throughout the country are making a mistake that they do not exert themselves to promote a more vigorous and continuous agitation against the tobacco trust. Had they adopted this policy of agitation and publicity a few years ago, and kept it up unceasingly, I believe that they would be in a far better position than they are today.

"I know that there have been times when it seemed that it was costing me much in time, as well as in money, and annoyance to maintain my stand as an independent, but I feel today that it has been time, money and labor well invested, and that I am in a far stronger position than I could ever have hoped to be if I had knuckled down to the trust.

"What is wanted today, is more courage on the part of independent manufacturers and dealers, and agitation, more agitation, and still more agitation."

S A. Beckett has opened a new cigar stand at 411 Market street, where he is carrying a complete line of cigars, both imported and American manufacture.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco says: "A. Santaella & Co. are already receiving orders for holiday goods. Judging from the style and tone of everything pertaining to the factory and their businesss, it is safe to predict the packages of Optimo cigars for the holidays will be a thing of beauty and a joy to those who receive them."

Ehrman Bros. & Co., San Francisco, distributors of the Optimo, the leading clear Havana cigar in this market, are very busy these days, filling the heavy orders which are coming in for this popular cigar.

TRUST SUES LOCAL COMPANY.

The American Cigar Company, organized under the laws of New Jersey, commenced suit last Friday in the United States Circuit Court against the American Cigar Company of California to restrain the latter from using the former's title, and from continuing alleged frauds against the complainants.

The complaint, which is a long one, sets forth charges of conspiracy and fraud, and claims the defendant corporation indulges in dishonest business methods to the detriment of the business of the Eastern corporation.

"On or about July 3, 1905," says the complaint, "the respondents did conspire and agree among themselves to commit a fraud upon the American Cigar Company, and agreed to represent themselves as the complainant for the purpose of securing their business."

A corporation was formed, and W. B. Woolbridge, Henry E. Burton, E. S. Connor, W. D. Harrington and L. Mayre were elected directors. The complaint states that the capital stock of the accused company is $75,000, of which but $5 has been subscribed—a dollar from each of the directors. The latter are made codefendants in the suit. Upon incorporating, the firm commenced a campaign of literature, so the complaint alleges, in which it represented itself to be the real original American Cigar Company, with branches and factories in New York, Key West and elsewhere Letters sent to retailers stated that the company had inaugurated a new system of business and would thereafter deal direct with the consumer, thus cutting out the jobbers to whom the complainants sell their goods.

Judge W. W. Morrow issued a temporary restraining order, returnable October 9th, at which time the merits of the dispute will be heard.

in their ideas and it is likely that firm values will be maintained, at least until the harvest season is ended. Spot limas are quoted at $5.25 to $5.50.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 23rd—Carson, Craig & Co. report:

"The bean crop of our state promises a yield of about 4,500,000 bushels, which is about 500,000 bushels less than last year. With continued good weather, until all are harvested, the quality will be much better than last season, when the crop was severly impaired by wet weather which materially injured the color and carrying quality of the beans. Owing to the poor potato crop in this and adjoining states, we think price of beans will be well maintained around present values, viz: $1.60 for October for choice hand picked pea beans."

PEAS.

Milwaukee, Wis.—L. Teweles & Co. report:

"The pea market has advanced from 5 to 10 cents owing to continued wet weather. The new crop is fully one month late."

CANNED SALMON.

The Griffith, Durney Co. estimates this season's salmon pack as follows:

Alaska	2,000,000
Puget Sound, incl'g fall pack	1,200,000
British Columbia, inc' fall pack	1,200,000
Columbia River, spring-fall	325,000
Outside rivers and bays	125,000
Total	4,850,000

There is considerable cutting reported on Sockeye. The Alaska Packers' Association sold heavily before the cut on red and insist that not only are not cutting but do not need to cut. The following telegrams explain themselves.

Vancouver, B. C., Sept. 26th—According to cable advices from London the Puget Sound canneries, in order to get rid of their pack of 75,000 sockeye, have cut the price of 1-lb. talls 5s per case (about 30 cents per dozen). The British Columbia Canneries look upon this action of the Washington Canneries as a breach of faith.

Bellingham, Sept. 28th—Canneries of this city deny that they have been selling sockeyes salmon in the London market at cut rates. The Pacific-American Fisheries deny that they have been selling in England at all. The fall silver salmon are now showing up in better quantities than at any time before. Good catches are being received daily by the Pacific-American Fisheries. The Bellingham Caning Company is putting up a few thousand silver salmon daily.

Seattle, Sept. 21st—Brady & Company report:

"Some of the packers are holding the price of red Alaska at $1.00, others at 95 cents. Most of the demand at present time is for the cheaper grades of salmon. They are offered at: pinks, 72½ cents; Chums, 65 to 67½ cents. The latter are practically all sold up."

SHELL FISH.

New Orleans, Sept. 18th—Ahron-Seiberts Co. report:

"Shrimps—Up to the present time, the catch has been fairly good. Packers are still sold up and unless the warm weather continues, the pack is going to be short of expectations.

"Oysters—A very few of the packers care to take on any more business even at advanced prices. Packers are quoting the following figures f. o. b. factory New Orleans for shipment up to January 1st, 1906: 4 oz., 70 cents; 5 oz., 75 cents; 8 oz., $1.30; 10 oz., $1.40."

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. report:

"The catch of Norwegian mackerel was fairly good so far and prices are lower."

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Holland herrings will remain high in price on account of the extremely short catch."

New York, Sept. 26th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Irish Mackerel—Fishing in Ireland has been very light owing to the unfavorable weather and the catch has been small.

Norway Mackerel—Demand for Norway mackerel has been so good that prices have been advanced slightly all round. Norway mackerel are certainly cheap at present prices.

Holland Herring—Catch very bad and prices have advanced materially. Buyers are afraid to take on stock at the present very high prices.

Scotch Herring—Prices have been advanced all round. Demand is only fair.

Imported Sardines—French catch is still bad. Even small fish seem to have disappeared. There is almost no catch in Portugal. France already has advanced prices. Portugal will follow if small fish are not caught soon.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, Sept. 26th—Jed Frye Co. report:

"Sardine packers on the entire Coast of Maine met at Eastport last week and the meeting agreed to close their factories November 1st instead of December 1st. This will curtail the pack materially. It was also decided to establish a gradual advance in the scale of prices."

PICKLES.

Pacific Vinegar and Pickle Works report:

"The pickle crop is exceedingly short this year. Although our acreage was almost double that of last year the amount of cucumbers available for high class pickles will not be much greater than we secured last year. We have been more fortunate than many other, who have had to depend upon buying their cucumbers in the open market. Although the crop of cucumbers is short all over the United States, this will not affect our prices on our California Home Brand."

Davenport, Iowa, Sept. 26th—T. W. Smith & Co. report:

"The pickle crop is going to run even shorter than we expected even with last year's carry over, there will be no surplus this year. Owing to the small number of cucumbers on the vines, the farmers were able to pick close. This has resulted in there being very few large pickles. There will certainly be a rise in the prices during the fall and constantly higher prices next spring."

OLIVES.

Fernando, Sept. 27th—The olive crop is turning out much better than was at first expected. Prices were never more encouraging. At least half of the crop has already been contracted for.

CRANBERRIES.

According to the "New England Grocer" cranberries have advanced from $5 to $6 per bbl. Owners of the cranberry bogs state that the crop is only half of what was expected. The late fruit appears to be in better condition but higher prices are expected by Thanksgiving. It is estimated that the crop will be 50,000 bbls less than was anticipated a few weeks ago when a shortage of 100,000 bbls was expected.

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, Sept. 21st—Aspegren & Co report.

"Further decline during September has been occasioned by the heavy liquidation of October oil and also short selling of May. Traders are beginning to realize the cheapness of oil now and are buying largely especially for May deliveries. This has resulted in the advance of the May market 1½ cent."

ALCAZAR.

The new stock company at the Alcazar opened this week in Hall Caine's "The Eternal City." Chas. Waldron, the new leading man, won the instant favor of the Alcazar audience. He has a strong, clear voice and fills his role in looks and manner. Lucia Moore, the new leading lady, is a beautiful women with a rich and musical voice who won much praise for her presentation of the difficult role of Donna Roma. The Eternal City is a big play with a big theme and is peopled with big, forceful characters. It has many beautiful stage pictures and is presented with an extremely effective musical setting composed by Mascagni. A great many people are required for the cast. Its last production will be given Sunday evening. It will be followed on Monday evening by that wildly absurd farce, "What Happened to Jones" in which Lenora Kirwin, the new soubrette, will make her first appearance.

MAJESTIC.

Edythe Chapman Neill makes very real the "Thelma" of Marie Corelli at the Majestic. The piece is given a very artistic presentation by the Neill Company. The stage settings are very beautiful. The reproduction of a forest with a real water fall is warmly applauded every evening. James Neill has a strong part in Sir Philip and the other players of the company are well cast.

CALIFORNIA.

The most recent spoke in the "Burlesque Wheel" at the California is proving as popular as its predecessors. This week the Ideal Extravanza Company is producing "Every Day Life" which is full of variety and pretty girls who sometimes wear very pretty dresses and sometimes almost none at all. This week's bill includes Frank O'Brien, a funny tramp comedien, Katherine Klare a pretty girl who has a beautiful voice and knows how to wear beautiful gowns, Carrie Franklin, a plump lady who fills the soubrette role successfully and several interesting variety turns including a miniature minstrel show. The California presents a pleasant evening's entertainment for those who wish to laugh.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Arizona" has been drawing crowded houses this week. The story of the play is full of vitality and action. The whole atmosphere is thoroughly American and the audience can sympathize with every emotion of the principal actors. The company is a strong one, each part being in good hands and the stage setting is all that could be desired. Next week "The Sultan of Sulu" is to be presented.

CENTRAL.

The first San Francisco production of the "Lighthouse By the Sea" was presented at the Central this week with Herschel Mayall and Edna Ellsmere in the leading roles. The play is an interesting story of love and ambition. There are several extremely realistic scenes which are staged to very good advantage It is to be followed next week by "The White Caps" by the same author.

FISHERS.

Hell is playing the fluegel horn this week. This is Herr Francis Hell who played with Shields at the Midwinter Fair and later with Sousa. A Novel feature of the program is the presentation of 104 scenes from Ben Hur with an interesting description of each scene by a capable lecturer. The bill includes a playlet, a freak bicyclist, some sketch artists with an illustrated song and some laughable pictures on the biograph.

FOOLISH SACRIFICES.

Necessary Profits That Retail Dealers Are Forced to Abandon.

No retail grocer can afford to ask an unduly high price for any one article. As soon as he does, he will be at a disadvantage to his competitors who will sell for less.

Since it requires from 10 to 15 per cent of his gross receipt to pay the expenses of running his store, the men who sell flour and a few other staples at a less margin than this is netting a permanent loss and courting failure, since competitors will not allow him to make up enough on other articles.

The grocers of San Francisco and the cities across the bay have been forced to submit to a loss of this kind for years through the failure of the flour mills to assist in preventing a few cutters from selling those goods at a price less than leaves a fair living margin

It is the business of every retailer to let the mills know that they realize this.

One San Francisco mill, the Globe Grain and Milling Co., is lending its aid to the retail grocery trade to help prevent the cutter from demoralizing the selling price of flour.

This mill is acting on the request of the retail grocers and is entitled to their active assistance. This is true for two reasons: First, because by assisting the Globe Milling Co., the grocers secure a profit they would not get otherwise; second, by giving preference to the Globe Milling Co., they are establishing the fact that they appreciate the value of protection for themselves from the flour mills and also that it pays a mill to give them this protection.

The Advocate hopes to see the grocers of San Francisco a unit in supporting their friends so strongly that every mill will want to be counted among their friends.

SPROATS OPEN AGAIN.

It is reported that Sproat of Sproat's Market fame, has opened a store in St. Louis which he is running on the same principal as that which enabled him to do up the San Francisco jobbers so thoroughly. It is said that he intends playing the wholesalers of St. Louis the same game that he worked so successfully in this city, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

Greatest Bargain Ever.

A thorough grocer can buy one of the best established and best paying grocery businesses on the Pacific Coast in one of the finest residence towns of California.

Proprietor intends retiring from business. References: Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, or any wholesale grocery house.

A five years' lease will be given—moderate rent.

Who Is Happiest?

"I have often tried to figure it out," said an old retired insurance agent the other day, "whether a man is better off working for some one else or for himself. For my own part, while I have been an employe all my life—and it has not always been an inseparable longing within me to be my own manager—my own 'boss.' It is true that I have done very well (thanks to an economical and sensible wife), better perhaps than if I had given up my position and branched out for myself; but that failing has impelled me to study very closely the methods of other men.

Strong Men Winners.

"I have noticed that nearly all successful business men of mature years have never been employes—at least, not since early youth. They began to strike out for themselves quite early and in a small way. The majority have met, battled with and overcome many obstacles. As to an easy time—they haven't had it. They have been men of strong fiber and with constitutions capable of enduring great strain and anxiety. Sometimes an employe suffers serious moments when he loves his position, but the man in business is often threatened with complete financial loss. Successive encounters with fortune finally strengthen his powers and if he has the determination and profits intelligently by failures he succeeds in the end.

"The employe, on the other hand, while escaping the big responsibilities, can, by thrift and what is called 'fortunate investments,' but which in reality is the exercise of prudence and good business sense, often increase in commercial pursuits his savings and in the end he is as independent as the business man who has been his own employer all his life. For my own part, never having been in business, I think every young man should look forward to the day when he shall be the master of his own business and his own time, if not the employer of others."

The Man Who Thinks.

"The great problems of this world are not going to be handed over to the men of muscles but to the men of brains," said a lecturer, and then he developed the idea for his hearers.

It is true that the forces that exert the most powerful influences are the forces of thought. A man thinks; he sets something in motion. The man of brains shapes his thought as it surges forth and immediately it becomes something worth pursuing. He develops it into a concrete substance by energetic acts. He brings to his service that other human force—muscle, that does not think. It performs the laborious work for the man who does the thinking.

If every young man who is compelled to begin life by entering the service of another would learn to think, it is only a matter of time until the power of his thought, well-directed, has wrought for him a mighty change, and he himself is thinking for others and directing their forces for his own greater success.

THE GROCER'S CANDLE.

When a grocer has to sell on a close margin at one end and gives part of that margin away in over weight at the other end, the piece in between is pretty short.

Great efforts are being made to secure a legitimate margin on staples, and the Bond Scale Co., is showing dealers how to give only what is paid for.

The Bond Automatic Weigher insures absolute accuracy independent of the operator's care. It puts out the flame at the lower end of the candle.

Attracting Trade

THE SHOW WINDOW.

A Trade Attracter That Should Not Be Overlooked.

If you want to catch the people
You must make the window bright;
If you want to hold the people
You must trim the window right;
If you want to lead your rivals
You must give the window care;
If you want to "knock 'em silly"
You must never trouble spare.

A Green Grocery Display.

The fruit and vegetable divisions still engross a large share of the grocers' attention, and increased ingenuity in arranging them for window display. One seen this week was unique and easily arranged, says an exchange.

The window ledge was carpeted with potaties—big, white fellows, not polished, but showing the natural gloss with enough of the soil on the skin to give an impression of their being new. Two large octagonal baskets of wickerwork, showing the contents, were placed about equally distant from the sides of the space, well back. These were heaped with fine peaches. Three fruit dishes set at intervals well to the front contained respectively Niagara, Concord and Delaware grapes. These dishes were set in triangles bordered by huge cucumbers, set atop the groundwork of potatoes. In one rear corner was a glass tumbler containing mint; in the other a fine bunch of celery. At the one side against the wall was a display of spices in cans.

This display depended almost entirely upon the quality of the goods shown, and the window dresser selected the best stock on hand without particular regard for harmony in color or use. The peaches looked so well that they were sold, winding up the day's supply, before evening.

Sold the Tomatoes.

Another display noticed consisted of tomatoes only. They were shown on day when tomatoes were hard to find in the market at any price. The window dresser nearly filled a large wash basket with paper, then wrapped two dozen tomatoes in tissue and placed them atop the "filler." A few of the tomatoes being placed without wrapping in conspicuous positions gave the impression that the basket was filled with tomatoes in wrappers. The arrangement was in harmony with the idea that the goods are scarce and costly and a price card attached to it named a stiff price for them. They sold so quickly that the proprietor was obliged to explain the deception to satisfy a customer who wished a supply from the window when told that the stock on hand had been exhausted. After that experience the display was, of course, changed to show goods in stock.

A Good Display.

Here is a good display seen uptown which can be easily made by any grocer:

The display was arranged in the form of an embankment, beginning about a foot from the window front and at the bottom, and slanting backward to a height of about six feet. It was covered with a gauze matting in colors. Flanked on either side were iron columns entwined with oblong crackers and other pastry boxes (of goods) from the Consumers' Biscuit Co., laid across. Occupying the space at the bottom and front of the window was a row of small baskets filled with a variety of articles; there were oranges, lemons, figs, dates, raisins, candies, etc. On the embankment set upon narrow shelves were a multitude of miscellaneous articles. The largest ones began at the bottom and were arranged in layers. They composed all sorts of fancy canister, tubular, glassware and package goods, making a solid bank of bright labeled and handsomely prepared groceries most beautiful to behold, and forming an exhibit that was attractive in the extreme. No particular design was followed, it being simply a commonplace display of examples such as any retail grocer is able to make if he will. But it was effective, as the inquiries made fully attested.

The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

JOSEPH A. STULZ—
Everyone who knows "Joe" Stulz knows he is honest and a successful business man. He is the kind of a man we want as Public Administrator. Vote for him. He is on three tickets—Union Labor, Independent Republican and Independent Democrats.

THREE SUPERVISORS—
There are three grocers Supervisors on the Union Labor, Independent Republican and Independent Democratic tickets, headed by Eugene E. Schmitz. There are none but professional politicians on the Fusion ticket. Which side will be most likely to look after the grocers' interests.

TOMATOES—
The season is drawing to its close and the pack on this Coast has been light. The pack in the East has also been light.

COFFEE—
Europeans are buying heavily of Central American coffees at prices above parity with present San Francisco prices.

TEAS—
Young Hysons and Formosas are much lower in America than other commercial centers of the world.

RAISINS—
An attempt was made to break the Association price on seeded Raisins this week. The combine refused to meet the cut and the outsiders raised their prices. There is little liability of lower prices and possibility of advances.

CRANBERRIES—
The crop is short in Massachusetts, New Jersey and Wisconsin.

SPANISH OLIVES—
The Spanish Olive crop has been a failure. Prices have been advanced by telegraph 10 per cent, and will go higher.

HOLLAND HERRING—
The catch of Holland Herring has been poor rendering high prices certain.

MILLERS MEET GROCERS.

Discuss Situation With Representative Committee of Large Grocers.

Every mill was represented on Wednesday evening at the meeting of the committee of seventeen appointed by the "Committee of 100" last Thursday.

The situation was discussed in detail and much inteerst was expressed by the millers present. At a late hour, it was decided to have another meeting in a short time, at which something definite should be decided.

LAST WEEK'S MEETING.

A thorough representative body of grocers met at the Kreling building on last Thursday evening to consider the flour situation.

State Secretary Connolly had successfully concluded the formation of an effective "Committee of One Hundred." While some of the leading gentlemen on this committee were not able to attend the meeting in person, yet they all signed an agreement to abide by any decisions that might be reached and all expressed the desire to have the mills set a retail price and they agreed to co-operate on any lines of action that may be decided on by the committee.

The San Francisco grocers were assisted in their deliberations by a committee of eight grocers from Alameda county, of whom five were from Oakland, two from Alameda, and one from Berkeley.

Harry B. Arnold was elected Chairman of the committee and Frank B. Connolly secretary.

Mr. Connolly made a brief statement of conditions and also of the opinions of the grocers as expressed to him.

The chairman called for expressions of opinion and every speaker expressed the feeling that there should be a better margin on handling flour.

It was the unanimous feeling that the mills owed it to the retail grocery trade not to allow the price to be demoralized by a few cutters.

Nearly every grocer in the meeting was called upon for an expression of his views.

The general concensus of opinion was that a margin on flour should be greater.

Secretary Connolly reported that a number of grocers who were not in attendance at the meeting felt that the margin should not be more than 20 cents. Several of the grocers present felt that it would be safer to begin with a margin of 15 cents.

The chair was then instructed to appoint a committee of three to appoint a committee of fifteen to which the chair and the secretary were added, making a committee of seventeen, to present the views of the "Committee of One Hundred" to the millers, and let them understand what the grocers desired and the course of action they proposed to follow.

It was also decided to request the organization of Alameda county to send a delegation to attend this meeting.

The committee reported back a strong committee which represented every section of the city. Their choice met the approval of the organization.

SHAPING SENTIMENT.

Trade Leaders Recognize the Danger of Antagonizing Retail Grocers.

The jobbing trade of San Francisco are realizing the importance of protecting the established retail grocery trade from the incursion of adventurers who would like to use the business of established grocers as bait to pull sucker into their stores in order that they may sell them other goods at fancy prices.

State Secretary Connolly has been interviewing the jobbing trade with regard to this matter and, with the exception of one large house, he has received assurances from all those to whom he has presented the matter that they will protect the grocery trade as far as lies in their power, and will not make themselves a party to the breaking up of conditions established by the retail grocers of any community which tends to make prices stable and fair.

Two firms have taken this position from the beginning. These firms are:

Haas Bros.
J. H. Newhauer & Company.

Among those who have agreed not to supply the cutters of other communities are:

Wellman, Peck & Co.
Wm. Cluff & Company.
M. Ehrman & Co.
Sussman Wormser & Co.

Manufacturers Take Action.

Enoch Morgan's Sons Co. have already notified the jobbers that it will be a violation of their contract to sell Sapolio to a department store. This is being strictly enforced.

The Natural Food Co. has also notified every jobber that they must not sell the "Shredded Wheat" products to the department store cutters.

Owing to his efforts in organizing the Committee of One Hundred and the intervention of a holiday, Mr. Connolly was unable to complete the canvass of the wholesale trade. As a consequence, no definite action will be advised before the time of going to press although, unquestionably, he will be able to report to the Directors of the State Grocers Association when they meet on this (Thursday) evening.

The Advocate will be able to advise its readers in its issue of next week as to the steps the State Directors may consider most desirable.

FOUR GROCER CANDIDATES.

The Trade Generously Recognized by the Anti-Fusion Interests.

The grocers of San Francisco should be interested in the fact that four retail grocers have received recognition from the anti-fusion elements of this city. These gentlemen are:

Joseph A. Stulz, for Public Administrator.

W. W. Sanderson, of Hooper & Jennings, for Supervisor.

Con. J. Harrigan, 1348 Folsom street, for Supervisor.

P. M. McGushin, 410 Stevenson street, for Supervisor.

There is not a single representative of the grocery interests on the Fusion ticket. Every candidate of the Fusion ticket is either a deputy in some local office or else holds the position which he is now asking for.

Under the circumstances it would seem as if the Fusion ticket which made such a great splurge about "taking the City Government out of politics" was given over entirely to practical politicians, while the ordinary business men of the city were to be found only on the ticket which these politicans are denouncing in their speeches as a ticket of "professional grafters."

Jos. A. Stulz for Public Administrator, a successful business man of tried integrity. Union Labor, Ind. Rep., Ind. Dem.

FOOLISH PRETENCES.

Politicians Seek to Gain Dignity by Posing as Reformers.

It would be hard to conceive anything more silly than a lot of hardened, time-worn politicians hanging big labels on themselves reading: "We are reformers. We intend to purify the city."

Yet that is just what has been done in San Francisco. It is not surprising, therefore, that in spite of the prejudice against Schmitz because of his labor union affiliations, the sensible business men of the city cannot be made to grow enthusiastic over the outlook.

The real issue in the election now pending is not "Reform."

The fusion with the McNab democracy was made solely with a view on the part of various politicians to get office.

If the citizens of San Francisco were suffering (instead of being unprecedentedly prosperous) there would be no question about getting a business man of standing as candidate for mayor and having him supported by the voters. But when the voters are prosperous and the city at peace, the calamity howlers have got to get a "leader" from the "profesh" to oppose a man like Schmitz.

John Partridge is a good man and has always been a good politician and a good programmer. But this talk about him as a reformer, who thinks practical politics are "real horrid," who considers the appointment of faithful workers to responsible positions as only another form of bribery, is funny. If he is made mayor, it is dollars to doughnuts that no man will get a job who did not work hard for the "League" As a matter of fact, the plum Mr. Partridge picked from the local political tree and is even now enjoying, was not a gift of affection but a reward for work done.

This is right and proper, though Partridge, in a recent speech, expressed horror at the "wickedness" of such a thing.

As a matter of fact, every claim of superior virtue on the part of the "reformers" fails to pass muster in the same way.

This is a campaign of politicians.

The "Ins" have been good friends to the grocers.

They have been good friends to the working classes who make up three-fourths of the voters.

Under the circumstances, the "Outs" will have a hard time to get the votes of these men, who consider the city government a good, clean one, as far as they, personally, know. The only sign of corruption they find is in the columns of the press and in the mouths of jealous politicians.

The people do not always believe all they hear. Especially will they question calumnies against proven friends when coming from sources they have learned to distrust in the past.

There are four men interested in groceries on the ticket headed by Eugene Schmitz for mayor They are:

Joseph A. Stulz, for Public Administrator;
W. W. Sanderson, for Supervisor;
P. M. McGushin, for Supervisor;
Con. J. Harrigan, for Supervisor.

This certainly looks good to the Advocate.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT CANNERS ASSOCIATION

Largest Packers of Canned Fruits and Vegetables in the World.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Cloves are working higher.

Tea firm, with rising tendency.

Don't be deceptive in your show window display.

There is much talk in New York of a coffee duty.

Flypaper is not quite dead, but will be out of it soon.

A lot of tea sold in London recently at $6.37½ a pound.

Olives are high in price and will probably go higher.

Catch of Holland herring continues to show up in poor quality.

The test of good merchandising is the securing of a good profit.

Canned tomatoes got wobbly when No. 3 standards touched $1.00.

There should always be time enough to dress the window properly.

Elbow grease, persistency and enthusiasm make the window pay.

Put the new goods to the front and tell the trade that they are new.

When an article will not budge at a dollar, a cut to 99 cents may move it.

The pickle crop is practically a failure in the East and very short in the West.

On account of a light pack it is thought that French sardines will advance.

New dates will not be here until late in October. The first to arrive will be Persians.

Owing to a shortage in the European crops small olives are scarce and higher.

Manufacturers have advanced clothes pins somewhat. Wood is getting scarce.

Try the show window with plain price cards to move some of those slow sellers. It will always help.

Have the clerks report every call for an article not in stock. You will get valuable suggestions in this way.

Study up on tea and coffee. Your knowledge will come in very nicely some day. In fact, you can well use it every day.

Polish up those lanterns and put them in the window for a change. Lamp goods of all kinds should go with them, too.

Fresh oyster crackers are wanted with the oysters. How is your stock? There is nothing that is much worse than a stale cracker.

A row of clear glass bottles, each showing a different breakfast cereal, would be an improvement upon the usual piles of breakfast food cartons.

Foreign olive crops are all very short and it looks as if higher prices might be asked for these goods a little later. The California crop is an average one.

Owing to the general prosperity of the country—or some other reason—there is a very large trade in candy. Are you getting your share of the candy trade?

Courtesy counts for as much as any one thing in winning trade. With courtesy, goes attractive helpers, comely in looks, neat in dress, winning in manners—tactful folks.

Look out for canned tomatoes and corn just a "leetle" bit under grade this season. Prices may be tempting, but consumers may not stand for wet corn and watery, greenish tomatoes.

An oyster can holding something over half the amount in the regular size has been put on the market this year. This is designed for the family trade for whom the regular can is too large.

Go after the case trade now. Make prices on cases of tomatoes, corn, peas, peaches and on boxes of dried apples, prunes and apricots. A sack sugar price may land a few big orders.

It is said that the reason why so small a quantity of black tea is produced in Japan is because the Japanese tea leaf cannot stand the fermentation undergone by the Chinese variety.

Green and Congou teas promise to be in small supply among the imports to this country this year, the production being light, while London is said to be picking up parcels in our market.

People are willing to pay a good margin if it covers a pleasing, up-to-date service. Those consumers forced to practice a rigid economy appreciate style as much, if not more, than the careless rich.

It is said that the crop of maple sugar is already out of the growers' hands. If this is the case it will probabyl mean higher prices during the winter, as that is the season of the biggest demand.

Dried apples are generally among the cheap fruits, but this year they will roost on an upper shelf. The crop in the best producing districts is short and the output is likely to be below normal.

Retail grocers that do not handle bread are often losing a good opportunity. Many country grocers make a good thing of handling city baked bread. A general line of bakery goods often pays, too.

Perhaps the delivery man is a more important factor than you have realized. He gets nearly all the kicks from the housewife, and if he is careless and does not repeat them to the proprietor the store will suffer.

"My competitor tries to give as much as possible for one dollar, while I try to see how much of the dollar I can keep for myself and satisfy the buyer." So remarked one of the most successful of American retailers.

Consul General Seeger, of Rio Janeiro, writes that the shipments of coffee from the interior of Brazil are not as large as was expected. The reasons for this were climatic and favorable financial conditions among the planters.

Opening prices on California walnuts were about one cent a pound higher than the corresponding figures a year ago. The yield is short and as the foreign crops are none too large, it is likely that walnuts will rule higher the coming winter than last.

One of the articles in the enterprising dealer's business creed should be a rule requiring a sample of every new invoice to be exhibited in the show window. If every article has a fair show in this manner there will be small chance of its becoming a shelf-sticker, provided it has any merit.

Style in the package counts in favor of a good profit; so does the character of the twine. A bit or green, red or pink twine may help hold a customer. A clean store, attractive shelves, pretty displays in window, on counters or on the floor; bright scales, are a few factors that make it easy to get a good profit.

With a rat-trap closed tight upon a plug of Schneider tobacco and a placard bearing the inscription, "Have caught the best at least—Schneider Plug," as the central features of his window display, retailer James I. Hassan, 6633 Woodland avenue, is attracting considerable attention this week.—Phila. Corres. Tob. Leaf.

Exacting customers are not relished by dealers generally, and yet they have their value. They keep the dealer up to the mark, apprise him of little leaks, little faults and little obstacles to success that may grow into great ones and imperil his business, whereas the easy-going or timid customers may say nothing, yet transfer their patronage to another dealer, on account of some fault or fancied fault of which the dealer is entirely ignorant. Better a thousand complaints, when there is cause for them, than loss of trade because the customers refuse to kick.—Delicatessen.

There is likely to be a shortage in the "home-made" jellies and jams this year. These are machine-made goods but put up under the formulae used by the housewife. Hence they are popular in many quarters. But, owing to a shortage in the fruit crops it is predicted that these will not be so plentiful. However, every grocer can have a line of these for himself if he knows any woman among his customers who makes them well. On account of the general prejudice created against "boughten" jellies by the large amount of adulteration that has been disclosed these home-made goods should sell very readily.

CHANGE IN AGENCY.

William A. Hawley Secures Exclusive Agency for McCaskey Account Register.

William A. Hawley, Pacific Coast representative of the McCaskey Account Register, returned last Saturday from a three weeks' visit to the factory, whither he went for the purpose of perfecting arrangements for pushing the sale of this "friend of retail merchants" on this coast.

Mr. Hawley signalized his return and showed his confidence in this article by at once purchasing the interest in the coast agency of his partner, Mr. Frank, and now assumes absolutely control of it.

The McCaskey Account Register has already been placed in many leading groceries both in San Francisco and elsewhere throughout the coast, and all who have tried it speak in the highest terms of it.

Read the testimonial of H. N. Edlin of 1264-1266 Devisadero street on the first page of cover.

A LOSING PROPOSITION.

If You Give Your Customer More Than She Pays For.

Would you knowingly give a customer one dollar and two cents change for one dollar? Not if you could help it, and yet if you will carefully weigh over the packages of sugar put up for delivery you are almost certain to find them 2 per cent overweight. This is not the fault of the scale, nor of the operator, but because the time necessary to get exact weight is of more value than the goods saved.

The Bond Automatic Weigher gives exactly what you want it to—no more, no less, and does it in one-fifth the time required for hand weighing.

GIVE GOOD PROFIT.

Egg-O-See Sold on Basis Satisfactory to Retailers.

The campaign in behalf of Egg-O-See is showing most satisfactory results to the Egg-O-See Company, and in the past thirty days sales on the Pacific Coast have more than doubled.

Several carloads have arrived at the leading distributing points on the coast in the past two weeks and several additonal are due to arrive at once.

Claude E. Pierce, Pacific Coast manager for the company, has gone to Portland, Seattle and Tacoma, to look after the interests of his goods in the Northwest territory, and will be absent for several days.

The great improvement in sales in this territory is due, first, to the wide advertising being given them, and second, to the fact that the retailer is assured a handsome profit, buying Egg-O-See at $3.60 per case of three dozen, or five case lots at $3.50 per case, and retailing at 15 per package, or two packages for 25 cents.

No other flake food gives such excellent results.

In this connection the following from the Los Angeles Retail Merchants' Report speaks for itself:

Egg-O-See Co. Establish Retail Price.

In order that the consuming public may be fully familiar with the retail price established by the Egg-O-See people they advertise in the Ladies' Home Journal that Egg-O-See sells in all eastern territory at 10 cents and from the Rocky mountains west at 15 cents or two for 25 cents. This is a start in the right direction, and it remains to be seen whether the company will maintain the price they have established in this territory or not. It makes it much easier to maintain a price if the price is made public to the consumer, and we hope for the continued support of the Egg-O-See Company.

CONSTANTLY GAINING.

The System That Has Revolutionized Retail Bookkeeping.

Old methods, new methods, methods good, bad and indifferent, are all giving way before the steady onward march of The Perfection Short Credit System.

In some instances one dealer's taking up this method in a town has been the means of placing it in nearly every store in the place, for once understood, the system sells itself.

Its first cost is low, and it is economical in operation—the only tag system that never uses more than one tag a day for any customer.

OUR MEETINGS.

What They Offer and What We Hope They Will Result In.

(By J. G. REED.)

The Alameda County Grocers' Association hold their regular meetings on the first and third Mondays in every month.

It is very necessary that every member attend these meetings. The success of this work is largely a result of the good fellowship engendered by the members meeting together and the educational value to the members from meeting and interchanging ideas and experiences of their everyday business life.

This is what prepares the way for positive and money-making results.

Enthusiasm in organization work is what gives these results. Enthusiasm is what lifts a man from the common level to a place high above the ordinary run of men. It is what wins.

The educational value of our meetings is to be put to a practical test from now on. A program has been formulated to give them interest, enthusiasm and of importance that they cannot be missed. At least one meeting a month a paper is to be prepared and read by some one selected for that purpose who is particularly qualified to give valuable information and experience. The subject of these papers will be on trade problems of every day interest. The following subjects have been chosen for discussion:

"The Buying of Futures. Does It Pay."
"Tea and Coffee Trade."
"Free Deals."
"Our Delivery System."
"Bulk and Package Goods."
"Private Brands."
"Credit Ratings," etc.

After the regular paper has been read at each meeting, a discussion of its subject matter will be taken up by the members. In order to make these discussions valuable it is the wish of the Committee having this work in charge that the members send in questions on the above mentioned topics to the Secretary. The members are particularly urged to follow up this suggestion, as every man in his business meets with difficulties which his experience does not help him to solve and which some other man having settled the question for himself can be of great assistance to him.

What the Association Promises.

Every member is urged to consider what the Association can mean to him if he will but make use of it.

Many a man has failed because he has neglected his opportunity. It is up to the grocer to use the power that lies in his co-operation. It is up to the grocer to improve his trade conditions.

It is the Association that stands between the individual grocer and the encroachment of the manufacturers and wholesalers on one hand and the bargain hunting consumer and the dead beat on the other. As long as the individual grocers are kept apart and antagonistic to their fellow grocers, these forces have the opportunity to work his ruin.

But let the grocers meet in good fellowship and agree to act together toward all malefactors of their business interests and they have a protection that is worth more than all the contributions they make toward keeping up their organization.

Those antagonistic to the Grocers' Association are so because they do not want publicity given to their methods.

When the manufacturer, who allows his goods to be cut and the wholesaler who sells to the consumer, and the dead beat who operates on innocent merchants, are publisned, these wrong doers flee for the darkness like vermin when light is turned upon them.

Every Member Must Help.

The Association is your own organization.

Whatever it does is the result of a majority's action.

That it has not accomplished more, is because YOU have not given YOUR time in attending its meetings and taking part in its deliberations.

It is up to YOU to give determined emphasis to Association work.

Support those millers who have taken the time and trouble to give you protection in the selling price of their flour and a profit. Likewise those manufacturers who have followed the same principal.

It is up to YOU to encourage those wholesalers who sell only to the trade and will not countenance trade pirates who use the credit of the wholesaler to sell goods at a loss and then fall for 40 cents on the dollar.

"Community of profit is absolutely essential to a partnership."

Webster.

PROPERLY CONDENSED.

It is very annoying to consumers to lose part of the contents of a can of evaporated cream because it spoils after opening and before being used up. The Helvetia Milk Condensing Co are overcoming this trouble by evaporating their product to so heavy a consistency that it is not readily permeated by germs that float in the air, and hence remains sweet much longer than goods of lighter consistency. It is therefore seen that their product is more valuable not only for this reason but because it goes further.

MAPLE SYRUP.

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30th.—In Wisconsin, Minnesota and the Dakotas only sap syrup can be sold as maple syrup. Manufacturers are prevented by heavy penalties from selling as maple syrup. syrup made from maple sugar. As the result of this law being enforced, prices on maple syrup will be advanced 25 per cent.

More...

Carnation Cream

SOLD IN THIS MARKET THAN ALL OTHER BRANDS COMBINED. There is nothing about the evaporating and sterilizing of cream that we do not know. We manufacture evaporated cream exclusively, and just one brand—CARNATION CREAM. It is our only business, and we have always given the consumer the richest and best cream made. CARNATION CREAM has no equal.

For this reason

is fast superceding its poor imitations which have had a run on account of the bulk of their package which deceived the eye.

However, since consumers have ascertained the difference in food value, richness and perfection, they became wise.

They have learned that "Our Pet" brand is cheap compared with others at any price and they will not be deceived again.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Arlington—Mr. Wells of Rincon has purchased the entire stock of groceries of J. D. Davidson and leased the store room for several years. He will conduct an up-to-date grocery.

Chino—M. Moyse, is soon to move into his handsome new storeroom, which is now being fitted. When completed the store and stock will be one of the most attractive in the district.

Eureka—The firm of Kind & Kraus some months ago decided to close out its business, preparatory to leaving Eureka, and the large stock of goods carried by the firm was greatly reduced when the times in Eureka began to brighten. Mr. Kraus, the resident member of the firm, closely watched the business of the old camp climb the up-grade and communicated his observations to his partner, Henry Kind of Tonopah, and it was mutually agreed that they would not abandon Eureka. A new and complete stock of groceries, etc., was ordered and the new goods are arriving daily. Messrs. Kind & Kraus announce to their patrons in Eureka and vicinity that they are in Eureka to stay, and will be found at the old stand.

Long Beach—Mr. D. W. Nickels, recently from Peoria, Ill., has bought out the Reliable store and has added thereto a large amount of fresh stock.

Los Angeles—N. B. Norswing, 5801 South Main, is sick at his home in the outskirts of the city. Smitt Bros., grocers, have removed from 28th and Main streets to the northwest corner of Maple avenue and 32nd street. J. H. Postey, a grocer of some experience, has opened a new store in the Miramonta tract at the corner of 64th street and Long Beach avenue. The store is one of the handsomest in the suburbs of the city. It is finished in the Mission style, all woodwork being dark and handsomely stained. The floors are of cement and the entire effect is pleasing. Mr. Postey operates a meat market in connection with his store. At 12th and Maple avenue the Imus Grocery Co. has opened a store, the opening order amounting to about $2,500. Mr. Imus is a groceryman of long experience from St. Joseph. His son is associated with him. R. P. Woodside, 3813 Central avenue, has completed the reconstruction of his grocery store. He now has practically three times the floor space originally occupied and he has added much to his stock.

Mountain View—Wm. C. Palm, who has been very successfully conducting the Palm Grocery, has sold his business to Theo. Meyer of San Francisco. Mr. Meyer intends to renovate the interior of the store. His business will be conducted on a cash basis.

Pleasanton—The grocery and dry goods store of H. Hewett & Company has been sold to Joe Enos Biaros. Mr. Biaros was for a number of years with Ellis Brothers here and for the past two years he has held a responsible position with Murphy, Grant & Company of San Francisco. Mr. and Mrs. Barios will be welcomed back to Pleasanton by a large circle of friends.

Pomona—W. H. Truitt, grocer and fruit merchant, has sold to Prugh & Maxwell.

San Luis Obispo—John Tognazzini has purchased the store fixtures, groceries, etc., belonging to the store owned by the late A. W. Turner and is moving it to his place of business in Edna.

South Pasadena—George Williamson, who up to ten months ago owned a grocery store on South Main street, Los Angeles, has bought a general store from the estate of Nathan Frank.

Whittier—J. P. Underwood, late of Iowa, has purchased a interest in the grocery business of F. K. Weeks. Mr. Weeks has made an enviable success of business since entering it here in the early days and needs no introduction. Mr. Underwood comes admirably qualified as regards experience, having been engaged in the manufacturing, wholesale and retail departments of the business for a score of years. He believes that Whittier has a great future before it, and will unite his efforts and capital with those of Mr. Weeks to fully meet every demand of a growing community and increasing patronage.

Yreka—E. Elmer Smith has closed out his grocery store and sold the stock to other dealers, having a good offer of renting his building. He expects to start in another business in the near future.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports for the week:

"The weather has been very favorable for curing raisins and drying of late deciduous fruits. The Southern California walnut crop was somewhat injured by the heat. The crop is lighter than last season but of excellent quality. An unusually large crop of apples is being gathered. Olives are in excellent condition. The bean crop in San Luis Obispo and Ventura counties is the best for many years. There is a good yield in other sections."

SUGAR.

Last week, it was announced that the Honolulu Plantation Company had contracted for the output of the Hutchinson Plantation Comapny for the next three years. This will enable the new refiners to keep their works busy during the year and will increase their annual output to about 30,000 tons.

New York, Oct. 10th—Raw sugars have been steady and quiet at a basis of 2⅝ cents 96 degree test during the past week. Refined has been steady at unchanged prices.

New York, Oct 3rd—M. G. Wanzor & Co. reports:

"The raw market this week has been quiet. Although centrifugal sugar has not been sold at less than 3 11-16 cents it would e impossible to get that price today. Europ an markets have been steady but fear of further financial troubles in the different sugar markets of the continent is preventing business from moving along natural lines."

TEA.

New York, Oct. 3rd—John B. Brown & Co reports:

Young Hysons and Formosas—The continued high prices in producing countries have plainly demonstrated the fact that teas on this market are very much lower than in any other commercial center in the world and even at the recent advanced prices on our home market look remarkably low.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is quiet, roasters waiting for lower prices.

"Latest Central American reports are to the effect that higher prices are probable.

"The supply of coffee in San Francisco importers' hands is only about 40,000 bags, or 8000 bags less than last year at this time.

"The Middle West has been buying here freely for the past 10 days."

J. E. Bickford & Co. reports:

"Business was unusually quiet during September, the heavy sales of August having supplied the needs of second hands for some time ahead. Brazil coffees in New York are exactly the same price as a month ago in regard to the actual article, but futures have been reduced 20 to 25 points. Receipts at the ports of Brazil have been running below estimates."

New York, Oct. 2nd—Henry Nordinger & Co. report:

"Since we issued our market report of the 1st ultimo, a reaction took place in the price of Brazil coffee, which, however, has been recovered toward the end of the month. This reaction was brought about by a decline in the rate of exchange without a corresponding advance in the milreis price, the import cost being thereby reduced proportionately. This country availed itself freely in making purchases at the lower level of rice. Europe also bought more freely these larger purchases of coffee by consuming countries caused the milreis price to advance some, and at the same time helped to give a firmer tone to the rate of exchange on Brazil.

"The requirements of Europe must still be unusually heavy, as she purchased out of the present crop so far only about 1½ million bags whilst her yearly consumption of Brazil coffee amounts to about 5¾ million bags. This country is likewise in need of millions of bags of commercial grades of which existing stocks, although large, contain only a small percentage. Brazilian exporters are fully aware of this situation, and when we bear in mind that one-third of the crop has already been marketed, and that the stocks in Rios and Santos are not within half a million bags as large as they were at this time a year ago, we must conclude that the Brazilian markets will be well taken care of from now on, and that no depressing influences need to be feared from that quarter during the remainder of the crop season.

"The receipts at Rio and Santos for the first three months of the current crop year were about 450,000 bags smaller than during the same three months last year when we had a crop of a little less than 10 million bags, and about 700,000 bags smaller than two years ago when we had a crop of about 20,000,000 bags.

"Mild coffees are coming forward only in moderate quantities. The receipts of same since July 1st were about 250,000 bags smaller than they were for the same time last year. Existing stocks are likewise smaller than a year ago, and will no doubt be further reduced during the next three months."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market is unchanged from last week:

New York, Oct. 3rd—Dan Talmage's Sons' Co. report:

"With good demand from the trade, market continues firm. An increased demand for Japan sorts has caused a hardening in tone, with quotable advance secured on desirable parcels.

"At New Orleans, market is firm. On account of rain during the week receipts of rough are light, and held at higher prices.

"In the interior-southwest Louisiana and Texas—a general and continuous rain has brought harvesting to a standstill. Movement of rough to market has been curtailed and prices are 25 cents to 50 cents per barrel (162 pounds) rough higher.

"There is a lively interest and many estimates are being made, regarding the outcome of the crop. A small per cent was seeded at the usual period, about half in May and the balance in June. As a result, harvest is late and will be carried well into the fall, with all the risks and perils of storms and cold weather incident to the season. The outlook for the May planting is encouraging. But for that seeded in June, the outcome is extremely doubtful. More than a month must elapse before any safe estimates can be made as to the year's supply."

New Orleans, Sept. 30th—A. K. Seago & Co. reports:

"Honduras styles are in limited supply with prices steadily advancing."

New Orleans, Sept. 30th—G. Schwartz & Co. report:

"The market maintains its strength and prices of some grades are slightly higher. Japans, especially, are strong and holders are asking one-eighth cent advance.

New Orleans, Sept 25th—S. Locke Bureau reports:

"The rice crop through Texas and Louisana is from three to five weeks late. The acreage in Texas is 20 per cent short and in Louisana 40 per cent short of last year. In Louisana, I think only a 6 to 7 bag crop will be harvested as against 8 or 9 bag crop for the normal. I believe that the present basis of value will maintain through the season. I think there will be more Honduras rice to sell this year than Japan.

CANNED FRUITS.

Locally the canned fruit situation is very strong. This applies to the entire line, apricots, good extra standards being very scarce. Pears are as firm as other fruits. Stocks of canned fruits in the hands of packers are very light and it is now difficult to get together a full carload of any one kind.

Peaches are in exceptionally good shape prices being 10 to 15 cents higher than at the opening of the season. This increase is justified by the added cost of fruit, which costs nearly double what it could be bought for at the opening.

C. H. Bentley of the California Fruit Canners' Association, in a letter dated September 26th, says:

"While early estimates on the peach crop have not been fulfilled, we have been able to pack sufficient to deliver our orders in full.

"The volume of business during the last six weeks has been exceedingly heavy, and the demand still continues. The market has a strong feeling in the face of the advances which have been made and withdrawals on some important items. Jobbers who bought futures have been able to sell their goods with profit and are buying additional quantities.

"The demand for tomatoes is phenomenal, inquiries coming from territores not ordinarily reached from this Coast. Until early sales are protected we are unwilling to book further business, and it is simply a question of the weather and the length of the season as to whether or not we shall be ale to sell further quantities later on."

TOMATOES.

Tomatoes are regarded as exceptionally good property at the present time, and packers are not anxious to sell. The crop is coming in slow. Some packers say that their pack so far is not over 50 per cent of former years, though bigger contracts were made at the opening of the season this year than last. The usual contracted price for tomatoes from the field has been $6.50 per ton. Present prices are about $12.50.

New York, Oct. 10th—Tomatoes are firmer with speculative buyers picking up lots where they are offered at attractive figures. The market began to grow stronger the latter part of last week when the trade realized that the larger holders were not letting go. Today, while the market is quiet, it is firm at 95 cents factory.

Aberdeen, Md. Sept. 30th—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report.

"Many of the tomato canneries on the peninsula of Maryland and Delaware have not filled half their cans. Two factories that packed 6354 cases during the last week of September 1904, during the same week this year packed NONE. Two other factories packed 344 cases in 1905 against 3131 cases during the same week in 1904. One of these factories shortly before September 1st reported that they would need more tins than they had. This same factory has not filled half its tins. Heavy rains and storms about September 1st did the damage."

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 30th—H. H. Taylor & Son, report:

"Quotations this week range from 92½ cents to 97½ cents for standard 3's and 85 to 90 cents for seconds. There are not many offerings and there are few buyers at present figures."

CANNED CORN.

New York, Sept. 30th—Rosenstein Bros report:

"The packing is now over. While our company will deliver aout 100 per cent, one of the largest packers in Maine will deliver only 80 per cent and two other large packers will deliver from 80 to 90 per cent. We think that by the time deliveries of fancy Maine corn have been made it will be found that there is very little surplus. There may be a few thousand cases of standard for sale but this is not what buyers are willing to accept for Maine corn."

DRIED FRUITS.

Dried peaches are now pretty well out of the growers hands. Choice Crawfords are quoted at 8 cents and Muirs at 8½ to 9 cents. Apricots are also practically out of growers hands and are in moderate stock. Choice apricots are quoted at 8 to 8½ cents. Dried pears are scarce and range from 10 to 12½ cents.

RAISINS.

Prices for 1905—Were fixed by the Raisin Combine on Wednesday, October 4th, as follows:

Seeded—Fancy: 16-oz., 8¼c; 12-oz. 6⅝c. Choice: 16-oz, 5c; 12 oz., 6⅜c.

Layers—20-lb boxes Imperial Clusters, $3; Dehesia Clusters, $2.50; 4 Crown, $2; 3 Crown, $1.50; 2 Crown, $1.40.

Seedless—Muscats (unbleached), 4½c; Sultanas (unbleached), 5c, fancy, 6½c.

The price fixed by the Raisin Combine for the crop of 1905 has occassioned much chagrin among the outside packers who expected them to put prices far higher than they did and in consequence have been paying at a higher rate than a 4½ cent sweet box figure which is what the combine figures mean. The price named for the 1905 pack are almost identical on loose goods with those named in 1899. They are ½ cent higher than in 1900 and ½cent lower than the price of 1903.

New York, Oct. 11th—The jobbers have been slow in coming orders on raisins as they expected the outside packers to immediately come forward with offerings at cut prices. They were not disappointed. Outside packers on Saturday offered fancy seeded at 7½ cents Coast. The jobbers held off, expecting the Association to meet the cut. This the managers of the combine stated definitely they would not do and the outside packers advanced their price to the 8 cent basis today. The market on layers and clusters is firm and prices were withdrawn today. Imported Sultanas are still tending upwards, with the demand active.

PRUNES.

Owing to the fine weather, the crop has been cured and stored during the month of September. Last year they dragged on for many weeks. The quality of the prunes will be greatly enhanced in consequence.

New York, Oct. 11th—Prunes are firm but quiet for spot while futures are unsettled. Sales are reported at 3½ cents Coast basis.

Vancouver, Wash.—The crop of prunes is proving larger than was at first expected. The prunes are of very large size and the prices secured are the best that have been paid in years.

APRICOTS.

New York, Oct. 11th—Apricots are firm and scarce. Little demand is reported.

New York, Oct. 2nd—Brokers who agreed to deliver Royal apricots on a basis of 5½ cents f. o. b. are endeavoring to make cash settlements with jobbers as they cannot deliver the goods. Buyers are seeking to get stocks on this is increasing the upward tendency of prices. The supply on the Coast is said to be exceedingly small for this time of the year.

DRIED FIGS.

New York, Oct. 6th—Fine grades of figs have advanced in Smyrna. The poorer qualities, which form the bulk of the supply, are easy.

DRIED APPLES.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 2nd.—W. N White & Co. say:

"The apple crop in Washington is about 40 per cent of last years. The crop in Oregon is not more than 40 per cent. California has the best crop of any state. We expect to see apples very dear later on."

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30th—The St. Louis Commission Company reports:

"Receipts of dried apples in this market are not more than half what they are in ordinary years. Sun dried peaches and apples will be in very small supply."

Newark, N. Y., Sept. 30th—E. V. Peirson & Co. report:

"Futures and new evaporated apples are strong and advancing."

WALNUTS.

New York, Oct. 7th—European cables announce higher prices for French walnuts with the market very active.

Fullerton, Cal.—A number of growers outside the Association say the net prices for walnuts will run a little above the figures fixed by the Association. The greater portion of the crop in the Fullerton and Anaheim districts will be moved through the Associations, members saying they are entirely satisfied with the results. The price fixed by the general exchange was 13 cents for the best grades. Some growers have received as high as 14 cents.

HONEY.

Bakersfield, Cal., Oct. 2nd—J. A. Boone reports.

"The honey crop of Kern County is a little above the average. The price is small."

Riverside, Cal., Sept. 22nd—George A. Wilbur writes:

"The honey crop of California is about 50 cars short. Speculators and others are buying. Growers realized 9 and 10 cents for comb and 4 and 4½ cents for extracted. Any goods bought for less than 4 cents should be analyzed."

Philadelphia, Pa., Sept. 30th—There is a good demand for everything that will pass muster. It must be pure. Prices are firmer and higher.

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. report:

"The crop of Blackeye beans (peas) will be very light in this State and prices are being well maintained at $3.30 to 4 cents. The crop of limas is excellent with quality satisfactory. We do not look for any very low prices on lima beans owing to the fact that growers can afford to hold for good prices. They are quoted at $3.25 to $3.50. The crop of Lady Washingtons will not be heavy and the crop of red kidneys and tree beans will both be light. Bayos are in good quality and prices have gradually declined under increasing arrivals."

Santa Paula, Cal.—The yield of white beans and Blackeyes has been good. Many of the Blackeye beans have been contracted for at $3.50 per hundred.

Ventura, Oct. 4th.—The present crop of lima beans will exceed that of any past year. Estimates ranged all the way from 550,000 to 750,000 bags. A number of farmers have already contracted their beans at 3 cents per lb. Many more farmers look for a higher price.

Marysville, Sept. 30th—Reports from the River District indicate that the crop will be one-fifth less than usual.

Santa Monica—Present indications are that the lima bean yield will be above expectations. The output is of the best.

Portland, Or.—There is a heavy increase in the acreage of beans in Idaho this season. That state is now competing with California.

CANNED SALMON.

New York, Oct 11th—On Thursday, Oct. 5th, was announced an advance in sockeye salmon to $1.40 with talls $1.60, and flats, ½'s, $1.05. Trading has been very quiet and the market dull. Cohoes and chums are scarce

Bellingham, Sept. 29th—The Bellingham Canning Company is the only local cannery which continued to put up sockeyes.

Seattle, Sept. 30th—The Trade Register says:

"The Puget Sound Salmon Association will early next month take up the question of designating the two grades of sockeyes caught on the Fraser River so as to save the market for the good fish."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, Oct. 3rd—B. O. Bowers & Co. report:

"The factories have decided not to close on November 1st as agreed on last week. Owing to this fact the market has declined on the oridinary standard grades of ¼-oils. There has been no change in the higher grades and I believe goods will be comparatively scarce."

Cigars and Tobacco

TRADE AWAKENING

To the Necessity of United Action Against Trust and Department Stores.

From many interviews which the Advocate has held with leading cigar and tobacco dealers and retail grocers during the past week, it is manifest that the opinion is rapidly growing that the opinion is rapidly growing and has taking firm hold of the leaders in their respective lines that aggressive and united action must be taken on the part of all concerned to check the Tobacco Trust or it will be such an over-shadowing power as not only threaten but destroy the independent retailer.

For the past two years the Trust has carried on a particularly pernicious policy against the retail cigar trade in the opening of trust stores in all the leading trade centers of the United States, and now it is acquiring grocery stores in New York with the purpose of giving an added outlet for its tobaccos.

While if is certain that the Trust stores in San Francisco are not now doing any where near the amount of trade that they did during the first few weeks of their existence, yet they are a heavy handicap to the independent dealer, manufacturer and jobber, and have already caused a number of the former to withdraw from trade.

This condition, it is believed ,is only temporary, and when the independents (cigar manufacturers, jobbers and retail grocers) take united and progressive action for the protection of their mutual interests much if not all the lost ground can be regained.

Advices from the East are to the effect that Trust is losing ground in the retail trade in practically every city in which it has opened branches —a fact which in itself is full of encomagement and promises much for the future here.

In New York the Labor Unions have added the weight of their influence to that of the Independents and in several cases by direct resolution, backed by fines and even expulsion, are requiring their members to not patronage Trust stores. This action may be followed here.

The Advocate is in receipt of an interesting letter from Leon S. Mayer, secretary of the Cigar and Tabacco Merchants' Association, in which he approves the idea of joint action between the cigar and grocery trades for the protection of the mutual interests of both.

He also declares they should use every means to beat off the department stores, advocating a high license or rather license for each department, as a means to that end.

He wants attention paid to those wholesalers who favor the department stores by selling them cheaper than the legitimate dealer, who buys in more moderate quantity, and says "beware of the chain stores and the price cutters."

Mr. Mayers letter is as follows:

Editor Grocers' Advocate:

I am heartily in favor of your idea that the grocer and retail cigar man should work more together. A great many grocery stores handle tobaccos and cigars and it seems to me that they could handle more independent goods than they do at present.

Anybody can sell goods which are advertised and goods to which there are coupons attached which call for prizes (which are of little or no value), but it takes a man and a sa.esman to sell goods which are not advertised and those to which there are no prizes attached Don't sell these kinds of goods, sell a man something good and give him value and do not fail to let him know that he is getting the right article, and a good value.

Now I don't believe in a man buying a new article just because he gets as a gratis some article which is already staple and is a good seller. What does it mean? It means that he has loaded himself up with a new piece of goods which has in reality been placed on the market to take the place of some other similar piece of goods put up by an "independent" manufacturer.

We should try to have laws passed which would make the large departmen stores pay a high license. That is, make them pay a license for every department These stores do more to hurt trade than can be imagined. I forbid my wife trading with them and if every merchant would do likewise we would soon make them feel that the loss of our trade is a loss to them.

There is hardly a line which is not cut to pieces by them. The cigar and tobacco business has been ruined by them with their price cutting. I have known them to sell goods cheaper at retail than the retailer could buy them at wholesale.

We should not overlook the wholesaler who sells them at such prices as to enable them to do so.

I am also in favor of the Cigar and Tobacco Merchants' Association of San Francisco affiliating with the National Association.

Let every retailer cast aside all petty jealousies and be more friendly. We are all working for the same cause, all trying to make an honest living and why not work together.

Beware of the chain stores and the price cutters; put your shoulders to the wheel, stand by your guns and fight the trusts when and wherever you find them.

Yours respectfully,

Leon S. Mayer,
Secretary of Cigar and Tobacco Merchants' Association.

I. Cacciatore of I. Cacciatore & Bro. of Tampa is in the city, visiting N Venezia, local representative of his house. I. Cacciatore & Bro., are makers of the La Venezia, a high grade clear Havana cigar, now entering this market.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco under date of September 23rd says: A. Santaella & Co. this week report good orders. good business. good cigars. Their orders for Thursday footed up 200.000 for "Optimo, my Optimo." They are adding a number of cigarmakers. Their fall trade will be great.

Omaha—The Nebraska anti-cigarette law has received a partial knockout. That portion prohibiting the giving away of cigarette papers has been declared unconstitutional, and as a consequence the law seems likely to have the same effect that it has had in Indiana, and cause a tremendous increase in the custom of cigarette smoking.

The Tobacco Trust is reported acquiring grocery stores in New York to distribute tobaccos the same as it started cigar stores. If this policy be followed out the trust will eventually dispense with the jobber and ruin many retail grocers throughout the country. Keep on handling its lines and help it fix you plenty, or deal with Independents.—The Trade Register.

Tacoma—William Walsh's grocery store was robbed of $150 in cash September 23. Mr. Walsh and three customers, one of whom lost $8.50, were held up just before closing time.

VALUABLE ALLIES.

Grocers and Cigar Dealers a Power Against the Mighty Tobacco Trust.

One of the most arrogant of the many mighty trusts is the Tobacco Trust which with its many ramifications is gradually "hogging" all the profits in sight.

By various clever manipulations, the jobbers were made to handle the trust tobaccos with almost no profit, hen the Trust began to go to the retailer direct.

Soon the retailers were selling Trust goods with little or no profit—due largely to the clever manipulations of the Trust managers.

But the Trust could not stand the fact that many retailers sold some Independent goods on which they got a profit!

Think of the audacity!

Of course, this state of affairs could not be endured.

So the trust began opening up stores under the name of the "United Cigar Stores Company."

Under this name, they became the fiercest competitors of the cigar stands and grocery stores that had served them as drudges for so long.

The country dealer is interested in this development of the Tobacco Trust.

It is only a matter of a brief time, when the Trust will be selling cigars and tobacco direct to the consumers in the country by means of catalogues and premium offers.

Now, the Remedy.

The remedy lies in the hands of the dealers themselves. The Tobacco Trust is not seeking to ruin the small dealer because they hate him nor because they want to show how smart they are.

They do not want to ruin him at all. They would like to see him go on on business, selling enough other goods on which he makes a profit to enable him to continue selling Trust tobaccos without a profit.

As a matter of fact, they MUST HAVE THE HELP OF THE RETAIL DEALERS of the country to dispose of their enormous output.

They sell direct to advertise the goods and FORCE the dealer to sell more of them.

If these stores made the dealers sell less of the Trust tobaccos, the stores would be closed up.

The Advocate would like to see the Independent Tobacco Companies of the country enter into an active alliance with the grocer and cigar dealers of the Coast and teach these Trust hogs that the dealer is human and entitled to certain consideration.

The grocers and cigar dealers will see their profits dwindle and their trade be worth less and less if they sit idly by and let the Tobacco Trust dictate to them what they shall sell and how little they shall make.

MAKING COFFEE.

The retail grocer who will teach his trade how to make good coffee will find that it will help hold them as customers.

An Eastern manufacturer is printing the following directions in the country press to help sell his goods. The grocer could use them to good advantage with his customers.

How to Make Good Coffee.

Use good coffee, because to get best results you must use the best coffee.

Grind your coffee rather fine. Use a "tablespoonful to each cup, and one extra for the pot." First mix it with a little cold water, enough to make a thick paste, and add white of an egg (if egg is to be used as a settler), then follow one of the following rules:

1st With boiling water. Add boiling water, and let it boil three minutes only. Add a little cold water and set aside five minutes to settle. Serve promptly.

2d With cold water. Add your cold water to the paste and bring it to a boil. Then set aside, add a little cold water, and in five minutes it's ready to serve.

Three Dont's. Don't boil too long. Don't let it stand more than ten minutes before serving. Don't use water that has been boiled before.

Two Ways to Settle Coffee.

1st With eggs. Use part of the white of an egg, mixing it with the ground coffee before boiling.

2d With cold water. (Instead of eggs.) After boiling add a dash of cold water, and set aside for eight or ten minutes, then serve through a strainer.

WHERE DOES THE COST END.

The grocer buys goods from the wholesaler. He takes the invoice price and adds the cost of delivering the goods to his door. The cost of that article has not ended because there is the clerks wages for putting it up and delivering it to the consumer, cost of scales, horse feed, wagon wear, and a number of other incidentals before it is delivered to the consumer.

Should not the cost of delivering it to the consumer be made a part of the cost of the article before the grocer figures his profit?

The wholesaler adds five to seven per cent before he figures his profit. The dry goods man adds ten per cent.

Why should not the retail grocer add thirteen to fifteen per cent to an article before he figures his profit.

AN INTERESTING GROCER.

The salesman of a flour mill told a grocer, the other day, who had been making 70 cents a barrel on a brand of flour the salesman was handling, that the price had been reduced so that he could make 90 cents a barrel.

The grocer said: "90 cents a barrel is too much to make on flour. The selling price ought to be reduced."

Before this flour was put on the market the grocer made 8½ per cent on his flour and it cost him 17 per cent to 19 per cent to handle it. On the flour before mentioned, at 70 cents a barrel he made 14 2-7 per cent on the cost price or 12½ per cent on the selling price, and now he was asked to make 18 per cent on the cost price or 16 per cent on the selling price.

Now, because he is swapping dollars, when before he was losing 9 per cent on every sack he handled, he grumbles that it is too much profit to make.

I wonder how he would take the suggestion to reduce the large profit he makes on some other lines, he handles.

FISH.

New York, Oct. 6th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Company, report.

Imported Oil Sardines—France reports no catch and prices for the small stocks of sardines remaining in France, have been advanced by 2 or 3 francs per case.

Sprats—A few have been caught in France, but catch so far is shorter than last season. Contracts for delivery have been made at about 2 francs above last season's prices. Norway cables that catch of sardines has stopped altogether. There are no supplies and it looks as if smoker sardines will be scarce very shortly. Norwegian packers will not take any more orders at present until catch starts again.

Norway Mackerel—The largest percentage of mackerel caught in Norway this season consists of No 2s. Small or at that. All arriving parcels find eager buyers at full asking prices. Norway Mackerel are cheap at present prices.

HERRING.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The catch of Holland herrings has not improved and high prices will therefore prevail for the whole season."

CODFISH.

The codfish market appears to be in a firm, strong position. In the East the catch has not been up to the normal, and this has had the effect of strengthening prices on the Coast, which advanced from ¼ to ½ cent in the latter part of September, and are being well maintained at those quotations.

SPANISH OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"A cable from Sevilla, Spain, which we received on October 6th says: 'Olive crop a failure. Raise prices 10 per cent for the present; much higher prices will be the rule later on.'"

CRANBERRIES.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 30th—Peycke Bros. report:

"The crop of Cape Cod early crop cranberries has been reduced to about 50 per cent of last years yield. New Jersey will probably not produce more than 50 per cent or 60 per cent of previous years. Where Wisconsin growers expected 33,000 bbls. there is accurate information placing the crop at 21,000 bbls."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"There was a decided diminution in receipts of hay during the past week, due to the scarcity of cars. Owing to the large amount of poor hay marketed during the summer but comparatively little of the No. 1 grades was stored away here; now that there is a good demand for same.

"Practically all trading done is for local purposes. A car of strictly choice wheat hay will sell above quotations as will also a car of extremely choice tame oat free from rust.

"Other grades we quote as follows:

Choice wheat hay	$14.00 to 16.50
Good grades same	11.00 to 13.5
Other grades wheat	8.00 to 10.50
Wheat and oat	9.00 to 12.00
Tame oat	8.00 to 12.00
Oat and clover	5.50 to 8.50
Wild oat	5.00 to 8.00
Barley and oat	7.00 to 9.50
Stock hay	5.00 to 6.50
Alfalfa	5.50 to 9.00
Straw, per bale	.30 to .50

"THE TASTE TELLS."

This is particularly the truth in regard to hams and bacons. People are guided in their purchases of these provisions and of butter and eggs first of all by the appearance and next by the flavor.

The Diamond "C" hams and bacons of the Cudahy Packing Co. satisfy in both these particulars. In appearance they are very attractive, being cut from the very choicest animals, carefully trimmed and smoked by special process. The flavor is also distinctive since only the finest meat is used and great care is taken to see that the fine flavor is brought out and preserved.

Many retail grocers report to the Cudahy Packing Co. that they find their customers unanimously pleased with the Diamond "C" provisions. They report also that the sale of these goods has brought them much new trade

It is through handling products which are better than the average that retail grocers secure the reputation that brings people to their stores and makes them feel convinced that they will be satisfied with all the goods they may buy from this store. The high quality of a certain line is fair assurance that other lines will also possess the same high quality.

HE LIED OF COURSE.

Another paper, the "West Coast Trade," has this to say of the "Grocer and Country Merchant":

"Using an excerpt from the remarks of J. S. Goldsmith before the recent Washington State Grocers' Association convention as a text, Grocer and Country Merchant makes the false statement that "the position of the grocery business in Washington is simply as bad as it could be, and such is the result of these years of association work." As a matter of fact, it is the expressed opinion of both jobbers and retailers who are familiar with conditions existing in this State and California that trade relations are not only infinitely better here than in the South, but compare well with any portion of the United States. They are certainly better than they were a decade ago, and much of the improvement is credited to organization and co-operation among the retailers. The position of the grocery business in Washington is not "as bad as it could be." It might be as bad as it is in San Francisco, for instance. The Grocer's own columns contain this significant statement, which illustrates what that would mean: "From what we can gather, there appears very little doubt that the jobbers will shortly open out in the retail trade in this city."

Note.—For the benefit of our contemporary, we would say that the last paragraph is as lacking in truth as the first.

"The Retail Grocers numbering 600 petition that they be placed upon the free list concerning the disposal of garbage. It seems that we are the only class that are required to pay for this service although all of the grocers are taxpayers, and there are many who have this service free that do not pay taxes."

MAJESTIC.

Barney Bernard is appearing this week in Roland Reed's great success, "Humbug." He is well cast as a young German. The company is a strong one. This is Bernard's last week with Bishop's players. Next week James Neill and Edythe Chapman Neill and their splendid company will present "Janice Meredith." This is a dramatization of Ford's interesting story of Colonial times.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

There is a dandy bunch of girls at the Grand this week who add color and life to the production of George Ade's musical satire the "Sultan of Sulu." This is a clever skit which tells a funny way of the methods of Americans in our new possessions. The chorus of the company is very shapely and very good to look at and many of the young ladies sing well. The story is full of clean fun and has been drawing large crowds. It is to be followed on Monday evening with Jacob Litt's production of "In Old Kentucky." The company is accompanied by a clever pickaninny brass band which adds materially to the fun in the great race scene which is one of the most effective on the American stage.

CALIFORNIA.

"Sam DeVere's Own Burlesque Company" has been the attraction at the California this week. The company presents two musical comedies entitled "The Health Resort" and "Mifffffiff." Both of these combinations of foolishness are full of funny situations, backed up by a large chorus of shapely and well trained girls. There are introduced in the performance, specialties by Andy Lewis, a clever Hebrew impersonator; a comedy juggler; a good and funny quartette; together with a number of singers, dancers and musical artists. Sam DeVere was one of Billy Emerson's famous minstrels when the old Bush street theater presented its famous burlesque triumphs twenty years ago. Next week May Howards Company adds another spoke to the "burlesque wheel."

ALCAZAR.

The new Alcazar company dropped into the hurly burly of fun this week with a delightful naturalness. They tell "What Happened to Jones" and it would be easier to tell what did not happen to him. Chas. Waldron the new leading man added to the splendid impression that he made during his first week. Miss Moore was also charming and increased the interest established in her versatile self. Lenora Kirwin, the new ingenue, made a very decided hit as Helma, a stolid Swedish servant girl. Next week will be produced "The Crisis" which is a very interesting American play of the period of the late Civil War. This is a dramatization by Winston Churchill of his great novel and will be the first time the play has been produced in stock.

CENTRAL THEATER.

The doing of a lawless band of White Caps in Kentucky is the subject of the play at the Central this week. The drama has a splendid love story running through it and gives opportunity for splendid acting. The scenic effects are particularly interesting. It is to be followed next week by "Tracked Round the World."

FISCHERS.

There is a fine vaudeville program at Fischers this week. There are two performances every evening and a matinee each afternoon. The program is changed every Monday.

CHUTES.

The bill at the Chutes is headed by the Diamond Comedy Four. These clever people are one of a very interesting bill in the great free theater. The great Zarrow leaps the gap on his bicycle twice a day and divides the interest with the Circle Swing, the one and a half pound baby and the Zoo and the other attractions.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

McGaw Bros., of 401 Devisadero street have one of the finest grocery stores in the western addition, and are doing a most satisfactory trade.

P. Boisen of 8th avenue and Point Lobos avenue is making a fine display of fancy groceries and is rapidly increasing his already thriving trade.

Edward F. Henning, who recently bought the grocery of William Leuhoff, is making a number of changes principally in the way of securing additional show windows, and rearranging the interior so as to give it a more attractive appearance.

H. Muller of 1701 Devisadero street has leased the store adjoining his old corner and is fitting up with a complete line of groceries. The old corner will be devoted to the bar, which will now have additional space, and be more attractive than ever.

F. W. Meyer of Geary and Devisadero street is keeping abreast of the times with improved stock, which by the way is necessitated by his increased trade.

H. C. Meisell of 118 8th street in company with Mr. Stack has purchased the old grocery of B. Donnelly on Howard street, and is making a number of improvements. Meisell & Stack are wide awake to the interest of their patrons, and carry a complete and up-to-date stock.

E. Leibscher of 1000 Pacific street, where he has been for many years, finds trade very good this year.

Cochran & Brady of 707 Clement street are a firm of young and enterprising grocers, and have a most thriving trade, the evidence of hard work and careful attention to the wants of their patrons.

SPROATS OPEN AGAIN.

It is reported that Sproat of Sproat's Market fame, has opened a store in St. Louis which he is running on the same principal as that which enabled him to do up the San Francisco jobbers so thoroughly. It is said that he intends playing the wholesalers of St. Louis the same game that he worked so successfully in this city, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

"Out for the Dough."

"I don't care what the work is. I'll do anything you want. I'm out for the dough," said the young man, who had answered the advertisement to the manager of the firm that had advertised.

He didn't get the place.

"It was a case," said the manager afterward, "in which the young man subordinated everything that we valued to the one thing that in an employe interested us only incidentally. If he had said something about being anxious to be worth a good deal of money to us; if he had suggested that he was willing to work for the salary offered for a time only, and that he expected to prove to us that he could earn more than that, the impression would have been favorable. But the out-for-dough" idea in its raw state doesn't appeal to the average man who is hiring a man to do a certain line of work and wants the work done well."—The New York Commercial.

What Training Will Do.

Persistent effort will overcome almost all obstacles, and the same course will obliterate defects and acquire graces in their stead. The soldier in the field learns to take surprises as a matter of course and does not fly off into a panic at the stratagems of the enemy: the seafaring man accustoms himself readily to meet the dangers of his calling and face them with a cool head. In business the accomplished performer studies the chances of trade and cooly meets each turn of the market or the ingenuity of a competitor.

In setting out in any enterprise the rules of the game should be thoroughly mastered: there should be the objective goal, no matter how far away, and the determination to reach it. Every doubt of success entertained is like a traveler resting at an inn on a journey; the longer he views it the longer he pauses in his journey toward success. Doubts must be overcome and plucked out like rank weeds in a garden. Supreme self confidence—which is a vastly different thing from bombast, bluster and conceit—is necessary in any calling, as necessary in business as in a profession, and that attracts the confidence of others.

It must be based on actual knowledge, and no man of common sense will attempt to work successfully at a business or conduct it to sucess without understanding it in all its branches and details and knowing how the most intelligent and skilled operatives in each department form their deductions and perform their work. One may not have to do everything in relation to one's business, whether as employe or employer, but one should know what is required and how it is done. The ordinarily intelligent mind is capable of extensive training. Persistency and application are the trade marks of success.

Diplomacy in Business.

Joseph Choate, our former distinguished repre entative at the court of St. James, who has given place to Whitelaw Reid as American ambassador, when speaking at the farewell banquet tendered him by the British bench and bar, said of the heads of the British foreign office that they had always practiced the modern diplomacy and had made his duties pleasant and easy by "meaning what they say and saying what they mean, with never a card up any sleeve."

The modern diplomacy is also the modern and successful way in business. So quickly do men of affairs learn to distinguish between candor, "with no card up any sleeve," and subterfuge that the man who has only one way—the honest, open, truthful way—is he who continually gains in strength and ultimately wins.

Attracting Trade

As to Advertising Prices.

We hear a great deal, pro and con, as to the advisability of stating prices in the advertising of country store. This is a matter that should be given careful attention, and, for the sake of getting an argument started so as to find out where the more progressive of country store merchants stand on this question, we publish herewith a statement from William Baer of Baer Bros. Department Store, Frazee, Minn.

"I am in favor of country merchants advertising prices on goods," says Mr. Baer, "with the exception of a few staple articles. Among the staple goods, the prices of which may be safely advertised, are certain brands of coffee, tea, hats, shoes, etc., which only one dealer in town carries. By paying attention to his stock, a merchant can always find articles he alone handles. Advertise those in large letters. Staple goods in general have regular fixed prices which consumers are usually acquainted with, and it is not safe to tamper with or lower those prices for that would lead to competition which would result in financial loss to all dealers concerned.

"The merchant aims to draw patronage, and to please his patrons, and in no other way can be more successful than in advertising prices of goods. It makes a better impression on the people when they see prices given. It also induces them to patronize the merchants who do this, because, to know the prices beforehand, often saves time and travel. When they are acquainted with the prices they go prepared to buy, and not to 'dilly dally' with the clerks over how much they must pay for this, that and for the other thing. The advertising of prices of goods, therefore, also acts as an inducement. Often a person refrains from purchasing for he imagines an article will cost double what it really does cost and trusting to his imagination, instead of inquiring, he goes without, and thus the merchant loses a sale and the patron is deprived of what may have been a needed article. By having access to the price or prices, both parties are benefited."

Two Kinds of Window Display.

There are at least two distinct kinds of window displays, and both are useful in their way.

One is made with the general purpose of attracting and pleasing the passer-by and perhaps causing him to talk about the display, and thus incidently advertise the store, while the other is made with the specific purpose of directing attention to some particular brand, or some special line of goods, for the purpose of inviting such possible customers as may be attracted to come in and purchase.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Points to Watch

CANNED CORN—
There is an enormous pack of all except fancy Maine corn, which is in good supply.

RAISINS—
The crop is of fine quality and is decidedly short. The managers of the combine insist that if there is any change in prices, it will be an advance.

CANNED FRUITS—
All kinds of low grade fruits, except pears, have been practically sold out at first hands.

CANNED TOMATOES—
Standard 3's are being held for 85 cents in 10,000 case lots by local canners. Eastern buyers are offering 80 cents.

CANNED SALMON—
The Pacific American Fisheries Co. which holds a very large portion of the unsold sockeye salmon predicts that present prices will be maintained and a further advance made before next year's pack.

AMERICAN SARDINES—
Have been sold by packers below cost of production during the past three weeks. Many factories will close several weeks before the end of the season which will curtail the pack.

MACKEREL—
The Irish mackerel catch is a failure this year; the trade will have to replace it with Norwegian mackerel, which will be higher.

RICE—
Continual rains have greatly reduced an already short crop with the result that the market is higher.

QUALITY TELLS.

It Wins Friends for Diamond "C" Hams and Bacons.

Californians are good livers If given their choice, they will invariably pick out the goods that rank highest for quality. Price is a secondary consideration.

Wise grocers take advantage of this. They know that a customer who uses the Diamond "C" hams and bacon of the Cudahy Packing Company is going to be pleased. That customer is coming back for more. She is going to tell her friends about the hams that were so sweet and tender and delicious.

Experience has shown this to be a fact. Grocers who have put Diamond "C" hams and bacon in stock have found that it has increased their provision trade and brought them new customers.

JOBBERS AFTER SAPOLIO.

One of the largest jobbers in San Francisco has been cut off from their supplies of Sapolio for selling to a Los Angeles department store at cut prices. They have this week been among the other jobbers trying to buy Sapolio and have found it is not an easy thing to have a contract violated where the manufacturer is prepared to back it up.

Against Department Stores.

Wholesale Grocers of New Orleans Will Refuse to Supply Them.

A department store of New Orleans recently started a grocery department and several wholesale jobbers fell over themselves in attempting to get orders, although they knew that the department store would use its grocery department merely as an advertising scheme to attract trade to the more profitable departments of the store.

At the request of the Retail Grocers' Association a special meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association was called to consider the situation. The wholesalers decided that if the retailers were to suffer, the jobbers would also feel the effect of the depression. They also realized that if the dry goods stores were to demoralize trade conditions by cutting grocery prices, the jobbers would sooner or later have to look for other places to sell their goods.

The Wholesale Grocers' Association therefore passed the following resolution:

"Whereas, the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Orleans feels that it would be injurious to the commercial relations between the wholesale jobber and the retail grocers to encourage the selling of goods by the wholesalers to department stores, thereby opening channels for unfair competition with the retail grocers' trade; therefore, be it

"Resolved, That the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New Orleans place itself on record as condemning the practice of selling to department stores in competition with the retail grocers, and urges upon its members a discontinuance of selling to any but the regular trade."

The Retail Grocers' Association proposes to keep the country merchants of Louisiana informed of every firm which sells to the department store or other irregular dealers. Manufacturers who allow their goods to be sold in department stores will be urged to restrain their sale since the retailers cannot afford to handle goods on which the profits are eliminated by department store competition.

AN INJUSTICE DONE.

Last week the Advocate announced that all the leading wholesalers, except Tillmann & Bendel, had stated that they would not "butt in" to the grocery business of Los Angeles and would refuse to sell the big department store that is trying to upset desirable trade conditions in Los Angeles where none of the wholesalers will sell the department store in question. It now appears that only Wellman, Peck & Co have taken that stand, although several other firms gave Mr. Connolly to understand that they would not sell this department store.

It was reported by J. R. Newberry that neither Haas Bros. nor J. H. Newbauer & Co. would sell this department store.

There was no intention on the part of State Secretary Connolly to do the firm of Tillmann & Bendel an injustice and he stated merely what he was given to believe by the parties with whom he talked.

The action of the San Francisco jobbers in supplying this big cutting establishment is particularly unfair since, ordinarily, they would get none of its business and the only reason the store buys in San Francisco is because the Los Angeles jobbers are desirous of protecting the rights and profits of the Los Angeles retailers and have refused, without exception, to sell the big cutter.

LIQUOR LICENSES.

The question as to whether stores that sell liquor at retail shall pay $500 a year license instead of $84 is to be submitted for the vote of the people at the coming election.

The high license people will all vote "yes."

It only requires a majority of one vote to carry.

If the liquor dealers expect to have the proposition voted down, they must be out actively among their friends, otherwise they will forget to vote on it at all and high license will carry.

GROCERS' FRIENDS.

The Schmitz Ticket Presents Men Worthy of Their Support.

The present administration has always accorded every possible consideration to the retail grocers of San Francisco. Although over 1000 retail grocers carry bar licenses, none of them have ever been bled for graft. This is the best proof that the claim of the professional reformers that the administration is dishonest and corrupt is not true.

Although the reformers claimed they were going to "take the city government out of politics," every candidate they put up from Mr. Partridge down, is either a deputy in some office or an office holder in some other capacity. No a candidate is affiliated with the grocery business.

The ticket headed by Eugene E. Schmitz has four candidates whose interests lie with retail grocers. They are:

Joseph A. Stulz, retail grocer, for Public Administrator.

W. W. Sanderson. of Hooper & Jennings, wholesale grocers, for Supervisor.

P. M. McGushin, retail grocer, for Supervisor.

Con J. Harrigan, retail grocer, for Supervisor.

This is a safe ticket for retail grocers to vote.

These candidates appear on three tickets viz.: Union Labor, Independence Republican and Independent Democratic.

MAKING A HIT.

Popular Joseph A. Stulz Promises to Win His Fight for Public Administrator.

Joseph A. Stulz is making one of the "hits" of the present campaign in his contest for the position of Public Administrator. Mr. Stulz did not seek the nomination. It was tendered him and that, too, without any pleuges as to patronage or anything else.

The party managers knew him as a man of sterling integrity and good business judgment just the kind of a man needed for the position of Public Administrator and they tendered him the nomination.

Mr. Stulz has been overwhelmed with proffers of assistance from all parts of the city, but principally from the wholesale district where he has paid 100 cents on the dollar for the past 26 years among the drummers every one of whom he has treated with kindness and consideration at all times and from the customers he has served.

Mr. Stulz has proven a very successful campaigner. He is received as a friend wherever he appears and he has been addressing from two to three audiences every night for the past two weeks. His kindly, shrewd face and his crown of white hair, win him the audience as soon as he appears. He then chats with his auditors in a friendly, jovial way and soon has the crowd laughing with him (not at him) and has their respect and good will, which means that he will have their votes on Tuesday, November 7th.

Early in the campaign, some friend's face greeted Mr. Stulz with "Three cheers for Foxy Grandpa!" The name seemed so appropriate for the good natured, quick witted candidate, that the crowd took it up and now, at almost every meeting, some one hails him by that title.

Those who laugh at the Examiner's funny pictures on Sunday mornings will recall that "Foxy Grandpa" always comes out with the best of it in the end That is what "Joe" Stulz, the "Little Napoleon" of the grocers is going to do at this election.

FRANCK JOINS ALPINE.

H. W. Franck, for several years cashier of the Spohn-Patrick Co, has associated himself with the Alpine Evaporated Cream Co.—a valuable acquisition to this flourishing company.

PRESENT UNITED FRONT.

San Francisco Grocers Take Positive Stand in Flour Matter.

The San Francisco Retail Grocers held a very important and interesting meeting last Wednesday night, and decided on several measures of great importance to the trade.

The action of Stulz Bros. in giving premiums was fully explained by Joseph A. Stulz, who assured the members that, as soon as the matter was brought to his attention by the Retail Grocers, the practice was stopped, and that all his firm was now doing was to complete contracts that had been entered into prior to the receipt of the complaint, and that the phonographs were now being sold through canvassers at regular rates.

It was unanimously decided that the explanation of Stulz Bros. was perfectly satisfactory.

The report of the committee on the theater party was received, showing net profits to the Association of $261 20, and the money had been turned over to the secretary. The committee was then discharged with the thanks of the organization for their excellent work.

On motion of Mr Billo it was decided to place the funds so raised in a special fund to be used for the purpose for which the theater party had been held —to pay the dues to the California Retail Grocers' and Merchant's Association, and to pay the expenses of the delegates who attended the Stockton convention last August.

A further motion was made and unanimously carried to pay at once one half of the dues to the State Association and one half the expense money allowed each of the delegates, the balance to be paid as soon as additional funds could be secured.

On motion of J. P. McGuire it was unanimously decided to appoint a committee on ways and means for the purpose of raising additional funds for the above purpose, and President Salomon appointed the following: J. P. McGuire, J. F. Schomer, Clause Wreden, J. W. King, and Messrs Capella and Bogel.

The concensus of opinion was that another theater party would shortly be held, when the full amount required would be raised

J. T. Hurley of the committee having charge of the campaign against high liquor license made an interesting report, calling attention to the fact that the question would be on the ballot to be voted on November 7th next, and that it could be defeated only by the hammon, and hard work of all the trade interested in the liquor business.

The committee, working in conjunction with other liquor dealers, has raised several thousand dollars to be used for educational purposes in this campaign, and has opened headquarters in the Baldwin Annex on Market street.

J. M. Sullivan from the same committee called attention to the fact that it only required a majority vote to adopt the high license measure, and not a two-thirds vote as some grocers seemed to think.

J. W. King moved resolutions urging upon the millers that they establish a selling price on the leading brands of flour that would give the grocer an adequate profit and that they protect

But now the tendency is pointed in the opposite direction.

"The product of the Peoria plant is a substitute for coffee, known as Mocon, which we had expected to manufacture in our mills in Quincy by September 1. But owing to the sales of Egg-O-See, which during the month of July reached 61,000 cases—125 cars—representing the largest month's business in the history of the plant, we will defer starting the manufacture of the new product until next year.

"At that time we also expect to begin in Quincy the manufacture of rolled oats, which will then make three products for the local plant."

On the Pacific Coast the business of the Egg-O-See Co. has gone gorward in the past few weeks by leaps and bounds and in the past month has more than doubled.

Egg-O-See has been shipped in by the car loads—one car load after another, and, thanks to the advertising campaign carried on in its behalf, the retailers find it an exceptionally profitable article to handle.

MEETING IN OAKLAND.

Alameda County Grocers Discuss Trade Topics of Great Interest and Value.

By J. G. REED, Secretary.

The Alameda County Retail Grocers' ... March the Association held one of the most interesting meetings of the year just ending.

The special feature of the evening was a paper read by H. Hauch on the subject "Futures—Do They Pay." After the reading of the paper the subject matter was thoroughly discussed by all the members present.

Of those present the general feeling was that the adoption of the policy to discuss Trade Questions on the lines laid down was going to be of inestimable benefit to the members of the Association.

The paper so ably presented by Mr. Hauch will be published in another part of the paper.

After the usual order of business, the Secretary reported the action of A. Schilling & Co. and Spoon-Patrick Co. in stopping an advertised cut in prices on Schillings' Baking Powder, Extracts and Spices, and on Carnation Cream. The Association expresses its appreciation of the prompt action on the part of these firms in protecting the standard price of their goods.

Flour Question Discussed.

The Secretary reported in detail the meeting of a Committee of representative grocers from San Francisco and Alameda County with representatives of the flour mills. A statement of both sides of the question pro and con was given, and the members present expressed themselves as encouraged with the prospect of the mills doing what they had been petitioned to do 12 months ago.

The matter of a certain wholesale firm undertaking to disturb the harmonious prosperous conditions in Los Angeles by shipping goods to be sold at cut rate prices in that city was discussed. Much feeling was expressed in the matter and it was declared, that persistence along these lines, by the above offending firm will mean an entire loss of its business on this side of the bay. One fact in particular was brought out that this firm's patronage was with the small stores who felt seriously the competition of the piratical business methods of the cutters.

The Committee having in charge the preparation of the Educational program requested that every member be present at the next meeting and importune his grocer friends to come also as a paper is to be read by a representative of one of the San Francisco firms on the subject "Our Tea and Coffee Trade."

SIMPLIFIES BOOKKEEPING.

A System That Records Accounts as The Cash Register Does Cash Payment.

Every retail grocer can be benefited more than he realizes by a system that will enable him to save time in his bookkeeping and at the same time keep in better touch with the actual condition of his business. This fact has helped the success of the McCaskey Account Register. It is well to consider the following things:

The court says: "We don't want the ledger, we want the original entry." You have it on the McCaskey Duplicating Pad, and the customer has a copy of it.

The McCaskey Account Register keeps accounts, don't draw any salary and will pay for itself in the saving of clerk hire before you know it.

Keeping accounts in books is unkeeping them in many cases, as every time they are copied there's one more chance to make a mistake; it is like a story, every time it's told it's a little different. But keeping accounts in the McCaskey Register is right, because you only write them once, and they are correct.

Wm. A. Hawley, James Flood building, Market and Powell streets, is Pacific Coast agent. He will gladly forward any information desired. The McCaskey Account Registers are sold on easy payments.

the same, which motion passed unanimously.

E. B. Connolly from the State Association asked for the appointment of a committee of three to work with like committees from the State Association and the Alameda County Retail Grocers for the purpose of securing the unanimous action of the wholesale grocers in the matter of selling to a department store of Los Angeles, which is persisting in cutting prices.

Messrs. Lercke, Wreden and Lilienthal were appointed such committee.

The constitution was amended to provide that the regular monthly meeting of the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association should be held on the third Monday in each month, and the secretary was instructed to engage a hall in the new Crellng building on Eddy street.

DO "FUTURES" PAY?

A Paper Read by H. Hauch, Before the Alameda County Retail Grocers' Association, October 16th.

The subject which I am to introduce for your consideration this evening is one that for some time past has been occupying the attention of the trade all over the country. During the past few months I have seen a number of articles in the trade papers discussing this topic. From personal observation on this coast I know that it is also claiming considerable attention from the grocers on the Pacific slope.

If this question: "Does the buying of futures pay?" was directed to each of the individual members of the Grocers Association present here this evening, I have no doubt but that we would have a variety of answers, more or less conflicting with one another, and I shall frankly admit that good and plausible reasons can be advanced on either side of this proposition. The tendency, however, during the past few years, in a general way, has been to seriously question the wisdom of the policy of buying futures. That the question has been brought so prominently into the searchlight of late is undoubtedly due to the fact that last season was particularly unfavorable for the buyers of futures, so much so that in most cases considerable losses resulted as the direct result of the policy.

In order that I may get a starting point from which to argue my case I shall take the position that the buying of "Futures" does not pay, generally speaking. That the policy, in fact, is detrimental to the grocer and an obstacle to success. I shall endeavor in the smallest compass possible to give my reasons for the opinions expressed.

Tying Up Working Capital.

The first reason why, in my judgment, futures do not pay as a general thing is the well established fact that in the case of the large majority of the grocers the buying of "Futures" ties up an entirely too large portion of the working capital for a number of months, often crippling the storekeeper financially and generally making it impossible for him to take care of his liabilities when due. The effect of this condition is not only a weakened credit, which is bad enough, but what is even more serious and detrimental to the business success, it has the tendency to produce a worried storekeeper who frequently is not in the frame of mind to be easy and pleasant in the face of the many petty annoyances and incidents of which the average grocer's experience is filled to overflowing.

This tying up of large amounts in goods that have to be kept for months in a great many cases marks the difference between discounting and not discounting—quite a loss when the closeness of the general gross margin is considered. It also marks the difference between an easy minded man who is able to attend to his business with the vim and force that inevitably spells success and the individual who has lost part of his natural efficiency through the worry attendant on difficulties in promptly meeting his obligations.

Induces Price Cutting.

It frequently happens that a storekeeper who has been tied up good and hard with a lot of goods bought on "Futures" finds himself in a position where he has got to relieve himself either from a difficult financial condition owing to the falling due of large bills for goods which he has barely started to dispose of, or because the goods do not move as fast as he thinks that they ought to. This usually results in either case, in cutting down the margin of profit and frequently establishes a price which will be maintained all through the season.

Let us remember in this connection that this action on his part tends to establish this price in general, as other storekeepers, having likewise bought the same goods on "Futures," will be forced to follow the cut and the re-establishment of the original price which provided a fair margin becomes difficult thereby the advantages which might otherwise have accrued from a reasonably good purchase are thrown to the winds.

The merchant who is unhampered by "Futures" and can go into the market, money in hand, to provide his immediate wants, can select his brands in such a manner as not to conflict with the goods his competitors are sacrificing and will be able to make his margins, where as those who are long on "Futures" will be paring them down.

Shrinkage on Goods.

Another reason why I believe that the buying of "Futures" does not pay is the fact that, in a number of the articles on which "Futures" are generally negotiated ,the shrinkage in weight is so great that it frequently, yes, I might say, generally will onset the advances that will occur during the seasons, which are largely determined by this very factor of shrinkage.

Let us take the item of nuts for example.

You are all familiar with the fact that early in the season, when the new Brazils first make their appearance on the market, they can always be bought at prices very much less than that asked later on when the demand for these goods in a retail way commences. You also know that the reason for this is the fact that the shrinkage on this particular variety is very great, some 20 to 25 per cent, which again means that the nuts actually cost you one-third more than the price originally paid.

But while this is known to many grocers, it will perhaps be new to some that a very similar shrinkage takes place in the case of all other varities of nuts, particularly the almond and the walnut which, during the year, will shrink from 10 to 15 per cent in weight.

Citron and peel likewise lose heavily in weight during the season, as do also all varieties of raisins, loose as well as in clusters.

Let me suggest to some of you who have in stock full packages of some of the goods mentioned from last season's stock that you weigh them over to-morrow. I feel sure that such action on your part will furnish you very wholesome food for thought as to the advisability of investing your money in "Futures" along the lines mentioned.

Loss by Vermin.

Another loss by shrinkage which needs to be taken into account when discussing this subject, is that occasioned by rats and mice. It may seem petty to some of you to bring this matter into the discussion, but I am certain that quite a number of you have had enough experience with this former shrinkage to realize the seriousness of this feature. Most stores are infested with these pesky pests, and where large stocks of nuts and beans, etc., are carried, the losses accruing from this source will at times reach dimensions not dreamed of by those who are not in the closest of touch with their stock.

Two years ago we suffered a loss in one of our stores which amounted to not less than 10 per cent on the almonds and 7 per cent on our entire stock of walnuts. Where these goods are bought in a hand to mouth fashion, these losses are entirely done away with.

Butter and Eggs.

Only a few years ago, cold storage butter and eggs were in the merely experimental stages and did not figure greatly in the trade. As the experiments proved successful, it caused larger and still larger quantities of the yearly product of these commodities to be stored during such spells of the season when the supply was entirely too large for immediate consumption, thus checking the often ruinous prices prevailing in former years on these staples of commerce.

During the first few years of the development of the cold storage plants it, as a rule, paid well to buy futures in these lines, the supply being entirely inadequate to meet the public demand. This condition has passed, however, never to return.

Today, the country is filled with large, perfectly equipped storage plants, in which are stored enormous quantities of both commodities ready to be rushed to the market which offers if only a trifle better price than does the market geographically nearest to the plants. Hence if the price of butter in the West advances even ½-cent beyond the price that can be realized in Chicago, differences in the cost of transportation being considered of course, at once carloads of butter will be made up for the Western market and vice versa.

The inevitable result is a more and more stable price in these commodities with but scant chances for anyone who invests his money on futures in these goods.

Canned Goods.

It is difficult to set any rule to govern action as far as canned goods, such as tomatoes, corn and fruits are concerned. In these lines, the storekeeper must be guided by his knowledge of crop conditions and act accordingly. It is safe to say, however, that it is preferable at any time to buy short of these goods than to overload. If you happen to run short and can go into the open market with your money ready to purchase what you need, you will be surprised to find how near you can get the original opening prices in spite of the ruling spot quotations. As a matter of fact, many of the advances on spot goods after the delivery or contracts is finished, are only blinds to make the buyers of futures feel good and encourage them to repeat the experiment next season. If you are in market for any other goods so advanced, you can practically always get them at terms that will put you on an equality with the fellow who is loaded to the rafters.

The Logical Conclusions.

My personal opinion in the matter may be summed up as follows.

Buy no Futures as a general principal of your business policy.

Watch carefully the market and crop reports and use your udgment in covering part of your wants when prudence seems to so dictate.

Keep your head when the fellow on the other side of the counter gives you about forty reasons, more or less, why you should load up on his particular line of goods. It is his business to make you see the things the way he desires. That is what he is paid to do. Rather run on a stock a little too high than the opposite and secure all the advantages that promot payment and discounting always afford.

Let the jobber bear his own burden; let him carjry the stock for you to be drawn upon when needed. That is his legitimate function in the scheme of distribution. Don't permit him to stand in the position which he occupies today as a collector of an unearned fee for service he does not render unless you are ready to allow him his divvy for carrying a long winded account.

I feel certain that this advice if followed by the grocers in general will materially help to ease their conditions and, at least to some degree, lighten the burdens they are now staggering under in so many ways.

Cheap goods can be cheapened by the manner in which samples are shown in the window, and they can be heightened in value. at least to the eye, by the manner in which they are displayed. Throw down a lot of high-priced Java coffee on the window floor, and it will look like ten cent Rio, but show a handfull of the beans heaped upon a cut glass dish standing upon a piece of rich colored satin or plush, or show the beans upon a lacquered tray, and at least thirty cents will be added to their price.

How Lipton Defeated Misfortune.

A characteristic story is told of Sir Thomas Lipton by a shipper who knew him in London. A merchant vessel carrying a cargo of tea, and with plain Thomas J. Lipton, merchant, aboard, was threatened with shipwreck in the South Atlantic. A furious storm had driven the ship far out of its course. It was leaking badly, and threatening rocks rose in sight. Mr Lipton spent the last hour before the vessel was dashed on the rocks and lost in painting the words "Use Lipton's Teas" on the chests. These were afterwards picked up on various shores, and served to bring the merchant into his first prominence abroad. All the ship's company got ashore safely on an inhabited island, from which, after a few days, came a very creditable account of the shipwreck for publication in the London papers, signed "Lipton." The story that he furnished proved a great advertisement, introducing his name to the nation at large.

Advertising Catch Phrases.

There are times when even a practical advertising man is lost for lack of a catch phrase, a starter, in writing his advertisements. The following are taken at random from "1,000 Advertising Catch Phrases" published by "The Advertising World," of Columbus, Ohio:

A strong statement, but a straight fact.

Others as good, but not at this price.

Reward enterprise with encouragement.

Opportunities like this don't often occur.

A tempting price on tempting goods.

Seasonable savings for the economical

We want to make every day a busy one.

Look everywhere—these are best anywhere.

Some garments are guesses—these are results.

Anybody would think they cost you double.

We make money—you save money—at this price.

You might pay more—you can't get better value.

Now you get the pick—later you get the remnants.

We want you to see them—we're sure you'll like them.

Here's where you make your money make more money.

Even the Bees Were Pleased.

For the first time in many moons an effective window display has gone wrong. A grocer in Lancaster arranged such a realistic exhibit of honey combs that it attracted the admiration of some very good critics. These were a swarm of bees who happened to be passing by and devoured the entire display overnight. Far from discouraging the designer the experience ought to encourage to bigger efforts. For what better purpose could a window serve than to inspire all passers-by with similar strong desires, though in better conscience.—Merchants' Guide.

People are attracted by and freely purchase the goods that have a long and unsullied career behind them. A record of a generation or more, forms one of the most valuable of trade marks, and yet so far as the dealer is concerned there is hardly anything more destructive of public interest than the display of the same old brands.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture reports for last week:

"Conditions for raisin making and fruit drying have been favorable. The second crop of raisins is nearly out of danger. The apple yield is generally heavy and of good quality. The walnut crop is about two weeks late but will be of good quality and fair yield. The yield of honey is larger than that of last season. Olives are in fine condition."

SUGAR.

There have been two advances in refined sugar since our last publication each of 15 cents. This brings the price of dry granulated to $5.05. The advances were not expected by the jobbing trade as there have been no advances in the Eastern market. They are attributed to the feeling that the stocks of the Honolulu Plantation Co are comparatively low and that new grinding will not come in for some time yet.

New York, Oct. 17th—Raw sugar during the past week has been steady and rather more active although there have been no advances. Today there were sales of 9000 tons of Suba on a basis of 4⅝ cents.

New York, Oct. 10th—M. G. Wanzer & Co. report.

"Under pressure of the many Java cargoes arriving during the last week the market eased off somewhat. Europe continues to hold firm. That circumstance has lent encouragement to holders of cane sugar. While raw prices today seem very low and this should stimulate demand the element of stability has not yet been re-established. With this condition prevailing, the throwing of the new crops upon the different markets will find the world unprepared to take care of them unless further concessions are made."

New York, Oct. 5th—Willett & Gray report

Raws—The advance at the close of last week has been entirely lost during the present week. Centrifugal sugars, 96 degree test, closing at the equivalent of 3.61 cents as against 3.60 cents per pound at the close of last week. This reduction has taken place of an exceptional desire on the part of Cuban holders to dispose of their sugar at the best prices obtainable.

Refined—As we expected, the market has developed further weakness. The demand has been fair during the week. Buyers feel that the hand to mouth policy is the best to pursue for the immediate future.

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin Meyer Co. report:

"There has been little change in the situation since our last report.

"The New York market is easier. On account of December liquidation buyers there are holding off, a fact which has effected the local situation.

"No transactions in Central American futures are reported."

New York, Oct. 6th—M. J. Brandenstein & Co. report.

"The total receipts of Rio and Santos to date are 4,293,000 bags, as against 4,709,000 bags at same date last year and 5,030,000 bags same date two years ago. The total visible supply is over 1,500,000 bags less than last year and over 1,000,000 bags less at same date the year before last. On statistics, therefore, the article looks very strong. There will surely be some agitation of duty in December; and even if the duty is not finally put on, the agitation is bound to create a bull market. We strongly advise consumers to carry full stocks of desirable goods."

Consul-General Seeger, of Rio Janeiro, writes:

"The shipments from the interior to ports are much less this year than we expected. One reason of this is that owing to climatic influence the harvest was somewhat delayed, and another is the fact that the planters are in a better condition financially than they have been for the last two or three years, and are not compelled to rush their crops to the market as soon as harvested. Experts declare that throughout the coffee districts of Brazil the coffee trees are in a splendid condition; that quite a good many coffee planations that were about to be abandoned have been taken up recently and promise a good result, and that the harvest year 1906-7 may prove a record breaker."

TEAS.

New York, Oct. 10th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

Foreign Markets—All cables relative to stocks held in producing countries continue to report strong and active markets with prices ruling at the same range of values as noted in our circular letter of two weeks ago. Stocks of all teas are considerably smaller than held by tea men last year at this date.

Home Market—A fair run of business is reported by all directly interested in the trade. Prices hold firm and we predict continued strength during the balance of the season.

RICE MARKET.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Jap rices has advanced another 25 cents with prospects of going higher owing to the fact that continual rains destroyed the larger portion of an already short crop. We predict high prices for Jap rice, and advise purchases at present figures.

"Fancy head rice also advanced about ¼ and will go higher.

"Other rice remains the same with exception of Honolulu rice which is a little weaker."

New York, Oct. 10th—Dan Talmage's Sons Co. report:

"The trade generally are buying for needs only, but taking freely as wants develop. Orders are insistant as to prompt shipment, indicating stocks at low ebb. Buyers as a rule, deem prices too high, but those whose memories reach back two or three years, will remember that values are now somewhat similar to those prevailing in October and November, 1902, and 1903. This is especially true of Honduras sorts. Japan styles were then much higher.

At New Orleans, the market is strong with good demand. Rough rice is heavy firmly and millers assert that current prices of cleaned are not sufficient to reimburse cost and expenses of milling. Telegrams report heavy storms prevailing.

"In the Interior-Southwest Louisiana and Texas, planters and holders of rough rice claim (on account of the reduced acreage, diminished yield per acre and lateness of the crop) that the statistical position is much stronger than for several years past. As their product finds ready sale, as fast as offered, it would seem that buyers and sellers alike had a very good opinion of the market, for the near future at least.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note full prices obtained for the somewhat restricted business doing. Prospects for the new crop Burmah are encouraging. The crop in Japan while less than last year, is fully equal normal production."

Crowley, La., Oct. 6th—James M. Wright reports:

"Large sales have been made in Crowley during the last few days at full prices and there is an active demand for all grades. Stocks in all the larger markets are reported to be small and a very active trade is expected for the coming week. Japan grades are entirely too

THE DEMAND FOR Malta-Vita

The quality of Malta-Vita explains its rapidly increasing sales. Malta-Vita doesn't belong to the tasteless variety of flaked wheat foods. It's good to eat and the public is finding this out. Malta-Vita's crisp brown flakes are healthful, too.

NO PREMIUMS USED

Premiums are not given with Malta-Vita. It is sold strictly on its food merits, and intelligent people appreciate this fact.

high in comparison with prices paid for Honduras types."

Charlestown, S. C., Oct. 7th—Samuel G. Stoney reports:

"Crops are turning out so much shorter than was expected that farmers feel confident that Carolina rices must enhance in value."

Crowley, La.—The 'Rice Journal' reports:

"The production this year cannot possible exceed and probably will not equal the domestic demands. The Honduras yield has been good although not so good as was looked for just previous to harvest. It is still too early to form a correct opinion of the Japan crop as fully one-half of the Japan crop was planted late."

CANNED FRUITS.

The situation in canned fruits at present is unprecedented. The market has been practically cleaned of low grade apricots, peaches and plums. High grade fruit is still in fairly good supply. There are considerable of low grade pears.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Eastern buyers are in the local market trying to get Standard 3's at 80 cents which would be equivalent to 92½ cents landed in New York or about 88 cents if they were sent by sea. Most of the local canneries are holding out for 85 cents. Frisco, although a few would be prepared to sell at 80 cents in round lots. One of the large canneries this week sold gallon Standard to jobbers which opened at $1.90 for $2.50, with no discounts.

New York, Oct. 18th—Tomatoes are considerably strongeed. The syndicate is again taking up lots offered at cut prices. Sales are reported of 17,000 cases at 87½ cents factory, where $ is being asked generally. New York reports the sale of 5000 cases of California tomatoes due to arrive by steamer in February at 92½ cents New York with offerings at 85 cents Coast.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 7th—Wm. G. Michael & Co. report:

"The tomato market is firm with 3-lb. Standards at 92½ cents to 95 cents."

Perryn, Md., Oct. 9th—Jay F. Towner reports:

"The pack is over. Few packers have any surplus. If the people consume tomatoes at the high prices the jobber will have to buy and prices will jump."

Troutville, Va., Oct. 7th—Layman & Bishop report:

"The pack in Virginia is virtually over. It is about one fourth the normal. Fewer goods remain unsold on our market at this time than we have known for years. If the situation is the same in other states the market is sure to advance still higher."

East Newmarket, Md., Oct. 6th—Chas. Webster reports:

"The average tomato crop of Dorchester County is only 50 per cent of last year. The hold over of last year's strictly Standard goods is very small. As only men strong financially were packing this year, and the supply of full Standards is light, I don't see why they should not bring $1.25 per dozen before the next packing season as they will certainly all be wanted. I have seen Standard tomatoes sold at a higher price when there were, relatively speaking, more of them."

New York, Oct 5th—The present market seems to be made up of sellers of inferior stocks which has been rejected as deliveries on contract. A great deal of such stocks is freely offered and in some cases might be bought at less.

CANNED CORN.

Philadelphia, Pa.—The 'Grocery World" says:

"From all sections of the country, except Maine, come reports of a large corn pack and a very weak and depressed market. New York state corn is nominal at 60 cents but there is reason to believe that a bid at 60cents would get more than the bidder wanted. Plenty of Western corn could be got at the same price. The corn pack is greatly in excess of the demand. This seems to be understood so thoroughly that there are practically no bidders at the present time. Some of the large packers of Maine corn have notified the trade that they would deliver only 75 to 80 per cent of their orders. There is no evidence that the Maine corn pack was not even usually successful and this is believed to be a part of a plan recently adopted by the Maine packers to keep the market for Maine corn stiff."

Dexter, Me., Oct. 6th—F. H. Hayes reports:

"The pack of Maine corn is not nearly as large as was expected. Some of the largest packers in the State will deliver only 80 per cent."

West Poland, Me., Oct. 7th—Fernald Keene & True Co. report:

"The pack of fancy Maine corn was hardly up to the average. Most packers will fill orders in full although a few will make pro rata deliveries. The quality is fine. There is a good demand for fancy corn of high grade and the entire Maine pack will be shipped out early. Prices remain firm. The low prices on inferior goods have little or no effect on fancy Maine corn."

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 30th—Thos. J Meehan & Co. report:

"The low range of prices for corn is bringing some orders to this market. The consumption of it will no doubt be largely increased."

DRIED FRUIT.

New York, Oct. 18th—There is considerable demand for dried peaches with very light offerings. Apricots are quiet and prunes neglected. Spot seeded raisins are in moderate demand. Outside seeders are still offering fancy seeded at 7¾ cents but with few takers. Smyrna sultans are temporarily scarce and the market is firm and active.

RAISINS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association after selling a limited amount of fancy seeded raisins at 7¾ cents advanced them to 8 cents. The Fruit Canners' Association is a new factor in the raisin business but claims to be in it to stay. The Association is not meeting cuts and is selling considerable goods at full prices since they control the well known standard brands.

New York, Oct. 6th—The "Journal of Commerce" says:

"Buyers seem to hesitate to confirm orders. Representatives of Coast selling interests contend that the price are fully warranted by the conditions. The crop is estimated at about 2000 cars with no carry over as against 4000 cars last year. The experience of last year when prices were opened fairly high and almost immediately reduced is not likely to be repeated for the reason that outside of seeded, in which the bulk of the business is now done, the demand is light. Cutting of prices by the division of selling commissions is also largely eliminated since the brokers' commission is said to have been fixed at 2½ per cent instead of 5 per cent as heretofore. The available quantity of spot seeded raisins is small. Some holders advanced prices in fancy to 9 cents. Others still quote 8⅞ cents and some might be picked up at 8½ cents."

New York, Oct. 6th—A prominent broker says:

"The fact that the very limited number of outside packers with a very limited capacity made a price less than 8 cents on seeded raisins two weeks ago, has no real bearing upon the situation. The jobbers are afraid that with the high prices they will not make any money. They probably will not, as each one is afraid to advance his price to the retailer. The result is that the retailers will buy at about the same figure they did last year.

Fresno, Cal.—Vice President Tarpey of the Raisin Growers' Association says:

"If any change is made in the price of raisins, it will be an advance. More grapes are going to the wineries than was expected and the raisin crop will be smaller than we thought. The Association expected Eastern buyers to exhaust all sources of inquiry in an effort to secure goods at a low figure before buying. As soon as the trade finds that raisins cannot be obtained for less, the orders will come."

Selma, Cal, Oct. 5th—Owing to the dry weather this season the crop has been cured in exceptionally good condition and the quality of the fruit will average higher than usual. The products show high percentages of 3 and 4 crown raisins. The crop will be about 15 per cent short of last season.

Fowler, Cal.—The curing of raisins is almost finished. There is no doubt that the crop is far short of that of previous years.

Cigars and Tobacco

WAR AGANST THE TRUST.

The Dealers Endorse Aggressive Action.

At the recent meeting of the San Francisco Retail Cigar Dealers' Association, President J. S. Pany dwelt extensively upon the value of organization to protect the trade against the many hostile interests that are threatening its well-being.

His suggestions were as follows:

First—That the Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association affiliate with the national organization.

Second—That the "Independent" stamp be placed on all packages so that both dealer and consumer can distinguish them from trust goods.

Third—The appointment of a special committee to work with the "Anti-Japanese-Chinese League" and all Labor Unions, etc., to defeat the attempts being made by the Tobacco Trust for a lower tariff on tobacco and cigars brought in from the Philippines and protect American labor from the necessity of competing with coolies.

Fourth—To prepare a measure similar to the Atjen-Tawney bill.

Fifth—That steps be taken towards sending a representative of the Association to participate in the conference of independent tobacco growers, manufacturers and dealers which is to be held at New York, October 23rd to 29th in connection with the Independent Tobacco shows

Mr. Parry's suggestions were unanimously approved by the dealers present, and have struck the right chord in the general trade.

It is felt by all dealers who are independent of Trust domination that the time has now come when vigorous measures must be taken or the Trust will control all.

The suggestion that the cigar dealers can and should work together for the advancement of common interests has taken a strong hold on the trade, and bids fair to bear valuable fruit.

The more forces are working to beat back the Trust, the sooner results will be secured.

AMERICANS USE MUCH TOBACCO.

The United States leads all other nations in the total consumption of tabacco, while Belgium stands at the head of the tobacco-consuming countries so far as the per capita consumption of the "fragrant weed" is concerned. Germany and Russia are the only other two countries besides the United States which show a total consumption of over 100 million pounds.

In this country the total value of tobacco manufactures, according to the twelfth census, was in excess of $263,000,000. exclusive of the value of imported manufactures of tobacco and profits of all kins, which are comparatively high in the tobacco trade. The total government revenue of 65.8 million dollars constitutes thus a much smaller percentage of the total consumers' cost than in the European countries, with the possible exception of Germany and Belgium, where the tax on tobacco is comparatively small.

Great Britain does not produce any tobacco, but imports all she uses from abroad, principally from this country. The duties are very high, the average rate per pound being five times as high as in this country, with the result that, while the per capita consumption is relatively low, 1.95 pounds as against 5.4 pounds in the United States, the total revenue from tobacco is almost as high as in this country.

The taxation of tobacco appears to be highest in Italy, France, and the United Kingdom, and lowest in Belgium, Mexico, Germany, and the United States, in the order named. On the whole, it is true that the countries with the highest taxation show the lowest consumption and inversely, though there is no exact correspondence, for the reason mainly that, while the tax constitutes a very large portion of the consumer's price, high taxes or increased taxation may result merely in decreased consumption of the more expensive grades of the article and increased consumption of the cheaper grades.

MANY SWINDLERS AT WORK.

The arrival of the fall, which has stirred the trade to activity, has also aroused the dormant energies of those undesirable parasites who depend for their livelihood on an ingenuity not hampered by honesty. A few weeks ago several distributors and manufacturers of cigars were victimized by a smooth gentleman who presented orders for goods on the stationery of a large grocery house, says the United States Tobacco Journal. Later the same scheme was employed successfully with the American News Co., as the unwitting sponsor. The old telephone order game, in which goods are ordered by 'phone in the name of a regular customer to be delivered to a fake representative, has, we understand, already been tried a couple of times within the past few weeks, and we have no doubt that a number of new methods of securing merchandise without the formality of payment will be devised during the next few months. Altogether dealers would do well to remember that from this on till the end of the year is the period when swindlers of this character hope to reap their harvest, and keep their eyes open accordingly.

RANDOM NOTES.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. are meeting with excellent success with the Buffo Cigar—nickel size—which has become a favorite with many smokers of medium-price goods.

Al Ehrman of Ehrman Bros. & Co. has been confined to his home for several days with the grip, but expects shortly to be about again.

Major F. S Burrows, Pacific Coast representative of the Jose Lovera Co., and E. M. Schwarz & Co., has removed his offices to the Italian American Bank Building at 456 Montgomery street.

L. Cantor of 210 California street, corner of Front street, has been in the wholesale section for nearly four years, and for one year at the present location. He makes a specialty of high grade cigars, which compose the bulk of his trade. Cantor's cigar corner is known as one of the best stands in the down town district.

C. B. Poar, president of the C. B. Poar Tobacco Company, has sworn to a complaint charging Peter Gillis, a former salesman, with felony embezzlement. The specific sum set forth in the complaint against the accused man is $84, but the complainant declares that Gillis' shortage will run into the thousands. He had been in custody for some days pending an investigation of his accounts.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco writes that journal as follows: A. Santaella & Co. are taking on new men these days and are making 80,000 Optimo cigars a day. Even at this pace they find it difficult to keep up with their orders. The addition to the handsome factory begins to show what it will mean to the main building. It is of cream colored brick with soft gray trimmings, harmonizing perfectly with the main structure, the effect of the long, well proportioned building is most pleasing to the eye. It will undoubtedly be the gem in the collection of cigar factories on this continent if not in the world.

New York promises to be a Mecca for members of the tobacco trade from all sections during the week of October 23rd One of the most important developments of the week was the appearance of an official letter from Walter J. Friedlander, secretary of the Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association of the United States, announcing that the Executive Committee of the organization had decided to change the place of the annual meeting from Cincinnati to New York, and directing that it be convened in New York, Thursday, October 26th. This will bring practically all of the prominent independent manufacturers of smoking and chewing tobacco and cigarettes in the United States to New York during the week of the great Tobacco Exposition. The Independent Tobacco Manufacturers' Association is the organization which is directly responsible for setting on foot the investigation of the tobacco trust methods by representatives of the United States Government, which is now in progress.

ONE BEST WAY.

There is generally one best way and in bookkeeping it is the Perfection Short Credit System. Half of San Francisco's credit grocers are using it and the other half are steadily coming to it.

Mr. Rahlmaun, the prominent south San Francisco dealer, says: "It saved its entire cost to me the first month," and Allen & Baker of North Berkeley declare that 75 per cent of grocery accounts will be kept by this system in a few years more. If you don't know about it yet you had better write to the agent, P. E Lenfestey, 220 California Street, San Francisco.

THE "WHOLESALE" FRAUD.

A Dayton, Ohio, concern has been sending out representatives to sell groceries in carload lots, promising "wholesale prices" to the purchasers Not very long ago one buyer was rather suspicious when he looked at the bill, and decided to investigate. His bill amounted to $35.10, and upon comparing prices with the local grocery he discovered that the retail price for the same goods at home would have been $28.92. He refused to accept the goods and claimed that the order was obtained under false pretenses. They were not, of course, wholesale prices. The consumer who buys of mail-order and scheme houses never gets wholesale prices. Comparison through the entire list tells the tale.

crop are favorable. They compare as follows with the results of last season In 1904, sultanas 34,000, red raisins 6500 long tons; estimate for 1905, sultanas 45,000 to 53,000, red raisins 8000 to 9500 long tons. Stocks of last year's fruit are exceedingly reduced. It is estimated that there remain in this country barely 1500 tons of raisins, the greater portion consisting of low-grade and deteriorated wares, fit only for distillery purposes. Last year at this time the stocks carried over from the preceeding crop of 1903 amounted to nearly 10,000 tons. Rain affected the quality, although not the quantity, of both the raisin and the fig crop, and will have a bearing on future price conditions. Owing to the prospect of a small crop of raisins in Spain, a smaller output of fruits generally in European countries, and to the reports current that the California crop of raisins is likely to be 25 per cent short, prices here are ruling somewhat higher than the extent of the production this year would have ordinarily justified."

PRUNES.

Portland, Ore.—The dealers who contracted to deliver small size prunes had difficulty in doing so. Wholesalers look for a further advance in price before winter is passed.

Lebanon, Ore.—The prune growers in this vicinity are reported as having sold their dried prunes to Fortner & Laselle of Albany at 5½ cents per pound.

DRIED APPLES.

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 7th—R. E. Funston, Dried Fruit and Nut Co. reports:

"The season for evaporating apples in the Middle West is practically over. As most of the apples evaporated in these states for this season have already gone into consumption, the South and West will soon have to look to the Northeast for supply. Dried apples are strong and advancing due to the heavy demand and small supply."

Despatch, N. Y., Oct. 6th—Bown Bros. report:

"The receipts of evaporated apples are extremely small for this time of the year and seem to indicate even a higher output than we had anticipated. The demand thus far is much greater than the supply. We do not see where any large quantity of goods is coming from."

Middleport, N. Y., Oct. 9th—R. T. Chase & Co. report:

"Apples are so scarce and high priced that none of the big driers will buy at all."

Dayton, Ore., Oct. 2nd—D. A. Snyder reports:

"Our apple crop will probably not be more than 25 per cent of the usual crop. Oregon has the smallest fruit crops since 1897."

WALNUTS.

The Southern California Walnut Growers' Association reports that all No. 1's have been sold out at opening prices and few No. 2's are left. The crop is small, being between 6000 and 7000 tons, and the quality good.

New York, Oct. 18th—Spot walnuts are active. Grenobles are reported as low abroad. They are quoted, spot, 13 cents; French, 9½ cents.

Fullerton, Cal., Oct. 6th—Growers outside the Association say their walnuts will net them a little above the figures fixed by the Association. A price of 13 cents was fixed for the best nuts.

ALMONDS.

Yuba City—The almond growers outside of the Sutter Almond Association are having troubles. In the past, they have taken advantage of the prices made by the Association to sell their crops This year they could not get any information as to the Association prices. The result has been that they have held their goods while the Association members have sold theirs. Meetings of the independent growers have been held in the past few days and it is understood that they fixed a price of 13 cents for their nuts.

New York, Oct. 18th—Tarragona almonds spot are in good demand at 12 cents. California almonds are quiet.

BEANS.

W. C. Barnard & Co. in a circular of October 2nd report:

Limas—Owing to favorable weather conditions, a larger portion of the lima bean crop has been harvested prior to October 1st than ever before and, in consequence, offers have been free with the result that prices have declined to quite an extent. The majority of farmers are holding for 3 cents net to them. This is equivalent to $3.25 basis. In consequence, the market will probably remain steady at this figure. The future market will depend largely on the Eastern demand and the ability of the farmers to hold their beans. Quotations today are normal as follows: First half of October, $3.35; second half of October, $3.30; November, $3.25.

White Beans—The crop of Lady Washington's is not large and present price of $2.50 in straight and mixed cars is certainly reasonable.

Small Whites—The market is firm at $3.25 in straight cars and $3.40 in assorted cars.

Mexican Reds—Will be cheaper this year than heretofore. They will probably rule in the neighborhood of 3 cents.

Garavanzos—Are closely cleaned up and are firm at $3.15.

Blackeyes—Are scarce. The crop is only about ¼ of what was expected Prices are firm at $4.10 to $4.20.

Binsheimer Bros. report in a circular of October 4th:

"Lima beans have declined. Growers in the interior are being sold at 3 cents and are not willing to accept less The crop is large and there should be a good demand at this price. Bayos show quite a decline from last weeks quotations. Black eyes are in short supply and in good demand."

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 10th—Carson, Craig & Co report.

"The bean crop of Michigan has been harvested in much better condition than that of last year. The weather was ideal for taking care of the early beans and they were ready to market by being run through the machine picker, but the late crop was subjected to heavy dews, which to some extent, impaired the color of the beans and caused a higher percentage in picking, running from four to seven pounds to the bushel. The movement of the early crop has had a tendency to lower prices, but farmers will not rush their crop forward at the decline, especially as the higher percentage in picking reduces the price materially. With the high prices prevailing in all other commodities, $1.25 per bushel for choice hand picked beans, at country points, looks like a very low price. The crop of our state will be about 3,500,000 bushels which is very light."

HONEY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 7th—A big shortage in honey is reported from all centers. Reductions are being made because honey contains glucos. While consumption is on the increase, it is estimated that the production is fully 40 per cent short.

CANNED SALMON.

In their circular announcing the advance in prices on sockeyes to $1.50, talls, $1.60 for flats and $1.05 for halves as reported in the Advocate last week, the Pacific-American Fisheries Co. announced:

"The shortage of high grade Columbia River chinooks, coupled with the comparatively short pack of sockeyes, has greatly stimulated the demand for the latter. Fully two-thirds of the sockeye pack has already been sold; or, in other words, out of a pack of about 760,000 full cases, not to exceed 250,000 remain in the hands of packers. There is sure to be a short pack next year, and prices for 1906 will be on a higher basis, we therefore confidently predict that present prices will not only be maintained, but that there will be a still further advance before prices are named on next year's pack.

"Our sales of cohoes are the largest in the history of our business. The distribution of red Alaska has been on a large scale Spots have been practically all sold, and few, if any, futures will remain in the hands of packers. This applies to all packers, both large and small. The canneries we represent will not have a surplus to exceed 2000 cs There will not be enough medium red packed to cause even a ripple.

"The total pack of Alaska chums and pinks will not exceed 150,000 cs. The pack of humpbacks on Puget Sound will about 80,000 cs. No canneryman on Puget Sound will be foolish enough to pack chums this season unless there is a material advance on low-grade fish, for even at 70 cents a dozen there is no profit in the business. Salmon prices have hit bottom and an advancing market is now assured."

New York, Oct. 18th—Salmon market is dull. Small sales of sockeye flats are reported on the basis of $1.50, Const.

FISH.

New York, Oct. 12th—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co report:

Norway Mackerel—Since last week the market has shown a decided improvement, and prices on Blotters, 1's and 2's, have been advanced about $2.00 per barrel. Some shippers in Norway have added advances also on No 3, but receivers here are not refusing offers at, or about, last week's prices. Norway No. 3 mackerel are certainly cheap and are quite sure to go higher. They are lower today than Irish, and Norway mackerel are well known to be far superior in quality to the Irish.

Holland Herrings—Shipments are becoming larger and prices have given way

Imported Oil Sardines—There is no catch in France and prices are very firm In Portugal, there is no catch of small fish and demand for the same is very good Sprats—Are scarce and higher. Stocks are gradually clearing.

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Trustworthy reports confirm the failure of the Irish mackerel catch. Norwegian mackerel will therefore take the place of Irish this season So far as quality is concerned, the change is an excellent one, but prices will be somewhat higher than last year as the small Norweg an mackerel command a better grade than the Irish of the same size."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"In Old Kentucky" is proving its popularity this week at the Grand. The company is a good one and the pickaninny band helps add to the fun. The great horse-race scene is full of excitement. On Sunday matinee and night, there will be two performances of "Peggy from Paris." A mammoth production of "Ben Hur" is to be given soon.

THE ALCAZAR.

In "The Crisis," the Alcazar company has been doing some splendid work. The story of the play is of intense interest, dealing with incidents just preceding the Civil War and the company brings out all its best points. Charles Waldron plays the part of a serious intense young Northerner with splendid effect. Lucia Moore is pleasantly suited to the role of the ardent young rebel girl. Miss Kerwin is splendidly cast as a vivacious and fun loving girl. The costuming adds materially to the attractiveness of the play. The elaborate scenic effects and the dash of military spirit all go to make up a very interesting performance. On next Monday, "April Weather" will be given its first production in this city.

THE MAJESTIC.

Good houses have rewarded the production of "Janice Meredith" by the Neills. Both James Neill and Edythe Chapman Neill are well cast and the company supplies strong support. The play is a dramatization of Paul Leicester Ford's successful novel of the same name. The staging has all the elaboration accorded his productions by Manager Bishop and this adds to the realism of the story. Frank Bacon is to appear next week in "The County Fair."

CALIFORNIA THEATER.

The May Howard Musical Extravaganza this season, is beyond question the best show which Miss Howard has ever produced, and she has always been identified with good shows. "M'lle. Fi," the opening musical satire at the California, and "The Rounders," the closing burletta, in both of which the full company appear, have caught the public fancy everywhere. The fine specialties, combined with the art pictures posed by living models, also contribute to make the show a big winner. They are to be followed next week by a new burlesque show with the luminous title "The Star Show Girls." The company is announced as being one of exceptional merit and in verification of this statement the following partial roster of the names of several of the principals are given: Ten Brooke, Lambert & Co., The Toreador Trio, Carney & Wagoner, Nolan and White, Day and Vestal and Detta Venton. "The Star Show Girls" claim to have more and prettier girls, a larger and better chorus, funnier "cut-ups" and comedians and a more gorgeous display of costumes, scenery and properties than is possessed by any of its contemporaries.

CENTRAL THEATER.

"Tracked Around the World," a melodrama based on Jules Verne's great novel, "Around the World in Eight Days," is the attraction at the Central Theater this week. In "Tracked Around the World," the entire Central company appears and the services of nearly fifty extra people are utilized. The story of the chase around the world made by a Chicago detective, seeking a notorious diamond robber, lends plenty of excitement to the play, which also has a pleasing love story in it and plenty of good comedy. The drama is laid in Chicago New York, San Francisco, Paris, Madrid and other foreign cities and gives every opportunity for the display of gorgeous costumes, glittering scenic effects and the introduction of many specialties. "The Girl Engineer," a drama written by Charles A. Taylor who was once a railroad man, is the offering for next week.

FISCHER'S.

There is a fine high class vaudeville show at this popular priced house which is living up to its motto: "If its at Fishers, its good." There are two performances each evening and a matinee every afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

THE CHUTES.

The big free theater has a number of very interesting headliners this week. Among the special features is Arnoldo's jaguars, panthers and leopards. The whole bill is strong and there are some new and funny pictures on the biograph. The numerous concessions are all interesting.

The Spohn-Patrick Co., agents for Carnation Cream, have just received the following telegram from their principals, the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Co., manufacturers of this popular cream:

"Just received wire of having the gold medal on Carnation Cream at Lewis and Clark Exposition."

This fact is a high and deserved tribute to this splendid article—one that is more generally sold on this coast than any other of similar character, and which is recognized in tens of thousands of households as the best and most economical condensed cream on the market.

Carnation Cream is produced in a country where the conditions are extremely favorable for the production of a high class article of this character.

The country around Forest Grove, Ore., and Kent, Wash., is almost entirely devoted to the dairy industry. Many of the most successful stockmen in the United States have located there because the climate and general conditions are conducive to the best results.

Grass and clover thrive there the year round; hence the cows at no time are reduced to dry feed, and give more and richer milk than is secured in many other places, and being in the open twelve months in the year get the requisite amount of air and exercise.

Before each milking the cows are examined by special inspectors and veterinarians, and if at any time a cow is found to be diseased she is promptly isolated from the herd.

The milk is taken directly to the factory, which is never far from the place of milking, and is evaporated to the consistency of a cream.

It is then sterilized, which process entirely eliminates all danger of disease germs.

A NEW BANK.

The National Bank of the Pacific opened on September 20th in the Call building with the following officers President, Z. S. Eldredge; vice-presidents, Walter J. Bartnett and Allen Griffiths; cashier, M. J Haynes, and assistant cashier, Alex. S. Heedan.

SPROATS OPEN AGAIN.

It is reported that Sproat of Sproat's Market fame, has opened a store in St. Louis which he is running on the same principal as that which enabled him to do up the San Francisco jobbers so thoroughly. It is said that he intends playing the wholesalers of St. Louis the same game that he worked so successfully in this city, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

Greatest Bargain Ever.

A thorough grocer can buy one of the best established and best paying grocery businesses on the Pacific Coast in one of the finest residence towns of California.

Proprietor intends retiring from business. References: Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, or any wholesale grocery house.

A five years' lease will be given—moderate rent.

Value of Enthusiasm.

No one can rise above the commonplace unless steeped and immersed in the vital fluid of enthusiasm, says a writer in the Business Men's Magazine, and thus continues:

A prominent writer states: "Nothing is so contagious as enthusiasm; it is the real allegory of the tale or Orpheus. It moves stones; it charms brutes, and even truth accomplishes no victories without it."

These be strong words A wonderful tribute to the mighty power of this quality. But who shall say they are overdrawn? And Emerson, that sage who each year receives added honor, because of the clearness of his vision, writes, that "every great and commanding movement in the annals of the world is a triumph of enthusiasm."

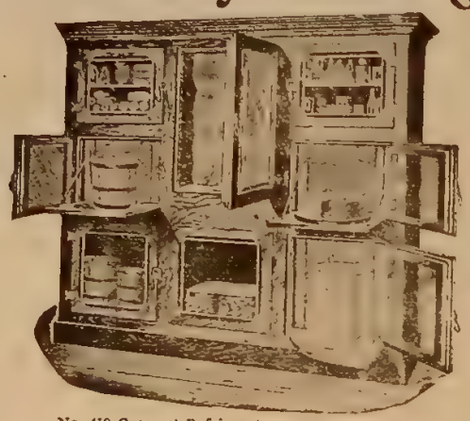
Surely the power of this force must be mighty beyond compare when it can lay claim to being the mainspring of "Every great and commanding movement in the annals of the world."

"There are no Alps," said Napoleon, when his generals informed him that it was impossible for his army to cross the famous mountains for the invasion of Italy. So great was his enthusiasm, so absorbing the task he had in mind that it dwarfed the obstacles which interposed and actually reduced mountains to mole-hills; and the great warrior over-looked the heights to the victory beyond, and, standing on the pinnacle of his enthusiasm they seemed but a range of common hills, a temporary pause in his triumphal march. This contagious enthusiasm was communicated to an army, the Alps were subdued, the impossible way accomplished, the victory was won.

Developing an Employe.

A few notable successes have been made in the industrial world through what is known as the "one-man organization." But I believe with Andrew Carnegie, writes Richard W. Sears, the Chicago merchant, in System, that in the great mapority of cases it is the men you choose as subordinates that make your success.

Select your men carefully and at the right time—then give them a free rein within certain well-defined limits. This attitude toward employes I believe underlies the success of a large number of big businesses Many a hundred dollar man remains a fifteen dollar subordinate because not given any latitude and not allowed to develop. The head of a concern may have an employe off in one corner of the office who is in reality his superior in ability, if he were given carte blanche to take the initiative.



Take Men From Ranks.

It is far better to select an employe when young and start him in at $10 a week, educate and develop him, than to transplant a man from some other business and put him into a position over the heads of old employes. Let your employes grow up with you. Having selected an employe give him a chance and a thorough trial, and ascertain what he can do and just what his limits are. In this way only can be determined whether he is a fit employe or not. Give this employe a wide latitude and discretion over little things and observe the results over a considerable period of time.

Men learn only by the mistakes they make. An employer should expect and should encourage his men to take the initiative and make mistakes. Only in this way can they gain experience. This method of handling employes may be expensive in its early stages, but it is the only proper schooling for a position. No man can learn to be a "crack shot" unless he wastes some ammunition The employer should stand the expense of the experiments made by a new man who shows ability; it will pay in the long run. If mistakes continue and positive results do not come, the man must go. But one the other hand, if, after a trial of this kind, a man's case reaches this stage, he will remain stationary. The point is to allow the latent talent in every man to develop.

Spokane—W. H. Warren has started a grocery and meat market to be known as the Baltimore Market. Metcalf & Son have bought out the Washington Grocery, Boettner & Norvell proprietors. Mrs. Henry Wallace has sold her grocery to A. H Carter. The Baltimore Market, groceries and meats, has been opened by W. H. Warren.

OIL WASTE

Your old method of storing and handling your oil is costing you money every day by the waste from dirty, sloppy measures and funnels, by evaporation, by over measure, by loss of time and labor—It's all dead loss.

THE BOWSER — SELF MEASURING — OIL TANK

prevents this waste and so really costs you nothing as it will in less than a year repay its cost through its saving. It keeps on saving too, year after year.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

STULZ.

Joseph A. Stulz is known to all grocers as a successful business man who can be trusted. For 26 years he has paid 100 cents on every dollar he owed and has been a good neighbor. He is now a candidate for Public Administrator. Every grocer, clerk, drummer and wholesaler should vote for him.

CANNED TOMATOES.

Canned tomatoes, 3-lb. Standards, are now selling for 97½c in the East. The freight is about 12½c a dozen. This gives local tomatoes a East. This gives local tomatoes a valuation of 85c. As $1 to $1.15 is asked for tomatoes in the East and these prices are expected by many, it can readily be seen the California tomatoes at present prices are good property.

RICE.

Japan, Carolina and Honolulu rices have advanced sharply in the past few days, with further advances probable as the condition of the crop is fully realized.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

Are now being sold by Eastern packers at less than cost of production.

SIMPLE AND EFFECTIVE.

An Account Register Which Reduces Merchants Labors to a Minimum.

Wm. A. Hawley, Coast agent for the McCackey Cash Register, reports increased interest in that system of keeping accounts.

This register supplies the merchant with a wonderfully simple but effective system of keeping his accounts without regard to whether they are one hundred in number or fifteen hundred. It does for accounts what the cash register does for cash sales. It enables the merchant to know every night just what cash sales have been made and what credit sales. It keeps every account balanced and requires no more time to keep up than is required for a clerk to go to the cash register.

A glance at the advertisement on the first page of the cover will show to a limited extent something of this system. Full particulars can be secured by writing to Wm. A. Hawley, James Flood Building, San Francisco.

DEPARTMENT STORES.

Problem of Protecting the Retail Trade From Dishonest Competition.

The "Trade Index" of New Orleans, in commenting upon the attempt of the retailers of that city to secure protection from unfair and dishonest competition, says:

The New Orleans Retail Grocers' Association has at last taken definite action in relation to the matter of local jobbers selling to department stores, and determined that, in future none of the members of the organization will purchase supplies from jobbers so offending.

This is as it should be.

But the difficulty now confronting the retailers lies in the evident inability to determine what firms are and are not furnishing goods to the department stores.

All of them glibly promise to protect the interests of their legitimate patrons, and, taxed with a violation of that promise, all as glibly enter denials; so that it is hard to locate the real culprits, more especially as it is manifestly impossible to secure the information from the department stores themselves. Nevertheless, it is a self-evident proposition that some of the jobbers are guilty of double dealing in the matter, since the Canal street window of at least one department store—Krauss & Co.—is filled with a display of groceries that are marked down, in many instances, below cost, that are procurable by that concern only through the local jobber, some concern or concerns that have not hesitated to violate a pledge to the retail trade in order to pocket a few extra dimes.

It is a reflection upon the character of our grocery jobbers that this fact should exist; yet exist it does, and it remains for the retailer to get to the bottom of the matter and apply corrective measures. That he must do if he expects to win out in his fight for fair trade and a livelihood.

In this connection we are glad to learn that several manufacturers whose goods are extensively handled in this market have elected to side with the retail grocer in his struggle for a square deal, and to that end have withdrawn certain concessions from all New Orleans jobbers who can be proven to have sold goods to the department stores.

Again we say, this is as it should be; for the retailer, when all is said, is the closest business friend the manufacturer has. The jobber may handle his goods en route to the final distributor, but it is the retailer who pushes the sale to consumers, and who has it in his power to increase or diminish the demand for any line of goods on the market, and he is, therefore, logically the one whose interests the manufacturer should strive to protect.

As suggested above, however, the difficulty is to induce ALL jobbers to tell the truth in regard to such a matter as this; and unless proof can be secured in individual cases it will be futile for manufacturers to attempt to control the situation, just as it will be useless for the retailer to attempt a final correction of the evil.

Secure proof of the individual jobber's treachery, and the proper remedy can be applied. Not otherwise.

Drummers to Entertain.

Theater Party at the Majestic for the Benefit of the San Francisco Commercial Travelers' Association.

The annual benefit of the S. F. C. T. A. is to take place at the Majestic on Thursday evening, November 2d. "The Lottery of Love," a very interesting comedy drama, is to be the piece for the evening. It will be interpreted by James Neill and his clever company.

The advance sale of seats has been very heavy. Every box was taken long before the box office was open. Among those who will occupy boxes will be Mayor Schmitz, our next Public Administrator, Joseph A. Stulz, and the Fusion candidate for Mayor, John S. Partridge.

An elaborate program has been arranged which will be full of funny jokes and interesting matter that will make it really a souvenir.

The committee in charge of the entertainment consists of Emmett Dunn (chairman), H. H. Becker, C. C. Miller, J. H. Horstmann, P. Lange, J. E. Brandon, Nick Marisch, J. D. Warde and Harry Mahoney. This committee has been assisted very largely in its work by President Henry Heintz and Recording Secretary M. B. Mergen.

DALLAS IN 1907.

Texas Boomers Want Next National Grocers' Convention.

Dallas, Texas, Oct. 10, 1905.

Editor Advocate — The undersigned members of the Dallas Retail Grocers' Association beg to advise you that this city, through our association, will ask for the 1907 convention of the National Grocers' Association.

Dallas has a splendid organization of live, progressive, enterprising grocers.

Dallas and Texas have ever been loyal to the National Association in all things.

Since the Milwaukee convention in 1902, when Dallas had one lone delegate in attendance, she has never since failed to pay her per capita tax and send delegates to the convention.

The North, East, Middle and Far West have each had the honor of entertaining the National—the South or Southwest never.

The association movement, already strong in this section, would be stimulated in this city. Texas is now attracting the eyes of all the world, and a trip to the state would be interesting, instructive and entertaining to merchants from other states.

Come and see the biggest and best state in the Union.

Dallas will send a carload of grocers to Niagara with instructions to bring the convention or walk back.

All roads lead to Dallas, and we will guarantee you low rates and a chance to see the whole of Texas while you are here.

Dallas has never had a case of yellow fever. It is not in the fever zone.

Come to Dallas in 1907.

Respectfully,

Chapman Thomas, Chairman; J. E. Jameson, W. L. Vaughn, T. B. Carey, Geo. L. Schmucker, Julian Capers, Committee.

GROCERS MEET.

Committee of One Hundred Hold Important Meeting.

A meeting of the committee of one hundred grocers was held at Krelling Hall, 32 Eddy street, on Tuesday evening, October 24th.

Chairman H. B. Arnold called the meeting to order with a few remarks at 8:30 p. m., explaining the purposes for which the meeting was called.

Secretary Connolly then explained the flour situation and the progress made up to date. He stated that the directors of the Pacific Coast Association were in San Francisco at a conference and he wanted them to address the committee of one hundred so he arranged this meeting.

Mr. Hauch of Alameda, one of the directors of the Pacific Coast Association and also California State Association delivered an address on "Profits."

F. B. Fancher of Sacramento, President of Pacific Coast Association delivered an eloquent address on "Co-operation; the Power of the Retailer." He also told how the Sacramento Association is getting profits.

J. R. Newberry of Southern California addressed the meeting on the result of his conference with the manufacturers in the East; how they bought about conditions in the South and how San Francisco jobbers, with one exception were allowing themselves to be a party to the disturbing of favorable conditions down there.

Mr. McCaw, Mr. Watkins and Mr. Lehrke took part in the general discussion that followed.

F. B. CONNOLLY,
Secretary.

BRINGS NEW CUSTOMERS.

The San Francisco branch of the Cudahy Packing Co. is daily in receipt of letters from all sections of California expressing satisfaction with the high quality and easy-selling character of their Diamond "C" products.

The Diamond "C" goods are the choicest of high class products brought from the Chicago market. The animals from which the Diamond "C" hams and bacon are made, are carefully selected and the entire process of curing and smoking is followed with the greatest care. The result is a product that cannot be surpassed for either fine appearance of delicious flavor.

It is worthy of note that the correspondents of the Cudahy Packing Co. unite in insisting that their hams and bacon trade had largely increased since they have made a specialty of Diamond "C" products. This means that the goods are so particularly fine that each satisfied customer tells numerous friends who go where they can get the goods that are a "little better" than the average run.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement on page 4 of this week's Advocate.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Keep posted.

A very large crop of cane sugar is in sight.

Keep the pickle jar covered, also the keg of fish

How are the "grocery clubs" flourishing in your vicinity?

A cheese cutter is a time saver, especially in the busy season.

Fine foreign figs are getting high and it is hard for the shippers to fill orders.

Take off the screens and clean the doors and windows. Probably they need it.

Olive oil has a great medicinal qualities. Advertise it on this proposition.

How is the bakery goods department doing? Making its full share of profits?

Do you know how much you have made (or lost) on fresh fruit the past season? Many grocers do not.

It is said that American sardines are being sold considerably under cost owing to competition among the packers.

Don't be afraid of a line just because it is new. Give it a fair trial and then if it does not prove a good seller, throw it out.

Tea is selling much better. The retailers' old stocks seem to have been well cleaned up and they are in the market very generously.

A little overweight on each sale of sugar or dried fruits or other lines will soon amount to a respectable sum. Give full weight but no more.

Keep the stock well sorted up. If you are out of any popular line it gives the farmer a good excuse to send to the retail catalog house for it.

It is predicted that the evaporated apple output of New York will not exceed nine hundred carloads this year. This is but one-third of last year's product.

Walnut prices are high. France has barely more than half the crop of last year—Grenobles and Marbots being practically non-existent—and figures are high.

There is a big corn pack without a doubt in all states but Maine. The market is easy and some very choice bargains in corn have been offered the trade recently.

Read up on the food laws of your state. Even if the jobber does guarantee your goods it will do no harm to post yourself. The information will be useful.

Foreign almonds are quite strong. Filberts are stronger in primary markets but easier here. Shelled walnuts are very strong and each cable notes a further advance.

Work for better quality in your groceries al the time. There is more profit in higher priced goods and more satisfaction in selling them. Besides you won't have so much trouble with the food department.

Coffee holds steady and it is generally believed that the market will hold its strength indefinitely. All reports from the primary markets indicate continued short receipts and a much smaller visible supply than last year.

To read all the reports that come out of Maryland in regard to the tomato pack, one would arrive at the conclusion that not to exceed a hundred and fifty cases had been put up in the whole state. Let's hope it is better than that.

Look out for box car merchants at about this season. This is the time when they get in the best licks Notify the food commissioner as to when the goods are to be delivered and he will see that everything is legal, anyway.

All our successful retailers adopt the policy of assuring patrons that satisfaction is guaranteed or money refunded. There must be no question of the customer's statement, no debate, simply exchange the goods or hand over their cost. It means trouble, frequently injustice, but it is death to a store to argue with a consumer.

Columbia river salmon—sockeye and chinook—have proved to be a small pack and are already practically out of first hands. This is true, in fact, of nearly all varieties of this fish. The season is over now but when the demand opens in the spring it is not unlikely that higher figures will be asked than those that now prevail—and they are high enough.

Some of the freight associations are talking of advancing the classification on crockery shipped in cereals shipped as premiums. It is contended that making a cereal rate on crockery thus shipped is a violation of the interestate commerce law as it is much lower than crockery shipped as such. This may help to solve the premium problem, if not that of the coupons.

Almost without exception the trade is against the proposed tax on coffee. "If there is to be a tax," says a broker, "it ought to be an ad valorem one, anyway, and not a straight duty of three cents a pound. There would not be any justice in the latter method." It is understood that the chief friends of the duty are the large holders of coffee in the east and the cigar and tobacco interests who fear that if the duty is not put on coffee they will come in for a further contribution to the internal revenues.

Repeaters. Every grocer, big or little, wholesaler or retailer, desires repeaters, and unless they have them, failure is written on their banners. Goods which satisfy and gratify the consumer are trade repeaters. If they merely meet desire, as in the case of a woman who said, "All tea is alike to me, so long as it gives a flavor to hot water," they cannot be classed as repeaters. When, however, they are of a character to tickle the palate, to give pleasure to guests, create desire for more, than they are repeaters. Do you carry repeaters in stock?

Federalsburg, Md.—A somewhat firmer feeling is prevailing among the canned goods packers of this section, and the tomatoes that have been packed are gradually drifting into stongest hands. Many packers will not have goods to sell, having either barely gotten up or failed to get up their future sales. Many tomatoes have been shipped out of the Peninsula, and the amount of unsold goods remaining is small as compared with ordinary years. There seems to be now practically no inclination on the part of holders to push sales, better prices later on being expected.

Reports received by the Chicago Canner indicate that the country's total production of canned corn is smaller than the output of 1904, which was estimated at 11,165,000 cases, which was rather under than in excess of the actual quantity of corn turned out. "There are numerous packers whose 1905 packs are larger as compared with 1904," the Canner says, "but the majority of reports received so far tell of reduced output in the present season. As far as the quality is concerned, there is no doubt about this year's pack of corn averaging better than last year's. Hardly a letter of advice received fails to mention improvement in quality, many stating that in this respect their 1905 corn is the best they have put up in a number of years.

A retailer in X—— sold a barrel of the highest grade flour to a very touchy fellow, who, however, had always bought his flour at this particular grocer's. Somehow the housewife had bad luck with the bread and her husband asked to have the barrel of flour exchanged. Mr. Grocer impulsively said: "We have never had any complaint or trouble with this brand before, but of course I will have the flour exchanged." The buyer flew in a rage and said: "There isn't a better bread maker lives than my wife and I don't like the insinuation she can't make as good bread as the rest of the women who buy your flour." Wouldn't it have paid better to have made the exchange without other comment than to express regret that it should be necessary.

PREMIUMS ARE BAD.

New York Manufacturer Begins a Campaign Against This Trade Abuse.

L. Schepp, the New York cocoanut manufacturer, has issued a number of circulars bearing directly upon the premium habit into which the grocery trade has fallen. They contain strong logical arguments against the practice that is upsetting trade conditions. One of his circulars reads as folows:

"To Purify Business and Make It a Pleasure as Well as a Profit.—No first-class grocer should encourage scheme or prize package methods of doing business in food products for the folowing reasons.

"First—Because these methods tend to reduce the quality of food products, encourage adulteration, and thereby endanger the health of the people.

"Second.—It leads to demoralization and corruption in business. No scheme, present or bribe, should influence the grocer in the selection of his goods, for his customers rely upon him to see that they get wholesome and pure food.

"No manufacturer should have influence by scheme, present or bribe over the grocer's salesmen or clerks, as to whose goods they should recommend or sell in preference. The grocer should be the only authority from whom the clerk or salesman should receive orders or directions in anything pertaining to his (the grocer's) business.

"Third.—All first-class salesmen or clerks will understand that it is no compliment to them to be approached by a manufacturer with a bribe or a present, but rather, command self-respect and esteem by rejecting all such advances. The grocer will also enjoy the pleasure of confidence in a clerk who is not obligated by accepting presents or favors from those who sell or deliver goods at his place of business. Approved and endorsed by al first-class grocers

"Where the scheme or prize package system is in vogue it is not safe to eat, drink, or take medicine without endangering the health or suffering the evil effects of this most damaging and corrupting method of doing business."

NO COMPLAINTS COME BACK.

There are few articles handled by the retail grocer that are so universally liked and which fill the bill so well as Carnation Cream is doing.

It is very gratifying to the manufacturers to hear the many encomiums that are passed on Carnation Cream every day.

It likewise must be very pleasing to the retail grocer, as he is the last man to handle this popular article before it goes into consumption.

He rarely hears a complaint, as the goods leave no room for complaint.

Besides the goods are guaranteed by the manufacturer to the grocer, and he is requested to guarantee them to his customers.

A GREAT MONEY SAVER.

In the old-fashioned way of handling coal oil, the losses were many—leaks that cut away the profits and damage to adjacent goods that used up the profits still more rapidly.

These losses are done away with by the oil tanks put up by S. F. Bowser & Co. of Fort Wayne, Ind.

These tnks not only save the oil and save goods about them, but their self measuring apparatus ensures absolutely accurate measures, and tnereby effects another important saving.

Decatur, Ill.—Representatives of the various manufacturing concerns were present at a recent meeting of the Grocers' Association. Purchases of carload lots of goods were made by the Association for later distribution.

BEST OF FINE FRUITS.

The Spohn—Patrick Company are pushing the trade on Griffin Extras fruits and vegetables with most satisfactory results.

The grocery trade has come to realize that goods bearing this brand are always satisfactory, and in handling them there will come never a word of complaint.

This is due to the great care with which these goods are put up. Only the best fruits and vegetables are used, and every precaution is taken in the preparation of these goods to insure that quality and flavor shall be absolutely maintained.

The California Fruit Growers' Association, packers of these goods, have over thirty canneries in different parts of the States, so located that they are able to pack on the spot of production the best of each and every kind.

DELICACY ALWAYS IN SEASON.

There are no articles that are better adapted to window displays than are the "White Label" Olives and Pimolas.

They make a neat, attractive package, and are suggestive of a good appetite, besides they yield the grocer a most satisfactory profit.

Dealers who have among their customers people who are particular and want the "good things" that go with a well-ordered dinner cannot afford to not have some of these goods in their stock, and having them there should display them.

They please the eye as well as tickle the appetite.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

National Association — President John A. Green has announced that sufficient funds are assured to make the National organization self-sustaining and it will not have to accept any more funds from manufacturers. In a recent interview he said:

"Responses from retail grocers to the request for contributions will, in conjunction with the per capita tax, enable us to meet expenses of the organization for the current year. I hope to present to the convention at Niagara Falls a report which will enable the delegates to adopt a fixed rule, to accept no further assistance for the organization from any source other than the retail grocers for whose benefit it is maintained. So far the plan is a success."

Dallas, Texas—The Retail Grocers' Association is preparing to take a car load of Texans to Niagara Falls in order to win the National Convention for 1907.

Minnesota—Suit has been instituted against the Duluth Grocers' Association the members of which are charged with conspiracy in regulating the prices of groceries.

Utica, N. Y.—The Retail Grocers' Association has sent slips to its members bearing the following:

Don'ts.

Don't place too much trust in humanity, you're liable to get fooled.

Don't fail to attend the regular meetings of your association.

Don't cut prices because the other fellow does, but clean up, spruce up, brace up, and sell such goods that the purchaser will remember quality only.

Don't blame any one but yourself if you are not getting any benefit out of the association; it is up to you!

Don't let the association belong to the officers only; it belongs to you, and you should be proud of it.

DO YOU SELL BEETS? Nice red, round, juicy beets? Of course! Some come in bunches and some in tin cans, and there's some money in selling them, too.

DO YOU SELL BEATS. Nice, sleek, smooth-talking, got-it-down-to-a-science beats? They come in bunches sometimes. Do you get "tin-canned?" Ever make any money selling them?

Dayton, O.—The Grocers' Association has demanded of the Mayor that the ordinance demanding peddlers to pay licenses be enforced.

Sandusky, O.—An effort is being made to have grocery stores close on Sunday.

Wichita, Kansas—The grocers are preparing to give a Pure Food Show which will open early in October.

Colfax, Wash.—The grocers of this place have agreed to close at 7 o'clock and the dry goods and general stores have agreed to close at 6.

Buffalo, N. Y.—Some members of the Grocers' Association are dissatisfied because the New York State Association has left the nomination of State officers to a nominating committee. A scrap arose over the election of the second vice president and now some of the Buffalo grocers purpose to withdraw from the State Association.

Chicago, Ill.—The Central Committee of Grocers' Association has re-elected its officers as follows: President, T. P. Sullivan; vice president, Sol Westerfeld; secretary, Jos. Lavermann. A request was sent to the Mayor that the practise of issuing free permits to peddlers be abolished and the payment of the $50 license fee be rigidly enforced. They are to give a Pure Food Show from September 25th to October 14th. Three cash prizes amounting to $19 were announced for the grocers bringing in the most new members before January 1st.

Wisconsin—The convention of the State Grocers' Association flayed Governor La Follette for vetoing the bill recently secured by the grocers by which only $30 per month would have been exempt from garnishment instead of $60 as at present. The convention urged merchants to enter politics to protect their own interest and decide to start a campaign for organizing local associations.

Denver, Colo.—It required ten trains of five cars each to carry the grocers to the annual picnic which was held in August.

Nashville, Tenn.—The Retail Grocers' Association has decided to take drastic action against those firms from whom grocers buy goods who do not require that their employees pay their grocery bills.

New York, N. Y.—At the recent State Convention the grocers decided to ask for a law making it a crime for manufacturers to send out goods short in weight or measure and demanding that all packages be honestly marked.

DEEDS NOT WORDS.

Consumers Prefer Canned Cream and Milk They KNOW Is Pure to Fresh That Looks Bad.

Although the health department of Los Angeles SAYS the fresh milk of that city is good, the consumers, according to the "Record" of that city, don't like its looks and therefore they are buying the canned creams and milks they KNOW are pure and sterilized. The "Record" says:

"Los Angeles may now pat itself on the back that it has the best milk in California. There are people who will doubt this statement, in the face of the quality of milk that is served to them every morning, but as the good people of the city have only the health department to go by, it must be taken for granted that the statement is true, whether the milk looks good or not.

"The health department says the milk is good; that it is better than it has ever been, and it is all due to the crusade and the strenuous effort of the health department against the men who sell the milk.

"The grocery men of Los Angeles say they now sell more condensed milk and cream than they ever did before in all the history of their business.

"But it cannot be because the milk is bad—because the health department says it is good."

This last paragraph is almost funny—"It has been bad in the past and it looks bad now, but the fresh milk is all right, just the same—because the health department says so!"

Good Keeping Quality

AFTER EXPOSURE OF THE CONTENTS, is an essential feature of properly prepared "Evaporated Cream." When the contents of the can are thin and watery, like those of the several cheap brands of large cans with which the market is flooded, they will spoil soon after being opened; but when they are of that HEAVY CONSISTENCE which distinguishes they keep several days longer under the same conditions, simply because they are completely sterile and offer more resistance to the action of germs floating in the air.

OUR PET BRAND EVAPORATED CREAM

(And all of our brands bearing our top label.)

Consumers highly appreciate this feature, particularly in warm and sultry weather.

The principal advantage of Our Pet Brand Evaporated Cream, however, is that IT GOES FARTHER than these thin brands.

Get the Good Luck Expression.

What kind of an expression do you wear habitually? Is it sour, morose, repellant? Is it a mean, stingy, contemptible, uncharitable, intolerant expression? Do you wear the expression of a bulldog, a grasping, greedy, hungry expression, which indicates an avaricious nature? Do you go about among your employes with a thunder-cloud expression, with a melancholy, despondent, hopeless look on your face, or do you wear the sunshine expression which radiates good cheer and hope, which indicates a feeling of good will and of helpfulness? Do people smile and look happier when you approach? asks Success.

It makes all the difference in the world to you and to those whom you influence, what kind of an expression you wear.

His Smile a Fortune.

I once worked for a man who had an habitual smile which was worth a fortune to him. No matter how angry he might be inside, you never could tell it by his face. There might be a volcano just ready to break out, yet his face would wear that serene happy, contented smile. One corner of his mouth always curved up as though he had received some good news, and was just dying to tell you about it.

A great many people wondered at his success. They thought it far outreached his ability; but there is no doubt that a great deal of it was due to that inimitable smile which never left him. It made hosts of friends for him and brought many customers to his store.

The success candidate should learn the power of the habitual smile, not only because it wins friends and brings customers, but its power over one's own life is immeasurable. The effort to be always cheerful, kind, considerate, and gentle, no matter what wars may be ranking in the heart, has a great influence in transforming the life.

Playing Cards in Bulletins.

Dealers who are located in communities of a sporting character, or in the section of a big city much frequented by sporty people, will find that playing cards can be most advantageously used in making window bulletins which are bound to attract attention.

For example, they might display the ace, king, queen, jack and ten-spot, with the phrase:

"Our famous ——— is better than a royal flush"

Or the four kings might be shown, with the assertion:

"Our ——— are good enough for any king in the pack."

Then in connection with a cigarette display, all of the face-cards might be used, with an inscription.

"Kings, queens and jacks all use our celegrated ———, and say that they beat all others for solid satisfaction."

Again, two poker hands might be shown, one containing four kings and an ace, and the other a bob-tailed flush, accompanied by the following sentence:

"This shows the difference in value between our fine ——— and the brands you can buy at other places at cheap prices. One is a sure winner, and the other is of no value at all."

These are only a few of the numerous ways in which playing cards can be utilized in making attractive window bulletins, likely to appeal with especial force to persons of sporting proclivities.

PUSHING CANNED SALMON.

The week following the break in the price of red Alaska salmon, the Siegel Cooper Company's grocery department, New York, advertised in the New York American as follows:

EXTRA SPECIAL
"Arctic Red" brand, highest grade, BLOOD RED ALASKA SALMON, solid meat, no waste, full pack, fine texture, rich oil, regular selling price 15c. per can; our price for Tuesday only—1-lb. can, 10c.

Note—Owing to the tremendously low price of this fine grade article, we do not wish the public to think that it is the ordinary pink or medium red salmon so largely offered.

We guarantee it to be of the finest quality.

The result! On Monday following the Sunday advertisement, 7,000 tins of salmon were sold.

Butler advertised the same salmon at 8 cents. A price of 3 tins for 25 cents was quite common.

Toledo, O.—The Grocers' Association has appointed a committee to wait upon the candidates for the Legislature to sound them as to how they stood on the question of the garnishment law. Each member present at the meeting received a chance on a $40 buffet, the winner to be announced at the last meeting in December. The member winning the $5 prize was not present and the money reverted back to the treasury.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture in its weekly report says:

"Conditions continue excellent for drying fruit and raisin making. The raisin harvest is now nearly over. The yield is good and quality excellent. Walnuts are maturing slowly in the southern part of the state. The harvest has commenced in San Luis Obispo County. The crop will be good. The honey crop is good. Rain is badly needed in all districts."

SUGAR.

Another advance of 10 cents was announced this week.

New York, Oct. 25.—Raw sugars have been dull during the week. Refined has been quiet, with no changes in prices. In Europe beet sugar is lower.

Portland, Or.—In explaining the recent declines in sugar prices, the Journal of this city says:

"It is generally believed, however, that the big sugar corporation does not relish the idea of any one making money out of the sugar business except the refinery itself—every one else to handle the product just for the fun of being at work. It has been the custom of wholesale grocers of the Pacific Coast, as well as elsewhere, to buy large quantities of sugar when they believed the situation justified an advance in prices. Of late they have been holding off their purchases as much as possible since they believed the market was going lower. It is now alleged by the trade that the recent advances in the sugar market were solely to punish the jobbers, there being practically no change in the situation of raw sugar either on the Atlantic or Pacific Coasts during the past week or so. In this city stocks of sugar were very small when the advance came, the trade in general believing that the situation demanded a reduction in prices instead of an advance."

New York, Oct. 17th.—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report:

"For about the last seven days, our principal buyers have been indifferent to all offerings. Their stocks at present are greater than they can conveniently take care of. The world faces a big increase in the beet and cane crops about to be reaped. Cubans will take less money for the sugar reaped on the island rather than carry them over. Brazilian holders will take for their supplies what they can get for them. An advance or even the maintainance of to-day's quotations will depend on the firmness and patience of the cane sugar growers. The market, at the present, is not in position to withstand forced offerings. The European market is now 10 points above our market. Advices from the Continent claim that the big crops of next season are discounted on the low prices now prevailing."

COFFEE.

The Lewin Meyer Co. report:

"There has been little change in market conditions since our last report. There are many enquiries but few transactions.

"Stocks in local importers' hands are much less than at this time last year."

New York Oct. 17th.—Volney, Green & Co. report:

"A low but steady decline in options has led to a shading of prices on actual coffee. The demand is falling off, although there is still a good demand for good to fair and high grocery grades. Mild coffees are quiet with no quotable change."

TEA.

New York, Oct .17th.—John Brown & Co. report:

Foreign Advices—The only cables received through the week were from Shanghai and Amoy, both to the effect that a few teas were still on hand at prices indicating a basis as the highest reached this season.

Home Market—All brokers and importers report prices holding to the steady basis which has been in evidence during the past few months. Stocks throughout the country are reported to be small and a fair run of business is anticipated during the coming winter months.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"Japans—The market has taken another boost of ½c, and it now looks that domestic Japan rice will reach the price of imported within the next thirty days; i. e., $5.15. We advise all to load up at present prices.

"Fancy Carolina Rice—Prices are over ½c higher, and we look for No. 1 fancy to sell at from $6 to $6.50 within thirty to sixty days.

"Honolulu Rice—The trade has again gone back to this old favorite rice, and large lots are being imported from Honolulu. Prices on same jumped over ¼c within the week, and we look for another advance of ½c as soon as the growers in Honolulu find out the condition of American rice. Honolulu rice is the cheapest rice on the market and $1 per bag lower than it will be within sixty days.

"China rice remains the same."

RICE.

New York, Oct. 17th.—Dan Tallmage Son's Co. report:

"During the week there has been widespread inquiry from out of town as well as renewed interest displayed by the local contingent. Prices are well sustained on Honduras sorts, and large sales have been made of Japan styles at decided advance over recent quotations.

"Advices from the South note good demand on the Atlantic Coast with values firmly held; in fact, tone has hardened somewhat. At New Orleans, an active business has been done in Honduras sorts, which show slight advances over the previous week. There has been an eager demand for Japan and on such prices have advanced ¼c to ½c per pound. As quite sizable purchases have been made at the advance, it would indicate imperative needs on part of buyers or unbounded confidence in the future. All sorts of predictions are being indulged as to crop and future of the market, based upon the following facts. About 25 per cent of the crop is already housed, 35 per cent cut, stacked or in process of harvest, and about 40 per cent nearly at the maturing point. Some injury has been done by heavy rains and overflows, and recent drop in temperature has checked the development of the later plantings. As a last analysis, no matter what the acreage may have been or conditions of growth, the crop is not made until safely housed. Hence, it will be some weeks before trustworthy estimates can be made. In the meantime every one interested in rice will watch carefully the progress of harvest and threshing.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm tone, with fair demand."

Crowley, La., Oct. 14th.—Jas. L. Wright reports.

"The rice market is steadily strengthening in all grades of both clean and rough. Only the lack of supply prevents large sales of all stocks. The active advance of Japan rice is gradually being accomplished. Several sales of old crop goods have been reported at 3½c f. o. b. mill—the highest prices obtained for Japan grades for the last 18 months. A number of large holders have advanced their quotations on the better grades of old crop Japan to 3½c and 3⅝c. Honduras grades continue to maintain their values. Sales have been made at as high as 5⅜c f. o. b. mill."

New Orleans, La., Oct. 11th.—S. Locke Breaux reports:

"There is very little speculative buying of Honduras rice. The fact that values maintain in the face of trading such as this is good evidence of the genuine strength of the market. There is much livelier demand for Japan, with decidedly firmer values. Weather conditions for the last three months have made me feel that the crop will be at least 10 per cent less than what was at first expected."

CANNED FRUITS.

The canned fruit pack for 1905 has been about up to normal. It has fallen considerably low in pears owing to light crop. The pack of cherries was practically nothing. The tomato pack is still progressing. Canneries expect to make full deliveries on all sales, although the surplus will not be a very large quantity. The growing season for tomatoes is considerably past its prime and the yield is beginning to fall off. The California Fruit Canners' Association has been refusing to make further contracts for tomatoes for the past 30 days. Jobbers are reselling their early contracts at about 80c per dozen. Owing to the shortage of the Eastern fruit crop, California lines found a satisfactory market. There has been a strong demand in everything in the way of peaches of all grades and the pack is already sold out.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—The Santa Rosa branch of the California Fruit Canners' Association has had one of the longest continuous runs in its history. It has not lost a day since it began operations on July 15th. Work is now being done on tomatoes and apples.

Pomona, Cal.—The output of the Pomona Cannery this year is nearly as large as that of 1904. The bulk of the fruit was peaches.

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, Oct. 25th.—There has been an increased inquiry during the week with a decided firming of prices. Sales are reported of 45,000 Standard Maryland at 97½c, factory.

Aberdeen, Md., Oct. 14th.—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"There has been heavy buying every day this week. Large sales at top prices forced the market up another notch, so that 97½c is now considered a low figure for full Standard country packed tomatoes, and a few packers report sales of entire pack at $1 f. o. b."

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14th.—H. H. Taylor & Sons report:

"Some large sales have been made the past week of No. 3 Standards at 95c per dozen, largely, we understand, to cover short contracts of packers. We believe the jobbing demand is limited to small orders. If the jobbers hold off, some packers who are not prepared to hold their product for a long time may weaken. Those who can hold their stocks until next spring have reasonable hopes of being paid handsomely for carrying them."

Perryman, Md., Oct. 13th.—Jay F. Towner reports:

"Prices are again on the jump. Next week, jobbers will be kicking their buyers for not buying tomatoes this week."

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 13th.—The "Trade" reports:

"Quotations on tomatoes in the spring had actually gotten down to 60c and below. They are this week above $1 for the first time in years. New York is now quoting tomatoes from $1 to $1.15 in a general way. Speculation is getting strong. In Baltimore quotations [illegible] to $1. Reports that the syndicate which controlls the bulk of the stock now in first hands was again buying, increased interest, which was further augmented by the fact that the syndicate has taken practically all the rejected goods in the New York market. It might be possible to buy a few tomatoes at 92½c at the factory, but no offerings are reported at less than 95c. It is reported that the syndicate will force an advance of 5c by November 1st and 10c by November 15th."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 15th.—The "Trade" says:

"Lower prices are quoted for factory brands in New York State corn than have ever been known before as a general quotation. The market is quiet and already New York State says that they cannot deliver more than 40 to 50 per cent of their sales."

Baltimore, Mr., Oct. 14.—H. H. Taylor & Son's report:

"With the close of packing on corn, the market is distinctly better in tone. The stock of cheap grades has sold so well that prices are going better and ought to continue doing so under the stimulus of large consumption."

STRINGED BEANS.

Lakeport, Cal.—The Lakeport Cannery has this season packed 12,000 cases of two dozen cans each as against 5,000 cases of the interrupted season of last year.

DRIED FRUITS.

New York, Oct. 25th.—The demand has grown better with the advent of cooler weather. Peaches are scarce, but buyers and sellers are far apart on prices. Raisins are unsettled. Jobbers have apparently received the combine offer of seeded raisins at 1c under the opening prices without much interest.

RAISINS.

Fresno, Oct. 23d.—Owing to the fact that orders were not being confirmed by Eastern jobbers at the opening prices, the Raisin Growers' Association decided to cut seeded raisins 1c per pound. The new prices are as follows:

Fancy seeded, 16-oz., 7¼c; 12-oz., 6c; bulk, 25s, 7c, choice seeded, 16-oz., 7c; 12-oz., 5¾c, bulk 25s, 6¾c.

Unbleached seedless Sultanas, 4c; unbleached Thompsons, 5½c.

The prices on loose raisins were not changed, and remain as follows:

Seedless Muscatels, 4½c; floated, 4¾c.

Standard 2-crown loose Muscatels, 5¾c; 3s, 6c; 4s, 6½c.

Valencia loose Muscatels, 2-crown, 4½c; 3s, 5c; 4s, 5½c.

6-crown Imperial Clusters 20s, $3; 5-crown Dehesa Clusters 20s, $2.50; 4-crown fancy clusters 20s, $2; 3-crown London layers 20s, $1.50; 2-crown, $1.40.

Those who have already bought raisins will be given the benefit of the new price on old schedule. If expected orders do not come in large enough volume, a return will be made to the original schedule.

PRUNES.

New York, Oct. 25.—Sales of spot prunes 40s at 3¾c. Coast basis are reported. Few small size are obtainable. Futures are neglected.

DRIED APPLES.

New York, Oct. 17th.—Delmarle Bros. report:

"Since our last letter, the market on future evaporated apples has strengthened somewhat. The last day or so, country buyers have been bidding 7⅝c for December."

Marion, N. Y., Oct. 13th.—J. M. Malcolm & Co. report:

"The condition of the evaporated apple market is decidedly easier. The jobbers have not supplied their wants and the green apple market is decidedly weaker. As the quality of the green stock is poor, more is left for the evaporators than was expected two weeks ago."

SMYRNA FIGS.

New York, Oct. 22d.—There has been considerable activity in Smyrna figs owing to cable advices of advance in primary markets. The advance has averaged 1c per pound.

New York, N. Y., Oct. 14th.—Hills Bros. & Co. report:

"Cables received from Smyrna today report the market on dried figs as having advanced sharply. Present prices may therefore be considered as on a low level."

CURRANTS.

New York, Oct. 17th.—The Greek Currant Co. reports:

"The market on spot goods is held at firm figures for new goods, in view of the tone of the foreign market. A much further advance has been predicted for the foreign market since the minimum of the syndicate is supposed to be fully ¼c above present prices. Mail advices indicate that the syndicate has not yet begun to buy for its own account. The trade is waiting the effect which may be produced when the syndicate begins to buy the quantities offered. This it is expected to do after the 28th of this month."

WALNUTS.

New York, Oct. 20th.—Imported walnuts are active and firm.

Santa Barbara, Cal.—Secretary F. E. Kellogg of the Santa Barbara Walnut Growers' Association says:

"The crop this year will not amount to more than 30 cars as against 40 cars for 1904 and 60 cars for 1903."

PEANUTS.

Petersburg, Va., Oct. 16th.—E. A. Hartley & Bro. report:

"We expect prices on Spanish peanuts to open slightly higher than last season. If the crop proves short, as is indicated, we would expect better prices later."

BEANS.

Ventura, Cal., Oct. 15th.—Growers are now able to give a fair estimate of this year's crop. It will probably average 50 per cent more than that of 1904, when the output was in excess of 350,000 sacks. This would make this year's crop amount to about 525,000 sacks. High winds occasioned some loss last week. In some sections as much as 15 per cent of the crop was destroyed. Prices are ranging from $3, the early contract price, to $3.60, which is being paid now.

San Luis Obispo, Cal.—The weather is ideal for harvesting beans. It is estimated that the Santa Maria Valley will produce about 160,000 sacks this season. Small whites sell for $2.75; pinks, $2.

Yuba City, Cal.—The entire bean crop is now safe. The yield is good, but not up to the average. The hot spell in July blasted many of the blooms.

Marion, N. Y., Oct. 13th.—J. D. Malcolm Co. reports:

"We think the crop of red beans will be 10 to 15 per cent larger than last year. The yellow eye crop 25 per cent less. Prices will not vary much from what they were last year."

Pinckney, Mich., Oct. 14th.—Thomas Read reports:

"Arrivals of beans have lessened owing to prices declining."

Pontiac, Mich., Oct. 9th.—O. N. Carpenter reports:

"We have a very favorable harvest. We found more damaged stock than was anticipated."

PEAS.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 13th.—The Wisconsi Seed Co. reports:

"The pea market is higher and very strong. The crop of this State is estimated at not over 40 per cent of the average."

CANNED SALMON.

Astoria, Or., Oct. 10th.—Columbia River Packers' Association reports:

"Short deliveries of Columbia River salmon of spring packing were made by packers with probably no exception. The only goods now available for the Columbia River fall pack are silver sides and chums. The supply of silver sides is very limited. Chums are entirely sold out and in all probability largely Astoria, Or.—Reports from the Oregon and Washington Coast streams indicate that the pack of fall salmon at this place will this season be the largest in the history of the industry. The catches at most of the places are so heavy that the canneries are able to receive fish only every other day.

New Westminster, B. C., Oct. 17th.—Salmon buyers of London, Eng., have purchased the major portion of the 1905 pack of the British Columbia Packers' Association, coming to the territory themselves. This has saved the packers the necessity and risk of shipping their goods to English warehouses.

Albany, Or., Oct. 17th.—The salmon canneries at Yaquina Bay are all running at their full capacity. The output will be as large as usual.

Bannon, Or., Oct. 16th.—All the canneries on the river are turning away fish every day, although they are running day and night and keep large forces of men at work all the time.

FISH.

New York, Oct. 20.—Strohmeyer & Co. report:

Irish Mackerel are neglected, owing to the Norway Mackerel being sold at a lower price today than the Irish. Quality of Norway is far superior, so that of course the trade will give them the preference. On this week's steamer over 3,000 barrels of Norway Mackerel arrived for two importers in New York and they were all sold to arrive, every barrel of it. Demand for Norway Mackerel is excellent, which is only natural considering the present prices, which are certainly low.

Holland Herrings have slightly given way and there is a better demand, which will be still better when prices have come down to a normal basis.

Scotch Herrings—Rather dull and prices firm.

Imported Sardines—France has no catch and has advanced prices on Sardines and Sprats all around. Portugal has no small fish at present and stocks are getting scarce. Norway has no catch of Sardines and Smoked Sardines are advancing, and there will not be sufficient to cover the demand this season.

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, Oct. 17th.—B. O. Bowers & Co. report.

"Fish are not plentiful. Several small factories are already closed. Some of the larger are preparing to close within a few days. Prices remain practically unchanged. Shippers quote Standard ¼-oils, $1.90 to $1.95; High grade Standards, $2; ¼-mustards, oil size, $2.15 to $2.25; large size, $2.50 to $2.70; new wrapped ¾-mustards, $2.75 to $2.90."

OLIVES.

Chico, Cal., Otc. 14th.—The olive crops of this vicinity are unusually good this season. The Ehman Olive Co. has disposed of its entire crop to the American Olive Co. of Los Angeles.

SPICES.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 14th.—McCormick & Co. report:

"The market continues steady and particularly firm for pepper of all sorts. We expect to see a higher market."

PICKLES.

Birmingham, Ia., Oct. 9th.—H. Winrich reports:

"Pickles are all in. The cucumber crop of the middle West, especially in

Cigars and Tobacco

THE CRISIS COMING.

With each passing day the fact becomes increasingly manifest that the Tobacco Trust is resolved to drive the independent dealer from the field.

The recent action of the Trust in opening a grocery in New York for the purpose of increasing the sale of its tobaccos is one of the portentous signs of the times, and has served to set many dealers to thinking as they never thought before.

The Trust has lately organized a company to handle cigars in drug stores, following in the same line as was pursued in the opening of retail cigar stores.

It is such facts as these that make men pause and reflect. Shall the trade battle for its freedom, or shall it surrender all to the trust?

TO PUSH TRUST MADE GOODS.

The National Cigar Stands Company, the new combination to operate cigar stands in drug stores, has elected the following officers:

President L. K. Liggett; vice president, G. M. Gales; treasurer, George C. Lyon; secretary, William C. Bolton; directors, the officers named, Edwin R. Petty and Charles E. Ball. Only Mr. Gales of this list has ever been connected with the cigar business. He was secretary of the Havana Tobacco Company. Mr. Gales can now be found at the headquarters of the company, 23 East 121st street, where preparations are being made to open business.

The scheme is to place cigar stands in drug stores throughout the country. President Liggett is also president of the Union Drug Company, of Boston, a concern which does business upon a co-operative basis, and has upwards of 2000 members scattered through the country.

The concern will use trust goods almost wholly, a specialty being made of private brands turned out in trust factories.—Tobacco.

FOOLING THE PUBLIC.

Richmond, Va., Oct. 10.—Panhill Rucker, president of the late Rucker & Witten Tobacco Company, recently absorbed by the tobacco trust, has been making a most strenuous attempt to fool the public, and it seems as though he might be successful for a time.

The ingeniously constructed statement which he recently sent out has been scattered broadcast throughout the entire South. It is doubtful if there is a newspaper below Mason and Dixon's line that did not receive a copy and a large number of them have been sufficiently gullible to print it under such head-lines as: "Not in the Tobacco Trust." "No Trust Amalgamation." "A Distinct Concern." and others equally misleading.

Of course practically every one in the trade is well aware that the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company has been part and parcel of the trust for more than a year past, and will not be deceived by President Rucker's statement to the contrary, but the general public is not so well informed, and are bound to be misled by the widespread publicity which has been accorded to the Rucker manifesto. It is generally believed in Richmond, however, that in sending out this statement Mr. Rucker was acting under orders from headquarters at 111 Fifth avenue, New York, and that it is a part of the trust's policy to as far as possible keep the public in the dark as to its connection with plants which it has acquired, but continues to operate under the old name.—Tobacco.

TOBACCO IN CHINA.

Consul Sammons of Niuchwang says here is an opportunity to sell tobacco, pipes and smokers' articles in China. He writes:

Since Japan took over the tobacco business and made it a Government monopoly in that country, the British-American interests have particularly been active in China, Korea and the Straits Settlements. The Japanese have been active also throughout the Orient outside of their own island empire. Their goods are on the market from the Straits Settlements on the south to Manchuria on the north.

Heretofore there has been little advertising in China along the lines common to the United States. The imposing array of field advertising signboards which now line both sides of the railroads in Japan, being even more spectacular and showy than those along the lines between Washington and New York, for instance, has not yet reached China. Indeed, in recently making the trip from Hanlow, on the Yangtse River, to Pekin, I observed only one foreign advertising sign, which appeared on the railway station walls at Paotingfu.

In the endeavor to push business, in an advertising way, in China, one of the chief difficulties has been the lack of hotel accommodations. To meet this the British-American Tobacco Company is to provide special cars on land and house boat on rivers. The ordinary passenger car will be converted into a combination office and sleeping section dining room, kitchen, servants' quarters, and advertising-material room. The car will be supplied with provisions and servants as well as interpreters, and will move from place to place throughout the country where there are railroads. The house boats will, in a similar capacity, serve the river cities and towns.

The utilization of the special car for advertising purposes in China further demonstrates that the construction of railroads, thus affording inland transportation facilities, goes far toward increasing trade possibilities between the Orient and Occident. There is practically no American pipe goods sold in China except to the foreigners. The natives smoke immense quantities of cigarettes. The stock for the British-American trade comes form the tobacco States of America and is manufactured into cigarettes at Shanghai, where 1,000 to 1,200 operatives are employed. The product is handled through Chinese wholesalers in various cities throughout China, who pay cash for their purchases direct to local banks, which in turn issue a receipt which serves as a godown or warehouse order for the goods.

INVEIGHLING THE UNWARY.

Cigar Drummer Swindles Los Angeles Dealers.

A rosy worded cigar salesman recently swooped down upon the Los Angeles trade and has numbered at least two among his victims, says the Commercial Bulletin.

The man's method is as old as merchandising. He called upon J. A. Schwartz, a Central Avenue grocer, and stated that he was an officer of the Planatation Cigar Co. of San Francisco, New York and Panama. He remarked that he was in beautiful Southern California on his vacation and while here, just as a diversion, dropped in to call Mr. Schwartz's attention to his company's methods.

He offered to deliver 6,000 cigars of various grades from $35 up to $90, all for $300. With this he proposed to give a handsome showcase and a handsome clock free. Mr. Schwartz was not to pay a cent for the cigars until they were sold. That is to say, every sixty days he was to make an accounting of the cigars actually sold and to pay for them. He could not lose. It was not a purchase at all, claimed the glib-tongued one; he, Mr. Swartz, was to be the Central Avenue agent for the company and was to carry a stock for the company, paying the company only the money he received or the cigars—less, of course, his liberal profit or commission of more than 40 per cent. Mr. Schwartz, believing he was dealing with a responsible company, accepted the offer. A contract was presented which he was requested to sign. Printed in small type was a binding agreement that the goods should be paid for in three payments, the last becoming due within six months from the date of shipment.

It was further agreed, which was the joker in the whole transaction, that the buyer should on receipt of blanks from the company, sign three notes covering the purchase price. In the event of his not signing these notes the ertire amount should become due in 30 days. At the end of the contract is was specifically stated that the terms of the contract and none other must be lived up to. This agreement was covered with much verbiage so that unless it be carefully studied its true import cannot be understood. The "high officer" of the company stated that the contract was simply an old blank form which was used as a memorandum, and he made a few alterations in the reading matter, which he said made the printed contract void. Mr. Schwartz signed. He soon decided that he had been victimized and cancelled the order by mail. His letter arrived too late and the goods were shipped. He also received three notes with the demand that they be signed. This Mr. Schwartz refused to do and the company now claims that it will force him to pay in full at the end of thirty days. The goods are in the depot here, Mr. Schwartz refusing to take them out.

A Jap on South Spring street, who runs a chop suey restaurant, was inveigled into buying of the same "salesman." The Jap paid cash for the entire outfit. The cigars and case arrived but are not worth, in the open market, more than one-third the amount paid for them. The cigars, even those billed at $90, are of the poorest New York made-up stock. The case is a rickety affair, made of thin sheet glass, one pane of which has already been broken by a slight tap made by a customer. The clock has never arrived.

Two Months More for Grocers to Buy at Reduced Prices.

The Bond Scale Co. a short while ago made a special introductory price on Bond Automatic Weighers for the purpose of having their machines tested and proved.

The proof is attested by a large package of letters from thrifty merchants who find they are making more money by using the Automatic Weigher and as it will be impossible to sell at the present low prices indefinitely, the manufacturers will alter the price list on January 1st.

Every dealer will find it profitable to have one of these machines and can save money by buying now.

PERFECTION OF CREAMS.

It is very annoying to consumers to lose part of the contents of a can of "Evaporated Cream" because it spoils after opening before being used up. The Helvetia Milk Condensing Co. are overcoming this trouble by evaporating their product to so heavy a consistence that it is not readily penetrated by germs which float in the air, and hence remains sweet much longer than goods of lighter consistence. It is self-understood that their product is more valuable not only for this reason but also because it goes farthest.

REFERENCE COFFEE TABLE.

Figures Showing Difference of Price Between Green and Roasted Coffee.

A table of considerable value to many retail grocers is a coffee schedule showing the relative prices of that article between the green and roasted variety. A great many grocers buy coffee green and then have it roasted as needed in order to always have a fresh roast in the store. Some of them buy in large lots, of all the grades they handle, store it and then send a bag at a time down to their roaster to have it roasted. The table which is published below shows the price of the coffee green and also its cost price to them after it has been roasted.

These figures include one-half cent per pound for roasting and 16 per cent shrinkage, which occurs during the process of roasting.

This table is of considerable value and will prove of much assistance to grocers in determining the proper retail price and in allowing for shrinkage as it relieves them of any figuring. It is absolutely accurate, too. Paste it up in a convenient place in your store so that it can be readily referred to. The table follows:

PROTECT LOCAL MERCHANTS.

Aberdeen (Washington) City Council passed a stringent ordinance for the protection of permanent merchants against the invasion of itinerant concerns. The ordinance provides that a merchant who conducts a store for less than one month must pay $15 per day; for one month, $250; second and third months, $125 per month; fifth and sixth months, $50, or $400 for six months. The merchants of that city have suffered from the incursions of peddlers and dealers in fire and bankruptcy stocks, and united in a petition to the authorities for relief.

The white bean crop promises to be very short; pea beans are scarce; there will be a heavy shortage of black eyes, as the crop will be the shortest in many years. Mississippi as well as parts of the Missouri river, has been fine. With large stocks from last year carried over, prices are ruling low, although the drought and extremely short crop of the East tends towards strengthening the situation considerably. Prices obtained now in this territory are not remunerative to packers."

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 14th.—F. W. Smith reports:

"Prices on pickles are very uneven, as some packers have a lot of old pickles to work off and some who have a good crop this year on top of what they carried over, need money. We expect better prices in the Spring when this matter will be adjusted."

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 13th.—Wm. Niemeyer reports:

"Dill pickles are especially scarce."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"The present light receipts of hay, with the consequent advance in prices, is occasioned by car scarcity. Although the advance has been very marked with the choicer grades of hay, yet with the lower qualities there seems to be but little change. Large quantities of same are on storage here and the country is filled with rather undesirable and unsalable grades of hay. Unless we have a continuance of dry weather sufficient to create a scarcity, present prices will be discounted as soon as the car famine is at an end."

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

First Call for Delegates to the Meeting at Niagara Falls.

The time is fast approaching for the National Convention which is to meet in Niagara Falls, January 23rd, 24th and 25th, 1906. The call for the per capita tax is being sent out. It is necessary, in order to meet all requirements, that the per capita tax should be promptly paid.

It is a pleasure to note that Utah has not only formed a state association but has also paid its per capita tax and elected delegates and alternates to the convention.

On behalf of the officers I would respectfully ask every state and local organization to take up matters of interest for discussion and after deliberating on them and forming conclusions send your delegates to the convention to present them for discussion.

Everything points to a large attendance.

Matters of vital interest to the association will come up for discussion.

Every section of the United States is to be represented and there is no doubt as to the interest and enthusiasm that will be in evidence at the convention.

Interest seems to increase as the time for the convention approaches.

What shall we do to protect ourselves from unjust laws?

We need:

An amendment to the bankruptcy law, so that dues for necessaries shall be treated as preferred claims, or, better, that no discharge be granted against such debts.

The Dixon bill, compelling civil service employes to pay their accounts for necessaries.

The Pure Food Law, which is sure to pass, to see that the grocers' interests are taken care of.

What shall we do with the Premium Question?

The Parcels Post Bill—This we must take steps to defeat.

Besides many local issues which will be brought forth, and above all,

Financing the National.

Again let me urge the members of the associations to bring up these great questions in their home meetings, and discuss them so that their representatives may come to the national meeting fully prepared to express the wishes of those whom they represent.

Inquiries are being made as to railroad and hotel rates. We hope in the issue of the next Trade Press Bulletin to be able to make a definite statement as to hotel rates, and as soon as possible to inform the trade press and through them the members, the railroad rates to Niagara Falls in January

JOHN A. GREEN, President.

COUPON CEREALS.

Grocers Asked to Cut Them Out and Force This Righteous Issue.

The officers of the National Association, smarting at the inaction of the cereal companies, have issued an appeal to grocers of the United States to Stand by cereals that have no coupons. Read their letter:

We, the officers of the National Association of Retail Grocers of the United States, carrying out the wishes of the entire grocery trade as expressed in convention in Cincinnati, January 27, have used every effort to have the manufacturers of cereals refrain from placing coupons in cereal packages.

Every firm, with two exceptions, has complied with the request of the officers.

These two firms are The American Cereal Co. and the Great Western Cereal Co.

The Great Western Cereal Co. have declared their intention of continuing in the premium business and ignoring the wishes of the officers of the association.

The American Cereal Co. have not answered the last letter of the president, but are continuing in the premium business

Therefore, we do hereby condemn the placing of coupons, missing letters, crockery or anything else in the packages of cereals, other than the cereal itself. Believing that the distribution of merchandise such as furniture, crockery and in fact all other goods through the medium of the grocer without compensation therefor, and believing that the profit from such merchandise does rightfully belong to the grocer, therefore we declare it to be an imposition on the grocer to insist against his wishes and request, to continue such practices.

We, the officers of the national association, call upon the grocers of the United States, in justice to those firms who have acceded to the request of the grocers, to place in stock only such goods as are known to be free from all such methods.

JOHN A. GREEN, Pres.
L. F. PADBERG, Vice-Pres.
H. W SCHWAB, Treas.
C. J. KRAMER, Director.
WM. GRAY, Director.

Up to Individual Grocers.

This now puts the proposition right up to each individual grocer for action. The national officers have done all in their power to bring about a solution of the problem, they have been courteous, considerate and patient, but they have done their duty and it now rests with the grocers themselves to say whether the evil will stop or not.

ONCE USED, ALWAYS WANTED.

Snider's Catsup predominates all over the West as well as throughout the East.

Grocers are aware of the fact that they have no trouble in disposing of this article. The name "Snider" is a household word—and why should the grocer experiment with an unknown article, when the genuine Snider goods can be obtained of any jobber's salesman.

They are always uniform in quality, and sell without a lot of talk to convince the customer they are the thing wanted.

Besides Snider's goods are all sold at a satisfactory margin of profit.

Amusements

MAJESTIC.

Frank Bacon has been pleasing the audiences at the Majestic this week in Neil Burgess' great success, "The County Fair." This play is full of good, clean American humor, and Bishop's clever players make the most of it. They offer an evening of unalloyed pleasure. On Monday evening will follow the first production of "The Lottery of Love." On Thursday evening, November 2d, the San Francisco Commercial Travelers' Association will own the theater for their benefit.

CALIFORNIA.

"The Star Show Girls" are interesting large crowds at the California this week. Two burlesques are presented which are full of catchy songs, interesting dances and pretty girls with very striking costumes and fetching forms. One of the features of the performance is a competitive drill by two companies of show girls. Next week the "Jolly Grass Widows" are the attraction.

ALCAZAR.

Sol. Smith Russell's "April Weather" is one of the kindliest and most human comedies ever put on the stage. It was written by Clyde Fitch to fit the personality of Sol Smith Russel, who scored a great success with it in New York. It is a comedy of sweetest and tenderest human feeling. It is a splendidly wholesome play which has the audience giggling one minute and wipeing their eyes the next. Charles Waldron impersonates the poor artist and inventor, whose broad humanity and gentle kindness seems to expand under the trials of adversity. He loves little children and is the defender of the helpless. Miss Lucia Moore has a tender, simple role as a young wife and mother which he fills very satisfactorily. Lenora Kirwin plays a Bowery girl and introduces several singing and dancing specialties. There are a number of clever children introduced in the tenement scenes next week in Pinero's problem play, "Iris," will be given its first stock production. It is realistic in the extreme and discusses certain social problems with much frankness.

CENTRAL.

"The Girl Engineer" is the title of the thrilling melodrama being presented at the Central this week. It was written by Charles A. Taylor, who was at one time a railroad man in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company. The drama deals with the incidents in the life of an engineer. It has a pretty love story running through it and plenty of good comedy. Next week, "Big Hearted Jim" is to be presented.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"In Old Kentucky," with its race horses and buck and wing dances, continues to draw large crowds to the Grand. It is to be followed next week by George Ade's comedy drama, "Peggy from Paris." Beginning November 7th will be a two weeks' run of Klaw & Erlinger's stupendous productions of "Ben Hur." The sale of seats is already begun. Prices will range from $2 to 50c for this production.

FISCHER'S.

A strong vaudeville bill is proving very attractive to the patrons of this house. There are two performances each evening and a matinee every afternoon.

CHUTES.

Numerous headliners make up an attractive program at the big free theater. The concessions furnish a never-ending variety of amusement. The Zoo and the many other attractions make this the greatest pleasure ground San Francisco has ever seen.

It pays to talk tea, to give particulars of tea-growing and tea-curing processes, to make your public interested in tea. The American consumption of tea could be quadrupled with gain to the public's health and pocket, and we know of no quicker or better way of quadrupling the consumption than by the tea talk that will cause people to take more interest in tea. The secrets of the tea plant have pretty well been discovered, but tea facts well known to some people are dark mysteries to others because they have never been instructed.

GROCERS TO BLAME.

Loss of Profits on Flour Due to Their Own Carelessness.

While the flour mills could give the grocers of San Francisco and the bay cities a profit on flour in spite of themselves if they wished, the fact remains that if the grocers were a unit in demanding that profit and in making the mills understand that they would not sell any flour, the price of which could be slaughtered by cutters, that they could influence the mills to protect them without delay.

The mills themselves have pointed out the fact that they were willing to maintain a price on their flour whenever the grocers secured strength enough to force them to do so.

It Pays the Mills.

The Globe Mills have established the fact that any mill, if it is enough in earnest, can establish a fair retail selling price on its goods. There are hundreds of retail grocers who are pushing Globe flour above the other flours and thus have shown that the grocers who know their business can sell a high-priced flour, providing it has merit and cannot be sold for less money elsewhere.

Every grocer in the cities around San Francisco Bay is under a heavy obligation to the Globe Mills for the splendid stand they have taken in this particular, especially since every other mill doing business in San Francisco has refused to protect the price of its flour.

When the manufacturer is willing to uphold the price of his goods in face of the opposition of other long-established mills who allow their goods to be cut without attempting to correct the abuse, they take a step that makes them friends worth having.

Grocers Earn Extra Money.

The grocers in Alameda County are more fortunate than those in San Francisco. They have stood together almost as a unit in pushing the flour the price of which was protected, and, as a consequence, they are hundreds of dollars better off because of extra profits they have earned in the last year. Not only the Globe Mills, but the Bay City Mills of Oakland have protected their brands of flour, and, as a consequence, the grocers have almost pushed off the market the goods of the Sperry, the Port Costa Mills and Crown Flour.

SPROATS OPEN AGAIN.

It is reported that Sproat of Sproat's Market fame, has opened a store in St. Louis which he is running on the same principal as that which enabled him to do up the San Francisco jobbers so thoroughly. It is said that he intends playing the wholesalers of St. Louis the same game that he worked so successfully in this city, Denver, and Salt Lake City.

SMART VS. GOOD SALESMEN.

A good salesman is one who sells a man what he wants. I have heard this statement disputed quite often by people who think they know. Perhaps I am stubborn, but I mean just what I say—"these people think they know."

I was talking with a man in regard to this at one time and he laughed at my idea of a good salesman. He made the remark that any fool could sell a man what he wanted, but that a good salesman was a man who could sell him what he did not want. I told him I was not talking about fakirs but salesmen, men who could stand behind the counter and sell to the same people every week in the year, or men who went out on the road and sold goods to customers who would buy again and again of the same men and who, while they might not watch for the coming of the salesman, would always give hime a royal welcome when he did come.

We might say there is a difference between a smart salesman and a good salesman. What I mean by a good salesman is one who wears well; one who can sell goods in the same community as long as there are any goods to be sold. He does it from the fact that he has won the confidence of the people; also from that other fact, which is quite necessary, that he is pleasant and affable.

Smart But Not Good.

The smartest set of salesmen in the country are the confidence men; men who can fix up a gold brick and not only sell it to the farmer, but sell it to the banker, as has been done more than once. We have some pretty smart salesmen in Chicago, but it must be remembered that the smartest salesmen usually work on some one who wants to get something for nothing. One of the smartest salesmen that we ever had here sold the Masonic Temple for $12,00 and took $400 down to bind the bargain. That man was smart, but I don't think he was good enough to sell that same man another building. When these confidence men get into legitimate trade, and they do get into legitimate trade occasionally, they use gold brick methods. I do not mean to say that the average confidence man who has worked at con games all his life ever reforms and goes into business. I rather want to infer that in the regular legitimate lines of business we have men who have that same dishonest streak in them. They want to overreach everybody they meet. They want to make more than the legitimate profit. These men are natural born confidence men. They are out of place in legitimate business, but finding themselves where they are and being too hypocritical to come out and show their hands, they try to work the confidence game and still move in good society.

Deaconed the Flour.

I knew a man once who deaconed his flour, that is to say he would take a barrel of poor flour, take out half of it, or less than half, and fill it up with good flour. He found after a while that this did not work very well because they would not use all of the bad flour, so he got his fertile brain to working and made a different deal. He put a quarter of a barrel of good flour in an empty barrel, then put in a half barrel of poor flour, then a quarter of good flour on top of that. The customer would have the flour sent home, use down into the poor brand and occasionally would send for him to take the flour back. He would send his team to get the flour and would take it to the store, but would not take it out of the wagon. He would simply head it up, turn it over, unhead the other end of the barrel, and return it to the customer. By the time these people had used down into the poor flour again, the salesman would take chances that it was so nearly gone that they would not make another kick.

The Salesman Who Substitutes.

There is another oversight with a great many salesmen. A man will go into a lumber yard and ask for flat pickets. The salesman is out of flat pickets, but he tells the prospective customer that he has some very handsome square pickets that cost a little more, but they look much nicer and it would be much better for him to buy these square pickets. The chances are about ten to one that he does not make a sale, because if the man wants a flat picket and has his mind made up, that generally settles it with him, or if the prospective customer has the average amount of common sense that salesman loses in the customer's estimation by that remark.

The Good Salesman is Honest.

There is another point about salesmen that always amuses me and also teaches me that one can never ask a salesman's advice with any feeling that they are going to get an unprejudiced opinion. If you are buying neckties and lay one to one side, if the salesman is overanxious to sell he tells you you have picked out the prettiest one in the bunch. If you discard your first choice and pick out one that is as far from that as you can get, you will often find this salesman has changed his mind about the same time. I have tried this several times just to see what fools salesmen would make of themselves, and I don't consider that they are good salesmen, for they are not thoroughly honest, and as I have said before, the good salesman is an honest salesman.

Benamin F. Cobb in Lumber Review.

A SURE INDICATION.

Demand is the Best Proof of Popularity.

The continually increasing inquiries and orders for The Perfection Short Credit System are the best possible thermometer for testing the grocers' warmth of favor for this well tried and practical method of keeping accounts.

Its cheapness puts it within reach of all—2 cents per month for each live account is the running expense; and its simplicity avoids the danger of making errors. It is the most practical method known—any member of clerks can wait upon different customers at the same time without interfering with one another, and give each customer her bill to date. Honesty of clerks is guaranteed—no tab can be removed without leaving proof behind it. It is the quickest, safest and simplest method in use. P. E. Lenfesty, San Francisco, is agent for the Pacific Coast.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.

Points to Watch

RICE—
The Southern rice crop is estimated at 3,000,000 pockets this year against about 5,000,000 last year.

OLIVES—
This year's Spanish olive crop has been very light and prices are advancing as a result therefrom.

CANNED SALMON—
Extraordinary conditions are responsible for jobbers being able to buy Red Alaska salmon for 85 cents. This salmon will never be lower than now and, owing to the scarcity of fancy stock and low grade goods, higher prices are anticipated before 1906 is very old.

A ROTTEN CANDIDATE.

Retail grocers all over San Francisco know Fred Eggers.

They may not know what a bad Supervisor he has been and that is why this is written.

Eggers has earned a reputation for crookedness and boodling in the last two years that makes him a very undesirable candidate for any office—and particularly the office of Tax Collector.

Ed. J. Smith was a boodling Supervisor once. Everybody knows what happened when he was made Tax Collector.

It is not to be expected that the city would have any better luck if they elected that other boodling Supervisor, Mr. Eggers.

The writer has not the pleasure of the acquaintance of J. F. Nichols, the opposing candidate for Tax Collector. But friends inform us that Mr. Nichols is a man of the highest integrity and ability. He has been secretary of the General Relief Committee of the Odd Fellows for the past twelve years and in that capacity has handled much money to the entire satisfaction of his brother Odd Fellows.

Under the circumstances, the Advocate would say: "Whether you vote for Schmitz or Partridge, be sure and do NOT VOTE FOR EGGERS!

THE DRUMMERS' PARTY.

S. F. C. T. A. Score Another Big Success at the Maestic Theatre.

While the papers carrying this item were being distributed at the post office, the San Francisco Commercial Travelers' Association and their friends were being entertained at the Majestic Theatre.

The advance sale of voxes and seats insures a big crowd and a splendid time for all who go.

The Advocate will give a full account of the theatre party next week.

Chattanooga, Tenn.—H. L. Cragens, secretary of this Association, reports that through the effort of their Association a Trading Stamp law was secured from the legislature five years ago, since which time Tennessee has been practically free from gift schemes. The Association publishes a rating of about 20,000 credit buyers in their State. The information comes from the ledgers of every class of retail business.

FIND LYING NECESSARY.

Political Opponents of Joseph A. Stulz Resort to Vile Misstatements.

Joseph A. Stulz, the popular grocer candidate for Public Administrator, has surprised his political opponents by the whirlwind campaign he has made.

Wherever Mr. Stulz has gone, he has been received with a kindness and enthusiasm that has made it evident that he would poll the full strength of the Union Labor vote.

His strength with the wholesale grocers and other merchants in the wholesale district to whom he has paid 100 cents on the dollar for over twenty-five years, is a well known fact.

It is also well known that he occupies a peculiar place in the affections of the commercial travelers whom he has always treated with the utmost consideration without ever expecting any return since his advent into politics was something not of his own seeking and wholly unexpected by him.

Despicable circulars have been issued stating that the Labor Unions had to work fourteen months before Mr. Stulz would take a single union man into his store. This lying statement was repeated by a man named Dan Ryan from a public platform this week.

The clerks' Early-Closing Committee of the North End have been so angered by this, that they have issued a call to all clerks of the city, urging them to vote for Mr. Stulz, and stating that when the early closing movement was started the name of Stulz Bros. was the first to go on their agreement to close and it was largely through the assistance of Mr. Stulz that the signatures of all the other merchants of the North End was secured to this movement, which has bettered their conditions so materially.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Retail Delivery Drivers was held on Wednesday evening and resolutions were passed denouncing the falsehoods against Mr. Stulz, whose consideration of his men has always been marked.

The lying canard will, therefore, result in adding many votes to what Mr. Stulz would otherwise have received.

Mr. Stulz has never had any trouble with unions or with his clerks. Any statements to the contrary are falsehoods, made out of whole cloth in an attempt to counteract the splendid reception that Mr Stulz has been receiving at the many meetings he has attended throughout the city.

DOING GOOD WORK.

The Pacific Coast Commercial Travelers' Association is doing good work for the traveling man. The directors are taking advantage of every opportunity to advance the interests of their members. They realize the fact that the effectiveness of the organization depends entirely upon the extensiveness of its membership. They are therefore making a big effort to get in more good traveling men. Every traveling man should belong to the Association.

One person cannot do a great deal to better conditions. When 700 act together they can do something. When the Pacific Coast Commercial Travelers' Association has increased its membership to 1500, the organization can do much more.

Every member should exert himself to the fullest to secure that membership. Any traveling man desiring further information as to benefits, expenses, etc., should correspond with the secretary, S Moseley Woods, 416 Market street, San Francisco.

McCASKEY REGISTER PLEASES.

Many Merchants Accept This Means of Lessening Their Labor.

The success of the McCaskey Register on the Pacific Coast has been little short of marvelous. The trade has been gradually learning the possibility of saving time and lessening the chance of mistakes by better bookkeeping systems. The McCaskey Account Register now furnishes them with the ideal method of keeping a record of the details of their business.

With no more trouble than there is required to put the cash for a sale into a cash register, the merchant is able, with one writing, to do away with the necessity for pass books, journal and ledger. Every account is also balanced as soon as it is entered.

The McCaskey Account Register makes it practically impossible for a clerk to forget to charge an item.

While it cannot prevent dishonesty any more than a cash register can prevent dishonest clerks from stealing yet it is a check that makes it more difficult for the dishonest clerk to defraud his employer.

The McCaskey Account Register offers the merchant a wonderfully simple and effective system of bookkeeping. Merchants who value their time and know the value of system, should write to the agent, Wm A. Hawley James Flood building, San Francisco, for catalogues and further particulars.

THE PLACE SEEKS THE MAN

FOR PUBLIC ADMINISTRATOR

JOSEPH A.

STULZ

A MAN THE GROCERS KNOW THEY CAN TRUST

Peculiar Political Situation.

Many Good Men Support Candidate Who Has Bad Political Backing.

The political situation in San Francisco today will probably never again be duplicated in the history of the city.

Many men of exemplary honesty who have absolutely no selfish ends in view or political axes to grind, are out against the present administration and in favor of Mr. Partridge.

Among the retail grocers there are men like Claus Claussen, Harry Arnold and John King. They are not looking for political office or for political favors. While they are neighbors of Mr. Partridge, that is only a passing incident. They take the position they do as a matter of principle and their honesty cannot be questioned.

With them is John Lackmann, who as supervisor earned the honorable title of 'Honest John," which he upheld during two terms as sheriff. Mr. Lackmann's sincerity will not be questioned by those who know him.

Yet the editor of the Advocate feels that these gentlemen are on the wrong side of the fence and that the future will show it.

Schmitz Friendly to Grocers.

Mayor Schmitz has ever been a good mayor as far as the grocers know.

The talk of "graft" has never been proven by any act through which the grocers suffered. If there were graft, the grocers with their liquor licenses would be likely to be the first ones to suffer.

Let us see where the cry of "graft" comes from.

There is Herbert George and the Citizens' Alliance.

They want to "do up" the Union Labor mayor. They cry "graft," but bring no proof.

There is the Merchants' Association.

Most of its members are members of the Citizens' Alliance and own stock in the Gas Company, the Water Company, the Street Car Company, or all of them. They don't want Municipal Ownership—to which Mayor Schmitz and his administration are pledged. They don't want 56-cent gas instead of $1 gas. It would lessen earnings. They don't want lower water rates It would mean smaller dividends.

Therefore, they don't want Schmitz.

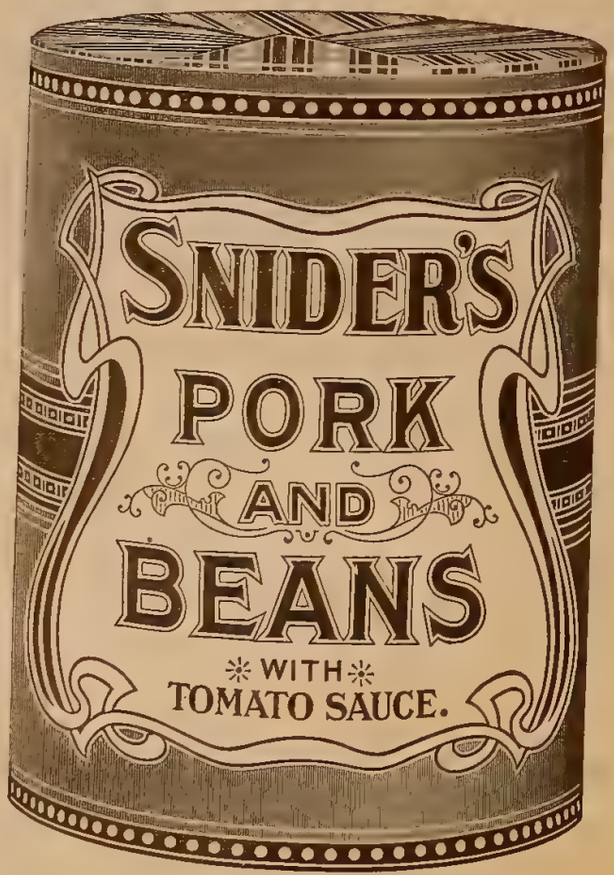
Under the circumstances, it would seem to the Advocate that these would be the very reasons why the Plain People—and that includes the retail grocers—should want Mr. Schmitz as mayor.

Every attempt to prove any dishonest act against Mayor Schmitz has failed.

The gravest charge against him that sticks is that the Merchants' Association doesn't like him. This includes many men of very high standing. The reputation of these men will carry weight with many grocers. It also includes as president, Frank J. Symmes, who is chairman of the Executive Committee of the Spring Valley Water Co., which does not want its rates lowered and does not want the city to own its own water system.

Rotten Politicians Included.

The 'Fusion movement as a reform movement would be entitled to more consideration if there were not so many rotten politicians enlisted in its ranks.



Martin Kelly, Phil Crimmins, John D Daly, Jesse Marks, "Dick" Welch, Pat Prendergast, etc., etc., ets., may be all right as crooked politicians, but they certainly weaken the reputations of any "reformers" who may take them into camp.

If the "Fusion" movement announced that they were trying to capture the "Republican Machine," then there would be no reason for criticising the make-up of their forces. But when they say: "We are the only honest men in politics. We intend to take the control of the city's affairs away from bad politicians like Eugene E. Schmitz and A. Ruef and give it to good men who have never done politics, like John S. Partridge, John Daly, Martin Kelly, Arthur Fisk, etc., etc.," why then the average grocer ought to say:

"I am going to stick by the man who has been my friend in the past. That's Schmitz."

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Push coffee.

Canned corn is plenty.

Tea is a strong member.

Coffee pays a good profit.

Small olives are short pack.

Don't forget about collections.

Keep the show windows trimmed.

Keep the candy counter attractive.

How are your mince meat supplies?

The canned tomato market holds its strength.

Demand for chocolate and cocoa is increasing.

Watch your cereal stock for signs of weevils.

Short pack will make French sardines high.

Norway mackerel are unique in point of whiteness.

Hominy has joined the procession and advanced.

Cartoned prunes will be more in evidence this season.

Light the store early these dark days. It looks more cheerful.

Dried apples are not going to be so cheap this winter as usual.

Give your fish department a fair chance to show what it can do.

If you have a private brand don't be afraid to let the public know it.

Keep your crackers properly. People don't like damp or soft crackers.

Talk molasses and syrups in your advertising. These goods are seasonable.

Imported Sultana seeded raisins are higher. All raisins are high this season.

Keep the bottled goods free from dust and shining. This will help sell them.

Chocolate and cocoa ought to sell better than in the summer. See that they do.

Canned meats are not active, although moving as well as usual for the season.

Teas are moving well, say the jobbers. The demand extends over all ordinary grades.

Cape Cod cranberries are reported good for only about 50 per cent of a normal crop this fall.

Rice looks like it was down on the cards for an advance, judging by reports from the south.

Supplies of new crop New Orleans molasses are reported a little slow in reaching northern markets.

An attractive display of pickles will sell them at any season of the year. Display counts in this line.

Canned soups are not used as much in some sections as they might be if better known. Advertise them.

Moorpark peaches this year show a good deal of brown scale. Few brands of evaporated cots are free from it.

Stick to a good line until you are very sure a better is offered you—and then don't be in a hurry to change.

Make a bid for the best coffee trade in your town and keep it by handling the best coffees. It's a nice business.

Canned corn is cheap and will sell well now as a leader. Here is a first rate item to feature in your advertising.

There ought to be a very large consumption of corn this winter. It is nearly the only canned article that is low.

It is always possible to have something new in the window. New grocery products come in at all times of the year.

Business on teas is improving. Supplies are firmly held and prices correspondingly strong in the United States.

Keep after the trade of your farmer friends. Advertise your bargains and a lot of the ruralites can be coaxed into town.

You may have to create a demand for real olive oil among your customers. But it can be done by proper advertising and demonstrations.

Why not demonstrate coffee every Saturday during the cold weather? It will certainly result in an increased business not only in that line but in others as well.

Build up a good business on candy this fall and winter? It is a profitable line and can be worked up and made a good thing for anybody who will take the trouble to do it.

In spite of the fact that there is an enormous oat crop all oat products are very firm. It is said that the chief producers have all they can do to fill orders and they are consequently very independent.

Where is the boarding house dessert coming in this winter? Prunes are high, dried apples are high, peaches and apricot both canned and cured are out of the questions, raisins are ditto.

Mirrors rarely come amiss in the show window. When they answer no other purpose they are convenient for the use of passersby, who can't resist a glance at their own features.

All kinds of talk is heard about what the tomato market is going to do, but nobody can tell for certain whether it will continue to advance or not. The only thing that is certain is that the pack is very short.

Cheap cigars are everywhere, but the really good cigar has to be sought. Why cannot the grocers who sell cigars get more business by way of the cigar counter? Why don't more of them advertise smoker's goods?

The canned fruit ssituation on the Pacific Coast is very strong. All choice qualities of fruits are cleaned up. This applies especially to apricots, good extra standards being very scarce. The peach market is in good condition.

Cables from Smyrna report an advance in all the fine grades of figs. It is stated that a number of the Smyrna packers have closed down their plants for the season, owing to the shortage of material from the producing districts.

How often do you scrub the store? A Des Moines, Iowa, grocer, has his establishment scrubbed every night while there are grocers that scrub only once every twenty years. Once a week is none too often for any store. Twice is better.

A poor order clerk is a bad proposition. He is not under the eye of the proprietor like the clerks in the store and sometimes he does things that he knows the "boss" would not approve of or makes promises that he cannot fulfill. Get a good solicitor and pay him a fair salary.

New honey is coming in and it ought to be going out with almost equal celerity. Unfortunately, the public is not always informed of the receipt of new goods such as honey, maple sugar and similar articles which are produced in strictly limited quantities. The dealer who posts his public is the dealer who leads the public.

The Pacific Coast Borax Co., makers of the 20 Mule Team borax, have put on the market a white borax laundry soap which is especially adapted for softening hard water. A line of other borax preparations has also been put out by the company, including a boric talcum powder and a powdered borax preparation for toilet use.

Flat decorations or designs, such as circles built with wheel spokes, diamonds, hearts, shields, crosses, etc., are much more easily arranged and take fewer goods than do the upright structures of lofty altitudes. Another point in the favor of horizontal designs is the fact that they interfere very slightly with the passage of daylight from the outside to the inside of the store.

Town-loving dealers can't do better work at booming the town than by fixing up their show windows in the best shape. The fine show window is of more vital moment to the town than is the newspaper advertisement that maybe cost more. Think what it would mean to any business community in need of recognition from outside, if every store window in the place were utilized to the utmost possible extent.

Canned delicacies, particularly meats and fish, are susceptible to energetic treatment and sell accordingly. If a grocer has any doubt on this particular score, let him put some of the rarer kinds of canned fish, souser or spiced, on the demonstration table and the chances are that he will have an active inquiry for the goods. Where we have noticed interest in the goods is among visitors from the interior to whom fish is more of a luxury than it is in seaside cities.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

National Association—National President John A. Green reports that through the intervention of the National Association the manufacturers of seven of the largest match concerns in the country have agreed to abolish the practice of giving premiums.

Fort Wayne, Ind.—The Indiana State Retail Grocers Association is very strong. It recently amalgamated with the Retail Merchants' Association, which includes all branches of trade, and was very strong in Fort Wayne, where it has the full confidence of all the merchants.

Toledo, Ohio—At each meeting of the Retail Grocers' Association, a card is drawn from a box in which is placed a ticket for every member of the Association. The ticket drawn at the last meeting of the Association was number 156. This was the number of a member who was not present at the meeting, and the prize, which was $5, reverted back to the treasury.

Akron, Ohio—The Retail Grocers' Association has decided that in the future no favors will be asked of manufacturers or jobbers. All the expenses of the organization will be met by contributions from the members themselves. The secretary of the State Association has secured 250 applications for fire insurance amounting to about $700,000. As the law requires applications of at least 200 and the amount at least $500,000, the Merchants' Mutual Fire Insurance Company will soon be in operation.

Lansing, Mich.—Because of the action taken at the last state convention of the Michigan Retail Merchants' Association, the Secretary of State no longer allows peddlers to take out licenses for the few summer months. If a man wants to peddle in Michigan, he has to pay the full yearly license of $75 in a lump. This serves to lessen the number of peddlers.

COMPUTING DEVICES BARRED.

Only the Dunn and Anderson Cheese Cutters Can Now Use This Device.

The Anderson Tool Company has notified Mr. Wm. A. Hawley, their Pacific Coast representative, that no cheese cutter except those of their manufacture have a right to sell a cheese cutter with a computing attachment. They also notified him that manufacturers and jobbers selling machines carrying this attachment would be prosecuted to the full extent of the law. Their letter is as follows:

Dear Sir: We beg to advise that the Total Value Scale Patent covering the method of computing as used on our "Dunn" and "Anderson" cheese cutters has just been granted by the United States Patent Office. The patent is numbered 800431 and dated September 26th, 1905. The application for this patent has been in the patent office for many months, regarding which we have notified the trade throughout the United States a number of times

It is our desire wherever you locate a maker, a user or seller of a machine computing in money value you send the name of such maker, user or seller to us promptly, upon receipt of which we will expect to take immediate action to secure adjustment of any and all infringement, which would also include the discontinuing of the making, using or selling of infringing machines.

While there are, at this time, a number of cheese cutters being manufactured, nearly every machine submitted for our examination is using in some manner or form the Total Value Scale above mentioned.

We are now notifying the jobbers throughout the United States to immediately cease the use or sale of all infringing machines and we will be glad to have you supply us with the names and addresses as above mentioned of any jobbers who are not now on our list.

We would request that you pay particular attention to the retail dealer who may have purchased his machine from a jobber, for the reason that if said machine be an infringement we shall expect the use of same to be discontinued promptly. Our object will be to free the market of the manufacture or use of all infringing machines without any unnecessary delay.

Yours very truly,

The Anderson Tool Company.

PACIFIC COAST PRODUCT.

Meritorious Jars for Home Canning Win Gold Medals.

The Economy Jars, for home canning of vegetables, fruits, fish, soups, game, meats, jellies, jams and preserves, received the gold medal at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland.

These jars are a Pacific Coast product and are made by the Kerr Glass Manufacturing Company of Portland, Ore., and the Spohn-Patrick Co. are the agents.

Among the advantages of this jar may be mentioned the following: It is made of crystal white flint glass; has a wide, smooth mouth, that your hand can easily slip into, it is a molded jar with the glass of uniform thickness, and is not liable to break; there is no rubber to adjust, the sealing being done by means of a pure composition fixed to the cover; the cover is covered with gold lacquer that is as absolutely impervious to fruit acids as the glass itself, and all parts of the glass are impervious to fruit acids.

"20th Century Soap"

We send demonstrators and salesmen right into his own neighborhood and put this soap right into the homes of his own customers—giving the grocer the benefit and profit of the sales. It requires little effort on the grocer's part to move the goods.

And "20th Century Soap" is such a repeater. Everywhere it goes it stays. It can be used in so many ways to such good advantage that no housekeeper who has ever used it will be without it.

Furthermore, the advertising that is being carried on all the time for "20th Century Soap" is singularly and wonderfully effective in selling the goods. It has been unusually successful so far and will continue to be.

"20th Century Soap" yields the dealer a liberal and handsome profit.

PRICES FOR PROFIT.

Charges That Must Be Made if the Business Is to Pay.

Pacific Coast grocers can study with advantage the following article which we re-print from the "Commercial Bulletin" of Minneapolis:

"At the meeting of the Minneapolis Retail Grocers' Association the other night a very interesting subject came up—that of profit.

"It was shown by actual incidents that many grocers not only do not get a fair profit on certain lines but that they do not know whether they make or lose.

"The buying of cranberries and selling them on the supposition that there are from 110 to 120 quarts in the barrel was instanced.

"An incident told of a man buying green corn in the early season and selling it on the supposition that there were from eight to ten dozen ears in the box, when as a matter of fact, but three or four dozen salable ears were found.

"Many grocers apparently have no idea of the amount made—or lost in some departments—particularly in fruit and vegetables.

"The bunch of bananas or the box of peaches is a good illustration of this. Many grocers guess at the number of bananas on a bunch and make a price per dozen that they think will pay a profit. Usually, by the time spoiled fruit is deducted there is no profit if the truth were known.

"Fruits and vegetables are not the only offenders. Many staple lines are not sold at a sufficient profit.

"The grocers of Plainview, Minn., have a list of selling prices that allow them a fair profit and which would not be a bad guide for any store. The Plainview list is as follows.

TESTING THEIR LAW.

Massachusetts Merchants to Find if They Can Contral Stamps.

Test of the trading stamp law, so called, will be made in Brockton in a suit brought by the city against the Grand Union Tea Co., to recover the amount of a state tax collected by the city from firms doing a business in which a trading check or something similar is issued, says the "New England Grocer" The amount of the original tax was $18.96, and with this suit is brought for the interests and costs. Attachment was made this week.

It will probably develop into a test case. The city, through Tax Collector Pope, has tried unsuccessfully to collect the tax in question. He consulted City Solicitor James J. Dowd and suit was advised.

FOR SALE—Good paying grocery store and bar on Third street. Rent reasonable. Lease given. Good location and good business. Proprietor leaving city. A fine chance for a live man. Address GROCER, care Advocate.

WHY THEY SELL IT.

A Leading Grocer Tells Why He Gives Preference to Globe Flour.

One of San Francisco's leading grocers has built up a big trade on "A1" flour and also sells large quantities of the other brands of the Globe Mills. In explaining why he did this, he said:

"First. I get a fair profit on the product of the Globe Milling Co.'s flour and know that some competitor is not selling the same brands for less money.

"Second. Every time that I sell "A1," "Bouquet," or "Silver Star" I am saved the necessity of selling some other flour on which there is no margin of profit, if I wish to compete with the price established by the cutters and on which I would get no profit.

"Third. The selling of the above brands of flour is, in my judgment, the best argument that can be made to the other manufacturers why they should protect the selling price of their products against the cutters of our city, who, if they do make a margin of profit at the prices advertised by them, must certainly be favored by special prices given them by the manufacturer of the product so advertised, and consequently is an unjust discrimination against the regular dealers of our city"

AMONG THE GROCERS.

H. F. Bobb & Co. have one of the most attractive and prosperous grocery stocks in the pretty town of Haywards, and are doing a large and thriving trade.

Toft & Niessen, Haywards, are doing a prosperous trade, and have a good general stock of goods.

S. G. Lane of Allendale has one of the newest and brightest stores in his town and is carrying a large and varied stock. Trade is good with him.

A. Guild of Diamond is an old timer in his town, and has a big trade, the result of years of close attention to his business.

C. E. Archer of Fruitvale has a thriving trade. His old stand has become known to a wide circle of townsmen, and carries a fine assortment of goods.

J. E. Frazier of Fruitvale has a well selected stock of groceries, and merits the splendid trade he has built up.

C. Elferle of Fruitvale feels well pleased with general trade conditions. He carries a good stock and makes an attractive display.

Attracting Trade

NOVEL USE FOR WINDOW.

A small grocer with limited captal, but a hustler nevertheless, had been trying to keep his trade from the competition of a large store across the street.

His success had been almost remarkable until recently, when the large store had added a bakery, a candy department and a cooked food counter. Somehow it seemed as though his trade had begun to drop off.

Now, he couldn't afford the expense of putting in the ovens, etc., for baking. Again, he hadn't the room. His store was crowded as it was. But he determined that he would not be downed. And this is how he started what turned out to be the best paying branch of his business.

He had a large corner window in which he was in the habit of displaying goods. This he cleaned out entirely.

Opens Bakery in Window.

First, he placed a large gas range in the window, together with the necessary tables, cooking utensils, etc. Then he secured an attractive-looking young lady who could cook, make candies and similar articles. Here was his bakery complete at an expense of less than $25 dollars. The gas company loaned him the range for the advertising they would get out of it.

Did it pay? It was the best window display he could possibly get. Put any moving or living object in a window and it is sure to attract attention. His windows were always crowded. The young lady was always preparing and cooking something. Meats were cooked, salads prepared, bread, rolls, doughnuts, cakes of all kinds, pies and all bakery foods were cooked "as mother used to." Candies of various kinds were prepared on certain days of each week.

"A Cookery Not Ashamed of Itself" was what the grocer called it. "See for yourself the materials we use—see the foods cooked before your eyes. Get them hot—right out of the oven. Everything clean, neat, and prices within reason. Beans and brown bread on Saturday."

Secured Better Prices.

His prices were higher than charged by ordinary grocers or bakers. They had to be. He used better and purer materials. But he turned out much better goods. Quality counted for a great deal, and his trade grew. He had to enlarge his store, put in more ranges, more girls. He never changed his methods or lowered the quality of his material. Everything—the preparing, baking, cooking—was open for inspection. Although it was only a short time ago that he originated this novel bakery, his reputation and the novelty of his idea have traveled a long way. Today he frequently ships fancy cake right into one of the largest cities, many miles away. The plan is so simple that any enterprising grocer might try it with success.

CO-OPERATIVE DELIVERY.

Escondido—The new delivery system for the grocery stores has gone into effect. Under this arrangement the four stores will have one wagon. They have agreed on certain streets as the limits to which they will deliver. Two deliveries will be made daily, one in the morning and one in the afternoon. There will be no more soliciting, and orders will have to be given the stores personally or by telephone. The grocery merchants claim that this system of delivery will be more satisfactory to their customers than the old method, as it will do away with the annoyance caused by the solicitors of the several stores taking up their time.

WINS NEW TRADE.

Diamond "C" Products Help Merchants Secure Additional Customers.

When a dealer can offer his trade something a little bit better than the ordinary run, every part of his business profits by it. The public appreciate extra quality and it forms the subject of pleasing comment with the dealer's friends.

A woman likes to tell her neighbor about something she has had that was particularly nice. When this something is an especially delicious piece of ham or bacon, the neighbor is likely to go to the same place to get some for herself.

Grocers who handle the Diamond "C" products of the Cudahy Packing Company have found that their trade is benefited in this way.

A pleased customer is a profitable customer in two ways. A pleased customer is willing to pay a fair profit without questioning the price and what is more important still, the pleased customer becomes the merchant's best advertisement.

It has been the recommendation of people who have tried the Diamond "C" products and liked them and also the grocers who have found that they formed a profitable part of their stock that has caused the enormous increase in the sale of these goods by the Cudahy Packing Company.

SUGAR.

There has been no change during the past week in the local sugar market.

New York, Oct. 31—Sugars have been dull and neglected during the past seven days with prices unchanged. London refined beet sugars quiet but somewhat steadier.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"The coffee market is very quiet, as buyers are holding off to see what will be the condition of the market after the December liquidations. There have been small transactions in the past week but not sufficient to affect prices."

Bogota, Columbia—U. S. Consul General Reeder reports:

"Brazil has shipped 800,000 bags of coffee in January. The export low grades against 3,000,000 bags a year

RICE.

Mr. Philips & Co. say:

"The market has again advanced and mills in the South sell and their offerings of those goods can reach San Francisco as the Eastern cities get samples three days before San Francisco. The mill will consume more than 3,000,000 pockets against 2,000,000 last season. Prices for the 2 pound prices be for the rest of the year Japans $5.00 to $5.75 Lake Charles $3.00 to $6.50 Head Rice $3.00 to $4.00 China No 1 $4.00 Other grades in proportion.

New York, Oct. 24—Dan Talmadge's Sons' Co. report:

"Business has been limited during the week both on account of town, buyer being a spectator. Prices are well sustained on fine grade but Hondos are lower, the latter ranging a trifle lower.

"Advices from the South report good demand on the Atlantic Coast. Planters are disposed to hold for higher prices, but the consumptive demand will be governed by the condition of the market, which is about average just now. At New Orleans prices are unchanged. The market is steady and prices on such are held firmly. Offerings are light, buyers are in active request and prices have advanced on the parcels. The demand is widespread and the market is firm. Prices are unchanged. A comparison of the movement of Rough and Cleaned last year and present season, will forcibly illustrate course of the market

Oct. 23rd, 1904.
Receipts Rough. 771,692 sacks.
Sales Cleaned, 476,882 pockets
Oct. 23rd, 1905.
Receipts Rough, 450,500 sacks.
Sales Cleaned, 397,893 pockets.

From the above it will be noticed that receipts last year were 70 per cent more than this year, while sales were 6 per cents more. This difference in receipts and sales will account for the strong conditions prevailing."

CANNED FRUITS.

The market on all classes of canned fruits is firm and steady. California fruits are firm in the Eastern markets with a good jobbing demands.

JAMS.

London, England—The "Mail says: "As a result of the generally short fruit crop this season, jams will be sold at an increase of 1 to 1½ pence per lb. The three great jam fruits, strawberries raspberries and black currants, have all been failures from the boilers' point of view and manufacturers had to pay increased rates for their supplies. Raspberries were plentiful when the price was too high for jam making, but became scarce when ordinarily they should have been cheap and plentiful."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, October 31—The market for canned tomatoes is unsettled Holders are not urging sales

Baltimore, Md., October 20—The "Trade" reports:

"No item in the whole canned goods situation exemplifies the demand in canned tomatoes so much as the fact that packers in New York state have been buying raw tomatoes by the ton in Ontario, Canada, and having them shipped to their ports on Lake Ontario paying 25 per cent duty on them. The market has shown an upward tendency on full Standard 3s with 97½ cents to $1.00 quoted f. o. b. factory. Bids of 95 cents have been declined on fair sized lots. Off-Standards range from 92½ cents to 95 cents, and seconds are offered as low as 82½ cents. The market for gallons is string. Estimate place the season's pack at 7,500,000 cases."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, October 20—The "Trade" reports:

"Prime brands of New York State Corn, Standard are selling at 65 cents, which is 10 c bottom value. The competition of Western corn in New York has broken the strong position of Maryland corn so that it has been forced down to 45 cents and 47½ cents. There is much corn now being offered at 45 cents that is of good quality which 12 months ago would have been worth 20 cents per dozen more than it is today. New York State packers have closed their season and the output is said to be about 50 per cent of last year's production Fine grades are quoted from 50 to 65 cents, with common grades considerably lower. These quotations are 17 per cent below the opening price. Maryland Standard corn is offered at 87½ cents to 95 cents f. o. b. Portland, and 82½ cents to 85 cents on lower grades. The pack is completed and deliveries will be about 75 per cent.

RAISINS.

The item of controlling interest in the dried fruit market this week has been raisins. Owing to the fact that the Eastern buyers did not take up as many raisins as were anticipated at the cut last made last Saturday, October 21st, the directors of the Raisin Combine on Thursday, October 26th, put back the price to what they had before. Following this action, the board issued a circular to the trade guaranteeing prices against decline until January 1st. While the prices on seeded raisins were put back to the old figure, the cut stands on Thompson and Seedless Sultanas. Outside packers advanced their prices one-half cent on both loose and seeded.

The cut of October 21st was not absolute as many thought, but was entirely tentative. The directors hoped to close out about 10,000 tons of two and three-crown Raisins for seeding purposes. When the Eastern jobbers did not answer to their offer promptly, the combine did not feel justified in confirming the cut since it would have required a rebate on about 7,000 tons of raisins already sold, which would amount to something like $80,000. The Fresno "Republican" in commenting upon the situation says.

"The movement in raisings, just at the present is rather disheartening. While the East is bare of raisins and the crop is short, the market is strangely timid. The packers outside the Association cannot begin to handle the goods to supply the seeded demand and the East must have seeded raisins. It is true the associated growers have held the umbrella this year as in previous years, but there seems to be no way to avoid this. As in past years, the outsiders have had the advantage of the early market, but with the market reported firmer in New York and the small crop, there seems no reason why Association goods should not sell at the growers' prices."

Fresno, Cal., October 26—A fire in the 150 [illegible] Goldstein & Co.'s [illegible] week destroyed 400 tons of raisins. Two hundred tons were 1-crown raisins, 125 tons were 2 and 3-crown. There were

THE DEMAND FOR

DRIED FRUIT.

New York, October 31—The demand for spot dried fruits of all sorts is increasing. Prunes are in specially good demand. Bids on 40s on a basis of 3¼ cents f. o. b. Coast were turned down, holders demanding a 3⅝ cent basis.

FIGS.

New York, October 31—Smyrna figs are active. They are bringing an advance of ½ to ¾ cent at auction today.

ALMONDS.

New York, October 31—Tarragona almonds are higher abroad. They are quiet in this market.

BEANS.

Oxnard, Cal., October 28—The bean threshing is practically finished. Machines have been running from daylight until 9 and 10 o'clock at night to take advantage of the fine weather. The crop of lima beans is at least 50 per cent greater than last year. It now looks as if the output of beans for this season will exceed 625,000 sacks.

Detroit, Mich., October 26—Carson, Craig & Co. report:

"As intimated in previous letters farmers have not shown a disposition to market their beans very freely, for reasons stated therein. The result has been a sharp advance in prices for both cash beans and future delivery up to January. There has been an unusual demand which has been helped along by the poor tomato crop, and an advance in all other commodities, and it looks as if prices will go considerably higher. Our market closed at $1.62 bid for cash and future delivery."

CANNED SALMON.

There is much conjecture as to what will become of the enormous stocks of red Alaska purchased by the jobbers at the recent decline. Many buyers had purchased on their original order the amount of salmon they could use in the entire season. In order to get advantage of the cut to 85c they had to double their orders, since not to do so would put them at a serious disadvantage to their competitors. As a result, these firms have a stock just double their requirements, with no idea what to do with it. There is no question but that this salmon will for a long time be offered at very low prices and consumption enormously increased thereby.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 25th.—In a letter just issued to the trade, Brady & Co., salmon brokers of this city, urge the jobbers to assist in maintaining the price of sockeye and Columbia river chinook salmon and to push the Alaska "reds" as fast as possible.

"The principal items that stand out in special prominence in connection with the salmon business for 1905," says the Seattle company in its letter to the trade, "is the sacrifice price made on red Alaska salmon, and the comparatively light pack of sockeye. Considering how light the pack of high-grade salmon is, the jobbers are interested in maintaining the price on sockeye and Columbia river chinooks, using red Alaska as the main seller."

The circular states that the market is firm on all the different grades of canned salmon and quotes the stock of red Alaska and sockeye as fair, with medium red Alaska, pink Alaska and Puget Sound cohoes as limited.

The circular states that the comparative scarcity of cheap salmon, particularly chums and pinks, have caused these grades to be sold heavily, and practically every case of chums has been sold, leaving only a very limited number of pinks and medium red Alaska on the market as the cheapest grade of canned salmon.

In referring to the prices quoted, which are practically the same as the first quotations announced at the completion of the packing season, the jobbers are advised that it is useless to expect to buy at less prices than the present market quotations, as an advance is bound to be made on all grades with the opening of spring, and the market will remain firm during the winter months.

The prices issued in the circular by Brady & Co. are as follows:

Red Alaska, talls, 87½c; medium red Alaska, talls, 82½c; pink Alaska, talls, 70 to 75c; blood red sockeyes, talls, $1.35; flats, $1.50; halves, $1; Puget Sound cohoes, talls, 80c; flats, 95c; halves, 75c.

South Bend, Or., Oct. 20th.—The long-looked-for Fall run of salmon began Monday, and 18 tons of fish were delivered by Tuesday morning at the South Bend cannery. Most of the fish are dog salmon.

Black Diamond, Oct. 24th.—Both the local packing establishments, after closing for the season, reopened on Monday on account of the unprecedented run of salmon which began that day. For some unknown reason the salmon are more than one month late this year. The fish are large and firm. Their fine condition for packing is attributed to the unusual saltiness of the water hereabouts this year.

Seattle, Wash., Oct. 21st.—The "Trade Register" says:

"Gorman & Co. estimate that the Sound cohoe pack will not exceed 50 per cent of that of last year. The 10 Fraser River canneries operating on the second run of sockeyes put up over 60,000 cases."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

Baltimore, October 20th.—The New York correspondent of "The Trade" of Baltimore says:

"Conditions in American sardines are becoming generally more favorable. Some canneries are already closing and all will be closed by November 1st. The pack has been large but lower prices have increased consumption and no accumulation is expected."

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. say:

"A few Irish mackerel are offered now, but as price is about the same as Norwegian No. 3, they will hardly find buyers in our market. The Norwegian mackerel that we received last week—only 100 barrels—are of exceptional fine quality."

OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Spanish olives, Queens and Manzanillas will be very high in price this year, owing to a poor crop in Spain."

Philadelphia, Pa.—Cables from Seville, Spaine, announce advances equivalent to 25 per cent in all olive products. The trend of the market was shown when a well known importer put a price of $2.75 per dozen on a 10-ounce size of a new brand he has just started to push, while the same size in an old brand on which the price has not yet been advanced is $2.15, although the quality of the size of the fruit are the same in both cases.

CRANBERREIS.

The local quotations on cranberries are as follows: Howe, $12; Cape Cod, $8.50 to $10.50.

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"The demand continues moderately heavy, with a scarcity only of the choicest grades of wheat and tame oat hay. Alfalfa is in very light supply, but as most consumers of this grade are well stocked there is no material change. If we do not have rain shortly, a dry weather scare will be started which will surely result in higher prices. On the other hand, bountiful showers would not tend to lower quotations, for matters are being regulated entirely by the daily supply which, at present, is as heavy as transportation facilities will permit."

HIGH GRADE GELATINE.

Although comparatively new on the Pacific Coast market, no gelatine ranks higher in the East than the Plymouth Rock Gelatine, which for many years has been the recognized standard of excellence throughout New England. This gelatine has a great special advantage in that it can be measured with a spoon. It is free from taste and odor and is endorsed by physicians everywhere as the best and purest made.

The price at which this gelatine is being put on the market enables the retail grocer to sell it at 10 cents and still make a handsome profit. The local representatives are the Fred F. Hoobs Co., 95 Market street.

Cigars and Tobacco

J. L. Jerickau, San Francisco and Alameda county distributor of the Rough Rider cigar, reports a steadily increasing trade. This cigar is now placed on over 500 stands in this city and Oakland, and repeats rapidly.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. find the demand for their Optimo cigar of A. Santaella & Co. steadily increasing. The factory is so overcrowded with orders that it has been necessary to ship by express so as to fill the local orders for this favorite high class cigar.

The H. L. Polack Cigar Company are very busy these days filling the orders for the El Modelo cigars of the Cuban-American Tobacco Company. F. A. Webb, secretary-treasurer of the Cuban-American Co., was in the city last week, looking over the situation, which he finds very satisfactory so far as the goods of his house are concerned.

An estimate of this year's cigar leaf crop puts the figure at 156,000,000, or about six millions more than the yield of the 1904 crop.

Advices from Tokio state that the profits on the tobacco monopoly of Japan this year will be about sixteen million dollars, and probably five hundred thousand dollars more than they calculated upon.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of October 14th, says: A. Santaella & Co. continue to increase their working force, are making 90,000 Optimo cigars a day this week, and should be turning 100,000 a day to readily fill their orders. Senor Antonio Santaella, of the firm, is expected from Chicago next week.

London, Eng., October 12—British cigar importers, handling the product of the independent manufacturers in Havana, have been making great headway against the brands made in the factories controlled by the American tobacco trust, and it is current talk in the trade that large quantities of trust brands of Havana cigars consigned to W. Klingenstein & Co., and remaining unsald, have deteriorated to such an extent that they are to be shipped back to Havana, where it is understood that they will be broken up and used as a scrap filler for a line of small cigars, with which the trust is planning to shortly flood the British market.

Apropos of the discussion over the effect on mankind of cigarettes, it is interesting to note that at Indianapolis, Ind., last week, Dr. William B. Fletcher of that city defended the cigarette in an address before the Mississippi Valley Medical Association, in annual convention at Indianapolis Dr. Fletcher asserted that cigarettes are as harmless as any other form of tobacco, or as tea and coffee. He said that he would not recommend the use of any of these by the adolescent, but that years of experience and study had failed to reveal to him a single criminal act which had been inspired by indulgence in tobacco, tea or coffee. It is reported that prominent members of the association agreed with Dr. Fletcher that cigarettes are harmless; that an unreasonable prejudice exists against them; that nervous and mental diseases are not to be traced to their use and that the cigaratte has been made a "scapegoat" in order to cover up or excuse some personal vice in the smoker.—United States Tobacco Journal.

TRUST DECLARES WAR.

Knoxville, Tenn., Oct. 17—The tobacco trust has, according to a local newspaper, begun a war of extermination against a North Carolina manufacturer, who had succeeded in building up a good sale for his smoking tobacco in this market. The fight is specially directed against the Pride of Reidsville brand, a smoking tobacco manufactured by Robt. Harris & Bros., of Reidsville, N. C. The Durham smoking tobacco, manufactured by the trust, is pitted against it. It is a fight of extermination in the local market. How the fight will end is not known, but it promises to be warm and interesting.

EMPEROR WILLIAM'S PIPE.

Emperor William likes a cigar, but, according to recent reports from Berlin, he now declares that no cigar is comparable to good tobacco smoked in a good pipe.

In his smoking room there are several pipes, but some he has never used, and there is only one which he constantly uses. A beauty it is, having been fashioned by an artist from a design furnished by the Kaiser himself.

The bowl, which is larger than usual, is of meerschaum; the stem, which is rather long and delicate, is of Turkish wood; a fine-carved cluster of leaves ornaments the bowl, and a large silver W. on which a silver bird is perched, decorates the stem.

In this pipe the emperor smokes Havana tobacco which is specially prepared for him.—Tobacco.

SHORT-SIGHTED RETAILERS.

At a recent meeting of the Brooklyn branch of the Cigar & Tobacco Dealers' Association reports were made by Sidney J. Freeman and Robert E. Lane, and interesting remarks were made by M. B. Pato on the attitude of the average small retailer toward such matters as the exposition and the work of the association generally. "The truth is," said the speaker, "your little retailer doesn't care a straw for the association and its work. If anyone suggests that he should come to a meeting he replies: 'Why should I leave my business? Will the association put money in my pocket?' and so forth. What he cares about is immediate results. He does not look to the future. His attitude is that of the so-called practical man toward a man of science. The latter may have spent years of his life on some important work, astronomical or the like, but the practical man can be induced to take no interest in it. 'Why should I buy such a book?' he says. 'Why should I contribute to such a cause? Will it help me? What good does it do to anyone to know how far one star is from another? Will it fill a man's stomach? Will it relieve his bodily ills? Will it increase his business?' Yet without the work of the men of science, we of to-day would be little better than savages. So it is with the association. Your little retailer does not know its object, what it is doing, or what it is aiming at. Some means must be devised of enlightening him."

APPROVE MAYOR'S POLICY.

Wholesale and Retail Merchants' Condemn the Local Papers for Its Libels on San Francisco.

The Wholesale and Retail Merchants' Schmitz Club was organized on Wednesday evening, September 27th, with the following officers: A. Nordman, president; Paul Garin, 114 Sutter street, secretary; vice-presidents: E. Harris, S. Basch, C. Feldbusch, A. A. Ritter, A. H. Lochbaum Jr., M. C. Lasky, D. Harris, A. Rothenberg, B. Jacobs, Frank Koch, I Pearl, S. Raphael, I. Roth, J. Lippman, C. Mayer, F. A. Gamble.

The following resolutions were adopted:

"Whereas, during the past three years the industrial peace and harmony which prevailed in San Francisco has resulted in commercial and business conditions far more prosperous than at any time heretofore in the history of San Francisco; and

"Whereas, we believe these conditions to be largely the result of the conservative conduct of the present mayor of San Francisco and of the confidence which the wage-workers have in him as their representative; and

"Whereas, carefuly investigation and observation have disclosed that the antagonism against his administration is based upon false issues, and that he has conducted his office and administration conscientiously, honestly and ably; and

"Whereas, we find that in the administration of the office he has been true to the promises and pledges which he made before his election, and has extended to the merchants of San Francisco as well as to the wage-earners that equal and fair consideration which he promised before his election, and has truly and in good faith lived up to his chosen motto, 'Equal rights to all and special privileges to none;' therefore be it

"Resolved, by this club, now numbering 763 members, whose signatures are all appended to the roll of membership and representing a large proportion of the conservative and intelligent business interests of San Francisco, that the welfare of the city and the continuation of its prosperity and peace depend upon a continuance of the conditions created and existing under the administration of Mayor Schimtz, especially with regard to the peaceful and friendly relations existing between capital and labor, employer and employee; and therefore be it further

"Resolved, that we unanimously indorse the candidacy of Mayor Schmitz and pledge our earnest, active, undivided support to his re-election; and be it further

"Resolved, that we condemn most emphatically the injurious policy of a certain portion of the press of San Francisco in baselessly polluting the fair name of the city by defamation of its administration merely for the purpose of achieving small political results and thereby discrediting the city both as a place of investment and as a place of residence. Such policy is detrimental to the business interests of the city and will eventually produce most damaging results."

The evidence herewith presented is sufficient to convince even the most skeptical that there is no easier, quicker or safer way to advance your own interests than to push "CARNATION" CREAM.

HAS VALUABLE ACCOUNTS.

W. A. Hawley Is Representing a Splendid Line of Valuable Store Appliances.

It would be hard to find a line of more superlatively excellent store appliances than those which Wm. A. Hawley is presenting to the trade of the Pacific Coast Among his accounts are the following:

Jenney Electric Coffee Grinder—This coffee grinder is designed and built by the Jenney Electric Mfg. Co. of Indianapolis, Ind. It is thoroughly up to date. The machine requires little electric current to operate it. It has no complicated mechanism to get out of order and by actual test can grind three pounds of coffee per minute. Its general shape makes it a very valuable store adjunct.

Corbin Computing Scale—This is an extremely simple computing scale. It has but one beam, thus lessening the amount of trouble on the part of the merchant. The price varies from $34 to $60.

Swank Computing Scoops—Are made of aluminum, with a capacity of one. two and five pounds. The grocer can gather up the goods he desires to weigh in the scoop and the weight will be marked accurately on a special dial in ounces and pounds. As with the other appliances handled by Mr. Hawley, these scoops are guaranteed in every particular.

Dunn Computing Oil Tank—This is the only one-piece oil tank on the market. It is made only of iron and steel. The price is extremely moderate.

Dunn Computing Cheese Cutter—These are the only cheese cutters that can be made with computing attachment. A recent decision of the U. S. Patent Office has decided this, and the Anderson Tool Co. is requiring all other cheese cutters to discontinue such attachment to their machines.

McCaskey Account Register—This is a time saver and mistake preventor that is of enormous value, not only to those in the grocery trade, but merchants in every line of business. They are as valuable and necessary to the man with a thousand accounts as to the man with fifty.

All these appliances are sold on easy payments. A small payment is required down and the rest can be paid so that the machine will practically pay for itself by the time the final receipt is given.

All these appliances are sold on easy payments. A small payment is required down and the rest can be paid so that the machine will practically pay for itself by the time the final receipt is given.

Mr. Hawley is also agent for the Hubbard Wire Sewed Folding Boxes. These are guaranteed for two years and not only pay for themselves again and again by the saving they effect, but are also a great convenience.

WON THE GOLD MEDAL.

The Spohn-Patrick Co, agents for Welch's Grape Juice, were the recipients of the pleasing intelligence in the past few days that this delightful beverage had received the gold medal at the Lewis and Clark Exposition at Portland, Ore.

Welch's Grape Juice is a beverage very near to nature. It has been called "Nature's Finest Food and Drink." It is not a preparation; it is simply the pure, unfermented juice of the choicest Concord grapes; the skin, seeds and fibrous pulp eliminated. The process, which is the property of the Welch Grape Juice Co., transfers the juice from the lucious cluster to the bottle unchanged in any way. No antiseptic or chemical is used—as free from ferment and addition as the grape in the cluster.

AN INTERESTING BOOK.

One of California's Choicest Territories Exploited in Pictures and in Words.

The Southern Pacific Company has prepared for free distribution a beautifully illustrated and extremely interesting little book dealing with the Sacramento Valley.

The great empire of the Sacramento Valley is inviting the attention of home-seekers as well as tourists to a still greater extent, and the publication at this time of a booklet descriptive of this region is opportune. It consists of 112 pages, 5x7, profusely and finely illustrated, and has been brought up to date in a careful, thorough and painstaking manner. The description is detailed, and care has been taken to make it thoroughly reliable and authoritative, avoiding all exaggeration and anything that may be misleading in character.

In addition to the descriptive portion, the writer, Mr A. J. Wells, has given some forcible and valuable chapters on the subjects of "A Great Empire and a Great Opportunity," "Why Is the Valley Not Densely Settled?" "Cash Value of Climate," and "Social Life."

A chapter of especial interest at this time, in view of the reclamation work of the State and general government, is that on "The Delta Lands of the Sacramento," with a fine map of the region.

Tourists will be specially interested in the picturesque scenery of Lake Tahoe, the Sacramento River, and the region of Mount Shasta, the Fujiyama of America.

The illustrations are excellent, made from the latest photographs, which have been specially taken for the book and are unusually well printed.

The book will be sent to any address by any representative of the Southern Pacific or its Advertising Bureau, 431 California street, San Francisco, on payment of 10 cents.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Klaw & Erlanger's stupendous production of "Ben Hur" has been holding the boards at the Grand this week. This wonderful production is the same in every respect as when it scored such a wonderful success here about two years ago. There is no question but that the chariot race scene is one of the most thrilling and interesting put on any stage. The play is valuable as a sermon as well as interesting as a spectacle, and will repay anyone amply for the time and money required to see it. It continues next week.

CALIFORNIA.

There is plenty of snap and vim in the performance of the Jolly Grass Widows' Burlesque Co. at the California theatre this week. The chorus is large and daintily costumed and contains a number of pretty girls The leading lady, Mlle. Guichard, is a handsome woman who has a pleasant and well trained voice and much grace and vivacity, and her costumes are very striking. The various members of the company contribute numerous specialties at the end of the first part, entitled "The Widows' Wedding Night." The piece concludes with a funny burlesque entitled "The Sign of the Red Light," in which all the company participate. The Washington Society Girls Burlesque Company follows.

MAJESTIC.

The Neill Company shows to splendid advantage in "The Lottery of Love" this week. The various roles are happily apportioned, each member of the company having a congenial part. Mr. Neill does a very clever piece of work as Adolph Douzledot, the man who finds that his divorced wife has become his mother-in-law. Mina Gleason plays the mother-in-law with splendid humor. Good houses have rewarded this excellent production Next week a new version of the famous Santa Clara college play, "The Light Eternal," will be presented.

ALCAZAR.

The production of "Iris" at the Alcazar is a really notable one. Lucia Moore's interpretation of the part of the heroine is a splendid piece of dramatic work. Pinero's play is a forceful presentation of the danger and temptation that lurks in the faster social life. Iris is a widow whose fortune is to be forfeited if she re-marries. For variety, she trips into the half world in London and the continent. When the defalcation of her banker leaves her almost penniless, she is enmeshed in the toils of a Portuguese millionaire, who later turns her into the streets of London while in his fury he wrecks the apartment in which she lives. Chas. Waldron makes the part of Maldenado the millionaire, very real. The rest of the company is strongly cast and the piece is costumed and staged with more than the usual gorgeousness Barrie's delightful comedy, "The Little Minister," is to be presented next week.

CENTRAL THEATRE.

An interesting drama of Montana entitled "Big Hearted Jim," keeps the Central audiences excited this week. There is all the action to be expected in a border drama, where the ways are rough and most of the men carry and use big revolvers. Herschel Mayall plays the part of an heroic sheriff and receives hearty applause at the climax of every act as he assists the unfortunate or helps along the cause of virtue. A mammoth revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is promised for next week with a number of specialties.

FISCHER'S.

Mrs. Anna Shaw, the prima donna whistler, is the star attraction at Fischer's this week. This charming entertainer is not only the first, but is easily the best, of the professional whistlers that have been seen in San Francisco. The rest of the bill includes pretty nearly every variety of vaudeville stunt and the biograph gives a new series of very funny pictures Next week this house celebrates its first anniversary as a popular vaudeville theatre and presents a program that is so long that one performance only will be given each night. The chief offering of the performance will be "The Yacht Girl," a musical comedy.

CHUTES.

Bothwell Browne's "Gaiety Girls" are giving a very interesting performance at the big free theatre at the Chutes. They make up only one part of the program, the other numbers on which are nearly all head-liners. The Circle Swing, the Johnstown Flood, the babies in the incubator, and the rare animals in the Zoo make a line of amusement offerings that it would be hard to equal anywhere in the United States.

GROWING IN FAVOR.

It is because Lily Cream is "the original big can," and because its standard of excellence has been so uniformly maintained and even improved on that its sales have steadily increased from the day it was first introduced on this market.

It is an article the grocer can always safely recommend.

Handling Subordinates.

The head of a concern often talks to his men about the methods they use. Yet methods are minor consideration. It is the sum total—the actual results—that we want in business, says Richard W. Sears in System. I do not care what method a man uses in any department of a business so long as he "makes good."

The matter of success should be put up to the pride of the individual. He should be made to understand that his development depends upon himself and the quality of his work. If a salesman can show an increase of 3 per cent in the sales of his territory or department in a given period, he has proved his right to remain a part of a business organization regardless of his method of achieving these results.

Following out this same idea, I believe that too many instructions to employees are often fatal. Don't be too specific; such an attitude makes a man into a machine. When sending a man on a certain duty, it is never best to say, "Do exactly this," or "Don't do that." The proper course is to say, "Go and look into this matter to the best of your ability."

No Specific Rules.

The employee, if he is the right kind, will then, as a matter of course, do his best. Following out this policy, our firm has never had any specific rules for employees, but has made the business and personal conduct of each individual a matter for each to look after. We never use verbal praise with employees, nor reprimands. We often tell a man that he is working too hard or that he is underpaid; but in this case we add that he is being paid the limit that his position is worth and that he will be advanced as soon as an opening offers itself, if he is capable. The raise in salary or the promotion always comes to the individual without asking. Not that it would not be very proper for the employee to ask for a raise, but basing our attitude toward employees upon these principles, we soon discover whether a man is doing more than he is paid for and reward him because it pays us as a matter of business.

It is the man who, in the position that he holds temporarily, does more than is expected of him that gets the increase in salary or the higher position. Anything like special rewards, presents or bonuses is wholly out of place in a system of handling employees such as this. Men working on this basis would consider anything of the kind an insult. It would imply that they were not doing their best, where they were—it would be in the nature of a bribe. The giving of prizes for special effort, which is considered so effective in enthusing men in some organizations, would fail to have the desired effect in an organization where every man is given free rein.

This method of handling subordinates accomplishes all the usual results of the most highly developed system of choosing, training and retaining employees. It tries them out thoroughly—it finds the right place for the right man and the right man for the right place. It enthuses the worker and inspires in him loyalty to the firm.

Good Men in Demand.

In considering the chances of the man of ability in the present age one is forced to conclude that they were never really as good as now. Why, the "good man" can be found only with the utmost difficulty. Here is the great Equitable Life Assurance Society casting about over the whole United States for a suitable man to take the captaincy—the chairmanship of its executive board, a position that would command not less than $50,000 a year, and perhaps much more. He isn't in sight. All that it requires is just the perfection of those qualities which go to make a good business man. It looks simple—there's the chance! All that remains is for the young man to develop up to such a position.

Good young men are not numerous enough to fill positions in the cabinet of the president. He is constantly scanning possibilities and watching them develop around him.

Salesmanship vs. Order Taking.

"When I first started on the road," remarked the veteran salesman, "I couldn't box the business compass for a single point. I had something to sell, and I was bound to sell it; but my views of salesmanship were extremely hazy. In fact, I sold goods for a long time before I learned the most important principle of a successful sale.

"In those early days every order filled my heart with thankfulness and I let the customer know that he had made me a happy man. I looked upon it as a distinct favor, and I would say so. When I said 'Good-by' I left him feeling that I was indebted to him for the favor.

"The result was that every dealer in my territory took advantage of my foolishness and lost no opportunity to assure me that their personal regard for me and their wish to see me succeed were the only reasons for giving me their trade; for they could get better bargains from some other house. Then the "cheapening" would begin, and (knowing they were my friends) I would pare prices to the quick. I had a wider acquaintance in those days and sold more goods than any other man in the company's employ.

"One day in December I received a notice from the office that the senior partner wanted to see me at once. My heart gave a great leap and I saw visions of a largely increased salary in view of highly satisfactory services, etc.

"I reached the city the day after Christmas and entered the office with the air of a conquering hero. Fifteen minutes later the head of the house was handing me a Christmas present in the shape of a call-down that paralyzed my whole anatomy and stopped heart action. Things began to zigzag before my eyes and my hearing got jagged around the edges; but at times I would recover sufficiently to hear such remarks as: 'We won't stand for such nonsense'; 'Any fool can give away goods'; 'Every order you send in hurts our business'; 'You think we are in business for our health, don't you?' 'Where do you suppose we get the money to pay your salary and expenses?' 'You're no salesman.' "—Salesmanship.

New Orleans, La.—A number of the largest and most successful retail grocers have conferred with the idea of bringing pressure to bear to induce the wholesale grocers of New Orleans to refuse to sell the dry goods stores. The grocers decided that they could refuse to patronize any jobber caught selling to any but regular dealers and if necessary would buy from jobbers in other cities.

Points to Watch

HOLLAND HERINGS—
Are lower. If disturbances in Russia continue, that market will require fewer of these fish and more will be shipped to this country, which will tend to weaken the market here and further reduce prices.

NORWAY SARDINES—
None of the larger packers in Norway will be able to supply the trade this season with enough to satisfy the demand.

CHEESE—
Prices are higher on both New York and California State factory cheese. Martin's October is very scarce.

MACKEREL—
No. wegian mackerel is very scarce, bloaters being practically unobtainable, with higher prices predicted by jobbers and importers.

RICE—
Rice is very strong on the market with higher prices regarded as certain in the near future. Honolulu rice is again coming into general notice.

CANNED SALMON—
Sockeyes have been advanced and higher prices are predicted in the spring. Read the review on pages 20-21.

THE JOHN H. SPOHN COMPANY.

Large Commission and Brokerage House Changes Its Name.

The trade will be interested in learning that John H. Spohn Company is now the name of the large wholesale commission and brokerage establishment which has won such an enviable position in the trade as the Spohn-Patrick Company.

Mr. Patrick has had no connection with the firm now for the past nine months, hence it was decided that it would be better to have the firm known by the name of the senior partner, Mr. John H. Spohn.

Mr. Spohn has been active in the commercial life of San Francisco during the past sixteen years. He first found recognition as the agent for the Chas. E. Hires Company on the Pacific Coast. Later he established himself in the brokerage and commission business at 318 Battery street. The history of the firm during the past ten years has been a record of continuous achievements and triumphs. Many valuable accounts were acquired, and there was no exception to the rule that this firm achieved sucess in the introduction and distribution of the goods entrusted to their care.

The past year has been a particularly prosperous one Additional valuable accounts has been entrusted to their care and the record for 1905 promises to exceed that of any year yet in the history of the firm.

MAKING PROGRESS.

State Association Active In Behalf of Its Members.

By Frank B. Connolly.

The work accomplished by the newly elected Board of Directors of the State Association since the convention at Stockton has been of great benefit to the trade.

Immediately after the convention the secretary got together a 'Committee of One Hundred Grocers" in San Francisco to work with him in getting profits. The matter of the profits on flour was taken up and the committee met with the millers and the matter is now under discussion.

The grocers of Southern California are having trouble with a large department store. whose avowed purpose in opening its grocery department was to cut the price on goods listed by the manufacturers for the benefit of the retail grocers of Southern California. The State Board took this matter up and instructed the secretary to interview the San Francisco jobbers who are selling goods to this cutter to help disrupt conditions in that territory.

The firm of Wellman, Peck & Co. have taken the stand that they do not think it right to sell goods to anyone who does not maintain the consumers price as set by the manufacturer.

The other jobbers do not see fit to take this stand and we therefore consider Wellman, Peck & Co. as the retailers' friend, as our policy is the same as theirs.

A great many of the grocers are making Wellman, Peck & Co. feel that they appreciate the stand they have taken.

A. Schilling & Co. have sued three of the jobbers for violating their price agreement. This goes to show that the manufacturer is interested in having the jobbers work with the retail grocers in seeing that fixed prices to consumers are maintained.

The "Monthly Report" of the State Association is now out.

BRINGS NEW CUSTOMERS.

The San Francisco branch of the Cudahy Packing Co. is daily in receipt of letters from all sections of California expressing satisfaction with the high quality and easy-selling character of their Diamond "C" products.

The Diamond "C" goods are the choicest of high class products brought from the Chicago market. The animals from which the Diamond "C" hams and bacon are made are carefully selected and the entire process of curing and smoking is followed with the greatest care The result is a product that cannot be surpassed for either fine appearance of delicious flavor.

It is worthy of note that the correspondents of the Cudahy Packing Co. unite in insisting that their ham and bacon trade had largely increased since they have made a specialty of Diamond "C" products. This means that the goods are so particularly fine that each satisfied customer tells numerous friends who go where they can get the goods that are a "little better" than the average run.

We would call the attention of our readers to the advertisement on page 4 of this week's Advocate.

STULZ ELECTED.

Splendid Victory for the Popular Grocer Nominated As Public Administrator.

As his friends expected, Joseph A. Stulz was elected Public Administrator with a plurality of nearly 6000 votes over his opponent, Mr. M. J. Hynes.

Mr. Stulz's defeat was confidently predicted in every part of the city by those wise people who "knew all about politics." They explained that he was running against the most popular man on the Fusion ticket. Mr. Hynes's misfortune was that he was running against the most popular man on the Union Labor ticket, barring only the head of the ticket himself, Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz.

Mr. Stulz owes his splendid majority largely to the strenuous efforts of his many friends among the wholesalers and manufacturers who not only voted for him themselves, but used their every influence to secure for him the votes of their employes and their friends. The commercial travelers of San Francisco also did yoeman service as did hundreds of retail grocers of this city who have known Mr. Stulz for years and respect him highly as a good business man and one of the noblest of San Francisco's high minded citizens.

The splendid victory won by Mr.

JOS. A. STULZ
Elected Public Administrator

Stulz will be better understood when it is realized that Mr. Hynes was a member of numerous organizations and had a very large following among the Native Sons and other fraternal societies. In spite of this fact, the popularity of Mr. Stulz was such that he was able to draw enough votes away from Mr. Hynes so that that gentleman did not poll as many votes as did Auditor Baehr, Sheriff Curtis, City Attorney Long, County Clerk Grief, Treasurer McDougall or Coroner Leland. While he had only 428 more votes than Recorder Godchaux, who has been returned to his position several successive terms owing to his great popularity with the merchants of the city.

On Friday of last week, a rally for Mr. Stulz was given among the grocers, both wholesale and retail, the manufacturers and commercial travelers of San Francisco. This rally was organized very largely through the efforts of State Secretary Frank B. Connolly.

George Alpers, who succeeded Mr. Stulz as president of the local Grocers' Association, presided at the rally and paid a glowing tribute to the sterling worth of Mr. Stulz and foretold

A. Schilling & Co. Want Cutting Stopped and Demand Damages.

The trade will soon learn how far the right of a manufacturer to protect the retail selling price of his goods extends.

Several firms have been selling the goods of A. Schilling & Co. at a cut price despite the efforts of that firm to prevent this action. As a final resort, this firm has asked the courts to enjoin Sussman, Wormser & Co., Haas Bros., and Wm. Cluff Co., of San Francisco, and Salinger Bros. of Oakland, from breaking their price agreement on Schilling's Best goods. The firm also demands ten thousand ($10,000) dollars as damages.

These suits are of great importance to the trade. There is a principle of much value to the retail grocery trade at stake in this contest. In a letter to the Advocate, A. Schilling & Co. explain their reasons for bringing this suit as follows:

"We are determined to protect the price of Schilling's Best if there is any way under the law to do so. And for this purpose, we have selected the above firms, not because of their prominence as cutters, or as being worse than any others, for they are not. The reason we selected them was because they were strong and could secure good counsel to defend their suits and, if need be, carry it to the highest court. If we had chosen small firms we could have been accused of intimidating the weak.

"We want through these suits, to give fair warning to all just what our rights are and just what stand we propose to take with reference to those rights.

"We think that our fight for the principle of price maintenance has been, is and will be, in its effect, of the greatest advantage to the legitimate retail trade.

"Any plan that can be applied, any measure that can be adopted, any action that can be taken, that will protect the legitimate dealer from the demoralizing influence of department stores and other cutters should be welcomed by every fair-minded man in the trade.

"Respectfully yours,
"A. Schilling & Co.

CREAM OF CREAMS.

There are many kinds of evaporated cream on the market, but one is generally acknowledged as being the leader.

This is Carnation Cream, which from the time it was first put on the market has won one territory after another, until to-day the two large plants of the Pacific Coast Condensed Milk Company, its manufacturers, are scarcely equal to supplying the demand.

Carnation has proven entirely satisfactory wherever sold, whether in the frigid regions of Alaska or under the torrid heat of Mexico, as it keeps in all climates.

Besides its keeping qualities there are many other points in favor of Carnation Cream.

Every drop of Carnation Cream is thoroughly sterilized, and there is no danger from disease germs

A late cable from Smyrna said: The market for figs is strong, with an upward tendency; shipments are over, on account of the high prices.

Singapore canned pineapple is firmer The domestic sardine market is a little stronger. Factories are closing down to prevent the putting up of an over-supply.

Corn will be the leading low-priced canned vegetable the coming winter. A big consumption is looked for, as it will be used where tomatoes are considered too expensive.

Shipments of pepper from the East to the United States during the first half of October fell to very moderate figures, which has had a strengthening effect on the local market.

The more mirrors, the better. They make a few goods seem a myriad and two or three burners look like a torchlight procession. Not much skill is required to make the best use of mirrors.

Stewed tea, boiled tea and tea that has been left in the teapot for drawing after drawing, other leaf being added as needed, are responsible for much nervous trouble and more digestive disturbance.

Never before has the average quality of tea imported been higher than now. The coffee is of higher average grade, while very choice growths are selling at extremely low cost as compared with old-time values.

It's constant ever changing of the window and the freshness of display that counts. Keeping everlastingly at it is the best window dressing rule. Change is imperative, for monotony in the window means the reduction of a great force, a money-earning facility, to an eyesore or a nonentity.

Bottles look fine in the window as a general rule, but some bottled goods make better sales than others. For example, the bottles of olives, of sliced bacon, of pickles and of candy, of French vegetables, sell themselves in the window because their contents can be seen, and when seen appeal to the appetite.

Figs and dates in delicatessen and fruit stores sell freely when exposed to view The grocers could use glass covers for this class of goods and bring them more prominently into view without endangering their sale by reason of customers' fears of dust and disease germs falling upon the fruit Show cases are a godsend for the up-to-date grocery store.

Too many shops are unjust to their juvenile customers. I've heard mothers say many times: "I can't send Willie to Brown's or Smith's. They always palm off some poor article on him." Does it pay? The storekeeper gets rid of the stale loaf, the broken crackers, the decayed fruit, but in the long run he loses ten times as much as if he'd been honest and honorable with his small customers.—"Good Housekeeping."

There has been no change in coffee for several weeks. The market as represented by the options shows some weakness but spot goods hold up very well. All reports from the primary markets indicate that the crop will be as low as the lowest estimates, or around 10,000,000 bags. This is anywhere from five to six million bags less than consumption, a condition that would seem to indicate a very firm market through the winter.

A jobber said the other day that the "coffee trade was the greatest confidence game in the business," and he is about right. He meant that the buyer must have confidence in the seller whether it be a wholesale or retail dealer. Expert knowledge of coffee is possessed by few and the buyer must deal with some one in whom he has confidence unless he is one of the few experts. This simply means that you must buy your coffees of a reliable house.

Push olive oil as a remedy for tuberculosis. Advertise dried fruits and jams as better than pills. Discuss the superior charms of tea of fine quality as compared with exquisite wines. Show how breakfast foods create strength, cure dyspepsia and keep appendicitis at bay. Tell how excellent is the canned tomato as an article of diet for people with liver trouble Make the grocery stock a better and surer reliance than the druggist's stock for many of the ailments that foolishness is heir to.

Tea leaves should never be boiled with water. Boil the water in a large pot or vessel. Take a small earthenwar teapot and thoroughly cleanse i with boiling water. Put in the smal pot two teaspoonfuls of tea leaves and over them pour enough boiling water from the large pot to fill the earthenware pot about one-fourth full. Let stand three minutes, then fill the small pot entirely full of boiling water an let stand five minutes. You now have a perfect brew of tea. In serving, fil the cup only partly full of tea brew, then dilute with hot water to suit the taste. For iced tea, the tea brew should be prepared he same way, then strained into another pot and placed on ice When cold it can be served diluted and flavored with lemon, according to taste.—"Delicatessen."

Every grocer who handles a line that does not pay a good profit is largely to blame. When he gets several calls for a line that he does not want to handle— calls generally brought out by demonstrations or house to house sampling—he should stock just as small a quantity of the article as he can and chuck it under the counter handing it out only when asked for, never displaying it or never advertising it. In this way he can keep the trade of his customers and usually the demand dies a natural death in the course of time. If he puts such a line in and displays and advertises it, the demand will naturally continue longer and he will do more business at a loss than he wants to. The retailer is all powerful in this matter. He can create a demand or he can kill it. He should curtail the demand for lines that do not pay a profit if he is forced to handle them at all."

REPEATS READILY.

Plymouth Rock Gelatine, which is being introduced to this market by the Fred F. Hobbs Co., is proving a winner with the trade. This gelatine is sold to the grocery trade at $1.10 per dozen, with a dozen free with each three dozen purchased, thus making the cost about 82½ cents per dozen where four dozen packages are purchased. At this price, the grocers are able to secure a very handsome profit with the Plymouth Rock Gelatine as a 10-cent seller.

Although it has been on the local market only a few weeks, Mr. Hobbs reports many repeat orders from those who put it in stock early. This was brought about largely through the fact that with each carton containing a dozen packages, the grocers were given a dozen sample packages, each of which will make a pint of jelly. By the distribution of the samples the grocers were able to introduce the gelatine to their trade, thus making the selling of the goods comparatively easy and simple.

VALUABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Alameda County Grocers Listen to An Interesting Paper.

Oakland, Nov. 8, 1905.

Editor "The Advocate"—The members of the Alameda County Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, heard a very forceful presentation of the question "Our Tea and Coffee Trade," by Mr Ben Weed, representative of A Schilling & Co., Monday evening, November 7th, 1905.

The interest in the meetings is increasing and the value of these discussions is being appreciated by all who attend.

The latest developments in the action of the San Francisco jobbers in selling goods to certain Los Angeles cutters was reported and discussed.

Mr. Warnke, President of the State Association, said that as a result of interviews with the several San Francisco jobbers, but one firm had taken a firm stand and was willing to support the legitimate retail grocer as against the piratical cutter.

This firm is Wellman, Peck & Co.

He advised that it is now the duty of the members to vigorously support this firm who they had found to be their staunch friend. He said that the grocers now had an opportunity to demonstrate their earnestness in the principle of the manufacturer protecting his standard goods because this firm had been the first to give its support to this idea.

A Great Principle.

Mr. Hauch said that the great principle the grocer was fighting for, that of having the manufacturer set and maintain a uniform price on the standard brands he markets, was one that we must keep continually before us and hammer at it until it has become an accepted fact. Our main endeavor is to get the jobbers to support the manufacturer in carrying out this principle. We have succeeded in obtaining the adherence of Wellman, Peck & Co. to this. He further said that he hoped to be able to report very soon other jobbers who were willing to take the same stand.

Flour Mills Delay.

The Secretary reported the result of the flour conference to date which was that the millers were still debating the question. The Alameda County grocers are well satisfied with the increase in the business of those mills who had given them a uniform price and a fair profit. It would only be a question of time when the mills antagonistic to the grocers on this proposition would find the volume of their business so reduced that they would awaken with a shock to a realization of what this force is that is working among the retailers. We are content to let San Francisco grocers work for the mills for nothing if they want to, but we have gotten over that idea long ago.

It was reported that our honored member and ex-Treasurer, W. J. Reed, had succumbed after a long illness. The Secretary was instructed to write a letter of condolence to his wife and family.

Ben Weed's Paper.

The members now listened to the paper on "Our Tea and Coffee Trade" by Mr. Ben Weed. It will be published in full later. At the conclusion of the address, a discussion was entered into by all the members present.

As a result of a suggestion brought out by the address, it was moved by Mr. Hauch, seconded by Mr. Manning and carried, that a special meeting be called for Monday evening, November 13, 1905, to discuss a plan to handle effectively the loss of our trade to the tea and coffee peddler, and how best to regain it.

On motion of H. K. Duncan, seconded by L. Warnke and carried, a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Ben Weed for his able address on the main theme of the evening.

Netz Week's Question.

The question the Association desired to have discussed at the next meeting was talked of and it was thought that a paper prepared on the subject of "Package Goods"—those put up by the manufacturers and those put up under the private label of the wholesaler and the retailer with its bearing on the subject just discussed, would bring out valuable information.

PROGRESS IN MINNEAPOLIS.

The following letter just received by National President John A. Green, from Minneapolis, will be of interest to our readers:

"The work in Minneapolis is moving along very smoothly as a whole. Our grocers are loyal supporters of the association and we have certainly succeeded splendidly in trimming off some of the jagged edges of the grocery business and making the condition far more agreeable to the grocer than could possibly be hoped for or expected without the association.

"First—We have increased the peddlars' license from $25 to $50 per year.

"Second—We have secured the enforcement of the Sunday closing law, as applied to the grocery business.

"Third—We are perfecting a credit and collection department. No association is complete without a department of this kind. Nothing to my mind is more important and it should be made one of the most prominent features of association work.

"Just and efficient laws should be passed so as to provide reasonable protection. But it is hard to legislate honesty into a dishonest head; the honest man will take care of his obligations, laws or no laws.

"As an association we should make laws unto ourselves, governing such matters, and we propose to keep up this line of work. We bring the members in close touch with the secretary's office, and in that way get our information direct.

"We make collections the feature of our work, also demonstrating very clearly that more can be accomplished in collections through the agency of the association than by private effort or other means. We can say that the plan that we have adopted has proved thus far satisfactory, if it develops steadily. In time it will be the most prominent feature of our association work.

"I have not entirely covered the field of operations, but just enough to let you know that we are still making progress. We are in hearty accordance with the ideas advanced for financing the national association. Very truly yours,

"J. D. Williams, Secretary."

ROCHDALE COMPANY FAILS.

Lincoln, Cal., October 25th—The Lincoln Rochdale Company went into bankruptcy recently. There has been an auction sale of their goods this week. Farmers for miles around attended the sale and laid in a large stock of groceries for the winter at reduced prices. This has upset trade conditions very extensively. The jobbers who gave large credit to this firm, helped it to take trade and profits away from their legitimate, old-established customers.

BORDEN PUSHING SALES.

Demands for Condensed Creams Increased Because of Dishonest Milkmen.

The recent exposures of the dishonesty of the milkmen supplying San Francisco housewives has resulted in the enormous increase of the sales of canned creams. The shocking way in which milks were doctored and their food values lessened have made many people realize that to be safe it is necessary for them to buy a cream that has been sterilized and cannot be tampered with. The Gail Borden Condensed Milk Co., through their local representatives, the Johnson-Locke Mercantile Co., have made use of all the leading publications in advertising the purity of the Borden's creams. They also point out that the mother, who wishes to be sure of having a safe food for her baby, should buy the tinned article, which possesses all the nutricious qualities required and not only has not been filled with poisonous drugs but has been thoroughly sterilized

N. E. Jaffa, the chemist in charge of the food laboratory of the University of California, has given considerable attention to the matter of evaporated creams. In his report for June, 1905, his analysis showed that the Yacht brand of evaporated cream contained 8.10 per cent of butter fat, while the next two brands contained only 7.50 per cent, while one other brand contained only 4.80 per cent of butter fat. The July report showed other brands of evaporated creams that had not been analyzed for the first report were quoted. The creams showing the highest percentage on the second list was Pioneer which was shown to contain 10.12 of butter fat. The lowest percentage of any cream in this report was 5.70 per cent

The Gail Borden's Condense Milk Co. brands stand at the head of evaporated creams and condensed milks. They have established demand for their brands by the expenditure of hundreds of thousand of dollars in advertis'ng. It is essential for them to maintain the value of this name by high quality of their goods since confidence in the name is one of their most important assets. For this reason the grocers who handle the Gail Borden Condensed Milks need have no fear of Board of Health interference.

MAKES BOOKKEEPING EASY.

A System That Records Accounts as the Cash Register Does Cash Payment.

Every retail grocer can be benefited more than he realizes by a system that will enable him to save time in his bookkeeping and at the same time keep in better touch with the actual condition of his business. This fact has helped the success of the McCaskey Account Register. It is well to consider the following things:

The court says: "We don't want the ledger, we want the original entry." You have it on the McCaskey Duplicating Pad, and the customer has a copy of it.

The McCaskey Account Register keeps accounts, don't draw any salary and will pay for itself in the saving of clerk hire before you know it

Keeping accounts in books is unkeeping them in many cases, as every time they are copied there's one more chance to make a mistake; it is like a story. every time it's told its' a little different. But keeping accounts in the McCaskey Register is right, because you only write them once, and they are correct.

Wm. A. Hawley, James Flood building, Market and Powell streets, is Pacific Coast agent. He will gladly forward any information desired. The McCaskey Account Registers are sold on easy payments.

A SPLENDID SELLER.

Retail Grocers Assured of Satisfied Customers and a Fair Profit.

The most important element in the success of a retail grocer is satisfying his customers. When the article not only gives satisfaction to the customers as to quality, but is also satisfactory as to price, and at the same time pays the retailer a profit that is satisfactory to himself every element for successful merchandising has been supplied

It is along these lines that the Alpine Evaporated Cream Company is building up its trade.

Alpine Cream is made at Hollister by the improved process and under the personal supervision of Mr. John B. Meyenberg—the inventor and the original manufacturer of evaporated creams, who has had an experience of over twenty years and has been able to test and learn the value of every process that has been employed.

The price at which Alpine Cream is sold to the retail grocer permits of its being sold in San Francisco and the other bay cities for 10 cents, three for 25 cents, with a fair profit, and it will be the endeavor of the Alpine Cream Company to see that the price is maintained.

Alpine Cream is for sale by all jobbers.

BENEFITS RETAIL GROCERS.

Retail grocers appreciate protection. The fact that they have not only been protected in their profits, but have also been accorded the protection that comes from being able to "money back" an article, has resulted in a very large accession of business from the very best grocers of California by the Globe Grain and Milling Co.

This company will not allow their goods to be sold at cut rates. As a result, every grocer feels safe in building up a trade on "A-1," "Silver Star" and "Banquet" flour, without being afraid that, as soon as the goods become popular some cut rate grocer will steal his trade by cutting or force him to meet competition by selling without a fair profit in order to retain his customers.

The Globe Grain and Milling Co. did more than that for the grocers. They gave them the right to "money back" their goods in every particular. In other words, the grocers were made safe in recommending their flour as a flour of special excellence because they could say to their customers: "If you do not find this flour satisfactory in every particular, you may return whatever is left of it, and we will charge you nothing for what you used."

The cuts in the prices of salmon, tomatoes and corn, which distinguish the cut-price cash grocery stores from the "family grocery" stores, are absolutely unknown to thousands of people of moderate means. So also the grades of coffee that make so much noise in some parts of the country are never used, are never heard of, by the mass of the public. You can't cater to good trade with Alaska red salmon or low grade Rio coffee, and you'll find that some of the least pretentious-looking people will not take anything less than Columbia River salmon and 35-cent coffee. Corn, tomatoes and peas get the same kind of treatment and it is declared by some observers that a good deal of the cheap and inferior groceries offered at cut prices here, really meets with favor only among out-of-town consumers.

DRIED FRUIT SITUATION.

Outline of Conditions by a Recognized Authority.

J. K. Armsby, in an interview with the "Journal of Commerce" (N. Y., Oct. 30) said:

"It can almost be said that there are no peaches or apricots, so closely cleaned up is the Coast market. Foreign buyers are for the second time this season in the market for apricots and prunes and their inquiries add to the strength of the situation.

"Santa Clara prunes are practically on a 3¼c f. o. b. bag basis Jobbers are not in a speculative frame of mind, and are only buying against their daily wants, but there is a good deal of business being done over the country in that way. Prunes are the cheapest articles on the list of dried fruits and they are bound to have a good sale, but I do not look for any large business in them until after January 1st.

"The California walnut situation is interesting. At the beginning of the season 1000 cars were expected, but heavy rains during the budding season did a great deal of damage and estimates had to be very decidedly revised. Up to 30 days ago a crop of 500 cars was in sight, but owing to the fact that the trees did not leaf out very well it has been found that much damage was done by sun burning during the summer, and there were a great many blanks and poor nuts. When these were taken out it leaves only about 400 cars in sight or some 100 cars less than last season's crop. This year's nuts are practically all sold, the West having taken the bulk of them, the East generally speaking, not having confirmed The situation in new crop foreign walnuts is similar to that of the California nuts. The crop is short, and of poor quality, and moreover is very late, so that they cannot get here in time for Thanksgiving trade. Added to other drawbacks there is a heavy short interest in imported walnuts, which is a bad thing.

"It was expected that the California almond crop would turn out 350 cars, but the adverse influences affecting walnuts were also effective in reducing the output of these nuts and about 180 cars is all that were produced on the Coast this year. The crop, however, was extraordinary early, shipments beginning at August 1st, and as they reached the Eastern markets before the nut trade begun, a weakening of the market was a natural result. I look for a better market from this time forward.

"The white bean crop on the Coast was a good one both in point of size and quality. In fact it was one of the finest ever turned out. Similar results attend the harvesting of the lima bean crop. The latter is estimated at 750,000 bags and it is now absolutely safe from any influence that might be calculated to lessen it. The strong tone of the market is due to the large consumption, which is attributed in a measure to the high cost of other vegetables, especially potatoes. Then there is a heavy short interest which is squeezed. However, I look to see the present prices maintained, basing my belief in the stability of the market upon the extraordinarily large consumption. I don't think there is the slightest chance of a 2½-cent market, which is being predicted in some quarters. This year's supply, including the carry-over, amounts to 900,000 bags, against 1,000,000 bags two years ago, when the lowest price and that for a very brief period, was 3 cents."

MUCH BAD OIL.

City Chemist gives report that out of 189 samples of alleged olive oil, 29 were cotton seed oil and 8 were seasame oil. Out of 14 samples of alleged salad oil taken from various down town restaurants, 9 were found wholly or in part to be cotton seed oil.

In his report Mr. Gibbs says: "While cottonseed and sesame oils are harmless and rank in food value with olive oil when properly refined the fraud involved is that of misrepresentation. Olive oil costs from $1.75 to $2.50 per gallon; sesame oil from 85 cents to $1 per gallon, and cottonseed from 35 cetns to 55 cents. False labeling is resorted to in order to carry out the deception. Many of the bottles bear the words "Made in France," or some other foreign country, with the names of fictitious firms. The practice is fraudulent and should not be tolerated Foreign oils are often adulterated in this city after passing through the custom-house.

AFTER EXPOSURE OF THE CONTENTS, is an essential feature of properly prepared "Evaporated Cream." Attracting Trade

A Matter of Diplomacy.

If a customer enters the store and asks for a brand which you don't handle, don't try to convey the idea that you haven't got it because you don't think it is good enough for you to have in your stock. By assuming such an attitude you are insulting the customer by accusing him of wanting to buy something that isn't worth selling

By insulting his judgment you send him away offended, when left to himself he might have bought something You can reply pleasantly that you are out of what he wants, or are not handling it just now, and then mention a number of other brands which you have got, that are similar in quality to what he has asked for.

Don't volunteer the statement that they are just as good or better but allow him to infer as much. If he asks you, then you have a right to express your opinion, but even then it is better not to openly disparage the brand that he originally asked for unless you are certain that he will take it in good part.

Displaying Prize Trophies.

It is always a good stroke of enterprise for a dealer to display his show window silver cups, vases, or other trophies offered as prizes for various forms of athletic competitions, target shoots, or other sports.

During the summer season all sorts of social and political clubs, lodges and other organizations hold outings with a program of athletic sports as one of the features. In nearly every instance prizes are offered for the members to compete for. Naturally if these prizes can be conspicuously displayed in the window of a prominently located store it will aid materially in advertising the outing, and committees having such affairs in charge are usually pleased to secure the use of a desirable window for that purpose.

A display of this kind is a good thing for the enterprising dealer, in more ways than one In the first place it adds variety and attractiveness to his window display, as far as the general public is concerned, and in the second place it insures the special attention of the members of the organization under whose auspices the games are to be held, and their friends.

In most instances, too, it is possible to secure the insertion of paragraphs in the local papers, stating that the prize trophies are on exhibition at such a store, and this is in its way excellent advertising for the dealer.

The store in any medium-sized city that can become the recognized place for the display of such prizes and trophies, will do much toward becoming one of the recognized local institutions, and in the course of a year will attract hundreds of customers inside its doors who might otherwise take their patronage to the store of some competitor.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports for the week:

"A good crop of olives is being harvested. The apple crop has been nearly all gathered. It was one of the best ever grown in the State. Raisin making and fruit drying is practically completed. Walnuts are proving of good quality but the yield is less than the average in most sections. A good fall in Southern California has been of enormous value to orchards and ranches in that district. Hay and grain crops were under cover and harvesting practically completed in corn and beans so there was no damage done. Rain is badly needed in Northern California.

SUGAR.

The local market has been quiet with prices unchanged.

New York, Nov. 6.—Raw sugars are dull. Refined sugars are neglected but with unchanged prices since a decline of 10 points that was made on November 1.

New York, Nov. 2.—Willett & Grey report:

Raws—The trend of the market still continues dull as in the preceding weeks. Europe has declined to a new low level for beet sugar. Cane sugars have also sympathized with the decline. Our local markets, which closed at 3½c for 96 degree test basis, have been exceedingly dull although no lower quotations as yet have been made. The slow progress of the decline in Europe indicates that the sugar market has reached such a low level as to afford some hope that it has almost if not quite touched the bottom of the recent decline.

Refines—A general decline of ten points in refined took place this week. Prices have now reached figures which admit of more confidence to the market. The difference between raws and refined being reduced to 55c. The raw market requires watching and its course will influence future quotations for refined.

COFFEE MARKET.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

The market is quiet. Buyers are holding off until the result of December liquidation in New York shall be known. Coffee in first hands is firmly held.

"Our report from Central America is to the effect that Guatamala and Costa Rica will have small crops while Salvador will have a large crop."

C. E. Bickford reports in his circular for November:

"Increasing receipts at the Brazilian ports with steadily receding prices for actual coffee in New York, at this writing showing a net decline since October 6th, of ⅛c to ¼c per pound, have contributed to another month of slow business here in Central Americans. Although dealers have been reluctant purchasers there has been no noticeable pressure to sell first-hand holders being also inclined to await developments rather than accept a materially lower basis, and prices remain practically the same as those of a month ago, with a natural tendency under the circumstances in buyers' favor on occasions. Advices as to the 1905-06 Brazil crop are conflicting and uncertain, some indicating a disposition to increase former estimates of 10,000,000 to 10,500,000, while others say rains are much needed and prospects, in their opinion, less favorable in consequence."

New York, November 2nd.—Willet & Gray report:

"New York is now the cheapest market for coffee in the world, although the necessities of the trade for supplies are very great and already consumption has gone far ahead of production, while the actual supplies are held in strong hands and coffee holdings, for legitimate investment, is better value than many other first class staples. Although Brazil, during the first four months, sent down more than 5,759,000 bags (which was more than one-half of the current crop) and Europe and this country in the same time have taken out 5,350,000 bags from their own seaports, yet the interior of both countries stands in need of supplies. In the next eight months the world can only count upon 4,250,000 bags of new supplies from Rio and Santos and 3,000,000 from other sources, making a total of 7,250,000 bags, while the consumption, if no larger than prevails at present, will amount to 11,200,000 bags, which leaves a difference of nearly 4,000,000 bags drawn from the world's available supply. From all that is known about the Brazilian plantations and the condition of the trees, it is not a question of how big the next crop will be, but how small it may be. A great deal depends upon the weather. Current reports are not favorable."

TEA.

M. J. Brandenstein & Co. report the following advices on Japan tea, dated Yokohama, September 30th:

"Third crop teas have been marketed and fourth-crop pickings are arriving in very small quantities, which indicates that the entire crop this season will be an extremely small one. Prices have gradually advanced during the past three weeks and are at present 3 yen per picul higher. Low grades have been in strong demand both for export and home consumption, but as the supply has been limited prices have advanced to such an extent that low grade teas, particularly baskets, considering style and quality, are entirely too high for the American market. Quality has been disappointing on account of the unseasonable weather. Style in general is inferior to teas of last season."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say.

"The market on Japans has reached $5 and a further advance is looked for. We have advised buyers to stock up continually for the past sixty days, but the retail trade seem to think there will be a decline when the new rice comes in. For the information of the trade we would say new rice has been in for the past six weeks, and we consider rice cheap at present prices, and advise buying for future.

"Carolina rice is again up an eighth of a cent.

"Honolulu Rice—This rice has again taken a strong hold with the trade; it is the best value in the market. Several years ago it was the only rice sold on the Coast and in 60 days it will again be sold in every retail store on the Coast."

Tokio, Japan, Nov. 2.—The latest official estimated shortage of the rice crop this year is nearly 14 per cent less than the average crop, and 25 per cent less than the crop last year. A private estimate makes the shortage still more. It is believed that the Government will rescind the import duty on rice.

New York, Oct. 31.—Dan Talmage's Sons Co. report:

"The market for the week has been very brisk, sales running up to maximum figures for the season. Honduras has been in active request, but the larger transactions have been in Japans, for which there is an eager demand. Prices are well sustained in consequence, especially as holders are unable to get resupplies except at an advance over cost of recent arrivals.

"Advices from the South note strong market on the Atlantis Coast, offerings not large and sales made only at full figures. At New Orleans there is an active demand with firm tone on all styles. Japan sorts have advanced and the highest prices of the season secured. Medium grades of Honduras are in scanty supply and are quickly absorbed at full prices.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm tone, with improved demand."

CANNED FRUITS.

New York, Nov. 7.—Canned fruits of all varieties are strong. Advance in peaches is expected.

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, Nov. 7.—Tomatoes are quiet and unchanged. More sellers are offering tomatoes at 95c, factory.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—The "Trade" reports:

"Every day that passes shows that the amount of tomatoes secured throughout the United States during the past season was scarcely sufficient to supply the demand. The market, however, is very quiet. The general opinion is that the buyers intend to allow it to remain in that position until they manage to get control of the bulk of the stock in existence. This will take almost from now to January 1st. Meantime every effort will be made to lessen the price. Once they are in possession of the goods, however, the advance will come rapidly. The natural conclusion is that we will have higher tomatoes from January until the usual crop season."

The New York correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"Occasional offerings of tomatoes are made on the basis of 95c for full Standard Maryland 3's. No large lots are available at that figure. All the large holders are quoting 97½c to $1 f. o. b. factory. Seconds, 3's, are quoted at 82½ f. o. b. factory, although nearly all holders quote 85c."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27—The "Trade" reports:

"Much attention has been attracted of late to corn and buyers are taking all the stock of fine quality offered at low prices. There is a stronger inquiry and the market is in a better position than last week. New York State corn is selling at 55c to 65c. Western corn is quoted at 45c and last year's carry over at 40c. The Western packed corn is fine stock and well put up. The reduction in price is simply because buyers saw their opportunity and also resolved that they would take no risks."

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 27.—The New York correspondent of the "Trade" says:

"The market is strong in all varieties and grades. Of late, the demand has increased and buyers do not seem to have satisfied their wants. Brokers say that anything that will pass muster under 70c is taken up almost immediately. Supplies of goods at that price have become small and the market tends upward sharply."

DRIED FRUITS.

New York, Nov. 7.—Spot prunes are in fair demand with 7c quoted for 40's and 6½c for 50's in 25-lb. boxes. N. Y. Brokers are predicting great scarcity in the raisin supply in New York before the holidays, owing to light buying for shipment from the Coast. Peaches and apricots are strong with a fair jobbing demand. Figs have advanced ½ to ¾ at auction. The supply is temporarily light and the market is excited owing to short shipments and the fact that the Smyrna market is strong and advancing.

RAISINS.

Fresno, Nov. 6.—The Raisin Growers' Combine closed down the seeders of the California Fruit Canners' Association Saturday by an injunction issued by Judge W. W. Morrow of the U. S. Circuit Court on the ground that it was an infringement upon the patents controlled by their company. The Raisin Growers had to put up a bond of $10,000. On Monday the California Fruit Canners' Association started two more seeders which they claim do not infringe on the patents. As the California Fruit Canners' Association is the chief rival of the Raisin Growers' Combine, the stopping of its seeding facilities would virtually give the members of the Combine a monopoly on the raisin packing business.

Fresno, Nov. 6.—M. J. Tarpey, vice-president of the Raisin Growers' Combine explains the raisin situation in an open letter, in which he says:

"The California raisin crop for 1905 will not exceed 10,000 tons including Sultanas and Thompson seedless. Our association will control upwards of 23,000 tons. This year's crop is about 65 per cent of a full crop.

"There is usually shiped out of California each year before January 1st, about 10,000 tons of raisins for the holiday market. If we had a demand equal to the usual demand, there would not be a ton of raisins left in the State after January 1st.

"There was a carry over of 25,000 tons of raisins on January 1st, 1904. The new crop amounted to 35,000 tons in addition. This made about 60,000 tons of raisins which were consumed in 1904, since the carry over for 1905 was only about 5,000 tons. Since the 1905 crop was only about 40,000 tons, this makes available for consumption in 1905-06 only about 45,000 tons, which is only three-fourths of what was consumed during the previous 12 months.

"The fact that there was no association to steady prices during the year 1904 makes it impossible to compare the prices of 1905 with those that prevailed during 1904.

"Our company controls the output of seeded raisins having secured at heavy cost upwards of 90 per cent of all the seeding facilities in the country. The aggregate seeding capacity of all the seeders outside the combine amount to only six cars per day. It is a known fact that seeders outside the combine are promising deliveries far beyond their capacity to fill. Jobbers are being deluded in the expectation of receiving seeded raisins within a certain time, which cannot be supplied because it is a physical impossibility for the outside packers to deliver the goods in time to make them of any use to the buyers.

U. S. Government Inspected.
For Quality, Unsurpassed.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY
SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

Our company, on the other hand, has the capacity to deliver goods to our customers in time to supply the holiday trade. We can truthfully say, without boastfulness, that the jobbing trade cannot be otherwise supplied.

"We have absolutely protected our customers against a decline in prices until January 1st, 1906. We did this because we wanted to give them every assurance that there would be no fluctuation. We dare do this because the present statistical situation makes our position the only feasible one. The shortage in the crop, together with the smallness of the carry-over authorizes the higher prices we are required to charge. The prosperous condition of the country is the best guarantee to the jobber that he will have no difficulty in disposing of the goods at the higher prices."

New York, Nov. 2.—It is now thought that Eastern jobbers have not bought enough raisins for their holiday trade. Many of them are depending upon the outside packers for their supply. The outside packers have not nearly enough seeding facilities to satisfy the demand or fill their orders in time. This fact, taken in conjunction with the delay in transportation, makes it probable that there will be a raisin famine in Eastern jobbing circles.

PRUNES.

Salem, Or.—H. S. Gile, president of the local Prune Association, says:

"There is no danger that the present high prices for prunes will weaken, since there are not 50 carloads left unsold in the whole State of Oregon."

DRIED APPLES.

Watsonville, Cal.—Upwards of 125 carloads of apples were handled by the fruit driers of this valley this season.

Reno, Nev.—The apple crop in Nevada was practically a failure this season, for the first time in many years.

WALNUTS.

New York, Nov. 7.—All imported walnuts are strong and active. Spot stocks are light.

Pomona, Cal., Nov. 4.—Buyers of walnuts in this locality are having difficulty in securing the quantity of first-class nuts desired. Although the walnut association fixed the price for the best graded quality at 13c per pound, there are few firsts to be found. A number of growers are selling their crops ungraded. Many of the nuts show the effects of spots or sunburn.

CANNED SALMON.

Seattle, Wash.—The Pacific-American Fisheries have advanced the price on all unsold portions of its pack of sockeyes 10c per dozen for flats and 5c per dozen on talls, half pounds, and other classes, for the purpose of holding for spring advances. E. D. Deming, general manager, says:

"Fully three-fourths of the sockeye pack of the Sound has already been sold at the established market price. The stocks sold cleaned up the holdings of those who were financially weak. The remaining one-fourth is in strong hands and will probably not be sold until spring unless buyers meet the advanced prices at an early date. All canned salmon is bound to advance and there is a strong probability that sockeyes will go even higher than the advance we have set before spring time."

New York, Oct. 30.—Philip F. Kelley of the Kelley-Clarke Co. of Seattle says in a "Journal of Commerce" interview:

"We have never seen the cheaper salmon cleaned up so thoroughly as it is at this time. We are the largest handlers of pink salmon on the Coast, but our stock is completely exhausted except for a small quantity of 1904 pack, on which we have just advanced the price from 70c to 75c f. o. b. Tacoma. Our stock of medium red is gone and we have no chum salmon left. We have an order for 5000 to 10,000 cases of pink for private label which we cannot fill, as while we have a few old left we do not care to strip them to put on a new label. We have been offered as much as 67½c Coast for chums, but there is none to be had. We have very little red Alaska salmon left. Orders for 40,000 cases that would have netted us 87c on the Coast we have been compelled to turn down, as what stock we have we prefer to hold for filling in orders from our trade next spring. Sockeye salmon also is very well cleaned up. About 70 per cent of the pack has been sold."

J. K. Armsby says of salmon.

"The situation is a very strong one. There have been most extraordinary sales and a heavy consumption. For the first time in the history of the business the market at this season of the year is closely cleaned up. In spite of the high opening prices there are few sockeyes left. The Alaska Packers' Association, which packed 5000 cases more than did the Pacific-American Company, the next largest packer on the Puget Sound, with 195,000 cases, is entirely sold out. The last named company's stock is closely cleaned up and other packers have little left. I predict for next year $1.50 on talls, $1.65 on flats and $1 on half pounds. Columbia River next year will open at no less than these figures, and I look to see an even higher market on Chinooks, say $1.60 for talls, $1.75 for flats and $1. The fact is, the freezers and picklers are making great inroads into canners' supplies of raw fish—they are taking everything in sight. It is not because fish were short on the Columbia River that canners did not make their usual pack. The salmon was taken for freezing and pickling. They also invaded Puget Sound and took more for their purposes than ever before. The fact is that there is an immense and growing foreign demand for salmon in light pickle. When they get it to the other side it is smoked and becomes a most important food supply, because of the great scarcity of meat. I expect that the export of this pickled salmon will figure more and more prominently in our foreign trade."

Seattle, Nov. 4.—T. J. Gorman says:

"Cohoe and chum canned salmon, and, in fact, all of the cheaper grades, are in big demand at the present time, with a shortage on this class of fish of at least 60 per cent over the pack of last year. The cohoe pack has been completed, and there is hardly a case left unsold with the heaviest demand that has been known in years. While the pack of chums will not be completed until the last of November or the early part of December, it is safe to say that this grade will be 60 per cent short of last year, and that it will be impossible to supply one-half the demand for this fish. The present price being offered for chums is 67½c a dozen, but not a case can be secured now for less than the market price, and there is a strong probability of a further advance, as some of the companies have displayed a tendency to hold the remainder of their packs against the big demand."

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 6.—Jas. F. Barrow says:

"Present conditions in the salmon business indicates that the concerns packing salmon in Alaska will have the best season next year that has been known since the wild days of speculation in the canning business. There were only about 200,000 cases of pink salmon packed in Alaska this year, as compared with 800,000 in other years. With the present big demand for the cheaper grades of fish and with hardly a case on the market at the present time, and a short season on the Sound next year, Alaska salmon will be in big demand, and the canneries should be able to establish a price that will mean a good profit. Most of the concerns that packed in the North this year lost money. The cut made by the Alaska Packers Association on the pink salmon, just before the opening of the season, demoralized the market on cheap fish, as most of the companies were unable to hold, and sold their packs at the low rate, leaving practically no pinks to meet the present demand. The same thing may be said of Alaska reds. The conditions of the past few years have been a sad experience to the salmon packers, but the lesson has been learned, and conservatism rather than wild speculation will prevail in the future."

Holland Herring have declined. Shipments coming here more freely. Demand is only fair, but this is likely to improve when the co'd weather sets in. Market very quiet here and in Holland, and if disturbances in Russia continue,

TRUST AND NAVY CONTRACT.

After Consulting With Former, Date of Receiving Bids for the Sailor Boys' Tobacco Is Changed.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 24—The Navy Department, which recently wrote to the tobacco trust and inquired what season of the year the trust would consider the most convenient for the department to advertise for bids for supplying 150,000 pounds or more of tobacco for the use of the men in the navy, has made a most radical departure in fixing the date on which bids will be opened for Tuesday, November 7, at 10 o'clock in the morning.

It has been the custom from time immemorial, for the Navy Department to advertise for and receive bids for tobacco supplies for the blue jackets in the spring of the year, usually in the month of April. This custom has always given general satisfaction, but now, after formally writing the trust to inquire what season would be most convenient for submitting bids, a change has been made from April to November.

The reception of bids for supplying the navy with tobacco was for many years hedged about by certain laws and regulations which long experience had shown were necessary to insure a square deal for the different manufacturers who desired to submit bids.

One of these rules was to the effect that if any one individual, firm or corporation submitted more than one bid, all of the bids submitted by such individual, firm or corporation should be rejected. This system was rigidly lived up to until last spring, when in order that the independent manufacturers might be discriminated against in favor of the trust it was thrown to the winds.

When the independent manufacturers who had submitted bids in good faith ventured to protest, they were given a formal hearing, and then shown the door, while the trust was allowed to retain the contract for furnishing the navy with tobacco.—Tobacco.

TRUST ACTIVITY.

The Tobacco Trust is more and more showing its teeth, and is now threatening the independent dealer more viciously than ever.

The United Cigar Stores Co.'s stores have for many months been a menace to the regular trade of all our big cities, but now comes the project of opening a line of grocery stores under the control of the trusts, and a special effort to bring the drug interests of the country to take up the fight of the trust for trust goods against the independent dealer and manufacturer. It remains to be seen what the end will be, but if the independent dealers remain quiet that end will not be far off nor hard to predict.

MENACE TO INDEPENDENTS.

Trust to Work Through Cut Rate Drug Stores.

The tobacco trust has perfected far reaching plans to work hand in hand with the cut-rate drug stores throughout the country, says Tobacco

This is to be done through the recently organized auxiliary company, known as the National Cigar Stands Co., of which George M. Gales, for a number of years past an official of the trust with his personal headquarters at 111 Fifth avenue, is to be vice-president and general manager.

A beginning along these lines has already been planned in Boston and Philadelphia, although the matter has not yet been publicly announced.

In Boston a deal has been made with Jaynes, the most notorious cut-price druggist in that section. Jaynes has long been a ruthless butcher of cigar prices in Boston, and it is undoubtedly due to him more than any other one man that Boston has long held the unenviable reputation of being one of the worst cities in America for price-cutting on popular brands of cigars, with scores of places offering well known ten-cent propositions—goods costing $65 and $70 at wholesale—at seven cents each.

CIGARS AT THE BANQUET BOARD.

The banquet season is now at hand, and dealers who watch their opportunities should be able to occasionally exploit their leading brands of fine cigars in connection with these festal occasions.

In every city there are held various banquets which attract more than ordinary attention. These affairs are reported at considerable length in the local newspapers and are a current topic of conversation in the town where they occur.

At nearly all of these banquets some particular brands of cigars is served, and the wideawake dealer who handles that brand can always make considerable capital of the fact if he goes about it in the right way. The more important the banquet the more prestige the dealer can gain if the brand of cigars which he makes his leader are served.

It is, of course, known to the dealer in advance if a brand of cigars in which he is interested is to be smoked at a particular banquet, and he should make arrangements to have mentioned in the newspapers containing the account of the banquet, and probably printing several columns of the speeches of the distinguished guests, that such a brand of cigars was smoked. If the newspapers will not incorporate this in their regular reports, it might be well to go to the expense of having it printed as a paid advertising notice.

Then he can follow this up by having in his window the day following the banquet an attractive display of the brand in question, with a neatly printed window bulletin announcing that it is the brand of cigars enjoyed by the guests at the banquet.

The newspaper paragraphs referring to the brand in connection with the banquet can also be clipped out, neatly gummed upon a piece of cardboard, and placed in the window with the display.

Of course, all this takes time and trouble, but for that matter so does any sort of effective advertising. It is the dealer with the requisite energy and enterprise for taking just this sort of trouble that is bound, in the long run, to get the business away from his competitor, who lacks the enterprise and energy to undertake such things.—Tobacco.

PROSPEROUS CIGAR HOUSE.

Rapidly Winning Over All Rivals.

The Tampa firm of A. Santaella & Co. justly ranks as one of the most enterprising and progressive cigar manufacturing houses in the United States, and for that matter, in the entire world. A comparatively young firm, their success has been nothing short of phenomenal. "The best there is, and all the time," and "We do the best we can for our customers all the time," are leading ideas in the business operations of this notable firm of clear Havana cigar manufacturers.

Their Tampa factory is a gem in a setting of grassy lawn and tropical verdure. Everywhere neatness, system, good order and refined taste prevail. That their high-class, up-to-date methods are appreciated by the trade throughout the country is evidenced in the wonderful success of their Optimo cigar, the growing demand for their goods and the general satisfaction which smokers have shown as they puffed the fragrant Optimo.

"Optimo! My Optimo!
What joyous smokes thou'st brought me," is the refrain all along the line.

To Sol Hamburger, the business partner of the firm of A. Santaella & Co., with headquarters in Chicago, is due in a great measure the remarkable success of this progressive house and the widespread demand for their cigars. Mr. Hamburger knows how, when and where to sell cigars in quantity. He knows how to reach the trade successfully, and has original and "fetching" methods of leading the public thought to their Optimo cigar.

Mr. Hamburger passed his early life in Bavaria, and has been schooled and trained in the best business methods of two countries. He is endowed with keen observation and an aggressive nature. He has a most winning personality that captures trade, and he is ever on the alert to agreeably meet the demands of the exacting community of smokers, hence his really wonderful success in pushing their Optimo cigar.

With that princely cigar manufacturer, Don Antonio Santaella, at the factory, and Sol. Hamburger to manage the sales, this firm presents a combination of rare strength and business talent.—Tobacco.

In the first three months of the present fiscal year the increase in the output of cigars was 87,052,924 cigars over the corresponding period of 1904.

William Devereaux, the baseball player, is opening a cigar and tobacco stand at 1007 Broadway, Oakland, where he will have a special brand, which he will call the "Hee Haw Havana Superbas."

James L. Jerichau, 131 Larkin street, is one of the dealers who does a very considerable jobbing business. He has the nerve to buy in quantities and has the ability to place the goods after he has them in stock. He has made a decided hit with the Pabllco and Rough Riders and his sales of Gold Crumbs foot up over 100 pounds a week.

E. A. Allenburg has not yet gone into business as a professional hypnotist. Eddie says it is not necessary as long as they keep quality in the Kadee cigarette, because the quality of the goods leaves nothing for the salesmen to do but check up the orders.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—W. H. Garrison has purchased the grocery stores of Faber & Co. at 119 Taylor street and at Fillmore and McAllister streets. Mr. Faber will hereafter devote his energies to expanding the business and usefulness of his Polk and Bush street stores.

Glendora—The growth which has attended the retail grocery trade in this section the last few years has kept pace with the progress and advancement of our city. A prominent house in his line is that of the new firm of W. G Hall & Co., who recently purchased the J. D. Dyer grocery, and they have further added to their large stock by purchasing the large stock of groceries and dry goods of Perry & Richardson. They are now busily engaged in moving the stock into their own commodious and handsome quarters, giving them one of the largest and best assorted stocks of general merchandise in the valley.

Hemet—D. W. Gauld will open a grocery store.

Long Beach—On October 14 Mr. Richards rented a small building at the corner of Fourth street and Pacific avenue to Thomas M Thompson, who stated that he was about to open a grocery store there. The same day that he rented the store Mr. Thompson started for Los Angeles to purchase a stock of goods. He has not been seen or heard of since. A few days later several boxes from a wholesale grocery concern arrived in Long Beach but as they were not called for were returned by the express company.

Los Angeles—C. D. Lewis, who a few weeks ago sold his grocery store on West Washington street, near Figueroa, Los Angeles, is this week buying an opening stock which he will establish at 2801 East Fourth street, in Boyle Heights. Lewis will stock not only groceries, but dry goods and notions.

Los Angeles—The Telford Grocery Company, one of the largest and most progressive stores on West Pico street, has sold to Bowen & Herkett. The new proprietors have employed E. T Wade, an experienced grocer, who up to a short time ago, owned a store at 1238 West Seventh street. Charles C. Pitzer, 1701 East Washington street, has sold his business to J. H. Welden. Mr. Welden has lived in Los Angeles for several years, but has never been in the grocery business.

Los Gatos, Nov. 2—A terrific gas explosion occurred in the north show window of H. S. Beckworth's store this morning, blowing out the entire window Mr. Beckworth was at work at his desk adjoining the window when the explosion occurred, but fortunately at the instant of combustion his back was turned toward the window and he escaped injury, though he was nearly knocked down by the great force of flying glass, pieces of sash and window frame. The large panes of plate glass and the glass in the sash doors were broken into thousands of pieces and scattered over the sidewalk and nearly half the store floor. It appears that the gas jet in this window, which has not been used for some time, leaked, and in testing the new pipes just put in on the second floor, caused the explosion below. The loss must have been several hundred dollars, the heaviest part of which falls upon the owner of the block, George W. Scott.

Monrovia—Frank J. Cornes, the grocer, who will occupy the Bartle building, when completed, will have a large corrugated iron warehouse erected in the rear for storage purposes.

Oakland—Albert N. Denison has purchased an interest in the grocery firm of W. H. Campbell Co., Inc

Pasadena—The Canadian California Tea Company is opening a store here.

San Diego—A. J. Simpson has sold his grocery store to H. M. Branson.

Santa Monica—V. L. Geach has sold his grocery store next to the post office to F M. Nickell, who was a member of the City Council of Los Angeles for eight years, and comes highly recommended as a business man.

IDAHO.

Heyburn—I. H. Imes has bought J. A. Jenson's grocery.

Moscow—Martinson & Sons, grocers, have sold out their business to Thomas Foglesong and W. L Miller. The new proprietors are from Cache, Oklahoma. These gentlemen are experienced in the trade and say that they will carry a line of groceries never equaled in this city.

Hillyard—C. W. Cramer has bought the Cannondale grocery store and will put in a stock of general merchandise in the near future

North Yakima—W. A. Duncan's grocery store has been taken possession of by creditors, most of whom are coast wholesale houses. Extensive credit business and poor collections are responsible for the failure.

Odessa—A. E. Faust of Spokane has accepted the management of grocery department of the Big Store.

there will be less demand for herring there, and if no sales to Russia, Holland must reduce their prices for herring, to move them elsewhere than in Russia.

Scotch Herring—Firm and quiet

Irish Mackerel—Dull, as they cannot compete with Norwegian mackerel, which are much better in quality and comparatively cheaper.

Norway Mackerel—Somewhat higher and not much remains to be shipped from Norway. Here Norway mackerel are in the firmest possible hands, and there is virtually nothing unsold of small 2's, and those are moving lively, much more so than usual at this time of the year. This is only natural owing to the comparatively very low price ruling now for Norways.

Imported Sardines—There is no change in the situation. France has no catch, neither has Portugal, nor has Norway. Of sprats there are a few caught, but prices are high. Demand very good.

Norway Sardines are decidedly higher and scarce. Some brands are sold out for the season and there is not one of the large reliable packers in Norway that will be able to supply the trade this season with smoked sardines enough to supply the demand.

MACKEREL.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Norwegian mackerel, bloaters and ones, are very scarce. Bloaters are practically unobtainable. Higher prices are looked for."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Martin's New York State factory cheese is advancing at a rapid gait, owing to a scarcity of fancy October stock."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"Choicer grades of both wheat and tame oat continue in active demand and in very light supply. The medium and lower grades are dragging a bit. Prices show no change except that there is no barley or oat hay."

CANNED TOMATOES.

Statistical Position as Given by Leading Packers.

New York, October 28—At a meeting of the Tri-State Packers' Association, held to ascertain the size of the tomato pack in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, which make two-thirds of the entire pack of the country, full reports were received from the tomato-growing counties of the three States as well as from Baltimore. The figures show that the 1905 pack in that section will not exceed 60 per cent of that of 1904, and that there is not now in the hands of the packers more than 35 per cent of this season's pack. Information received by the association from the West showed that, while the Western pack was no larger in proportion than that of the territory included in the three Atlantic Coast States above referred to, the Southern pack fell far short of it, so that the association confidently believes that the 1905 pack in the United States will not exceed 60 per cent of that of 1904, which was approximately 9,000,000 cases. The pack of tomatoes in Utah this season was almost a failure. Indiana will furnish no comfort to the bears. The returns are irregular, the heaviest packers in the State not varying much from last season. Twenty-eight factories report 408,903 cases, against 484,434 cases in 1904, a shortage of 75,531 cases, or little less than 16 per cent. William Nunsen Sons estimate the Baltimore pack at 1,250,000 cases. Delaware is behind last year, reported at 646,110 cases; claimed by some packers in the State to be too small. Eleven factories reporting 127,333 cases in 1904, put up 75,064 cases this year, a decrease of 52,269 cases, or over 41 per cent.

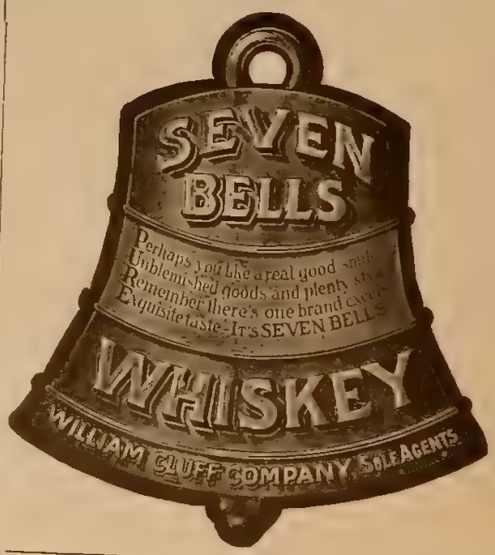
the success which came on the following Tuesday night. There were many other addresses which resulted in plans being made which undoubtedly added materially to Mr. Stulz's vote.

Among those who contributed with funds and influence towards helping make the rally a success were: Robinson & Knox, Connolly Bros., Doyle & McGowan, Carl Grandeman, Emmett Dunn, H. S. Elliott & Co., P. J. Kennedy, H. W. Burmester, J. M. Sullivan, J. P. McGuire, D. F. Keefe, Advocate Publishing Co.

Mr. Stulz has been the recipient of many congratulations. The office to which he has been elected is one of the most dignified in the gift of the city. It requires a business man of shrewdness to conduct it.

The remuneration is very satisfactory. The amount depends entirely upon fees and varies from $1000 to $5000 per month. As the duties of the office require only a small portion of each day's time Mr. Stulz will be able to fill the requirements of the position without taking too much of his time and thought away from his extensive grocery business.



The Advocate extends its congratulations to Mr. Stulz for the splendid testimonial of his popularity and confidence given him by his fellow citizens. We also extend our congratulations to the city of San Francisco for having secured Mr. Stulz as Public Administrator, since he will, without question, prove the best Administrator that San Francisco has ever known.

ALCAZAR.

"Why Smith Left Home" is a very funny comedy being presented at the Alcazar this week. It is a jingle of nonsense and complications that keep the house laughing all the evening at the rate of a laugh a minute. The show will be followed on November 13th with "The Little Minister," in which Maude Adams scored her great success. This production will mark the debut of Margaret Langham, who has been brought from the Belasco Theatre in Los Angeles to appear this one week as Lady Babbie.

CALIFORNIA.

"The Washington Society Girls" are filling their portion in the burlesque wheel at the California this week. The bill includes two burlesques and sketches by a strong line of vaudeville artists, including a juggler, singing comediennes, monologists and parody singers, a Chinese conjuror and a number of other headliners. The show is full of fun and catchy music, while the girls are pretty and their costumes very fetching. The "Tiger Lily Co." follows next week.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Ben Hur" is in its last week. The last performance is to be given Saturday night. Those who have not taken advantage of the opportunity to see this wonderful production with its thrilling chariot race scene should be sure to attend before it is withdrawn. On Sunday afternoon "Buter Brown" begins his performances.

MAJESTIC.

This week has been devoted to a very beautiful version of the famous Santa Clara College play, "The Light Eternal." This is a story of love and faith by Marvin G. Merle. There is a magnificent series of classic pictures. The cast includes fifty people. The performance is both a theatrical entertainment and a sermon in one, and from either viewpoint is a very powerful production.

CENTRAL.

A revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" is occupying the boards at the Central this week with Herschel Mayall in the part of "Uncle Tom." The never-dying popularity of this old piece is attested by the large crowds that have attended each night. A number of entertaining specialties have been introduced including colored singers and buck and wing dances. Next week "The Darkest Hour" is to be produced.

CHUTES.

The show at the big free theatre is an unusually interesting one this week. Fothwell Browne's Gaiety Girls are an interesting feature on the program. There are numerous headliners together with new pictures on the biograph. Princess Trixie, a wonderful trained horse, is attracting much attention also.

FISCHER'S.

CO-OPERATIVE DELIVERIES.

The four leading grocers of Escondido, Cal., have organized into a mutual delivery company. They make two deliveries each morning, one at 8 o'clock and another at 10 o'clock. Another delivery is made at 3 o'clock in the afternoon to places within the city limits. The firms who have entered into this plan for reducing the expenses of their stores are Steiner & Co., Stevenson Bros. & Co., G. W. Wisdon & Co., and the Escondido Rochdale Company. These concerns have been sending out to their customers the following letter explaining the times of delivery, etc.:

Escondido, Cal., Oct. 16, 1905.

Madam—From this date, we will discontinue our delivery wagon and all soliciting of orders by canvasser. All good will hereafter be delivered by a new delivery system, which we believe will prove more satisfactory to you as well as to ourseleves, owing to the fact that, by the present method, we could not give the service desired unless we added more wagons, which are very expensive to operate, and increased expense would mean higher prices on goods, which we desire to avoid.

The telephone system here is a great convenience, and, while we will be pleased to receive orders by that source, we find that the distance is too great over which we could deliver goods and still attend to city deliveries as promptly as in the past; therefore, so as to serve the most people with the least delay, the grocery stores will all use the general delivery system, and we will deliver all goods by this means only.

The schedule time of delivery will be as follows:

One delivery daily from store at 8 o'clock a. m. to north side of Grand avenue.

One delivery daily from store at 10 o'clock a. m. to south side of Grand avenue.

One delivery north and south at 3 o'clock p. m. daily, within certain city limits.

All orders received prior to the hours named will be sent out promptly or on subsequent delivery. We would therefore ask you to please have orders in store as early as possible, and all orders received after 3 o'clock p. m. will be delivered the following day according to schedule stated.

We trust you will appreciate our action in the inauguration of this system, which is similar to that now in vogue in several towns, and giving better satisfaction than by the old method, by which great annoyance is caused by the several solicitors of the various stores taking up your time, and in many instances the goods arrive too late for your purpose, as time is lost in attending to matters entirely foreign to a delivery man's duties.

Thanking you for past favors, and soliciting your future kind favors, we remain.

Respectfully,
Steiner & Company.

Clerk's Corner

Unsatisfactory Service.

The writer visited four good stores in one forenoon recently, says the Inland Grocer. In each he was a stranger to the clerks and in each he heard complaint over the apparent unwillingness of the clerks to give attention to callers. The complaint is not confined to grocery stores, but it is as acute in that branch of trade as anywhere, and it seems to be growing.

In the store of the best known, perhaps, of all American retail grocers, it appeared to be the constant care of the proprietor to see that every caller was given attention the moment he or she entered. It shook this department's confidence in the young men and women who are coming forward in the grocery trade to note how many times, in the course of an hour, the clerks waited for an admonitory word from the proprietor before paying any attention to persons entering the store, apparently ready to do business.

Clerks Who Don't See.

In another good store the writer walked leisurely three times around the area bounded by the counters and finally out of the door without having so much as caught the eye of a clerk—and not all of them were busy, either. In another neighborhood he had an opportunity, in the course of a friendly call, to put in a word for a neighboring grocer, a good merchant who had recently established a store in that part of town. It did not take him long to hear things. The members of the family evaded the issue for a time, but finally some of the younger ones let the secret out and then it came in a flood from the others. They did not like the store referred to. No one recognized them when they called, they were kept waiting for attention; even when given a chance to buy goods they were waited upon grudgingly, as if the service was most uncongenial to the clerk; inquiry as to goods and prices was answered indifferently and carelessly; if one clerk was addressed he passed the customer along to another and the second referred the visitor to a third, and so on.

Occasion was made to visit this store and see what ground of complaint might exist. It was there, all right. One lady assistant was busy taking orders from a caller. Five other customers were waiting with evident weariness for a chance, while three clerks were busy in a variety of ways—doing anything, apparently, from wrapping bundles to rearranging stock, except attending to the wants of customers.

Inattention Don't Pay.

There may be some reason for the growing unwillingness of store assistants to come into direct contact with consumers. It can not be said, however, that the tendency is helpful to business. The peddler on the streets solicits and secures trade which, when offered at the store is too often repulsed. A letter to a mail order house brings a prompt answer. Customers are not obliged to beg for a salesman's attention in the market places. If a customer is kept waiting too long in a big department store some $3-a-week salesgirl will hear from the floorwalker. The retail grocer is in active competition with peddler, mail order house, market place and department store, and the clerks must hold up their end of the fight.

Excellence of goods, attractiveness of prices and all the other business advantages offered by the proprietor will avail nothing if the store service is unsatisfactory. It is unsatisfactory whenever a customer is kept waiting. If you see one waiting, do not allow her or him to continue to wait. Better still, do not allow them to begin waiting.

Politeness Overdone.

Every rule has its abuses and even politeness can be so nerveless as to be worthless. A story is current of a salesman who was so "polite" that he waited, hat in hand, to obtain the attention of a buyer until a brusque and energetic rival butted into the office, uncouth, hat on back of his head, cigar in mouth. He attacked the buyer like a whirlwind and secured the order for which the "polite" man was waiting to ask. As a matter or fact there were no good manners lost on the side of either salesman in this instance. The man who secured the order went at his business energetically if not artistically. The other allowed a false sentiment of good manners to make him appear like a mendicant.

Politeness does not mean self-abasement. One must be a man before he can be a gentlman, and people like a salesman who respects himself. One can talk sense and talk business and do it agreeably without wasting his own time or that of his customer. One must not sacrifice brains to manners. Real politeness is a combination of intelligence and consideration for others

AMONG THE GROCERS.

J. C. Henderson has opened a fine grocery at 810 Valencia street, and is reaching out for his share of the trade of this thriving section. Mr. Henderson is a young man, and a thorough business man.

R. Reinhardt and G. Plushkell have purchased the grocery at 600 Guerrero, corner Eighteenth street, where they have a fine stock and are doing a splendid business.

D. McCarthy has opened a fine grocery store at 131 Corbett avenue, and is doing a fine trade.

C. E. Peterson has moved his grocery from 48 to 115-7 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, where he has fitted up an elegant and commodious store room, and greatly increased his facilities for doing business.

H. H. Ball of 1720 San Pablo avenue, is an enterprising and prosperous grocer. Though young in years he is old in business tact.

J. G. Hank has opened an attractive store at 2003 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, and is already working up a good family trade.

An attractive store in Fruitvale is the Sunnyside Grocery of Charles E. Smith. It is well located, and carries a fine stock of groceries and notions as well as coal, hay, feed, lumber, lime and cement. Mr. Smith is "a hummer."

J. Marony who recently purchased the grocery of H. Tietjen at Eighteenth and Sanchez streets, has greatly improved the same, and is doing a fine trade.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Points to Watch

CAVIAR —
The reduced price of caviar is caused by decreased demand

TEA—
The tea crop of Japan is very short. All teas are good property at present values.

ANCHOVIES—
The catch of Norway anchovies has been a failure, causing present very high prices.

ALMONDS—
Local wholesale grocers state that the supply of almonds will not be sufficient to satisfy the needs of the trade until new crop arrivals

DRIED FRUITS—
Evaporated apples are advancing owing to the Eastern shortage and will probably go higher. Higher prices for prunes are expected

RICE—
Authorities unite in predicting ever higher prices on rice owing to unfavorable climatic conditions throughout the rice growing districts.

CANNED FRUITS—
All lines of canned fruits are badly broken. Packers are already entirely out of several lines. There are prospects of higher prices for all sorts of canned fruits before new crop goods are available.

CANNED SALMON—
The market on red Alaska and cheap salmon has never before been so completely cleaned up. This fact together with the small amount of sockeyes in the hands of packers makes salmon very desirable property at present figures.

RAISINS—
An active attempt is being made by wholesale grocers to break down the Association prices on raisins. Purchases are being made only on a hand-to-mouth basis. Men high in the Growers' Association insist that the Association prices will not be lowered. Outside packers are selling at a cent under Association prices.

"THE SCALE WITH BRAINS."

With users of scales the Toledo Computing Scale has come to the front as in all respects the most satisfactory, economical and reliable.

Among the advantages of the Toledo Scale are the following points:

It stops overweight.
It is automatic.
It has no springs.
It is absolutely accurate in both weighing and computing.
It eliminates all hand operations, thereby preventing errors.
It saves time and labor.
It shows the correct weight to the customer.
It has a tare beam.
It is extremely sensitive.
It is simple in construction.
It is the only scale over which small drafts can be sold at a profit.
Sold on easy payments.
Backed by factory guarantee.
They are absolutely honest.

Frank F. Wear of 1634 Market street is exclusive sales agent for the Pacific Coast, and will cheerfully furnish persons contemplating outfitting their places of business with a scale system with desired information.

Association Progress.

State Organization Taking Steps That Will Benefit Retailers.

By Frank B. Connolly, Secretary.

Jobbers who allow themselves to be a party to disturbing prosperous conditions of the retail grocery trade of Southern California should certainly be made to feel that the grocers of this part of the State will not look with favor upon any such action. The jobbers doing business in San Francisco and the territory adjacent to it ought to know it is not right to sell goods to any cutter when the manufacturers of those articles insist the retail selling price be maintained and asks the jobber to refuse to sell these goods to a department store cutter who only advertises these demoralizing prices to sell his silks or lace.

How can a manufacturer ever hope to perpetuate his brand of goods so that they will always pay a fair profit to the retailer if these jobbers who know they are being made a convenience of sell the Broadway Department store even though this cutter can not buy any goods in his home market.

We were pleased to receive a communication from Suydam Bros. and Rogers this week saying they would not sell this cutter goods until list prices were maintained by them. They also stated they would not sell any of their specialties to any jobber to be sent to this Los Angeles cutter if they could ascertain where the goods were going. This places

Wellman, Peck & Co.,
Suydam Bros & Rogers

as the only firms among the wholesale grocers of San Francisco who are willing to sacrifice illegitimate business to help trade conditions.

A great many of our members are making these houses feel we appreciate the stand they have taken by giving them business. They should be given the preference at all times. I say now that a jobber who will not conform to the needs of the retailers and the makers and distributors of good products has no right to expect support from them.

The flour mills are having a meeting this week to discuss the fixing of a retail selling price on their standard brands of flour. One of the plans is to set a uniform price on all standard brands from the mill to the grocer and protect the selling price from the grocer to the consumers.

A personal experience of my own is a good argument in favor of a protected price. We secured a very good second grade of flour, and praising it to a restaurant customer of ours, got them to use it at a profit to us of 60 cents a barrel. A competitor told my customer he would get it and sell it to him at a profit of 40 cents a barrel. Then we cut and he cut until we reached a profit of 10 cents a barrel and we both stopped handling it.

We then secured another brand that carried a profit of 80 cents a barrel. We prevailed upon our customer to use this brand with the same result. My competitor and myself cut it down

A Serious Misunderstanding.

Unfounded Rumors Caused by a Small Suit Against the Spohn-Patrick Company.

A small suit brought against the Spohn-Patrick Company by Frederick F. Lyden has been the source of some annoyance to that firm owing to unfounded rumors that have arisen in consequence. These rumors were caused by the unnecessary acrimony displayed on the part of Mr. Lyden.

Some two years ago the Lyden Company, which was practically Frederick F. Lyden, failed for a considerable amount. The business of the Lyden Company was almost entirely with the Orient. This business was purchased from the receiver by the Spohn-Patrick Company.

As Mr. Lyden controlled quite a little business in canned salmon, which he was not then in position to handle himself, an agreement was entered into by which he agreed to devote his entire time to selling certain goods, particularly canned salmon, with the understanding that the transactions were to be financed by the Spohn-Patrick Company and that Mr. Lyden was to receive one-half the net profits on sales made through his individual exertions. For the period of six months he was to receive an advance of $200 per month with the understanding that, if the firm made money by the transaction, the agreement was to be continued for another six months. At the end of six months, while there had been considerable salmon business, yet, according to the books of the Spohn-Patrick Company the net result, owing to rejections, interest on money borrowed by Mr. Lyden on the salmon and other charges, including the advance to Mr. Lyden $200 per month, showed a loss instead of a gain.

The loss was so evident that no detailed statement was considered necessary, although a hasty summary of the main items was taken off for Mr. Lyden at the time, in pencil, by the bookkeeper.

Considerable personal feeling was engendered in a discussion that arose some time later. As a result of this feeling suit was brought by Mr. Lyden who entered claim for several thousand dollars.

The stability of the John H. Spohn Co., is not questioned in any way. Had it not been for the personal feeling engendered by the dispute, it is quite certain that the case would not have been conducted as it has.

The Spohn-Patrick Company insist that their connection with Mr. Lyden was anything but profitable to them. In their answer they bring counter charges that Mr. Lyden failed to live up to his agreement in many particulars, and it was largely because of these facts that they sustained their loss in connection with their relations with him. This loss they now state amounted to more than $2000.

The Spohn-Patrick Company have built up a reputation as hustlers and for square dealing with the grocery trade of the Pacific Coast. It is regrettable that even in this slight particular there should be given grounds among people who are not acquainted with their high standing and splendid reputation for questioning this.

Pacific Coast Association.

Frank B. Rourke Takes Up Work and Issues New Actual Costs Letter.

The Pacific Coast Association, which was temporarily without a secretary, owing to the resignation of H. W. Thurlow, has began a new campaign of activity with Frank B. Rourke at the helm.

Mr. Rourke has had considerable experience in the wholesale field. This will add materially to his value in this particular position.

A rumor was started that Mr. Rourke was to be resident buyer for a large retail grocer of Southern California. We are authorized to state definitely that this is not true. Mr. Rourke will devote himself solely to the up-building of the Pacific Coast Association.

Number 2 of the "Actual Costs" letters has now been issued. It contains the prices on canned fruits and vegetables. In an article reviewing the outlook, Mr. Rourke said:

We take pleasure in advising you in this our second letter, that we have established permanent headquarters at 95 Market street, San Francisco, and have arranged so that our secretary will give his entire time and attention for the benefit of the subscribers.

In addition to getting out the regular issues of the "Actual Cost" letter, it will be the secretary's duty to give our subsribers, upon their request, any information as to costs on any particular item or items, or opinion as to qualities, grades, etc. Every subscriber will be treated with the utmost courtesy and you will favor us by asking for information, as our only aim is to benefit and educate the retailer as far as it is possible for us to do so.

This Information Is Exclusive.

It must be understood that the facts given in our "Actual Costs" and otherwise are for the exclusive use of the subscriber. If we find that our information is peddled to non-subscribers, it will be our privilege to cancel the guilty person's name on our lists.

Keeping a Cost Book.

In handling the information given, we suggest that every retailer keep a cost book in which he insert the cost of his goods; also insert in this book the costs to the jobber, which we furnish you, viz:

	Costs Jobber.	Costs Us.
Standard corn	....67.....	85

By doing this you will be in shape to buy and buy right.

Every retailer should ascertain at the time he is placing his order what every item is going to cost him. Do not wait until the bill comes in. If you do wait, you must expect to pay at least two per cent for the privilege.

Jobber Entitled to Profit.

Be fair to the jobber on such goods that pay you a profit for handling them. On all other goods, buy at the lowest figures obtainable until such a time as the jobber will work with you in having the manufacturer establish prices which pay the retailer and job-

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Advertising gets the business

Don't cut brick cheese in the middle.

Lunch goods are live lines the year round.

Don't let your store be a dingy looking place.

Trim your show windows and keep them trimmed.

Canned tomatoes and peas are high and going higher.

A well-lighted store makes a good impression on customers.

Chocolate and cocoa are in increasing demand with cold weather.

Walnuts are well sold up, although opening prices are still quoted.

A retailer can get a big coffee business if he will keep a-pushing.

The French sardine pack was short and as a consequence higher prices are talked.

Grocers should keep their dried fruits in table bins, not too much in a bin at a time.

Salt fish of all kinds are firm in price. Consumption is growing with the cooler weather.

A grocer's coffee department should be one of the best-paying sections of his store.

Don't stand the barrel of fish out in front of the store where it catches all the dirt and dust.

Popcorn season is here. Get some that you can guarantee will pop if used in a right manner.

Use your duplicate books. There must be a system in all things and the duplicate slip is at the foundation.

Don't forget to keep your stock of candles full. There is a bigger demand for these goods than many realize.

Mince meat, package raisins, currants and London layers are a few of the things which should be up in front now.

When in doubt give the store a good scrubbing. It will not hurt trade, and the chances are that it will improve it.

Notwithstanding the increased sale of all package cereals, the good old-fashioned bulk rolled oats seem to be holding their own.

The cereal department is certainly a stunner these days. But if there was not a demand for the goods the department would not be there.

If you find that peddlers or supply houses are cutting into your trade by using assortments, try a few assortments of your own making

Receipts of coffee at Rio and Santos the week of October 28 were 398,000 bags, compared with 336,000 bags last year and 310,000 bags in 1903.

Dirty looking bottled goods don't sell well, because they look uninviting. Keep everything that's in glass clean and bright looking all the time.

Recent advices from Ireland are to to the effect that the catch of mackerel is still light, owing to stormy weather. Shipments consequently are small.

Evaporated apples are an item which will do to buy now, right away, for they are in short supply and advancing, and the top of the advance hasn't been reached.

Price tickets are a good thing in the grocery store. People almost always want to know what things are going to cost before they buy, and a plain price card saves time.

Don't think you are economizing when you buy cheap bags. A package that breaks open will lose you more money than you will save in buying low-priced sacks.

Have you noticed any unusual shrinkage recently in stock that you have bought? Or don't you "weigh, count or measure" everything? It will likely pay you to do so.

A grocer who happens across a lot of fair quality canned peas at a reasonable price should not fail to buy them, because peas are advancing and still higher prices are going to come

Devote more time to your fancy candy trade There is doubtless a good sized demand in your town for nice box candy which is not filled. Advertise your goods among the young men especially.

Lima beans are very strong. One shipper, in turning down a bid on a block of considerable size, offered to pay 5 cents a hundred more than the would-be buyer's figure, for a similar quantity.

Don't forget that molasses and syrups, salt fish, cheese, kraut and a dozen or more other things are particularly seasonable just now. Mention the seasonable lines in your advertising, and put in prices on your leaders.

Put your pancake flours well to the front these days. The good housewife is looking for a satisfactory flour, and as it isn't a very easy matter to find one she will be willing to give yours a trial. Tell her about the Peacock brand.

Recent advices from Ireland are to the effect that the catch of mackerel is still light, owing to stormy weather. Shipments consequently are small. To October 7th the shipments of fall-caught mackerel, salted, aggregated 3,997 barrels.

One of the best items to push on is canned soups, which are good sellers, especially in cold weather. Canned soups are also an easy line of goods to make a good talk on. More people would be eating canned soups if they were more generally advertised. They are appetizing and save the housewife a lot of work.

The necessity of weighing, measuring, counting or gauging everything one buys was never greater than today. If the dealer could only go one step further and analyze the goods, or even accurately fix the grade, he would then be armed against a good deal of the misfortune that attends the retail grocery business.

Tea is coming in slowly, compared with the two previous years. For the nine months only 61,089,000 pounds were received here, as against 70,331,000 pounds in the nine months of 1903 and 64,265,000 pounds in 1903. Both Japan and China send us diminished quantities as compared with 1904.—Merchants' Review, N. Y.

There are many things in the grocery store that do not mix, or rather should not be allowed to—they will readily do so, if given a chance. The fish, for instance, is a great mixer and will impart its flavor to almost anything else. So will coffee, soap, tobacco and many other commodities. The remedy is to keep these things away from anything that can contaminate.

Some packers of tea and roasted coffee for retail distribution say that coffee is the most difficult of the two to handle as regards contamination and loss of flavor The general belief is quite the contrary, but the people who make a business of furnishing special packages for tea and coffee packers say their experience confirms the foregoing statement. The roasted berry loses flavor sooner than tea, owing to the close proximity of absorbent surfaces and it also acquires a foreign flavor more quickly.—Merchants' Review, N.Y

HAS MADE MANY FRIENDS.

Valuable System of Bookkeeping Arouses Interest Among San Francisco Retailers.

Many of the most progressive retail grocers of San Francisco have taken up the McCaskey Account Register. Thousands of merchants all over the country are using this system which simplifies their bookkeeping and gives them a knowledge of their business that it would be impossible for them to get in any other way.

William A. Hawley the Pacific Coast agent, has been very successful in placing this account register. Many were placed in Southern California and Mr. Hawley is daily in receipt of letters from firms that cannot say too much in favor of the account register. A recent letter is from Asa C. Casner of Monrovia, Cal., who says:

"Gentlemen—It gives me great pleasure to state that the McCaskey Register is giving me the best of satisfaction.

"I would not do without one.

"It is a great labor saver. When you close your doors at night you know your accounts are posted up to date and you can have the evening home with your family.

"A mistake with the McCaskey System is very easily traced and corrected.

"For these and many other reasons, I recommend your register to all who wish to cut down expense and labor.

"Yours respectfully,

"ASA C. CASNER."

ber for the handling of his output.

Remember, it costs the retailer about 18 per cent to do business. On all goods that do not pay you this percentage you lose money in handling them. Therefore you must cut down this loss by buying them at the lowest possible figure.

Original Producers' Labels.

In order to be protected on qualities of merchandise, as far as possible, you should insist on the producers' labels. They pack or make the goods and they must necessarily be responsible for the grade.

We also suggest that dealers do not carry several duplicates of the same grade. Carry but one brand of a ten-cent corn, one brand of 12½-cent corn, and one brand of the 15-cent grade. Apply this system as far as it is possible to all the goods you carry.

Danger of Overstocking.

Also carry a minimum stock in your storeroom. In this way, you can turn over your stock very often, and the oftener you turn it the more profit you make. Let the wholesalers carry the stock. That is their business. And in case of upward market changes, they will protect you.

If the house you favor will not, another will be glad to do so.

Regular Issues Insured.

Since publishing our first cost letter, we have found that it would be necessary to expend more labor than we thought to get and verify the information desired. Accordingly we delayed further publication until we secured the necessary talent.

We are now in shape to continue and future publications will be mailed on schedule. But as quite a heavy expense is needed to handle this venture, we must request that subscriptions be paid in advance. All subscriptions received so far will be handled as dating from November 1st.

Price Will Advance.

We also wish to advise that on and after January 1st, 1906, the subscription will be $10.00 per year. Considering the information given and benefit to be derived, this amount is very reasonable.

To all who subscribe before January 1st, the subscription will be $5.00.

We would greatly appreciate if our subscribers would take an active interest and tell your fellow grocers the value of our publication and invite them to subscribe. Do not forget that it is your privilege to call upon us for any information. We do not want our subscribers who live outside to forget, when in San Francisco, to call upon us. We also expect our friends located in San Francisco to pay us respect by calling often.

We want to know all of you personally, and it is a pleasure to advise you that you are always welcome.

A SPLENDID NUMBER.

The December "Delineator" is one of the most remarkable magazines that has ever been presented to the American public. Even at the present day of new processes the publication is surprising, both for its artistic merit and its mechanical excellence. The enormous advertising patronage shows how the publishers can offer such a splendid magazine for only 15 cents.

THE CREAM THAT'S RIGHT.

One of the most notable recent successes in the grocery trade on this Coast is that of the Alpine Cream, which has come to the fore in the past few months as one of the most desirable articles the grocer can have on his shelves.

This result has been the consequence of two prime advantages given it by the manufacturers.

First. The price is right and allows a good margin of profit to the retailer.

Second. The quality is as good as human skill can make it.

The manufacturer's price to the grocer is only $3.60 per case of four dozen, which enables the dealer to make $1.20 per case selling it by the single can at 10 cents each, or when sold at three for 25 cents there is still a fair profit.

The quality is guaranteed by the fact that John B. Meyenberg, the "father" of evaporated creams, supervises its preparation for the market.

The retail grocer consults his own best interests when he gives Alpine Cream a prominent place on his shelves.

ASSOCIATION PROGRESS.

o 10 cents a barrel and then we both cut it out.

If the manufacturers of either brand insisted on a selling price, we would still be handling their brand of flour.

The Snider Preserve Company of Cincinnati have notified their Coast agents, the Spohn-Patrick Company, not to allow the San Francisco jobbers to ship Snider's goods into Southern California to be sold at less than the list price.

The Johnson-Locke Mercantile Company have done the same thing on all the goods they handle.

BEST OF FINE FRUITS.

The Spohn-Patrick Company are pushing the trade on Griffin Extras fruits and vegetables with most satisfactory results.

The grocery trade has come to realize that goods bearing his brand are always satisfactory and in handling them there will come never a word of complaint.

This is due to the great care with which these goods are put up. Only the best fruits and vegetables are used, and every precaution is taken in the preparation of these goods to insure that quality and flavor shall be absolutely maintained.

The California Fruit Canners' Association, packers of these goods, have over thirty canneries in different parts of the State, so located that they are able to pack on the spot of production the best of each and every kind.

Hence the high character of all goods bearing the "Griffin Extras" brand.

The Public Read the Advertisements and the Grocer Sells the Soap.

WE CREATE THE DEMAND FOR

"20th Century Soap"

Our demonstrators and salesmen make a house-to-house canvas and introduce the soap, giving the dealer the benefits and profits of all sales.

"20th Century Soap" keeps on selling itself. It is the best for-all-purpose soap that the housekeeper can find. It is used in so many ways and for so many purposes that they buy more of it than any other kind, and at the same time, and for the same reason that it can be used in so many ways, it is the most economical soap to be had.

"20th Century Soap" is the favorite with all women who have used it, as it is absolutely pure and contains no lye or animal greases. It leaves the hands soft, smooth and white. It has won its way into public favor to a remarkable extent.

"20th Century Soap" is put up in one, three and fifteen pound sizes. Nearly all who start with the one pound can buy the larger sizes subsequently.

Ask your jobber how it is selling. There is a splendid profit in "20th Century Soap."

A FAIR POLICY.

Honest Protection of Honest Methods Advocated by Leading Wholesale House.

In their "Monthly Change Sheet" for November 1905 Wellman, Peck & Co. have an article under the heading of "Our Policy" that should be read and studied by every retailer on the Pacific Coast. There is no reason why all jobbers should not take the same stand.

The article protests against "Buying Exchanges." The writer should remember that, had the jobbers been willing to protect the retailers in their profits, that buying exchange of San Francisco would never have been formed.

The San Francisco Buying Exchange was organized because a half dozen retail grocers who received jobbing discounts were not restrained as to their selling price by the jobbers. When the retailers protested the jobbers laughed and said it was none of their business.

The jobbers face as serious a problem now. If they follow the lead of Wellman, Peck & Co., the solution will be to the benefit of everybody. If the jobbers force the retailers to plan and carry out the reforms without help from them, they need not be surprised to find that the retailers have planned only for their own protection, without regard to the necessities of the wholesalers.

The Wellman-Peck Policy.

The article of Wellman, Peck & Co. reads as follows:

"We are believers in the co-operation of the Grocery Jobbers with the Grocery Retailers.

"The organization of the Pacific Coast Retailers' Association has been to us a very interesting fact. We see in the strength of this organization an opportunity for us, as distributors of a very large and diversified line of fancy and staple groceries, to co-operate with the Retailers' Association, and to help them in every manner that can be found possible. In our earnest solicitation for the welfare of the Retailers' Associations of the Pacific Coast we seek in return co-operation from them.

Don't Like Buying Exchanges.

"We are not believers in combinations of buyers amongst our patrons, because we can prove, that with our exclusivee privileges in terminal facilities, which brings the cost of our goods to us less than the cost to any other distributor at this point, we are in a position to sell goods at a less price to the individual buyers than can be obtained by a combination of buyers We make this statement without fear of contravention, and all we will ask any buyer to do who seeks proof of this, is to visit our establishment, where he will see distributive facilities and evidences of the fact that we own our goods at bottom prices. He will then agree, after having occular evidence, that our statement is true.

"We are not believers in the retailer seeking to obtain advantages in buying by going over the head of the jobber, for we are confident, that in many instances, the retail buyer becomes overstocked in this manner, and we are in a position, as aforesaid, to give the same prices in smaller quantities that he would be compelled to pay for a larger quantity.

Jobbers Who Retail.

"We are not believers in a jobbing grocer selling or attempting to sell hotels, boarding houses, etc., to which it is the legitimate province of the retail grocer to distribute

"We believe the retail distribution of the grocery line is by far the most important factor in distribution. We are in a position to absolutely protect the interest of the retail buyer.

"It is a well known fact to many of the members of the Retailers' Associations that we are strongly back of them in their plans, whereby they are endeavoring to benefit their condition and we want to assure you that we desire a chance to demonstrate the advantage that a buyer obtains in buying as large a percentage of his wants as possible from us.

"Margins are now so close in the jobbing grocery business, that the only way a jobber can hope to succeed is to obtain a large volume. We therefore, in our endeavor to assist the plans of the Retailers' Associations' work, can be favored in return by obtaining from the members thereof and from others in sympathy with the movement a preference on all their wants in this line.

Should Join Association.

"We are furthermore anxious to see every retail grocer on the Coast affiliated with the Retailer's Association. We are also just as anxious to see every wholesale grocer endeavor to strengthen his Association work in its co-operation with the Retailer's Association.

Hoping that we have made ourselves clear and that Association work in general may prosper, as we believe it is the only weapon that can be legitimately used in furthering the success of the profit account of all concerned.

We remain yours truly,

WELLMAN, PECK & CO.

Try to dress the window in a style entirely different from that of every window display in the vicinity. If the grocers round about think that breakfast foods or crackers are the very nicest things to show, do not follow meekly in their tracks. If the others show pyramids, you show horizontal designs; if they display a flat arrangement of goods, you make your display perpendicular. If you have tried autumn leaves and autumn vines and flowers for a while, go suddenly to the other extreme and show a bare window as regards all trimmings and decorations, for it is necessary to avoid slavish copying of one's own successes as well as the successes of neighbors. Originality is the most necessary quality in advertising and especially the window dressing branch.

HELPED BUILD BUSINESS.

It is satisfactory quality that brings customers back to the store asking for more. It is the same influence that prompts customers to advise their neighbors to deal with their grocer. It is the high quality of the "Diamond C" bacon and ham that has made them a satisfactory and splendid seller wherever they have been introduced by the Cudahy Packing Company.

We would call attention to the letter printed on page 4 of this issue, in which is told how "Diamond C" goods help trade.

The well-trained public, posted by the well-trained grocer and his clerks, is in small danger of being stampeded by false and sensational reports of the pure food situation. The well-trained public would not shy at fine tea and prefer the cheap leaf, nor avoid, as it sometimes does, the dried fruits and canned fruits that are of more medicinal value than many doctors' drugs. The well-trained public would not need to be pounded in order to discover some of the merits of olives and olive oil or to understand the really marvellous virtues of the canned tomato. The well-trained public is a great public need, but to have the well-trained public one must first have the well-trained grocer.

Attracting Trade

Lights in Display Windows.

Arrangement of lights in display windows is a feature which is not always given due study. A glaring arc light in the center of a window space may serve to light the way of the passerby, and a cluster of incandescents will often attract attention—to the lights. Considering the window simply as an advertising proposition, designed to sell goods, however, the lamps should be made as inconspicuous as good light service permits.

Good results can be obtained by placing shades behind the globes when incandescent are used, concealing them from the view of the public and throwing the light itself upon the goods. Large arc lights if used at all should be so placed as to avoid their blinding the eye to the display. This can be done by hanging them high in the window space, with a shade of dark material between the lamp and the street. Globes of ground glass are preferable to tone the light. Colored globes are not approved by the best grocery window trimmers, who reason that they diminish the attention attracted to the goods. A clear white light is best for display.

Proper Background.

Another point along the line of visibility is worth considering—that of background. A window display will often lose half its effectiveness for want of a suitable backing. Where light colored goods are displayed the background should be neutral or dark. When the goods are of dark color a light background may be used. Enough of contrast should be provided to make the display stand out prominently—not merely enough to be seen, but to be recognized at a quick glance from the farther side of the walk or across the street.

Where the arrangement of the store admits of enclosing the display windows the enclosure is desirable. Freedom from frost in winter, cleanliness and facility of making displays are all gained through this method.

Enthusiasm in Advertising.

Enthusiasm is the life of trade, and also the breath of life in advertising. Healthy enthusiasm is always to be applauded. Not the irrational, headstrong ebullitions coming from those who imagine vainly that they know it all, but an enthusiasm born in confidence of goods and confidence in persons of ability to make goods move.

Enthusiasm in advertising means precisely the same thing and its influence is making itself felt the world over. The timid advertiser never succeeds, the tentative advertiser sometimes, but the thoroughly enthusiastic advertiser always wins the goal of his ambition.

It is the knowledge of men and things that makes the successful advertiser, and knowledge born of experience and of advice. Not a knowledge, however, emanating from a brain enthusiastic in its own belief.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The U. S Dept of Agriculture reports for the week:

"The rain in Southern California varied from about 2 inches along the Coast to over 5 inches in the foothill districts. Rain is badly needed in all sections north of the Tehachapi Pass. Walnuts and olives are yielding fair crops."

SUGAR.

The local market is quiet and unchanged

New York, November 14th —Raw sugar is steady with higher prices for beet in Europe. The market has been steady and quiet during the entire week with prices unchanged for refined as well as raws.

Tillman & Bendel says under date of November 8th:

"The tendency of the European and New York markets during the past few months has been towards lower prices. It seems to be the impression of well known authorities that the market can hardly go much lower than the present basis, claiming that the prices prevailing in Europe is already below the cost of production. So far as local conditions are concerned, prices have advanced 5 cents per 100 pounds during October. The cause for which has not yet been apparent because of the reason that at that time the New York market was declining. For this reason, it is difficult to tell what the next move locally will be, as it may be influenced by the condition of the world's market and as it may not be."

TEAS.

Tillman & Bendel under date of November 8th report:

"The tea crop of Japan is over 10,000,000 pounds short as compared with last season. As stocks of Japan in the United States were very low at opening of the season we do not hesitate to state that Japan teas of all grades are and will be good property."

TEA.

A. Schilling & Co. say.

"The market in the Orient is practically closed. The expected has happened. There has been nowhere near enough tea produced this season, and those importers who have good stocks of this blue find themselves in an enviable position.

"In the Chicago and New York markets we understand any of the higher grade teas can readily be sold in large lots at splendid profits.

"Insomuch, however, as big profits on this class of goods can be secured now it is very evident that their value will be tremendously enhanced within the next five or six months as the shortage of stocks in all hands become more apparent.

"All tea men are now looking forward to an extraordinarily favorable condition in the trade during the coming year.

"There seems to be one menace to the tea trade at the present time, but which will be a positive advantage to a few large holders, and that danger is that congress in its next session will place a duty on tea in order to make up the shortage in the national income.

"We all know how detrimental to all parties concerned in tea, especially to the consumer and small retailer, will be such action. The consumer will have to put up with an inferior article for his money, while the retailer, not being able to increase selling prices in proportion to increased cost, will find his profit curtailed."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"The market is the quietest in a long time; prices remain as for several weeks past."

Tillman & Bendel reports under date of November 8th:

"Although a very good crop of Central American was harvested this year, the immense increase in consumption of once in this country and the high prices held by holders of Santos and other South American coffees have increased the demand of the East and Middle West with the result that medium crop Central American coffees are now very firm. Low grades have been very scarce for the past two years. The consumer is beginning to realize that real coffee merit lies in the higher grades. These facts have done considerable towards decreasing the consumption on the coast of low grade coffees."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"Prices remain as last week, with the market very firm and tending to higher prices."

Tillman & Bendel say under date of November 8th:

"Present values have been influenced by frequent reports from growers and millers in Louisiana, setting forth the claim that the growing rice crops have suffered considerable damage on account of the unfavorable climatic conditions. At present it seems that the prices are lower than the values ruling in the South warrant."

New York, November 7—Lamson Bros & Co. report:

"There has been a brisk demand during the week for the medium grades of Honduras, which are scarce both here and at the South, and bring full figure whenever offered. Fancy sorts are more plentiful, but are relatively lower priced than at primary points, present arrivals having been secured previous to recent advance. Japan sorts have been in active request. Prices of a week ago are fully sustained, with quotable advance secured on desirable parcels.

"Advices from the South note good demand on the Atlantic Coast with firmness on all lines. At New Orleans the market has been active on all styles, lower grades and screenings have advanced under good inquiry from Porto Rico; medium grades are scarce, and are quickly absorbed when carried, choice to fancy sorts are bringing full prices. Rough rice is held firmly, under brisk competition by the mills.

"In the interior Southwest Louisiana and Texas the demand is active and full prices have been obtained. There is a quick market for Rough Rice, and also for the cleaned product. Recent advices note considerable damage by storms in Southwest Louisiana.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note improved demand with advance."

CANNED FRUITS.

The California Fruit Canners' Association this week announces an advance of 10 cents per doz on all 2½-lb. grades and 25 cents per dozen on gallon pie fruits. They also announce an advance of 25 cents per doz on the extra choice series with an advance of 10 cents per dozen on all other size. Gallon fruit of all sorts is practically out of the market. The California Fruit Canners' Association announces the withdrawal of prices on gallon extra standard peaches, standard lemon cling peaches and pie unpeeled peaches. Another of the large canning establishments announces that there is not a case of gal-

THE DEMAND FOR Malta-Vita

The quality of Malta-Vita explains its rapidly increasing sales. Malta-Vita doesn't belong to the tasteless variety of flaked wheat foods. It's good to eat and the public is finding this out. Malta-Vita's crisp brown flakes are healthful, too.

NO PREMIUMS USED

Premiums are not given with Malta-Vita. It is sold strictly on its food merits, and intelligent people appreciate this fact.

lon plums left in any of their factories. The new quotations for grapes and blackberries of the California Fruit Canners' Association are as follows:

Grapes—2½ Extras $1.10; 2½ Extra Standards $1.15; 2½ Standards $1.05; 2½ Seconds 95 cents; 2½ Water 90 cents; Gallon Pie $2.25.

Blackberries—2½ Standards, $1.75; 2½ Extra Standard, $1.35; 2½ Standards $1.25; 2½ Seconds, $1.20; 2½ Water, $1.15; 2½ Pie, $1.15.

All lines of canned fruits are badly broken. Peaches and apricots are well cleaned up. There is a fair stock of pears. Although the pack of canned tomatoes will be large, owing to the continuance of dry weather, it is thought that the entire pack will be cleaned up. The quoted price at present is 85 cents although some sales are being made at lower figures. Higher prices are freely predicted. Many of the canners are still packing tomatoes and will continue until the rain or frost kills off the supply. The following prices are quoted although they are being shaded to meet conditions 2½-lb Standards, 85 cents; 2½-lb Solid Pack, 95 cents; 3-lb Solid Pack, $1.05; Gallon Standards, $2.75.

Tillman & Bendel report under date of November 8th:

"While the pack of canned fruits is undoubtedly the largest on record, liberal buying has left many lines badly depleted. This applies particularly to all gallon table and pie fruits as well as 2½ and 3-lb. extras. Peas are in light supply with prospects of higher prices before new crop goods are available.

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York November 14th—The market for tomatoes is quiet and unsettled.

Tillman & Bendel report under date of November 8th:

"Tomatoes have advanced 20 cents per dozen for 2½s and 75 cents per dozen for gallons above opening figures and it is not likely that they will recede."

Baltimore, November 3rd—The "Trade" reports:

"With the increase in price of tomatoes it is understood that the heavies. factories are still holding their stock, believing the market will remain in their favor. Prices remain at 97½ cents for No. 3 Standards with some packers selling blocks at 95 cents. 2-lb. tomatoes are quoted at 72½ cents, which is 2½ cents lower than last week. The decline was probably caused by the report of the large pack of that size in this market.

New York, November 2nd—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"The market for tomatoes remains steady at a range of 97½ cents to $1.00 for full Standard 3s f. o. b. factory. Local interest is rather light as jobbers do not share the confidence of the packers in the stability of the market. Occasional business is reported on Standard 3s at 95 cents.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, November 3rd—The "Trade" reports:

"Corn has been selling on a general basis of 45 cents Maryland packs. Much New York state corn has changed hands at the same figure. Some other good brands have been passing out at 47½ and 50-55 cents.

New York, November 2d—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"Interest in corn is increasing. Chem Western stock is now an important factor. Standard State corn is held firmly at 60 to 62½ cents f. o. b. factory with Maryland stock held at 90 cents f. o. b. Portland. Western corn has been sold at 45-55 cents delivered."

DRIED FRUIT.

All doubt of the scarcity of dried fruit on the Coast has now disappeared. There has never before been so small a supply of prunes at this season of the year. Apricots and peaches are in small supply and those left are in the hands of large packers who are holding them for assorted orders. The present f. o. b. Coast price for prunes on 40's to 70's inclusive is 3¼c basis; small sizes are extremely scarce, and 90's command a premium.

Tillmann & Bendel report under November 8th:

"Evaporated apples are in light supply and are gradually advancing owing to inquiries from the far East. Apricots and peaches are practically out of growers' hands. A fairly brisk inquiry tends to give the market considerable firmness. There is a prospect for considerably higher prices for prunes in the near future. Any increase in the demand will be immediately followed by advances."

RAISINS.

Practically no raisins are being sold by the Raisin Growers' Association at the present time. A few special brands are being taken by jobbers to fill orders. Jobbers both here and in the East appear to be buying from hand to mouth and getting their supplies from outside packers who are selling the ½c to 1c under association prices. The Raisin Growers' Association has decided to negotiate a loan of $250,000. This will enable them to hold their raisins until the outside goods are disposed of. The short crop of this year makes the Association managers feel that there will not be enough raisins to supply the demand between now and the arrival of new goods in 1906. This will mean that the growers in the association will receive from $20 to $30 more per ton for their goods than those which are being sold at the present price by the outside packers, but practically none will be sold till after January 1st.

Fresno, November 9.—The directors of the Fresno Raisin Growers' Combine yesterday, by unanimous vote, adopted a resolution that no proposal of any sort or from any quarter looking for reduction in prices would be accepted until after January 1st.

Tillmann & Bendel report under date of November 8th:

"Owing to the dissatisfaction at the prevailing conditions expressed by the jobbers who are forced to buy their supplies from the Raisin Growers' Association and also of the limited stock in single hands outside of that organization, it hardly seems possible that the present high prices can be maintained. In view of existing conditions a hand to-mouth policy in the purchase of further supplies at present high prices seems to be an advisable course."

New York, November 3.—A prominent broker, in an interview with the "Journal of Commerce," calls attention to the fact that in New York there are three seeders that are capable of turning out about six cars per day. In Philadelphia there is a seeder that can turn out about two cars per day. Various jobbers also have small seeding machines. The broker estimates that Eastern seeders have at least 100 cars of old seeded raisins. This broker states that various large jobbers are cleaning out imported Sultana raisins and selling them in one-pound cartons at 7c per lb. or less. For this reason the broker insists that there will not be many of the Association seeded raisins sold at 8¼c f. o. b. Coast for fancy

PRUNES.

New York, November 14.—The market for prunes is firm. Sales of single cars of Santa Clara straight 40's are reported at 3½c basis Coast; 40's to 70's inclusive, 3¼c basis Coast, Sonoma 40's to 70's inclusive, 3½c basis Coast. The prune market firmed considerably during the week, owing to considerable activity on the part of French buyers who were in the market for 30's, 40's and 50's.

Pendleton, Ore., November 10.—J. P. McMinn, proprietor of a large fruit drier in the northern part of Umatilla county, reports the output this season was 60,000 pounds, as against 100,000 pounds last season.

CURRANTS

Tillmann & Bendel report under date of Nov. 8th:

"The market on this commodity has shown an upward tendency for some time, owing to the completion of the organization in Greece controlling the output. At present writing, the market shows a healthy condition with demand good at prevailing prices."

WALNUTS.

Fullerton, Cal., Nov. 6.—Many walnut growers estimate that there will be a shortage of from 10 to 15 per cent over former crop estimates because of last week's rain storm.

Fullerton, Cal., November 2.—During the recent storm great quantities of walnuts were shaken down. Manager Pritchard of the Walnut Growers' Association says that if the growers have picked them up promptly and dried them

Cigars and Tobacco

The wholesale trade is practically at an end for this year, and the trade is now getting ready to take account of the year's business, and prepare for the new year.

The Independendent Tobacco Manufacturer's Association at its recent meeting took steps to circumvent the Licorice Trust. An independent licorice plant will be maintained.

The recent Tobacco Exposition in New York has been voted a great success. The attendance for the week aggregated 135,000, each day showing a heavy increase over the preceding one.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. are just receiving their first invoices of their nickel cigar, the Pathfinder, which account they recently took over. An active campaign will at once begin in behalf of this excellent piece of goods.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. report a sharp revival in trade, and that everything points to a big Christmas business. In the past week they have received over 100.000 Optimo cigars, which have come forward by express in order to meet the unprecedented demand.

Up in Montana they are becoming quite excited over the possibilities of tobacco culture as an addition to their already numerous and varied products of the soil.

Leon S. Mayer, secretary of the Cigar and Tobacco Merchant's Association, is arranging to have a meeting of the Association early next week. Mr Mayer is one of the most aggressive workers in behalf of the principles of the Association and believes that if the trade generally will wake up to their interests in the matter valuable result will soon be achieved. In the Eastern cities the cigar dealers cast aside all trade and personal jealousies, and work for the mutual protection and benefit of the whole. Why can not San Francisco dealers do likewise? Is it because the average dealer here can not see beyond the present. Says Mr. Mayer: "I am sure we have tried hard to accomplish something for the benefit of all, but we have been hampered in our efforts by lack of support where support could most justly be expected. In union there is strength, so let us now come shoulder to shoulder and work for the common weal. I believe every man who can do so should handle his own private brand of cigars, that is a clear Havana line. I have found it a success. In the past week I sold over 5000 of my own private brand. This shows what can be done."

In the opinion of Senator Newlands of Nevada, who was one of Taft's junket party to the Philippines, it would be wiser to subsidize directly the Filipinos than to open up to them our market. It would indeed be cheaper for our cigar industry to tax itself annually a good round sum for the support of the Filipinos than to permit their competition to ruin its own stability or welfare.

Statistics show that the exporation of cigars from Porto Rico to the United States aggregate about 2,500,000 per week or an average of 130,000,000 yearly. All cigar boxes must be stamped with United States revenue stamps before leaving Porto Rico, or upon entering the Custom House in New York but up to the present time no provision has been made by the Federal authorities for the sale of such stamps in Porto Rico.

The American Tobacco Company has declared a dividend of 2½ per cent and an extra dividend of 10 per cent on the common stock, payable December 1. Since the financial readjustment of the big corporation dividends have been declared on the common stock as follows: February, 1905, 2½ per cent; May, 2½ per cent; August, 2½ per cent, and November 1, 1905, 12½ per cent, aggregating 20 per cent in nine months' time.

It is not true, says London Tobacco Weekly Journal, as has been alleged, that the aromas of various kinds of tobacco are due to bacteria. They are contributed by certain peculiar aluminous compounds existing in the tobacco leaf itself. These set up a kind of fermentation, and the resulting oxidization of the nicotine gives the flavor and aroma which are so highly prized. Ammonia is essential to the proper fermentation of tobacco, and manufacturers resort to various experiments to supply this necessary substance, the commercial carbonate of ammonia being used in Florida—dissolved in water and sprayed upon the leaves.

Under date of October 28 the Tampa correspondent of Tobacco says: "A. Santaella & Co. are about to occupy the completed 100-foot addition to their large factory. There will be room for a game of football in the top story of the enlarged building. They need 200 additional cigarmakers at once. They should be making 120,000 cigars a day to meet the demands for their noted Optimo cigars. Through a slip of the types last week the familiar "Optimo," known everywhere as "Optimo, My Optimo," changed its name to "Optima," and the 600 cigarmakers in the Santaella factory were making 9,000 cigars a day—they haven't made less than 50,000 a day in months; so reported. The error may be charged either to the effect of the Tampa climate or the excitement in the New York political campaign. The Santaella cigar factory will be a gem in the collection of the world's best factories for the making of cigars. The handsome factory enlarged, the grounds improved and beautified, with its 1,100 or more busy workers, will be one of the showy and interesting points for Tampa's visitors."

FRENCH TOBACCO CONTRACTS.

Before retiring from his post at Paris, France, Consul General Gowdy, under date of September 16, made a report to the Department of Commerce and Labor on the tobacco contracts made in the United States in behalf of the French government. Inasmuch as tobacco is a monopoly in France, the raw material used in the manufacture of the various products made from tobacco is bought in the United States by French consults, or under certain kinds of contracts. Mr. Gowdy says that the contract this year for Virginia tobacco was for about five hundred tons in a single lot. A deposit of $3,860 is required of each bidder. The tobacco has to be of certain types and delivered at Havre, Bordeaux and Marseilles in three consignments, the first before October 10 of the present year, the second between that date and January 10, 1906, and the third before April 1, 1906, under penalty of paying 20 per cent of the value of the quantity missing. Similar conditions were imposed with regard to Maryland tobacco, says Mr. Gowdy, with the difference that the quantity required was approximately 3,300 tons and that there were three contracts of 1,100 tons each. Conditions as to the quality and delivery were the same, except that it was stipulated that Ohio tobacco (even the clean scented) should be excluded, and the deposit required was of course in consequence. The conditions regarding Kentucky tobacco were the same as for Virginia, the quantity required being five hundred tons. American tobaccos—Kentucky (Burley and dark), Ohio, Maryland, and Virginia—are usually bought on the spot through the French consuls or by contract.

PURE AND WHOLESOME.

Carnation Cream has repeatedly been analyzed and always found pure and wholesome.

The process by which it is prepared does not alter the original ingredients, wherefore all the constituent elements remain as when the milk came from cows.

This is not the case with the evaporated creams, which are preserved with alcohol or some form of sugar.

on trays many can be saved. If wet weather continues there will be many walnuts spoiled. The rainfall here was nearly two inches during the storm.

New York, November 14.—New crop walnuts are arriving from Europe. They are being quoted at: Grenobles, 13¾c. Marbots, 12¼c; Cornes, 10¾c. French walnuts are reported active.

ALMONDS.

Tillmann & Bendel report under date of November 8th:

"The present supply of almonds in the hands of the local wholesale trade is calculated to be short of requirements."

CANNED SALMON.

The Alaska Packers' Association is entirely sold out of all lower grades of canned salmon. It now has nothing to offer except sockeye talls at $1.35 and red Alaska talls at $1. The entire stock of red Alaska salmon in first hands on the Coast is now about 150,000 cases as against over 1,000,000 cases a year ago. This is the most complete clean-up in years.

Tillmann & Bendel report under date of November 8th:

"The very low figures named by the Alaska Packers' Association on red salmon has forced into consumption an enormous quantity of this variety. This, together with the small pack of pinks and chums, has resulted in fairly cleaning up the market on all low priced stock. Limited supplies of sockeye have made it possible to maintain the price on this grade. From recent indications the end of this season will see the salmon business in better shape than it has been for many years. It is quite likely that slight advances above present quotations will be made on all grades when the active spring demand sets in."

Seattle, Wash., November 4.—The "Trade Register" reports:

"The principle feature of the salmon situation this week was the conference of the Washington and British Columbia Fisheries Commission in this city last Thursday. The meeting was held to consider what steps would be necessary for the preservation of this great industry through harmonious action by packers on both sides of the line and the correction and enforcement of laws to accomplish this result.

FISH.

New York, Nov. 10.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Holland Herring—Slightly lower. Market very quiet.

Norway Herring—Catch of Sloe Herrings has begun and it seems to be quite good. Prices have given way within the last few days, but will not settle yet on a firm basis until the catch is over.

Imported Sardines—France reports absolutely no catch and it is certain that there is no likelihood of large supplies for this season. In Portugal they are catching a few small fish, but by far not sufficient to supply the demand.

Spiats—There is hardly any fishing. They are decidedly firmer and scarce. In Norway there is no catch and no likelihood of their being sufficient supplies this season to supply the demand.

Norway Mackerel—Selling very freely at full asking prices. For the large sizes prices have been advanced, and buyers appear willing to take the goods even at the advanced prices.

CODFISH.

Tacoma, Wash., November 8.—Pacific Coast codfish caught in Alaska waters is now being shipped back labeled "Great Banks Fish" and retailed in local markets as the Eastern product. Owing to the scarcity of Atlantic codfish, immense quantities of codfish caught in Puget Sound has been shipped East during the past twelve months. Local merchants will find it desirable to examine their purchases closely to avoid being victimized.

ANCHOVIES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"The catch of anchovies in Norway was a total failure and what little there were caught is held at prohibitive high prices. The catch of stockfish was likewise a failure and consequently there are no stocks in Norway."

CAVIAR.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Caviar is cheaper, not on account of an abundant supply, but because of little demand."

PROVISIONS.

The Cudahy Packing Co. report:

"The market is firm at this week's quotations."

CHEESE.

Tillmann & Bendel report under date of November 8:

"Eastern cheese being in limited supply explains the firmness of the market and active demand. There is no doubt but that prices will gradually advance from now until spring."

CANDLES.

Tillmann & Bendel say, under date of November 8th:

"Regardless of the recent advance, all available indications point to still higher values."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"The report of the San Francisco Hay Association just compiled shows that in the country tributary to San Francisco there are 157,000 tons available for this market on the first of November last there were but 142,000 tons. The daily consumption in San Francisco is estimated at 500 tons; this would make the total season's requirements only 180,000 tons. Last year we had sufficient quantity for all purposes and we had to ship Southern California at least 15,000 tons, while the Rusian and American governments must have taken close to 10,000 tons. This year there is undoubtedly more hay being fed throughout the interior of the State, but Southern California is taking but little and none is being shipped to the Orient. It would seem therefore that with an open winter the market will be badly depressed in the spring.

"Prices continue as last week."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Buster Brown" is crowding the Grand Opera House this week. The show is full of clean healthy laughs. Buster Brown is a healthy minded little chap who can do gentlemanly things without making normal people feel sorry for him as they did for Little Lord Fauntleroy or make the audience feel that he ought to be put in jail, as they did with Peck's Bay Boy. Master Rice, who plays the part of Buster Brown, looks about 8 years old, while he is really in his 21st year. He is a clever actor and is assisted by a large and well drilled chorus of pretty girls. Special matinees will be given Saturday and Sunday. The last performance will be given on Sunday. Richard Mansfield follows with a two weeks' engagement in a repertoire of standard dramas.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The "Standing Room Only" sign has had to be put out several times for "The Light Eternal" at the Majestic this week. The play is staged very effectively at this theatre. The parts are all in strong hands and every dramatic incident is presented with the greatest possible effectiveness. The success of the play has been so great that the management has consented to continue it for one week more. The play is one that it will pay thoughtful people to attend if only for the value of the splendid and elevating thoughts it so beautifully exemplifies.

TIVOLI.

The Grand Opera season closed this week. On Monday evening the comic opera season opens with a new company in "The Highwayman."

ALCAZAR.

Good houses are rewarding the players at the Alcazar in the production of "The Little Minister." This is one of Barrie's most delightful plays. Margaret Langham, a young actress who was brought from Los Angeles on a special contract to play the part of "Lady Babbie," has scored a very decided success. She is a young woman with much dramatic ability. The entire cast is a strong one. "Mrs. Dane's Defense" will be presented next week. This is an emotional drama which will serve to introduce Edith Evelyn, the new leading lady.

CALIFORNIA.

"The Tiger Lilies" are making things hum at the California Theatre. The company is made up of some of the best variety and burlesque people in the business. The "head liners" are assisted by a chorus of beautiful and clever girls who display their talents and their shapes in two original musical comedies entitled 'A Temporary Husband" and 'King of the Coffee Fiends." The company has a novelty in the "Tigerscope" which they bring to the city for the first time.

CENTRAL.

"The Darkest Hour" is being presented at the Central this week. This is a melodrama full of thrills and excitement. It requires many elaborate mechanical effects which are employed to splendid advantage. The piece is a thoroughly interesting one. Herschel Mayall has the leading role of a young German. The rest of the company is well cast. An elaborate production of "Sapho" will be given next week. This will be the last week of melodrama at the General under the direction of Belasco & Mayer. The entire company will be transferred to the Alhambra, where productions of melodrama will continue.

FISCHER'S.

The one act comedy, "The Yacht Girl," has proven a decided hit at Fischer's. It is full of snap and go and gives opportunity for the introduction of musical specialties that interest the house. In addition to this musical comedy there is a strong line of vaudeville numbers which include balancers, musical artists and some new and funny pictures on the biograph.

CHUTES.

"Princess Trixies," the trained horse, continues to fill the large audiences at the big tree theatre with wonder at her remarkable feats and the splendid training she has received. This horse does everything but talk. There are many interesting specialties on the vaudeville bill which is made up of variety headliners. Another sensation has been made by the diving elks.

EXPORTING RICE.

This Country Now Helping to Feed the World.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The United States has entered the list of the world's rice producing and exporting countries.

Figures compiled by the Bureau of Statistics show that the exports of rice to Cuba alone in the fiscal year 1905 amounted to 34,976,414 pounds, against 698,983 pounds in the preceding year, the value of rice exported to Cuba being $993,819 in 1905, against $19,985 in 1904.

The total value of rice of domestic production shipped out of the country in the fiscal year 1905, including that to the non-contiguous territory of the United States, was $5,361,641, against $667 387 in 1900 and $16,454 in 1895.

Meanwhile the imports of rice have fallen from practically $4,000,000 in 1899 to $2,000,000 in 1905, and for the first time in the history of our commerce the rice exports exceeded in value the rice imports.

Prior to 1899 the rice imports ranged between three and four million dollars per annum, and the exports had never reached as much as $100,000 in value. In 1900 as already indicated, the exports exceeded half a million dollars, in 1901 they were about one and a half millions, in 1902 they exceeded two millions, in 1903 they were two and a half millions in value, in 1904 two and three-quarters million, and in 1905, as already indicated, $5,361,641, including in these figures the shipments to the non-contiguous territory of the United States.

Clerk's Corner

The Mistake Clerk.

In the great New York city stores the proprietors employ a clerk who is called the "mistake clerk." He is the scapegoat of the establishment and the lightning conductor for the wrath of ladies who consider that they have something to complain of. When a lady has a complaint to make she is conducted to the private room of the manager, who is profuse in his apologies, and if the lady is satisfied with them, well and good. If not the "mistake clerk" is sent for, and he arrives looking a pitiable object with his knees trembling under him.

The manager rates him soundly for his stupidity and finally, if he judges it necessary, dismisses the wretched criminal, who creeps sadly out of the room with tears in his eyes muttering incoherently about his wife and family. In nine cases out of ten the complainant relents when she sees the misery of the poor fellow and begs that he be let off. The scapegoat is, after some hesitation, sent for again and solemnly pardoned, and the lady leaves the shop feeling the comfortable glow of one who has done a really kind action. She also takes an interest in the shop for the future and persuades her friends to patronize it. A really good "mistake clerk," who has tears when wanted and a choking sob in his voice; can command a high salary.—Exchange.

Clerks' Ignorance of Goods.

It has been said that the greatest fault of the clerk is lack of consideration. From the viewpoint of the customer this may be a just criticism, though years of experience as a professional shopper have not shown that clerks are so different from other human beings in matters of politeness, consideration, attention and kindness traits. Gather a thousand people of any class together and you will find about nine hundred who have little consideration for other people under any circumstances. Placing the thousand people behind the counter of a great department store cannot change these figures. Often it is the fault of the customer if she receives rude treatment at the hands of a clerk, for even customers are trying sometimes. There is another side to this question of the deficiencies of clerks which is important from the employer's standpoint at least, and one which even he fails to realize in many cases.

Causes Loss of Trade.

The average clerk knows little about the goods he sells over the counter. It is this lack of knowledge of the goods he handles and the stock carried in the department which most frequently allows trade to slip through his fingers.

The sale of a bit of merchandise seems on its face a simple thing. It is summed up in a request from the customer, the filling out of a check by the clerk, wrapping and delivery of the parcel. Instead, however, of this being a complete transaction in itself it is really the consummation of a transaction which has been pending for months and for which much time and many dollars have been spent.

These are days of large business and keen competition. The first thing which has to be considered is the buying of the stock of merchandise, and this means heavy expense, not only on account of the money invested but because competent buyers are scarce and demand good salaries. The goods must be well bought.

Well Bought—Half Sold.

There is an old saying that "goods well bought are half sold." Twenty-five years ago this was true beyond a doubt. To-day every merchant exploits his goods by advertising. In addition to being well bought they must be well advertised. No matter how well advertised they may be, they must be displayed in a manner suited to the advertisement. Each one of these branches requires competent, high-salaried men to direct and carry out the work.

We will assume that each has done his work thoroughly up to this point—the merchandise has been carefully chosen, bought at a figure to insure good profit to the merchant and reasonable price to the customer; it has been advertised in a strong, interest-holding style, and displayed in a manner to support the advertisement. At this critical point the clerk steps in and meets the customer to finish the transaction. If he is competent, knows his business, and, above all, knows his stock, everything will work out as planned, but let an incompetent clerk come in at this moment and he can destroy every possibility of a sale that has been worked up by weeks of preparation. In five minutes he can do more harm to his employer's interests than can be remedied in as many years. And, according to one of the largest employers in this city, it is more often ignorance of the goods he handles than any other one thing that spoils the trade at this point.

A SATISFACTORY GELATINE.

It Gives Profits to the Grocer and Pleases His Customers.

Fred F. Hobbs & Co. are introducing to the Pacific Coast trade the Plymouth Rock Gelatine. This gelatine is granulated and can be measured with a spoon. Every package is divided into two parts, each of which makes one full quart of gelatine. It is positively free from odor and each package also contains a small package of pink coloring to be used for fancy deserts. It dissolves quickly and readily, and can be made ready for serving in an hour by using ice. This gelatine has been endorsed by physicians, cooking experts and good housekeepers everywhere. The excellence of the goods is such that one order speedily brings a second.

Points to Watch

EESE—
Eastern cheese is very firm with a tendency to higher prices later on in the season.

PLE SUGAR—
Supplies in first hands in Canada and Vermont are exhausted. The demand has been larger than usual and higher prices are predicted.

UNES—
The market is firming very decidedly. Eastern markets are active with Pacific Coast holdings much lighter than usual. An advance to 4c basis is considered probable.

ANS—
This crop of large white beans will be about 150,000 sacks short of the normal, which fact will undoubtedly result in higher prices. Lima beans are strongly held, and holders are looking for an advance.

NNED CORN—
The jobbing trade have been gathering in cheap corn very rapidly for some time past till the supply is now quite low. Eastern authorities now anticipate that the jobbing trade will seek to induce an advance. No advance is expected for some months to come. No decline is possible, however.

Successful Treachery.

J. Salomon With J. T. Hurley and Other Saloon Grocers Disrupt Existing Local Organization.

J. Salomon has succeeded in disrupting the organization known as the San Francisco Retail Grocers.

By his unfair and unwise rulings and his failure to control the meetings of the organization, he has played into the hands of Jerry T. Hurley—who has a small grocery with a fair-sized bar attachment on Hayes and Webster streets—until Mr. Hurley has been able to drive out of the organization practically all of the higher class grocers who came into it because of the earnest efforts of the larger men of the trade who had hoped (but vainly) that they would ultimately receive fair treatment.

Every demand made on the organization by Jerry Hurley and his friends was granted by the larger men without any protest, although most of the matters did not concern them in the least.

Every request of the "dry" grocers was met by such a voluble storm of garrulous abuse and bitter personalities that many men have already withdrawn from the Association.

Caps the Climax.

The climax, however, was reached on Monday evening when Mr. Salomon led a movement to divert the moneys earned by a recent theatre party to other uses than that for which it was intended.

At the August meeting of the organization, it was voted to give a theatre party "to raise funds to pay the organization's per capita tax to the State Association."

On the strength of this resolution, the organization elected delegates, allowing each man $15 as expense money. Thirteen of them attended the State convention. On their statement of conditions, the delegates were seated without being required to pay their per capita tax in advance. Six of the eleven directors of the State Association were then chosen from the San Francisco organization.

Immediately upon the return of the delegates, President Salomon and Mr Hurley started an initial squabble in order to save the treasury the expense of meeting the expenses of the delegats to the State Association.

The theatre party was given and, thanks to the exertions of the friends of the State Association, was a measurable success, the net profits amounting to $261.20.

J. J. Hayes at once wrote demanding the immediate payment of his expense money on the grounds that he needed it.

It was moved to pay him out of the $261.20. The friends of the State Association, to avoid another squabble, allowed it to pass.

Then John W. King introduced a resolution that the $261.20 be used to pay half the Association's per capita tax assessment and the expenses of those delegates who insisted on immediate payment.

Krueger Acts Without Authority.

The money in the meanwhile had been put in the hands of Fred Krueger,

Associated Retail Grocers

Leading Local Dealers Glad to Unite For Better Conditions.

During two years, the leading grocers of San Francisco have found their efforts to better conditions blocked by a few saloon grocers who were particularly active and always very noisy at all meetings of the local association. These men would violently fight against every movement to better trade conditions proposed by any of the leaders of the State organization, with the result that the conservative merchants who could not afford to have their dignity lessened, refused to attend meetings.

After the disgraceful exhibition of Monday evening a number of the leading exponents of association work advocated the immediate organization of a new association which should permit in its membership only those dealers whose grocery business was of sufficient importance to make them of weight among the wholesale trade and the manufacturers. To this end the following agreement was prepared by State Secretary Frank B. Connolly:

San Francisco, Cal., Nov. 21, 1905.

Realizing that the leading retail grocers of San Francisco can better their conditions by united action, we, the undersigned retail grocers of San Francisco, hereby agree to unite in forming an Association to be known as

ASSOCIATED RETAIL GROCERS of San Francisco, which shall have for its chief purpose the following:

1. To warrant manufacturers in protecting our profits by maintaining a proper retail selling price on the staple products, such as flour, etc.

2. To enable us to bring influence to bear on wholesalers and manufacturers through the aid of the associated grocers of other cities.

3. To enable us to secure consideration at the State Legislature through the same means.

4. To co-operate in the establishment of a first-class collection system and delinquent list.

5. To enable members to secure first-class credit ratings to our advantage.

6. For the creation of a better feeling among the leading grocers of San Francisco.

Inside of 24 hours, 35 of the leading grocers of San Francisco had signed the agreement and it is expected that the membership will reach 250 before December 1st, when active operations will be commenced. Among those who head the list are: Bibo, Newman Co.; H. Lehrke & Sons; Irvine Bros.; Faber & Co.; Stulz Bros.; Doyle & McGowan; H. Wreden & Co.; Golder Bros.; John W. King; Harry Arnold; H. Holman & Co.; Burns & Keegan (formerly C. A. Parkin); John H. Tietjen & Co.; W. C. Watkins and R. G. Schroeder; Connolly Bros.; McCaw Bro. Co.; H. S. Elliott & Co.; Lackmann Bros.; T. Salomon; R. McCoy & Son; John Schomer; Claus Wreden; E. W. Ploeger.

The formation of the new organization will without doubt largely increase the influence of the State Grocers' Association.

It will insure the successful operation

Jobbing Interests of San Francisco Face Many Losses Because of Bad Trading Conditions.

Trade conditions are worse among the wholesalers of San Francisco than with the wholesale trade of any other great jobbing center in any part of the United States. It is their own fault and could be corrected by proper organization.

Even in New York and Chicago, the centers of fierce competition, conditions are not so bad. One wholesale grocer of Chicago, in commenting to the writer upon the foolishness of the San Francisco jobbers, laughingly said: "We had our taste of those methods once. We graduated out of that kindergarten stage long ago."

The editor of the Advocate was reproached the other day by a gentleman prominent in wholesale grocery circles, who said: "The retailers objected to the wholesalers having an association and yet they are asking for the same protection now that they were objecting to when the jobbers wanted it."

This statement is absolutely without foundation. The retailers were pleased to see the jobbers effect a strong organization. They would have rejoiced to have seen this organization continue had the organization seen fit to use its power to protect the rights of their customers among the retailers.

There was one thing that the retail grocers objected to.

It was this:

The jobbers used the power of their organization to force the little retailers to pay the higher price decided as necessary by the combination of jobbers. At the same time these same jobbers allowed certain retail grocers to purchase their supplies at figures much less than those charged to the bulk of the trade.

When the retail grocers protested against this discrimination and showed that it was resulting in their losing business they were laughed at.

The jobbers, instead of realizing the seriousness of the situation, merely wanted to know: "What are you going to do about it?"

Cause of Exchange.

This unfair discrimination on the part of the wholesale grocers forced a number of the larger retail grocers to combine in their purchases in order that they might be able to get goods to the same advantage as the few large stores with whom they had to compete.

The writer of this article knows that this was so because he organized the Buying Exchange. But it was only after repeated interviews with the different wholesalers, who rather ridiculed the idea, that this step was taken. Instead of trying to avert, by correcting abuses, they said such a thing could not be done and refused to consider the situation as serious. As a result, the grocers were finally brought together.

Make Conditions Worse.

Since the organization of the Buying Exchange, the wholesale grocers themselves have done their best, or rather their worst to establish conditions that

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Beans are very firm.

Sell goods at a profit.

Keep coffee sales up.

Use plenty of price cards.

Plum pudding time is here.

Sell the boxes and barrels.

Nut season is on in earnest.

Put seasonable articles up in front.

Popcorn is a rather small item, but it's profitable.

The fancy lines are the ones that pay the profit.

Tea is active. The demand is spread well over all lines.

Cheese is strong and has advanced slightly within the week.

Time to buy dried fruits is now, before they advance any further.

In spite of high prices jobbers say that the apple business is good.

Olives are firm and prices are somewhat higher than they were thirty days ago.

Canned corn is an item to be used as a leader this winter. Prices are cheap.

Now is the time for fancy groceries. Make up a window of Thanksgiving specialties.

An accurate and quick system of keeping accounts will please customers and hold them.

Take time to look into advertising in all its phases. Study the thing first and then make use of it.

Pack of tomato catsup is short on account of the scarcity of tomatoes. Look out for cheap goods.

Dried apricots are beginning to show the effects of the short supply by an upward movement of prices.

The scarcity of asparagus and the rather active demand for it are unusual for this time of the year.

There is a steady demand for lanterns and lamp goods of all kinds. Even candles are not neglected.

How about advertising the cider and apples to make apple butter or the supplies to make into mincemeat.

The strength of the situation in peas is increasing under a continued demand and rapidly diminishing supplies.

In canned fruits, the most prominent feature at the moment is the strong upward movement in gallon apples.

Advertise the new things. Every housewife is always looking for something new to prepare for the table.

Price does not cut so much figure in the Thanksgiving buying. Therefore, you can sell more high grade goods.

In these times of advancing prices look out that you get a profit. By the way, how do you figure your profit?

Don't be afraid of a line just because it does not appear to be strictly groceries. If it looks like a seller try it.

This is pancake time and pancake flours are in brisk demand. Put in the "Peacock" brand and let the trade know it

Twenty-five grocers of Galesburg, Ill., were recently fined for selling chemical vinegar, spurious butter and bogus honey.

There is a strong and advancing market on evaporated apples. The quality of much of the stock is nothing to boast of, either.

Very strong cable advices are received from Smyrna regarding the fig situation there. It is reported that the season is closing at much higher prices.

Canned soups need advertising in many localities where they are little used because little known. If you have any on your shelves give them some publicity.

Carelessness is the cause of much loss through slow-pay customers. Retailers let their bills run too long and then show timidity in the matter of pushing collections.

The grocerymen of Minot, N. D., have served notice on their customers that they have discontinued the regular house to house canvass for orders Hereafter orders will be taken over the telephone.

Mention cheese and salt fish in your advertising at this time of year. These items will sell well now if properly pushed. Molasses is another item on which the retailer should be doing a good business.

The season of Iceland codfishery from the port of Paimpol has terminated. The forty-seven ships of the fleet took 1,600,000 cod, an average of 34,000, against 54 000 in 1904, and the size of the fish was inferior.

Say "No" when a manufacturer's agent wants you to stock an article on which the retail price is fixed at such a low figure that you cannot make a decent profit. At best there is little enough profit in the grocery business.

Confectionery sells from the first of September to the first of January better than at any other time of the year. Just before Thanksgiving the business is sure to be particularly good. Get in some nice fresh box stock for that trade.

The new-old plan of curing consumption by large doses of fatty foods should help the sale of olive oil. A free use of olive oil is undoubtedly of benefit in preventing tuberculosis from getting a foothold, by putting the body in good trim.

It is only a short time until Thanksgiving. Better go through the stock carefully and see that you have all the fancy and staple lines that will be called for on account of that great feast day. There is a possibility that you will find you are short somewhere.

There are too many "staples" in the grocery store—that is, too many lines that are sold at a low margin over cost with the belief that the profit will all be made on the fancy lines. Get a profit on the staples first and the fancy goods will take care of themselves.

Starch that is used both for eating and for laundry purposes is coming into more general use. It is made from wheat and is a thin boiling starch that some people say is superior to corn starch

Let the retailers be independent and self supporting; let the wholesalers come together for mutual good; and the manufacturers, the brokers, the men behind each interest. And then let each be represented in a national organization and all pull together.—American Grocer, N. Y.

There is a much firmer tone to the spice market and sales are reported of black pepper, cloves and cayennes. The clove market was especially firm in view of the small receipts at Zanzibar so far this season, being only 12,000 bales against 40,000 bales the same time last year and 30,000 bales in 1903.

Coffee holds about steady. The option market is fluctuating considerably and shows some declines, but the general opinion seems to be that the statistical position is too strong to warrant any decline in the spot goods. However, the market is a highly speculative one and what it will do is beyond the knowledge of most of us.

According to advices from London the recent sharp upturn in jobbing prices of cloves is based on an expected material reduction of supplies from Zanzibar. There has been an unexpected large shrinkage in receipts from Zanzibar since August 1, the opening of the season, being nearly 30,000 bales less than for the same period last year.

It is not the name the public buys, it's the coffee, and calling an inferior grade "Java" is not going to make the public like it any better. To most people coffee is just coffee, and the price generally determines the grade. In these days of blends and mixtures the dealers might do worse than follow the consumer's example.—Merchants' Review, N. Y.

Mocha coffee, according to a recent consular report, is declining in production. It is grown in a very primitive manner, and the cost of production is comparatively high and does not change. The exports from Aden are confined to the genuine Mocha bean, and France takes the lion's share, the United States filling the second place and the United Kingdom coming third.

Co-operation and competition are harnessed in a team. They work together to advance the interests of consumers, distributors, manufacturers, importers and intermediaries. All have a needed service to perform, but that does not forbid co-operation, as they are parts of one great commercial engine. We are living in hope of seeing this truth recognized in the grocery trade—American Grocer, New York.

"President Green, of the National Association, is winning hosts of friends by reason of the manly stand he has taken on the subject of self-support for the organization," says "Grocers' Review" of Philadelphia. 'Better by far," it says, "have a small organization supported by the members than a big, topheavy concern supported by those who give to get, and whose support could be taken away in a moment, leaving the association a financial wreck." The "American Grocer" adds: "As we understand President Green's position, he does not object to aid from other than members, provided they do not 'give to get.' He does not welcome money coming from one hand and a request or demand for favors in the other."

One of the notable features of the canned goods market is the free movement of the cheaper grades of corn into consumption. The excellent quality and low prices are inducing retailers to use this article as a leader in place of tomatoes, which last season were being pushed by distributors as the cheapest and most attractive article on the list. Tomatoes are too high for that purpose and corn has taken their place. This activity of the retail demand keeps jobbers constantly in the market as buyers from the packers. The general tone of the market is much firmer than it was a week ago, and although there has been no notable advance in prices, it is said to be more difficult to find desirable stock at a reasonable figure. Fancy corn is not plentiful and the holders of it are represented to be indifferent sellers at the prices now obtainable.

SUCCESSFUL TREACHERY.

who has played into the hands of the enemies of the State Association from the start. Mr. Krueger, without any authorization from anybody, paid himself $15 for his expenses to Stockton, although he traveled on a pass and was drawing down a salary from the Association at the time. He then wrote each delegate asking: "Do you wish to waive your claim to expenses as a delegate to the State Association?" instead of asking: "Are you willing to wait for your money and allow the per capita tax to be paid first?"

Hearing of this, State Secretary Connolly asked that a meeting of the delegates be called in order that they should decide what to do with the $261.20. Instead of helping secure that meeting, Mr. Krueger tendered each delegate a check for $15 asking: "Do you want this check for $15 to pay your expenses as a delegate?"

Several delegates accepted the checks, although they returned them when they learned what actual conditions were.

On Monday evening Mr. Connolly called attention to the fact that four delegates had been paid their $15 and desired to keep the money. These were Fred Krueger, Jack Sullivan, J. P. McGuire and J. J. Hayes.

Seven of the remainder had signed a statement that they were willing to wait and two more had verbally assented to waiting. Rather than have any trouble with the men who did not care to treat the State Association fairly, Mr. Connolly said that he would not seek to question the right of Mr Krueger to pay them out of the $261.20, but he introduced a resolution that the balance of the fund—$201.20—be employed as a part payment on the Association's per capita tax to the State Association.

Power Behind Throne.

An energetic discussion ensued.

Piling insult on injury, Mr. Krueger and Mr. McGuire made false statements in regard to the attitude of John F. Schomer, J. W. Offermann and Henry Wolking. All these gentlemen were present and were able to refute the statements, which they did very vigorously.

Itching Palms.

Mr. McGuire denounced the directors of the State Association for "itching palms" because they wanted money that was theirs and had been raised for them by their friends and was long overdue. He had nothing to say about the itching palms of the men who wanted to retain this money, although they had done almost nothing towards raising it. He had nothing to say about the "itching palms" of the four delegates himself included who incontinently took their $15 from Mr. Krueger for their expenses as delegates from funds raised to carry out their own promises without which they could not have sat in the convention. He had nothing to say of the "itching palms" of his co-fighters in the cause of disruption viz: Messrs. J. Salomon, Jerry Hurley and Jack Sullivan, who, as part of the Committee on Pure Food Show, voted themselves and their fellow committee members $750 out of the proceeds of the pure food show, against a storm of protest, although they then had less than $100 left for the Association, on whose credit and funds the show was given.

T. H. Corcoran Shows the Record.

T. H. Corcoran had the minutes of the August meeting read and called attention to the fact that at that meeting it was decided to give a theatre party to raise funds to meet the Association's per capita tax to the State Association. There was nothing said in this resolution about paying the delegates from that fund.

Then there was active whispering from Mr. Hurley to Mr. Salomon.

Mr. Salomon then declared Mr. Connolly's motion out of order.

Mr. Hurley then moved that the organization withdraw from the State Association explaining that "moral" support was enough.

Toby Salomon said: "It looks as if the wet grocers, after having used the dry grocers to defeat high license, are now trying to do them up. I, for one, am in this organization because of its outside affiliations and will withdraw if this motion passes."

Geo. B. Doyle said. "I hope this motion will prevail, although I will vote against it. The bar grocers have fought everything that the dry grocers have asked for. We need a good organization made up of decent acting, fair-minded men, and if this motion is passed, we will surely have such an organization."

J. Wm. Offermann said: "I pledged my word at the Stockton convention, as did the other 13 delegates from San Francisco, that these dues would be paid and I never broke my word and never will. If this Association tries to go back on its obligations to the State Association it is no good!"

(The last was given with great emphasis.)

Wm. Kortjohn joined in the protest against the unfair action.

H. W. Burmeister of the Theatre Party Committee then demanded that Secretary Krueger return to him the money made by this committee, which Mr. Burmeister had placed in Mr. Krueger's hands to pay the one-half per capita which at the last meeting was ordered, but which Mr. Krueger had taken upon himself to pay out indiscriminately to his friends. This was also turned down by President Salomon, who, Czar-like, seemed to entertain no motions except those which came from Jerry Hurley and John McGuire.

It was noted that many of those present were Jerry Hurley's friends, who came up at the request of their old leader and voted on Hurley's motion, although it is doubtful if half of them knew what their action really meant. Most of these were members of the old "Grocers' Union," Mr. Hurley's old "pocket" organization, who only show up at elections or when "Jerry" wants their vote.

Such men as Geo. B. Doyle, John F. Schomer, Frank B. Connolly, Ernest Lackmann, Toby Salomon, H. W. Burmeister, Henry Wolking, Claus Wreden and others, who attend meetings regularly and give their influence toward the success of movements proposed by this organization, who helped make the money that is in the treasury at the present time were out-voted by this bunch of corner grocers who are led by Jerry Hurley, Dick Frische, George Bartels and John McGuire.

When put to a vote, the motion prevailed, Mr. Hurley's friends having been called out in great numbers.

MAINTAINING PRICES.

The efforts of the Seattle Retail Grocers' Association to have manufacturers fix and maintain selling prices are meeting with much success, the secretary receiving encouraging letters from manufacturers, jobbers and brokers in different parts of the country. Some of the eastern papers also favor the idea. This is a practical way of stopping cutting on staple groceries. A San Francisco firm's letter on this subject is given on another page.—Trade Register.

WHOLESALERS MUST ORGANIZE.

make the perpetuation of the Buying Exchange necessary.

A firm known as Scott & Co. contracts to supply firms with goods at prices less than any reliable wholesale grocer can make a practice to sell.

Scott & Co. received its supplies from a certain large wholesale grocery house whose name will not be printed at the present time as the writer hopes that conditions will be changed before long. It is needless to say, however, that Scott & Co. do not offer their goods to any customers of this particular wholesale house, but only to the customers of other wholesale houses who, in this way, are made dissatisfied with the houses with whom they have dealt in the past.

Another of these trade disturbers is a firm known as James, Force & Co. James, Force & Co. receives its supplies through another and different wholesale grocery house than that which keeps Scott & Co. going. James, Force & Co. recently sold Sapolio at a cut rate to the firm of Hamilton & Co. of San Diego, where prices are being maintained.

Neither Scott & Co. or James Force & Co. could continue in business were it not for the fact that they are nursed if not actually owned, wholly or in part, by the particular wholesale grocery houses from whom they get their supplies.

The fact that these trade pirates are cruising upon the preserves of the regular wholesale grocers makes it necessary for the conservative customers of the wholesale trade to unite in some way to protect themselves, since the jobbers do not protect them. This means "Buying Exchanges."

The worst part of the present condition is that, not satisfied with wallowing in the mire of loss and bad methods themselves, some of the wholesale grocers of San Francisco are doing their best to interfere with the methods of the wholesale grocers in other cities, as when James, Force & Co. sell Sapolio at cut rates in San Diego.

A wholesale grocery house, which is the chief support of the "Grocer and Country Merchant" the enemy of the association movement, was cut off recently from supplies of Sapolio because they refused to maintain the contract which forbid them selling the Broadway Department Store of Los Angeles and selling at a cut price. As the other local jobbers refused to supply them, since to do so would be a violation of their contract, this wholesale grocery house sought to get an out of town jobber to violate his agreement and supply them with goods.

This attempt on the part of a wholesale grocer to defeat the plans of a firm that is seeking to insure the wholesale trade a profit, seems insanely preposterous. The fact that the retail grocers suffer from their actions. makes the Advocate eager to see an awakening of better conditions and we hope some day to see a strong organization among wholesale grocers which shall have for its purposes the following:

First—To establish a fair price at which staple goods shall be sold to retailers.

Second—To make it practically impossible for firms like Scott & Co. and James, Force & Co. to secure goods.

Third—To make it impossible for radical cutters among the retail grocers and other trade disturbers to continue with their undesirable trade methods.

With these objects in view an organization among the wholesale grocers would be able to adjust many difficulties and would receive the heartiest suport both from the Grocers' Advocate and the retail grocers of the entire Pacific Coast.

CIGAR FAKIRS ACTIVE.

Many Retailers Induced to Purchase Goods Under False Pretenses.

A concern known as the Plantation Cigar Co. of 214 Pine street has been causing all sorts of trouble among local dealers by its peculiar methods, which savor very strongly of fraud. The Advocate of October 27th had a long article explaining the methods employed by this firm in Los Angeles. The firm is using exactly the same methods in San Francisco and retailers should beware or they will be badly bitten.

The Plantation Cigar Co. went up against the wrong party in J. C. Henderson, a grocer at 810 Valencia street He not only refused point blank to be bluffed into signing a lot of notes, but has placed the matter in the hands of his attorney and will fight the case to the end.

The Plantation Cigar Co. levied an attachment on Mr. Henderson s store for the amount of their bill. This attachment Mr. Henderson immediately had released by a deposit with the sheriff of a cash security.

According to Mr. Henderson, the representatives of the Plantation Cigar Co. called upon him and in a very plausible way explained how they would build up a very large cigar trade for him. He was expected to take into stock 5700 cigars, for which he would not be expected to pay anything down, although, ultimately, they were to cost him $295, the money to be made in three equal payments of four, six and eight months.

The company agreed to sell the goods. They promised to send drafts upon him to 200 people in the neighborhood. Each draft would be good for a 10-cent cigar which the company would supply gratis. They would either send these drafts to a list of names supplies by Mr. Henderson or would send out to people whose names they would find themselves. They would also give him what they described as a large "Old Mission Clock" which would serve as an attractive decoration for his store and also advertise the goods, since every purchaser of 10 cents worth of cigars would receive a chance on the clock.

The salesman guaranteed the sale of all the goods placed in Mr. Henderson's store. He read the first part of the guarantee in which the Plantation Cigar Co. guaranteed that the grocer's profits on the sales of goods purchased from their company would average 40 per cent and that the company would either buy all the goods remaining unsold at the end of the year, paying the invoice price for the same or would make up the sum necessary to bring the profits to the guaranteed amount.

In order to induce Mr. Henderson to put the goods in stock the salesman said he need not wait until the end of the year, but at the end of four months if he did not consider the arrangement a paying one the company would take the goods out of stock and he would not have to pay a cent.

Mr. Henderson then was presented with an order which he was asked to sign. This order, he was told, merely enumerated the number and kind of goods which were to be sent to him. A casual glance seemed to show that this was so and he signed it. The order was immediately placed in his pocket by the salesman, who spent another twenty minutes in painting gaudy word pictures of the splendid returns Mr. Henderson would receive from his investment. He failed to speak of a clause in small type which provides that if the dealer failed to sign certain "acceptances" (which are really notes) inside of ten days after receiving the goods, that the bill became due in thirty days.

This was on September 26th. On October 7th the cigars, clock and show case arrived, together with another representative of the Plantation Cigar Co. a Mr. Lipman, who presented Mr. Henderson with three notes to sign. Mr. Henderson refused to sign these notes and Mr. Lipman became very noisy in his threats and denunciations. Mr. Lipman threatened to spend $10.000 in order to force Mr. Henderson to sign the notes and on Friday. October 17th, they put an attachment on Mr. Henderson's store for the amount of the bill. This attachment was released immediately as noted above.

Mr. Henderson has begun investigations of the operations of the Plantation Cigar Co and has found almost a dozen firms who have been victimized in the same way he has. In almost every instance, however, the merchants agreed to the settlement of some sort rather than have the annoyance and expense of a law suit.

Three grocers who were induced by representatives to accept the goods of the Plantation Cigar Co. sett'ed for one-half the original amount, taking half the cigars rather than go to court

Two druggists who were induced to take the goods, settled in a similar way. One druggist settled by paying $85 to the Plantation Cigar Co., $35 for 1,000 cigars and $50 being for "their trouble." This $50 payment was made in order to save himself from the trouble of the threatened law suit.

The representatives of the Plantation Cigar Co. apparently approached merchants of all classes. One of their victims was a Mr. Schuler, who keeps a Creamery at 1154 Buchanan street. Although this gentleman deals almost entirely in butter, eggs and buttermilk he was so thoroughly convinced that the Plantation Cigar Co. would be able to attract hundreds of people to his store who were not coming to it at the present time, that he signed a contract to take $295 worth of cigars and, when threatened with suit, discounted the bill for cash in order to save himself annoyance.

The moral of this story is that a retail merchant should not sign any paper presented to him, especially by a man with whom he is not well acquainted, unless he has read and weighed carefully every section of the paper.

ASSOCIATED RETAIL GROCERS.

of the flour card, since the funds will be sufficient to warrant Secretary Connolly devoting practically his entire time to the work of holding the various retail grocers together. In this way concerted action can be depended upon which otherwise would not be certain.

Retail grocers who may desire to unite with the Associated Retail Grocers of San Francisco, should address Frank B. Connolly, 456 Montgomery street.

CHANGE IN PRICES.

The Price Cereal Food Company has issued a new schedule of prices on Dr. Price's Wheat Flake Celery Food, which is now effective to the grocery trade of California as follows: Single case (three dozen) $3.60; five case lots $3.50 per case.

WHY IT EXCELS.

Long Experience in Cream Making Reason of Superiority of "Pet" Brand.

To excel in any art requires not only peculiar aptitude but also long continued practice. It is, therefore, reasonable to assume that the Helvetia Milk Condensing Co., whose genius created the Evaporated Cream business, after twenty years of experience should have acquired the highest skill in their peculiar art. There is, no doubt, good reason for the high reputation they enjoy as manufacturers of their famous "Pet" brand of Evaporated Cream.

Attracting Trade

Enthusiasm in Window Dressing.

If, as a clerk, the window dressing is part of your duties, go at it with the same enthusiasm you would to sell a big order for groceries. There is no excuse for poor window arrangement. Many window dressers do not look around enough. They become self-satisfied and get in a rut and stay there, they have one little plan of their own and they continually stick to it, and although the window may be re-dressed every week, the passers-by are never struck by the fact that it is a freshly arranged display.

Study what other stores are doing and take a look at the window displays in which are shown dry goods, groceries, stationery, drugs, and hardware. Borrow the ideas of dealers in other lines, and work them over into your own wares, and you'll find the work much easier.

It will be found to help, too, to clip out everything you can find in the trade papers on the subject, paste them in a scrap book and you will find in a short time you'll have a great deal of valuable information stored away for future use.

This plan might be followed even if the window is not under your direction at the present moment. Without doubt it may be some day, and you will find that when that day comes a little information in advance on the subject will be most convenient.

Bulk Displays Impress.

The passing crowd is usually quick to lend its attention to unusual exhibits, and when it halts in front of a window filled with a bulk display of a single brand of canned goods, the people are naturally impressed with the large number of goods that it is necessary to carry in stock to make such an exhibit.

Many persons will almost unconsciously formulate in their own minds an argument that a dealer who can buy in such large quantities has an advantage over one who buys in small quantities and it is therefore to their advantage to trade with the former.

This is an argument that is frequently used by merchants in all lines, in their advertising, and yet when stated in cold type it is less effective than the actual demonstration before the eyes of prospective purchasers.

When the mind of the prospective purchaser is once satisfied as to the capacity of the dealer for extensive buying, a strong point has been gained, and the man who has become satisfied on this point is reasonably certain to patronize the store that has created that impression in preference to some establishment which he considers smaller and lacking in the ability to buy in big quantities.

Of course dummy boxes and cartons are usually employed for bulk displays, but the public generally is not sure of the fact.

Keep Reference Books.

The thoroughly wide awake dealer will always make it a point to keep books of reference, such as directories, railroad and street railway time tables, which are constantly being sought for, at hand for the convenience of customers and transients. A small sign in some conspicuous place stating that such books may be consulted inside your store should bring trade and make many friends. It would also make your store better known, which is what you want.

In these days, when nearly every town of any considerable size has innumerable suburban street railway lines radiating out in various directions, the demand for time tables and similar information could be furnished by the enterprising dealer, with great advantage to himself in the way of increased sales.

UNDENIABLY PROVED.

Success Has Attended the Perfection Short Credit System.

The test of time is a good one, and time and practical study by retail dealers have proved that the Perfection Short Credit System is undeniably the best method of keeping accounts for retail stores.

It is in use by thousands of merchants all over the United States, and is steadily growing in popularity.

It overcomes the pass-book nuisance, and simplifies the work.

One writing does it all, and gives full particulars of the details of your business easier than by any other means.

It is also the best protection against dishonesty of either customer or employes, as no tag can be removed without leaving its track behind. Every dealer should use it.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

M. J. Costello has moved his grocery business from his old and popular stand at 747 Brannan street to the opposite side of the street at 748, where he has much larger and more commodious quarters, and is able to make a more attractive display of his excellent stock of goods.

John A. Karrigan has opened a grocery store at 179 Broad street, Ocean View, where he is carrying a large and varied stock of staple and fancy groceries. The place presents an inviting appearance, and is evidently cut out for a winner.

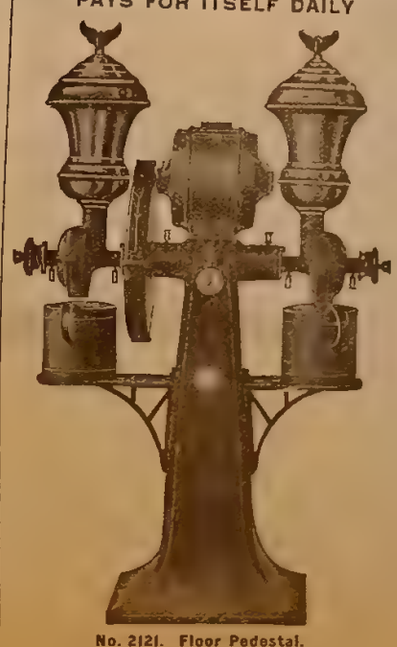
John Doelger, who was in the grocery business at Pacific and Taylor streets for many years, and who recently sold his grocery there to Noller Bros., will open a fine grocery, delicatessen and wine and liquor store in his new block at Hugo street and 7th avenue, south of Golden Gate Park, on Saturday, December 2. Mr. Doelger has just built a handsome structure at the new location, containing a well-fitted store and five flats.

M. & S. Belli & Co. of Colma are doing a flourishing trade which is constantly increasing. They carry a well selected stock of groceries and a good general merchandise line as well. Their store is a center for the people of their district, as they make a specialty of encouraging people to "buy at home."

Radstone & Co. have opened a well stocked grocery in Berkeley. Their line is complete; the store room light and well adapted to making a display that wins trade.

W. A. Gentry, the enterprising grocer of West Berkeley, has moved his grocery stock across the street from the old stand into more commodious quarters, where he is able to display his wares to a better advantage, as well as carry a larger and more varied stock. His trade is steadily growing.

C. E. Peterson has moved his grocery from 48 to 445 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, where he has one of the finest store rooms in the Athens of the Pacific, with a large store room in the rear. He is making a fine display and is getting new business every day.



Noller Bros., who recently purchased the old established and successful grocery store of John Doelger at 1126 Taylor, are progressive business men, and are making an effective campaign for new business.

CROP CONDITIONS.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports for the week as follows:

"The light rain of the past week has been beneficial in many respects. More rain is needed at once to enab.e farmers to complete harvesting and seeding. The drought in the central and northern sections is the longest in many years, but as yet the farming interests have not suffered seriously. Walnuts and oranges are being gathered."

SUGAR.

Local—No change in prices.

New York, Nov. 21—Sugar has been firming during the entire week. On last Wednesday there was an advance in European beet. A sale of 14,000 tons of Cubas at 3.40c basis and 10,000 tons Javas spot and to arrive at 3 7-16c basis was expected. On Monday sales of raw were reported at 3½c with an advance of 10 points to 4.45 net cash for granulated. On Tuesday rumors of sales of Cuban on basis of 3 9-16c for centrifugals, 96 deg. test., were reported, with refined firm and a fair demand.

New York, Nov. 16—Willett & Gray report:

Raws—The European markets this week show a gain of 3d against several declines in preceeding weeks. From this it would seem that the bottom has been reached. There has been no definite improvement in our local markets.

Refined—Buyers still hold off but none of the refiners here show a disposition to lead in a decline. If prices here should be dropped 10c per 100 pounds it is likely that heavy business would quickly follow.

New York, Nov. 14.—M. G. Wanzor & Co. report:

Raw sugars have dropped off another 1-16c. The quotation is now 3 7-16c. Business of the week has been in fair volume and marks the making of a new level in the long epoch of steady declining values. Refiners do not need the sugar but owners, rather than carry the stock, accept lower prices in order to effect sales. Every lot sold under such conditions fortifies the refiners in the plan they have mapped out for the acquirement of supplies sufficient to enable them to tide over the intervening period between now and the new crops, and the certainty of a gain in prices that a firmer attitude on sellers' part would bring about is being rapidly reduced to a bare possibility. Were sugar owners to exhibit for a while indifference regarding the disposition of their holdings the anxiety which is at present so great a detriment to them in their marketing would soon be shifted. Almost two months remain before new crop sugars can be laid down at the refineries in needful quantities.

"It is a difficult task to predict what prices will be when the new crops get fairly under way. Europe has an enormous beet crop to take care of. The yield of Cuba and other cane raising countries will allow a large increase. Sugars will be coming to market faster than consumers will need them, and unless the speculator, usually regarded by the farmer and producer as an enemy, comes to the rescue, values will descend to a plane not thought possible. Sugar prices are low and the consequent increased consumption will make steady demands upon the big production. The prices received during the last seven months of next year should compensate the low values expected to rule during the first five months.

MOLLASSES.

New ork, November 14.—N. W. Taussig Co. reports:

"The market at New Orleans has been wonderfully strong durmg the last few days on account of the small receipts of new crop goods at that point. Advances have taken place of 1 to 2c per gallon. The available stocks in New York are very small as compared with previous years. It would be rather difficult to supply the usual demand prevailing prior to Thanksgiving day."

MAPLE SUGAR.

St. Johnsburg, Vt., Nov. 16.—The Cary Maple Sugar Co. report:

"There is practically no maple sugar left in the farmers' hands in either Vermont or Canada. The demand this fall has increased very much. Prices are advancing somewhat. Sales of Canadian sugars have been made lately at less money than the remaining sugar can be bought from the farmers. We expect to see very much higher prices before January 1st.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"While there has been an increased demand for good coffees, yet prices are unchanged. No buying of coffee to arrive has been going on here, as the high prices resulting from heavy European buying in Central America has had the effect of keeping buyers from purchasing.

"In New York there has been heavy liquidation of December accounts, which has caused prices of futures to be somewhat depressed. Spot coffee, however, is firmly held in that market.

"Some time next month small arrivals of Guatamala will be due."

New York, Nov. 16.—Willett & Gray report:

"Generally speaking, the market is steady. In the actual coffee market a fair amount of business has been done at a shade below prices ruling last week. Brazil markets hold quite steady. This renders it difficult to get new supplies on the parity of this market. It is quite evident that the majority of holders in the Brazilian markets are satisfied that the future will mean better prices. It is indisputable that the combined crops of the world are very much smaller than the necessities of consumption and there must be heavy inroads in stocks. This foreshadows active competition before the season is much advanced for the remaining portion of the current small crop in Brazil."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"There has been no change in prices of rice since our last report. The situation remains unaltered."

New York, Nov. 14.—Dan Talmage's Sons Co. report:

"The movement for the week was fully up to previous recorus, enquiry being about equally divided between local and out-of-town buyers. Orders from the latter are nearly always accompanied by the injunction to 'ship at once or 'Rush,' indicating imperative needs on part of the trade, it being quite evident that stocks generally are at a low ebb. Honduras sorts of the lower and medium grades are in scanty supply; choice to fancy are in better assortment, but held firmly as resupplies cost quite an item above present local offerings. Japans are still in active request, and as large purchases have been made in this market for Southern account it would seem that those 'nearest the ground' had unbounded confidence in the future.

"At New Orleans the market continues active at figures which show recent advances fully sustained. Screenings and the lower grades of Honduras and Japan are in most active request, and large amounts are being taken for export to Porto Rico. Millers insist that prices of cleaned do not 'pay out' on basis of current values of rough, and when early purchases of such are exhausted, prices of cleaned will have to advance in order to reimburse them for their outlay.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm market. The latest advices from Japan report a shortage of about 15 per cent of average crop. Should this be confirmed the Japanese no doubt will continue to be large factors in the distribution of the Burmah crop."

DRIED FRUIT.

New York, Nov. 21.—The entire line is strong except raisins. Apricots are well cleaned up and firm. Peaches are quiet. Walnuts are fairly firm and active. California almonds are in better demand. Taragona almonds are higher. Figs are active and show an advance for layers.

New York, Nov. 8.—The "Journal of Commerce" quotes a correspondent as saying: "The shortage of the dried fruit in Europe is making it evident that the European trade will be compelled to buy considerable quantities of California prunes, even at very high prices. The advance to a 4c basis before long is certain to be fulfilled.

"There are not 60 cars of peaches on the entire Coast, whereas a year ago there were still 225 or 250 cars unsold there.

Apricots are in very light supply, particularly when it comes to the desirable quality. There is said to be a strong spring demand this year, since fall orders of the jobbing trade were very light, and they will have to buy again for early spring requirements. With any demand you will see much higher prices ruling in the entire line of California fruits than have ruled for many years."

RAISINS.

Practically all sales continue to be of outside goods. The managers of the Growers' Combine do not anticipate 'getting in" on the market before January 1st. Because of the shortage, they anticipate no trouble in selling the entire output during the Spring.

Ne York, Nov. 21.—The general tone of the market is easy. Interior jobbers are reselling Association brands of fancy Coast seedless in New York at 8½c delivered. Consuming demand seems checked by high prices. Offerings of "Ensign" and "Iris" brands, Coast seeded, 1905 crop, in fancy 16-oz. cartons, at 8⅞c, spot, were taken up readily. No more are offered at that price.

California Fruit Canners' Association last Wednesday sold two cars fancy seeded, prompt shipment, from Coast, at 7¾c.

Imported raisins are in liberal supply, with the market easy.

San Diego, Cal., Nov. 18.—The raisin crop of 1905 in the El Cajon district is probably the smallest in the history of the industry. It was only about 200 tons, as against an average of 1000 tons for other years.

Fresno, Cal., Nov. 15.—The directors of the Raisin Growers' Association have decided to authorize the borrowing of $250,000, with the packing houses as security. The only dissenting vote was that of M. Theo. Kearney, who explained later that he objected because he considered the combine a trust and in illegal restraint of trade. This loan will enable the Raisin Growers' Association to carry its stock until the supplies of the outside packers are marketed, when the association goods will have the market without competition. It is thought that this will come shortly after the first of the year, since supplies are not nearly enough to satisfy the demand.

PRUNES.

The market is very firm. It is thought that there are only from 250 to 300 cars left on the Coast. Prices vary according to the necessities of the holders. Sales are reported at prices varying from a 3½c basis to 3¾c. Some growers are holding for 4c.

New York, Nov. 21.—The available spot supply is light and the market is very strong for immediate delivery goods. Sales are reported of spot 40's at 7 to 7¼c, 50's at 6¼c.

DRIED APRICOTS.

New York, Nov. 13—The Eastern correspondent of a prominent Pacific Coast packing firm has received a letter stating that owing to the unusually heavy demand from Europe, practically all the available dried apricots had been taken, notwithstanding the large crop. The letter adds: "In Northern California we do not believe there are ten cars in growers' hands today, while in Southern California 30 days ago there were probably 30 to 40 carloads unsold, and there are now less than ten, with these held at almost prohibitive prices. None of the packers are carrying large stocks."

DRIED APPLES.

Middleport, N. Y., Nov. 13.—R. T. Chase reports:

"Half the evaporators have not run at all. The other half will make about one-third as many dried apples as last year. For this reason we figure that there will be little more than 15 per cent of last year's output. Dealers are paying 8c per lb. for bulk. The West is taking the goods."

New York, Nov. 11.—Wm. S. Ryan reports:

"The 'November squeeze' in dried apples is now being felt by the 'shorts.' It looks as though some of the sellers will not be able to fulfill their obligations. Our market closed nominally at 9c for prime new evaporated apples, although no actual transactions to my knowledge were for more than 8⅞c."

DATES.

E. A. Holcomb & Co. report:

"The first direct shipment from Turkish Arabia of golden Persian dates will reach San Francisco on the S. S. Manchuria about December 5th. The dates will find the market practically bare. Prices will be firmly held at about 4½c to the wholesale trade, as the entire shipment of 5,000 boxes (about 325,000 pounds) has been taken up by these firms: L. Scatena, Garcia & Maggini and J. Ivancovich & Co."

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. report.

"Business in beans has been very heavy latterly. The demand has been especially good for large white beans, small white beans and pink beans. An advance in prices resulted in consequence of heavy purchases, and we should say that large white beans are today quoted 15c higher than a week ago.

"The advance in pink beans has been about 10c per hundred, but seems to be checked for the present.

"Small whites are very firm. Prices locally are practically unchanged from last week's quotations.

"The unusual advance in lima beans naturally attracted much attention and it seems evident that the stock now in this State is well under the control of a few houses, with very few left in growers' hands. We must therefore look for higher prices.

"A further advance may be looked for in large white beans, owing to the fact that this year's crop was short probably 150,000 sacks, and with a light crop in the State of New York and a partial failure of the crop in Europe and Africa, and only an average crop in Michigan, we opine that the shortage in this State will be found to result in much higher prices.

"There is no doubt that we raised the largest crop of pink beans on record in this State and that the stock now in hand would under normal conditions be sufficient for all requirements, yet, the demand has been exceedingly good, and considering the fact that pink beans are now the cheapest bean in the market one can hardly expect a decline of prices of this variety.

"Harvest is over, and arrivals are consequently getting smaller."

"The firmness in blackeyes and bayos continues and there is a decidedly strong feeling on small whites, with the possibility of an advance."

W. C. Earnard Co. report:

"The market for all varieties of beans is very strong, owing to heavy Eastern shipping demand and comparatively light stocks on hand. This is particularly true of white beans, the crop of which is quite short this year.

"Lady Washingtons and small white beans have advanced about 25 cents a hundred in the last two weeks. Limas have advanced sharply owing to the stock being greatly reduced by heavy Eastern shipments. The remaining stock of Limas is practically cornered, the general impression seems to be that prices will advance sharply here in the near future.

"Bayo beans are in light supply and will undoubtedly advance inside of the next 60 days. Pink beans are plentiful, but the market is firm on account of heavy Eastern demand. We advise buying all lines of beans on present market, as we believe prices will advance in the early spring."

Chelsea, Mich., Nov. 13.—J. P. Wood reports:

"The market is about 5c higher Beans are quotable now at $1.50 to $1.52. Jobbers still look for lower prices. It is hard to say how they figure it. Their action has been a benefit to the market, since, if every jobber that ought to buy a car had done so prices would be at least 25c higher."

CANNED FRUITS.

None of the California packing companies can now supply full assortments of canned fruits. There are practically no small fruits left. Blackberries and strawberries are entirely out of first hands. Although the total pack has been the largest in the history of any of the big packing concerns, the early clean up of this year is phenomenal. The pack of tomatoes has been much larger than was expected a month ago owing to the continuance of favorable packing weather.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

New York, Nov. 14.—Paul Taylor Brown Co. reports:

"This morning's cable from Singaport names quotations at a range slightly higher than last week and inform us that it will be impossible to obtain goods for shipment earlier than December—January from Singapore."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, Nov. 21.—The market is easy. Last Thursday there was a decline, several large holders selling at 90c factory. It is thought that some of the smaller holders are breaking away from the syndicate. There are quite a number of offerings at 92½c delivered at New York.

Aberdeen, Md., Nov. 11.—Strasbaugh-Silver Co. report:

"Only small stocks are held by packers. Stocks have been light in the hands of jobbers for several months. With these conditions existing at both ends, it is hard to see where the market can be weakened to any extent. The Syndicate can be given credit for a good sized block of tomatoes, yet even if all estimates of their holdings were doubled there would still be no reason for arguing the possibility of a decline with conditions existing as they are."

New York, Nov. 8.—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"The failure to purchase and place immediate orders for some time is weakening the market for canned tomatoes in some quarters. Some holders who have heretofore steadily held out for 97½c were reported ready to sell at 95c. It cannot be learned, however, that any important sales have been made at that price. The conditions governing the market are too strong to permit much reduction of prices. Brisk buying indicated by the decline, would speedily force quotations back again to where they were before."

CANNED CORN.

Aberdeen, Md., Nov. 11.—Strasbaugh-Silver & Co. report:

"Corn is looking up. Packers who have choice goods are holding firm at fair prices. Buyers are taking fair-sized lots providing they can get anything like fair quality under 60c. Some buyers are waiving the idea of getting the best quality at a lower price. Already increased consumption of corn early in the season will undoubtedly bring a change for the better later on.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—The "Trade" reports:

"The most interesting situation of the market through the country is future in corn. The jobbers seem to be carrying out a well arranged plan of 'hammering' this commodity. As a result, prices are being kept down at the very low level quoted last week. There is not much hope for an advance in the near future. An immense amount of cheap corn has passed out of the packers' hands at the prevailing low figures. It looks as if this action would eventually bring about an advance in prices due to the fact that supplies of the low grade goods are running short. Packers who are in position to hold, expect to come in on the advance that the jobbers are calculating upon. In other words, the jobbers managed to get the corn packers of the entire country stampeded and they are now reaping the benefit of this action in the low prices. This being the case there is almost certain to be an advance in the price of the better grades of corn and it may develop at any time. Corn is undoubtedly worth more money than it is now bringing and those packers who hold now will realize it."

CANNED PEAS.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 10.—The "Trade" reports.

"The demand for canned peas this week, not only in New York, but in the West, has been quite brisk. Consequently there have been fair prices. The demand seems to be running to the cheaper grade, prices being more the factor than quality. The amount of business being done is very satisfactory and promises, as the season advances, to add something to the price. This is particularly so regarding the better grades."

Cigars and Tobacco

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco under date of November 4th says: "A Santaella & Co. are this week working 600 cigar makers and are in need of 150 to 200 more workers. There are indications that the enlarged factory will ere long be crowded. The order book bears strong testimony to this effect." Ehrman Bros. & Co., who have the California agency for this firm, and who sell a very large part of the output of the Santaella factory, say that business was never better than at present, and that orders come almost faster than they can be filled. The Optimo is the leader among high class Havana goods in this market.

The attorneys for the appellant in the case of John M. Lewis against the State of Indiana, a case that has arisen under the new cigarette law, has filed a reply brief in the Supreme Court. Lewis was arrested and fined for having cigarettes in his possession. It is the contention of his attorney that the "cigarette statute" does not apply to men who have cigarettes in their possession for their own use, and that if the court holds that the statute does apply to such cases the law is unconstitutional. The attorneys contend that the legislature did not make it a crime to possess cigarettes or tobacco "because there is nothing hurtful or odious in any way to society in the mere possession." It is contended that the only "possession or owning" that is wrong in itself is the "possessing or owning" for the ulterior purpose of trade.

J. L. Jerichau of 131 Larkin street, who recently took the Publicos account, finds that it was just the thing he wanted for his trade. He has already succeeded in placing it in a great number of stands, and has already had to double his orders to the manufacturer. Mr. Jerichau has got the Rough Rider, his nickel line, placed in nearly every independent stand in this city, Oakland and Berkeley, and still the cry is for more.

Secretary Shaw, the head of the Treasury Department, has repudiated the recent charges made against the United States custom service in Tampa. Secretary Shaw gives the Tampa custom house a clean bill of health and as further compliment to Tampa and its great clear Havana cigar industry, he paid the city a visit during the progress of the Florida State Fair.

Consul Martin, of Amherstberg, Ontario, reports an excellent tobacco crop in his district, one not equaled in quality and quantity since 1890. Mr. Gregory, a North Carolina tobacco expert of the Empire Tobacco Company, puts the possible yield for this year at 12,000,000 pounds. He says the kind grown in Ontario called the Burley is the same as the Kentucky Burley.

The United Cigar Stores Company, which corporation is largely represented in San Francisco has declared an annual dividend of 7 per cent on the preferred stock from the net earnings of the fiscal year.

TO PUSH ANTI-TRUST BRANDS

Honolulu, Hawaiian Ter., Oct. 28—A new company has recently been incorporated to vigorously push the sales of anti-trust brands of cigars and tobaccos throughout the Hawaiian islands.

It is styled the Hayselden Tobacco Co., Ltd., is backed by ample capital, and has men of enterprise and business ability at the helm. It will devote its energies exclusively to the sale of high grade cigars, cigarettes and tobaccos not made by the trust. Mr. Hayselden, the head of the new company, said in an interview:

"We are here to do business, and we propose to give the public real value for their money. You know there is tobacco and tobacco and what we dispense will carry the brands that bear the stamp of high quality, rather than cheap trust-made goods. Our salesrooms and storage cellars are particularly well adapted for the keeping of tobacco and the danger of damp or mouldy goods is eliminated, cigarettes with that, too familiar, graveyardy odor find no place with us for the reason that their environments do not encourage any such condition—and we sell them too quickly; we're in business to sell goods rather than keep them for show

"I will have charge of the sales department and in the conduct of that branch of the business I will pay periodical visits to out of town customers. During my absence Edward O'Brien will see that customers get tobacco and cigars of the right quality and will have charge of the accounting department at all times."—Tobacco.

TOBACCO AND GROCERIES.

Should They Be Sold in the Same Store?

In a recent issue of a medical magazine of large circulation there is an article condemning in most violent terms the widespread custom which grocery stores have of selling cigars, smoking and chewing tobacco and smokers' supplies. Indications are that the article was written by a woman. That's what makes it worth mentioning.

If a grocery store could make a big hit with all the women by throwing the tobacco out of the shop, it would be the most paying move it could make. Nine times out of ten it is the women of the household who decide where the groceries shall be bought. According to the idea of the writer of this medical journal article, there is no doubt that such a move would be of the greatest popularity with the ladies. She says: "If there is any place on earth that should be free from tobacco smoke, smell and tobacco spit, it is where the food which is to be eaten by the people of the community is kept and sold. You all have to eat food more or less seasoned with tobacco smoke, because your grocer wants to make a little more money by adding tobaccos to his wares."

There is this to be said about this emphatic declaration of independence; if it was all literally true—as it may be in some stores—there is no doubt that tobacco and groceries don't mix well. The trouble with the argument is that in most groceries which handle tobacco at all, the tobacco is kept carefully in its own department, more, perhaps, for the sake of the tobacco than for the sake of the groceries. Tobacco is too valuable a commodity to be kicking around promiscuously.

Of course there should be no smoking, chewing or spitting around the grocery store, but that's another story. Selling tobacco does not give the customer a right to expectorate on your floor or behind your apple barrel. The customer who smokes or spits in your store should be politely reminded that this may be disagreeable to lady customers.

Most men use tobacco, and it is doubtful whether the wives and daughters of tobacco-using men object very seriously. Yet it is undoubtedly a fact that women prefer to go into a clear store, free from all odors, tobacco included. The mere presence of a cigar case, however, is likely to prey upon the nerves of that class only which is known as "radical."

Grocers are not alone in the sinful habit of handling tobacco as a side line. The stores devoted exclusively to tobacco are few and far between. Every drug store sells tobacco. So do the ice cream parlors and confectionery stores the hotels and restaurants, the department stores and fruit stands, and yet all such establishments are patronized by women.

After all, it is largely a matter of custom. In those states where liquor is sold under the law, many groceries carry their stock of wines and liquor for family use. And it goes; respectable people patronize such establishments. There may be good moral grounds to objection to tobacco, but when this commodity is properly handled, it is very doubtful whether it gives much offense to the ordinary woman customer.—Topeka Merchants' Journal.

San Francisco jobbers are all heavily stocked at the 85c price, and various efforts to advance prices have not succeeded. Medium red seems to be entirely out of the market. Pinks have been generally advanced 2½c per dozen to 77½c, and stocks are pretty well reduced. Cheaper grades are all out, there being no chums at all.

New York, Nov. 21.—Chinook is very scarce and there is an active demand. The demand for pink is fair, with prices firm. Red salmon is dull.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 11.—According to the "Trade Register," no decision has been reached as yet by the International Fisheries Commission as to whether the packing of sockeyes shall be suspended entirely during 1906 and 1908. Chairman Thos. J. Gorman of the Washington Commission said: "It is the intention to unite all of the fishing interests on some measure that will meet with the general demand for the protection of the sockeye salmon, so that when the next international conference is held we will be prepared to ask for legislation that will be passed by the Legislature without a fight on the part of any particular interest."

FISH.

Wieland Bros. say:

"New bloaters will arrive in about two weeks. The opening price on them is 25 per cent higher than last year owing to a short supply of fish. There may be a reaction if the supply later in December should be more plentiful."

New York, Nov. 17.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Holland Herring—Unchanged; demand quiet. Holland expects higher prices.

Scotch Herring—Unchanged, with good hand to mouth demand.

Irish Downing Bay Fat Herring—Quality is particularly fine this year and prices reasonable.

Irish Mackerel—Prices higher, as catch has fallen off considerably and weather conditions are not favorable for large catches.

Norway Mackerel—Large sizes very scarce and the small mackerel are held very firm at higher prices. Stocks are concentrated in very few strong hands.

Imported Sardines—France, no catch; Portugal, moderate catch of very small fish, and prices very firm.

Sprats—Scarce and higher.

Norway Smoked Sardines—Getting scarce and higher.

SMOKED ELOATERS.

Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 13.—The Grocery "World" says:

"Practically all the last season's bloaters have gone into consumption. At the present writing bloaters are very scarce, the price being around $1.75 for a box of 100, as against a normal price of $1.20 to $1.40. The poor catch of herrings up to date is responsible for the high prices."

CODFISH.

Alaska Codfish Company reports:

"Local market conditions remain unchanged. Pacific codfish continues in demand for Eastern and export markets although that business has proven unprofitable so far. The State of Washington has contributed most of the Eastern shipments, at any price obtainable, to get rid of their excessive supply. When they are rid of the excess we expect an advance in prices if the Eastern demand continues.

SHRIMPS AND OYSTERS.

New Orleans, La., Nov. 11.—Ahrons-Siebert Co., Ltd., report:

Oysters—Packers on the Gulf Coast have had a hard time to get sufficient oyster chuckers to start. They are even now short of hands for this work. The season up to the present time does no promise as large a pack as last season. Prices subject to confirmation are 4 oz., 65c; 5 oz., 70c; 8 oz., $1.30; 10 oz., $1.40. Terms cash, less 1½ per cent f. o. b. factory

Shrimps—The packing season is now over. There are few shrimps left in packers' hands. Prices subject to confirmation are: 1-lb., pickled or dry, 85c 1½-lb., $1.70; cash, less 1½ per cent f. o. b. factory.

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. say.

"Martin's cheese is strong at present prices with a tendency of an advance of ic per pound very shortly."

OLIVES.

New York, Nov. 11.—Marc. M. Michel, president Seville Packing Co., reports:

Queen Olives—Demand for bottle stock is very brisk, even for busy seasons.

Manzanilla Olives—Stuffed Manzanillas are steady and there is an increasing demand. Little call for plain Manzanillas.

Nicelle Olive Oil—Very largely increased demand and consumption.

Bulk Olives—Our latest reports from Seville state that the total amount of this year's crop cannot exceed 1,500 casks of first class fruit for shipment. According to this report prices must advance. The demand is good, and it is evident that stock will be absorbed by spring.

CRANBERRIES.

The market is very strong and has sharply advanced in the past few days. The price is now $16, with higher prices expected.

New York, Nov. 16.—The "American Grocer" says:

"The Cape Cod crop will probably fall short from 25 to 40c of normal. Receipts are light and demand far exceeds supply. The market has shown a slight advance in prices for the past two weeks. Everything points to a continued high cranberry market."

SPICES.

New York, November 14.—John Clarke reports:

"The market is much more active, with large demands from grinders for pepper, cayennes and ginger. The general tone is strong with a decidedly upward tendency."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The theatrical event of the week has been the engagement of Richard Mansfield in an extensive repertoire. The program for the two weeks of the engagement is wonderfully varied and interesting. The critics are all at each other. Some praising vigorously the things that others as vigorously condemn. All unite in hailing Mansfield as the greatest living exponent of the dramatic art. "A Parisian Romance" is billed for Friday evening with "The Merchant of Venice" for the Saturday matinee and "Don Carlos" for Saturday evening. The bill for the next week which will be the last, is as follows: Monday, Nov. 27, Moliere's comedy, "The Misanthrope" (only time); Tuesday, "King Richard III" (last time); Wednesday, "Don Carlos"; Thursday afternoon, Thanksgiving matinee, "Beau Brummel"; Thursday night, "The Merchant of Venice" (last time); Friday night, "Beau Brummel" (last time); Saturday matinee, "Don Carlos" (last time); and Saturday (farewell night) only time in "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde."

THE TIVOLI.

Everybody has been delighted with the new company with which the Tivoli has been giving its initial week of comic opera. "The Highwayman" is full of fun and pretty music and the strong cast and pretty chorus with the dainty costuming makes the production a "joy forever." The usual Tivoli comic opera prices—25c, 50c and 75c—prevail.

THE CENTRAL.

"Sapho" is the offering this week at the Central Theater. It is being highly enjoyed by very large audiences. Edna Ellsmere added to her laurels by a very clever portrayal of Sapho, and Herschel Mayall has done nothing better than his presentation of Jean. The company goes to the Alhambra next week, when "The Millionaire Detective" will be the opening piece, with Herschel Mayall in the title role. In the new home of the Central stock company melodrama will be the rule and the big stage of the Alhambra will give every opportunity for lavish displays. The same scale of prices will prevail at the Alhambra as were in force at the Central and regular matinees will be given on Saturdays and Sundays of each week. Next Thursday, a special Thanksgiving matinee will be given at the Alhambra of "The Millionaire Detective."

THE CALIFORNIA.

The Utopians, another of the aggregations playing the circuit with a mixture of burlesque, variety and music, are at the California Theater and are entertaining good audiences with their potpourri, "Mixed, Muddled and Fixed." A series of living pictures of Japanese subjects, concluding with some high-colored stereopticon designs, were pleasing. "The Parisian Belles" follow.

THE ALCAZAR.

The Alcazar Theater this week is producing Henry Arthur Jones' dramatic play, "Mrs. Dane's Defense." It serves to introduce the new leading lady, Edith Evelyn, in whom the interest centers. She has made a pleasant impression on the audiences, who gave her a very cordial reception. She plays Mrs. Dane very naturally in the earlier scenes, and rises to the racking emotional one with Sir Daniel Cartaret very creditably. On the first evening there were several recalls for Miss Evelyn, and she said a few words. The company was very satisfactory. Waldron is an excellent Sir Daniel and Juliet Crosby makes an attractive Lady Eastney. The funny farce "My Friend from India" is the offering for Thanksgiving week.

THE MAJESTIC.

"The Light Eternal continues to draw good houses. This is a wonderfully strong drama portraying the steadfastness of the early Christians under persecution. The wonderful "Miracle Cross" has really created quite a sensation.

THE CHUTES.

The two great diving elks are the source of great interest as they leap down the side of an artificial precipice into a tank of water below. This is only one of the myriad features that help make the Chutes interesting. The program in the big free theatre is made up, as usual, of strong "headliners."

FISCHER'S.

"The Telephone Girl" makes a great feature in the bill at Fischer's Theater. It is a merry little piece, merrily played. The vaudeville numbers are attractive. The bill as a whole is very interesting, especially when the prices, 10, 20 and 30 cents, are considered. There is a matinee every day. The evening performance begins at 8:15.

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

Date of Great Meeting Fixed and Plans Being Arranged.

Arrangements have been made for the convention of the National Association Retail Grocers at Niagara Falls, to be held January 24th and 25th, 1906.

The headquarters of the national officers will be at the Imperial Hotel, where rooms can be secured for $1 to $1.50 per person on the European plan.

The rates of some of the other hotels, American plan, are as follows: Temperance House, $1.50; Hotel Empire, $2; Hotel Clifton, $2; Niagara Falls House, $2; Prospect House, $3.50 to $5.50 per day.

JOBBERS DESTROY PROFITS.

Some San Francisco wholesale grocer is responsible for the Broadway Department store of Los Angeles selling the "Peacock" brand of mill stuffs at cut prices. The Los Angeles branch of the Del Monte Milling Co. refused to sell the Broadway Department store, when the management refused to agree to maintain prices. Later, James, Force & Co. tried to buy the goods from the San Francisco branch, but the order was turned down. Later the goods were supplied by a San Francisco wholesale grocer. The Del Monte Milling Co. will leave no stone unturned to protect the trade.

A FIGHT FOR PRINCIPLE.

In speaking of the position taken by the State Grocers' Association and the Advocate about the wholesale grocers of San Francisco, who have seen fit to attempt to disrupt the good trade conditions of Southern California, the "Journal of Commerce" of Kansas City, says.

"The retail grocers of California are right and should be assisted by every local Association in the country. The members and, in fact, all grocers desire honest competition. This is a fight for principle and the Advocate should be commended for the assistance it is rendering in this just cause."

Greatest Bargain Ever.

A thorough grocer can buy one of the best established and best paying grocery businesses on the Pacific Coast in one of the finest residence towns of California.

Proprietor intends retiring from business. References: Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, or any wholesale grocery house.

A five years' lease will be given—moderate rent.

How to Handle Workers.

When an employer appreciates the value of capable employes and knows how to secure them he has only begun to solve the employment problem. Competent men will be worth no more to him than men of mediocre ability unless he knows how to use them. To be really successful he must be able to get the best possible results out of every man in his employ and to retain those who make good. Andrew Carnegie puts this matter well when he says that his success was due not only to surrounding himself with clever men but also to knowing how to use them to the best advantage

No employer is so nearly perfect that he will not occasionally be deceived in men and engage a few who prove bad investments, either through incompetence, lack of adaptability to the work, or some other cause. He can, however, remedy such mistakes if he will watch the work of his employes closely, and promptly dismiss those who do not make good.

Give Every Man a Chance.

If you use care in selecting your employes every one of them is worth a careful trial and should not be dismissed without thorough consideration of the reasons for his not coming up to your expectations. Perhaps the failure is not entirely his own fault but is due to considerations which can be remedied. Another point to remember is that it takes some men longer than others to adapt themselves to new work, and often the most capable man will be the slowest to show what is really in him.

When you are unable to find a way of getting results out of him, do not hesitate to dismiss him at once. To keep a man who is not making good is doing him a wrong, for in some other position better suited to his ability he might be able to succeed. It is also of importance to remember the demoralizing effect which a few incompetents retained in your service will have upon the capable men.

Different Men, Different Methods.

No two men can be handled in exactly the same manner, says J. J Hapgood. One will produce the best results when he is constantly under the lash, and another can do well only when frequently encouraged A word of praise might ruin one of the former type, and harsh criticism would prove equally disastrous to one of the latter.

Men are not machines and they resent being treated as such. They can do their best work only when they are satisfied and enthusiastic, and the wise employer, by courtesy, consideration and a careful study of their various temperaments, will always strive to make them so.

A loyal, enthusiastic, result-producing force of employes is a prime essential to modern business success. The ideal force is still a long way from us, but employers are constantly drawing nearer to it when they use system to find out which of their men are worth retaining, and then use tact to retain them, and get from them the best possible work.

Victims of Success.

"I have read with great interest the various stories that have been written about success," said a world-wise traveling man, "but I never have seen anything about 'victims of success.'

"Sounds funny, doesn't it?" he asked, lighting anew his half-smoked cigar. "But let me tell you, young man, the world is full of them. I've been out to the Pacific Coast and back more times than I have fingers and toes and I've seen the favorite sons when ambition first began to bloom and later when it was a full-grown flower. The victims of success are those who lack the balance wheel. Some of them imagine that money is made to acquire and hoard, others that it is to make and spend fast. The first class are a foe to society, the others enemies of themselves only The first class will sacrifice their friends to augment their bank account. Before they became rich they had time for the poets and philosophers, companions and friends. One I know who had no real friends since he made money, for few will trust him, as they feel he is looking for theirs, and the men who surround him are looking for his. The class of makers and spenders usually acquire the habits that go with the pace, and the sanitarium incloses their finish.

"I recall one man in particular who was esteemed a great success. He was prominent in the railroad world. He made a great deal of money and rose to high place and power, but in the doing of it he had no time to devote to his family. He wasn't stingy with money and they got along. One day he decided to cultivate their acquaintance, but discovered to his sorrow that other men had been doing that, and then he knew that he had made a bad bargain—home for money.

"It's the hardest matter in the world for the winner to keep the brakes on And yet it is possible to do well without becoming a victim of success. Keep in touch with old friends, even if they are poor—give them a lift as the occasion arises. Make new friends, even if they are poor; there are lots of cultivated, fine brains in the world that have no rasping money-making faculty, but a great store of sweet content and pleasurable knowledge They are successes, too, but there are no 'victoms of success' in that class."

A TRADE BUILDER.

When recommending a certain line of goods to his customer, the grocer should have two things in view. The first of these is the profit the goods pay. The second is, the satisfaction the customer will get out of them.

It is very poor policy for the grocer to sell a customer something with which he knows the customer will not be satisfied no matter how large the immediate profit may be. At the same time, it is just as foolish for the retailer to sell articles that carry no profit just because his customers happen to demand that particular brand, especially if there is some other article equally as good on which the retailer gets a fair profit. When an article combines both advantages of profit and satisfaction the dealer who handles the goods is fortunate.

Because their Diamond "C" Ham and Bacon possess those qualities, the Cudahy Packing Co. have won out the success they have secured. Consumers on the Pacific Coast are very exacting as to quality. They know what they want and why they want it. This is particularly true in regards to ham and bacon. This fact accounts for the enormous popularity of the Diamond "C" goods.

Dealers who give their trade Diamond "C" products, will find that they are satisfied. The quality of these goods is such as to occasion comment from the consumer. As a result, one sale makes several more since satisfied customers send their friends to the store that handles these goods.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

Let us ask you a few questions :—

Is it worth 10 cents a day to handle your oils without waste?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to sell your oils without loss of time or labor?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to have no leaky, dirty measures and funnels to handle?

Is it worth 10 cents a day to keep your oil room neat and clean?

We might propound a hundred questions equally as pertinent. If any of these are worth 10 cents a day, is not the combination of the many worth more than the cost of a "Bowser Self Measuring Oil Tank" which will give you all of these advantages?

Save a bookkeeper's salary every month and are the most competent collector they ever had.

WILLIAM A. HAWLEY, Esq., San Francisco. ALAMEDA, CAL., November 17th, 1905.

DEAR SIR—Your McCaskey System of account keeping has been in operation in one of our stores for almost two months, hence we have had ample opportunity to test its merits. To say that we are pleased is not to do justice to the case. WE WOULD NOT DO WITHOUT THE SYSTEM IF IT COSTS SEVERAL TIMES THE PRICE YOU ARE ASKING FOR IT. We save a bookkeeper's salary EVERY MONTH. Our accounts are always up to the very minute. It is the most competent collector we ever had. It practically does away with errors and omissions. It is so simple that a child can understand it, and last, but not least, our customers are simply delighted with it.

You are aware of the fact that we have recently placed an order for a large system for our main store, although we had a really invested in a modern duplicating loose leaf bill system, which we expected to start on the 1st of January. Your system has proved so superior that we have no hesitation in displacing the one already on hand and still unused before even putting it into commission. From a business point of view we consider our investment in the McCaskey the very best we have ever made.

Very truly yours,

Points to Watch

CANNED CORN—
is being sold at less than the cost of production. Higher prices are expected.

WALNUTS—
The percentage of No. 2 nuts is greater this year than last and the crop is smaller.

OLIVES—
The U. S. consular representatives in Spain and Greece write that the olive crop is short about 50 per cent and large fruit especially scarce.

CAVIAR—
The consumption of caviar has fallen off because of the high prices during the past five years and prices are falling, and, it is predicted, will go still lower.

RICE—
The rice market, despite recent advances, is very strong, with the tendency upward. Well informed dealers say the situation justifies holding good stocks.

SARDINES AND SPRATS.
There has been a very short pack of French sardines and sprats this season, making a certainty of high prices.

RECEIVER DISCHARGED.

John H. Spohn Co. Relieved By Court of This Annoyance.

The receiver appointed to take charge of the affairs of the Spohn-Patrick Company and its successor, the John H. Spohn Company, was discharged Monday, Nov. 7th, by Judge Hebbard upon the directors of the old company and the new corporation filing a satisfactory bond for $10,000 to reimburse Frederick T. Lyden for any judgment he may secure against the corporation.

Lyden brought suit some time ago against the Spohn-Patrick Company for an accounting claiming the company was indebted to him for salary and alleged profits of the business.

The Spohn-Patrick Company replied that it did not owe Lyden anything, but that he owed the company. The Spohn-Patrick Company then transferred its business to the John H. Spohn Company, and Lyden then had a receiver appointed. The case will come up for trial next Monday.

The walnut and almond situation continues favorable to present holders, with the market showing an increased tendency to firmness. The Southern California Walnut Growers' Association has sold all its No. 1 walnuts and most of its No. 2 walnuts at open ng prices. The almond situation is also firm, though the fact that a portion o. the crop is below the average in quality renders it difficult to fix definite prices.

PROGRESS.

Why San Francisco Grocers May Expect a Model Organization.

San Francisco should be able to maintain an Association of retail grocers that would be recognized as a model for the entire United States. There are enough retail grocers of standing in this city who have interests in common to warrant their establishing an organization that would assist them in many ways.

Curbing Dead Beats.

Such an organization, we have learned, could enable its members, at a very slight expense, to secure full and detailed reports with regard to any party who might desire to open an account with them. These reports would save every member from the loss of hundreds of dollars now entailed by the extension of credit to unworthy persons.

Through an effective organization, there could be secured the collection of many accounts by a reputable agency thoroughly equipped to follow up people who do not pay their bills. This service would include a blacklist of people who have not paid their grocery bills to other members. It would also include a guarantee of the prompt payment of any money that might be collected in the shape of a bond for $5000 with a first-class security company.

Curing Trade Abuses.

There are about 375 retail grocers in San Francisco who are possible members of such an organization. Their combined purchases would make up at least 80 per cent of the purchasing power of the grocers of San Francisco If one-half of this purchasing power were acting as a unit in rewarding firms that protected the interests of the retail grocers and in refusing to do business with firms who ignored heir obligations to the retail grocery trade. it would be a force that no wholesale grocer, manufacturer or commission house would care to overlook.

It would be a power for good in helping the honest men of the trade.

It would be a still greater power for good in convincing the men inclined to be dishonest that as a matter of policy, honesty would pay the best.

Outside Assistance at Hand.

One of the greatest advantages of this organization would be its compactness. The collection bureau would supply the blacklist without expense to the organization. The secretary would not be required to give any of his time to the matter of collecting bills, securing credit ratings, hustling for ads. or any little private graft This would mean that he could devote his entire time to the Association work showing the members how they could better themselves by acting together. This would give a compactness and effectiveness to the organization that the San Francisco Association has never had before.

This compactness will enable the organization to profit largely by the power of the organizations in other cities of the State.

WAR IN SACRAMENTO.

A Leading Retailer Outlines the Situation For One of the Local Dailies.

An interview with F. B. Fancher of the American Cash Store, one of the directors for California of the Pacific Coast Retail Grocers' Association, was printed in the "Bee" of Sacramento recently. In this interview Mr. Fancher briefly and forcefully explained the attitude of the Association in regard to price conditions as follows:

"The whole thing briefly is simply this," said Mr. Fancher. "The Retail Grocers' Association does not give trading stamps. The Rochdale Company wanted to give trading stamps and cash checks so they withdrew. It is against the constitution and by-laws of the Association to give stamps. The stamp companies only give trading stamps to one merchant within a certain district, and they become a perfect nuisance in time.

"The only people who make any money out of the stamps are the trading stamp people themselves. We contend that a merchant cannot afford to give stamps and at the same time sell as cheap as the other merchants do, because the stamp companies have to be paid from 2½ to 5 per cent for the stamps. We would rather give the customer the benefit of that percentage.

Detrimental to Business.

"The giving of stamps is detrimental to business. The stamp company tried to get us to put them in and offered them to us at a very low price We would not because we could no see how we could pay from 2½ to 5 per cent for the stamps, and at the same time sell as low as we do. There are three trading stamp companies in town now—the green stamps, the cash checks, and the gold stamps. If the stamps benefitted either the merchant or the customer, we might use them, but they only take money out of town. The State and National Grocers' Associations are also opposed to trading stamps. We passed an act at the last Legislature against the trading stamps, but it was declared unconstitutional. We hope to pass another act at the next session that will be constitutional.

About Fixing Prices.

"In regard to fixing prices, all we did in the Association was to put profit enough on stable commodities to pay for handling them. It costs from 15 to 20 per cent to conduct a business and when a merchant sells sugar for what he pays for it, he loses that much That is why so many grocers fail They do not realize that they lose when they sell for cost."

M. EHRMAN & CO. RETIRING.

It is announced that Myer and Albert Ehrman having determined to retire from active business, the wholesale grocery concern of M. Ehrman & Co. will be either disposed of as a whole, or wound up within a short period.

Lansing, Mich.—The State Convention is to be held at Saginaw on January 9-10-11.

SECRETARY DID IT.

How Indianapolis Grocers Won Success For Their Organization.

The Indianapolis Retail Grocers' Association, which now has 400 members in good standing, had about 126 members a little over a year ago. This change was brought about through the wise action of a broad-gauged, liberal-minded board of directors, who realized that the Grocers' Association had to be run on the same lines as any other business to be successful.

They therefore secured as "manager," a secretary who was worthy of the position and then gave him the chance of making the business successful. The "Inland Grocer" tells the result as follows:

"One of the first things this board did after its election two years ago, was to grant enlarged powers and duties to the secretary, making him a working executive instead of a mere figure head carrying out the directions of the board.

"This proved a wise move and has resulted in making the association a power in the city in the interest of the grocery trade. Instead of merely providing a meeting place for the members, it is now a high class business organization, repaying a hundred times over the expense to each individual member.

"One of the first moves in the direction of improvement was the establishment of a collecting and reporting department. At the present time the secretary can, in less than a minute's time furnish a report on any of over 70,000 persons. The value of this report to a grocer is almost inestimable. The department also has at the present time something over 2000 accounts for collection—not only for collection, but they are really collecting them.

"In the great majority of cases these accounts are against persons who have moved from the neighborhood where the account was made, and in many cases the creditor has been lost sight of entirely by the grocer, even his residence being unknown.

"The money received on a great many of these accounts is looked upon as a clear gain, as all hopes of ever receiving it was long ago given up by the creditor.

"Four collectors are given constant employment at present and new ones are being added from time to time. Each collector is furnished with a bicycle bearing a sign in large letters, telling that the rider is a collector for the grocer's collecting agency and so prominent are these signs that the most hardened delinquent loses heart before they have made many calls at his house

"The growth of the association has been phenomenal of late, sixty-five new members having been added at the last meeting and eighty-five at the previous meeting. A large number of applications are now in the hands of the secretary for action at the next meeting."

Cleveland, O.—The fifth annual Pure Food Show given by the Grocers' Association closed Saturday after its usual run of three weeks. The success of this show was even more than that of preceding exhibitions.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Push cocoa and chocolate.

Tea should be kept to the front.

Coffee should be pushed all the time.

Build your coffee and tea trade on quality.

Demand for all sorts of nuts is increasing.

Have you all the spices for seasoning the turkey stuffing?

Short days cause increased sales of candles, lanters, wicks, etc.

Keep the pickle barrel where dirt and dust will not blow into it.

California olive men are organizing a campaign of advertising in the East.

There is always a chance to do something in the woodenware department.

Water that has boiled too long will not extract the full strength and flavor of the tea leaves.

Plain dried apples will be trotting in the candied fruit class pretty soon if prices keep advancing.

The Wisconsin food commission has declared against codfish in which borax or other chemicals are used as a preservative.

Some factories have withdrawn prices on tomato catsup, but jobbers are generally well supplied for all present requirements.

Owing to the great scarcity of labor on the southern coast the pack of canned oysters is likely to fall below the customary output.

What per cent of gross sales does it cost you to do business? Do you know. Some grocers say it costs from 15 to 18 per cent.

Dried fruits should be displayed where customers entering the store cannot help but see them. Also keep these goods covered with glass.

A candy counter ought to be a paying department of the town store. Many retailers in the grocery and general merchandise business make candy pay.

Canned corn seems to be the "work horse" of canned goods just now. Such a big consumption as seems inevitable may cause the market to advance a little later.

Now it is claimed that one of the most advertised pre-digested breakfast foods contains strychnine, which is a well-known heart stimulant and also a poison.

There is reported a syndicate which will merge all the starch factories in Canada. Trusts are sometimes formed evidently, in other countries than the United States.

Take pains to point out to your customers the good points of tea. Many persons do not know what constitutes good tea—or rather, what faults cheap teas generally have.

Keep the stock up to date by getting a few of the new lines as they are put out by the manufacturers. If they take, keep them in stock. If not, do the other thing.

Price tickets help to sell goods. The consumer wants to know what goods cost and when he sees something that strikes him as cheap, he's pretty certain to sample it at least.

Just because business comes easy before Thanksgiving and Christmas is no reason why you should let up on your efforts to get it. There is always "more" if you go after it.

Make up dollar assortments of groceries, several of them, and advertise them a whirl just to see what happens. If the assortments are all right and the ad not all wrong results will be satisfactory.

The only reliable test of tea is the cup test. Pour a certain quantity of boiling water over a certain quantity of tea leaves. After three. five or seven minutes the liquor is ready to be tasted or smelled.

Dress your windows at regular intervals and don't forget or put it off. Keep seasonable groceries where customers can see them. Mincemeat pickles, cheese, salt fish, raisins, currants, etc., are seasonable.

The grocer who fails to "count, weigh, measure or gauge everything you buy" will not be a grocer very long. For him the sweet seclusion of the bankruptcy court and the society of the might-have-beens.—Merchants' Review.

There are four things that will make the success of any retail grocery. They are the best flour, finest butter, choice tea, perfect coffee. Failure to keep any of these articles will hurt the trade of any retailer in proportion as he fails to keep one or more of the things named.

Stuffed olives are produced by taking out the pit or stone of a cured Manzanilla olive by the use of a patent machine, and filling the round opening thus formed with a carefully cut strip of sweet Spanish red pepper, which possesses a mild and pleasing flavor. This pepper is known as the Pimiento.—Commerce.

It is said that some of the jobbers and others who bought large blocks of tomatoes early in the season are unloading now, being attracted by the immense profit, and as a consequence the market is not so strong. Some of the early buyers are said to have made as much as 50 cents a case without ever touching the goods.

A report from Kalamazoo, Mich., says that according to peach canners the season was almost a complete failure. although the peach crop was almost double that of any season since 1892. They estimate their loss at half a million dollars, due to their failure to handle the crop, which was delivered too fast for them to care for it.

A London mail advice reported the stocks of Conadre figs as practically exhausted in that market. Cables from Smyrna noted a further advance there in layers of fine quality. It is expected that shipments from there will fall off materially during the month. Holders here report that this market is now at its lowest point for the season.—Grocers' Criterion.

The characteristics of tea which the dealer should consider are leaf, liquor, character and flavor, and they should never be allowed to possess in the dealer's mind a significance to which they are not entitled. For example. he dealer should assign only so much importance to the leaf, so much to haracter, so much to liquor and so much to flavor. When a dealer buys tea because it looks nice in the leaf it is wise for the consumers to patronize the other dealer.

The classification or sorting of the olives is very exact. In Queens the largest market size is that known as 60-70, meaning that from 60 to 70 olives of that size weigh one kilo—equivalent to 2 1-5 pounds. The next size is 70-80, and so on in a series of tens down to 190-200, beyond which the very small fruit is sold in bulk. The Manzanillas being smaller, are classified with a variation usually of 20 to the kilo—for example, 160-180, 180-200, 200-220.—Commerce.

What are some of the Thanksgiving lines? First that comes to mind is cranberries. They are inseparable from the turkey, even if they are sold around $12 a barrel. Then there are mince meats, nuts of all kinds, fancy dried fruits, such as cluster raisins dates, figs, etc., candied fruits, oranges, grapes and candies. These will all be wanted for the Thanksgiving dinner. Then there are canned soups, that may come in also, to say nothing of canned vegetables, and canned fruits for dessert. Olives and pickles are sure to be asked for.

Package tea, when put up under the supervision of the most expert men in the trade, insures uniformity of cup quality. the esential feature of a good trade in the leaf. It avoids loss of flavor, the giving of overweight and cost of wrapping, and enables consumers to so identify their wants that the retailer has no trouble in giving consumers the same grade, year in and year out; for the expert blender, studying the varying characteristics of tea, guards against differences in the product of the same gardens, and is thus careful to insure uniformity of flavor.—American Grocer.

PROGRESS.

Each Association has a certain amount of influence because of the purchasing power of the individuals making up its membership. When this influence is all united for a common purpose it assumes proportions that are quite formidable.

Retail Grocers Ready.

Owing to the grave dissatisfaction caused by the waste of possibilities and the high-handed interference of a few of the smaller grocers with the plans desired by the majority of the Association as expressed by their votes and their voices, there has been a very general dissatisfaction with Association work in San Francisco. There has also been created a doubt as to the possibility of the grocers of San Francisco being able to accomplish the same results as those secured by grocers of other communities. This is a very unfair conclusion and one that does not do justice to the intelligence of the grocers of San Francisco.

There are enough earnest, clever men in the retail grocery business in San Francisco to accomplish results for themselves. This has been shown at various times when these grocers had proper leadership.

The Start Already Made.

Enough of the best grocers of San Francisco have already signified their desire to co-operate in the formation of an effective organization to insure its success. There is no desire to have this new organization expand with mushroom growth. These merchants desire rather to have a strong foundation of strong men and add members from time to time to its list, admitting only those who are willing to help secure the advantages all desire

GROCERS COMBINE.

It has come to be quite the thing now-a-days for grocers to offer assortments of a job lot of goods. The assortments usually start off with some article of generally known value quoted at a figure far below its known price. The assortment is then made up of other items on which the margin is sufficient for the grocer to more than repay himself for the sacrifice on the first items.

We give herewith two lists. The first is an offering by a retail grocer of Janesville, Minn., in which the regular price is quoted first and the bargain prices given afterwards.

QUALITY WINS RECOGNITION.

Alpine Cream Awarded Gold Medal at Portland Exposition.

The Alpine Evaporated Cream Company has received official notice that Alpine Cream had been awarded the gold medal at the Lewis and Clark Exposition.

This news is the more gratifying to the company and its many friends for the reason that the Lewis and Clark was the first exposition at which Alpine Cream had been exhibited.

The skill of Mr. J. B. Meyerberg, the inventor of the process of manufacture of evaporated cream, and his long years of experience in its production made Alpine a sure prize winner.

The company scarcely more than a year old, started with the intention of producing a cream of unequaled excellence. That it has succeeded is evidenced by the popularity of Alpine Cream with the consumer and the retailers and from the additional fact that the first jury of awards at the exposition decided Alpine to be entitled to the greatest honor it had to confer.

U. S. FOOD REGULATIONS.

Admission of Sardines Boiled in Peanut Oil and Packed in Olive Oil.

As a result of the conference held between the Chief of the Bureau of Chemistry and the manufacturers and packers of sardines in Nantes, Bordeaux, and Paris, it appears that it is a practice somewhat common among the packers of sardines to boil the fish in peanut oil previous to packing. It is claimed by some manufacturers that this process improves the quality of the fish and also the color, and is a distinct advantage in the preparation of the fish in packing. Subsequent to the boiling in peanut oil the fish are so placed as to secure a perfect drainage so that all oil which naturally would exude from the fish is separated therefrom. In this condition they are afterwards packed in pure olive oil. A small quantity of peanut oil remaining in the fish diffuses in this way with the olive oil to such an extent that the oil gives a distinct reaction for peanut oil.

Pending further investigation of this process and its necessity, inspectors at the different laboratories are permitted to admit sardines labeled "Packed in Olive Oil" in which a small quantity of peanut oil is found; provided the invoice be accompanied by a certificate, approved by the consul, to the effect that the oil used in packing the sardines was pure olive oil, and that previous to the packing the sardine had been treated in hot peanut oil as described above. The regulations, F. I. D. 5 c. and F. I. D. 11, are therefore accordingly modified, permitting the importation of sardines labeled "Packed in Olive Oil" when the quantity of peanut oil therein is found not to exceed 5 per cent, as nearly as can be determined with a reasonable toleration for difficulties of analysis, and variation in duplicates.

Compound Foods.

The term synthetic food as herein used is applied to a food product made of a mixture of various other food products and not of itself possessed of any of the characteristics of a natural or uncompounded food. Such food products should bear some special name not indicative of natural origin, character, or quality. A class of products typifying such synthetic foods is the product known as candy or confection. It has been customary to use harmless artificial colors in such foods in preparing them for consumption. Such colors are not calculated to deceive or mislead, because the foods themselves do not represent any natural food product. The regulations of this Department applying to imported food products require that such products, when artificially colored, should bear a legend on the label to that effect. This regulation should be construed to apply only to food products which of themselves have a natural the natural color of chocolate, and this principle should apply to other confections bearing names of definite or color and in which the use of artificial colors would tend to mislead or deceive the purchaser.

Coloring Matter Allowed.

Until further orders synthetic food products, as described above not having of themselves any natural color nor bearing any name which would indicate an origin relating to a food product of a definite color, may contain harmless coloring matter without notice on the label. This permission is not to be construed, however, in any way which would permit the use of coloring matter if the product by its name indicates a special origin. For instance, candies which are sold under the name of chocolates should not be permitted to carry a color imitating gin. The Department will not undertake to specify by name the colors which may be used further than to say that they must be of a harmless character, not injurious to health, and must comply with the laws and regulations of the countries from which the food products are imported.

BOOSTS ALAMEDA.

B. T. Scott Recommends His Successors and Praises the Town.

B. T. Scott, the well known grocer of Alameda, has sold his store to Messrs. Cook & Blanchard. He recently sent to his customers the following circular letter which will unquestionably be of great value to the gentlemen who have purchased his business.

Alameda, Cal., Nov. 6, 1905.

To My Patrons: Having sold my entire grocery business at Chestnut station to F. B. Cook and F. M. Blanchard, I desire to earnestly thank you for your very liberal patronage during my business sojourn in Alameda, and to bespeak a continuance of your favors to my successors. They are both reliable, experienced and accommodating gentlemen, and will serve you faithfully and honestly in the future, as I have always tried to do in the past. Mr. Charles Follrath, who has served faithfully and well as my "outside man," is to continue with the new firm.

Their store, which I had already found to be too circumscribed, will be much enlarged, and made to be as fine in every way as any on this side of the bay. This will be done by incorporating with the present store a portion of the new building which I am going to erect, and which will absorb the older building as a part. This new structure is to be of two stories, with walls of white pressed brick, and which I trust will be an ornament to Alameda. It will have a frontage of 108 feet on Encinal avenue.

I am to continue my residence in Alameda—a town which I admire very greatly and have the most abounding faith in. I shall be glad to continue the acquaintances that have been made in my business contact with you, and shall embrace every opportunity to further the interests of Alameda.

With a wish for your prosperity and good future in every way, I remain faithfully yours, B. T. SCOTT.

Attracting Trade

Show Window Neglect.

The grocer who, possessed of one or two spacious windows, fails to dress them properly, fails at the same time to show appreciation of one of the very best advertising propositions within his reach. The show window is made to pay at least fairly well by every man who is a town storekeeper.

In the country it's different. The show window as an advertising medium isn't worth a great deal to the merchant located in the quiet country or in a sleepy village where passersby are few and far between. The show window is most valuable when in a town.

But apparently there are a great many town and city retailers who seem not to realize that the show window is a good proposition in the advertising line, judging by the number who neglect to dress them. And there are others who, though they don't neglect entirely to dress their windows, seldom put anything in the space behind the glass except stacks of canned tomatoes corn and peas and the like.

Display Appetite Ticklers.

This shows that insufficient thought is given to show window possibilities, or perhaps we should say probabilities. Everybody knows the grocer keeps staple canned goods, so nobody is particularly attracted. The things to display in the show window are the appetite ticklers that have, usually, to be brought to notice of the average housewife or consumer to make her think of them at all. First of all the grocer's show window should keep even with the seasons. They should be, for instance, suggestive of mince pies, nuts, raisins apples, figs, and a score of other such cold weather items, and the summer specialties when the days are warm.

The Show Case.

Some people say that the rise of the retail branches of trade to influence and wealth is to be attributed to the improvement in the skill attained in the use of printing ink. Others say that the show case was a more potent factor. Says one of the advocates of this view:

"The modern show case is one of the important causes of the success of the successful retail merchant—without it he would be where he was fifty years ago, with it he will be a merchant prince, if he can do enough business.

"The modern display case is the principal factor in selling goods. Advertising brings people to the store; the modern show case displays the goods so attractively that the clerk simply assists the customer in making selections, receives the money and has the goods wrapped up.

"Three-fourth of the trade attracted to the store by good advertising would never develop into business without the help of the modern show case. It is the silent and persistent salesman, that works while the clerks are busy, it works every minute a customer is in the store.

"The management of the store is all important, because on it depends the proper buying, profitable selling, attractive advertising and modern methods of displaying goods.

"A merchant can ill afford to do without every means of getting business legitimately. If he does without modern fixtures, he sacrifices and loses business that goes to some competitor.

"The modern show case pays for itself in a short time."

But the show case must be up-to-date, for the old-fashioned pattern is as much of a handicap as the newer pattern is a help. The grocery stores can show some splendid specimens of the modern show case and they can show some poor specimens of the old type.

Insures Proper Condition.

The show case displays goods to superior advantage and keeps them in superior condition. It is made, or can be made, in all shapes and all sizes, and for that reason can be used in small stores as well as the largest establishments. In food emporiums its usefulness as a preventive of pilfering, otherwise "sampling," is universally recognized. It makes more work, for it must be kept clean and bright, but it is labor well spent.

When goods are exposed in the show case, sans wrappers or other covering, care must be taken that flavor or aroma does not suffer from the intermingling of strong odors. In small stores, where a single show case does the work that should be divided among several cases, cigars, toilet soap, perfumery, confectionery and dried fruits are sometimes exhibited together with disastrous results. It is better to purchase several smaller cases than to exhibit goods promiscuously in a single large case, unless the latter has air-tight compartments.

To sum up, it may be said without fear of contradiction that this question of show case display is worthy of the serious attention of all grocers and general dealers, for the solution of the question in each store is bound to have important consequences in determining the degree of success the dealer shall meet with.

PROTECT LOCAL MERCHANTS.

Fresno, Nov. 2—The City Council have taken action to protect local merchants against "bankruptcy" fakers. An attempt will now be made to request San Francisco firms that send stocks of cheap goods to the city during the few busy months of the year and by flash advertising take trade away from established houses.

U. S. Dept .of Agriculture reports for the week:

"The rain of the current week will prove of great benefit to vegetation and orchards. Orange orchards in all sections were greatly improved by the rain. Walnut picking is completed in some parts. The yield is above average."

SUGAR.

Local—There has been no change in the sugar market during the past week

New York, November 29th—There was an advance in raw sugar to 3 9-16 cents for centrifugals 96 deg. test last Friday. The market has remained steady at that price although rather quiet all during the week. Refined—Also steady, although not very active.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"Locally the coffee trade is quiet, as roasters are generally holding off for lower prices. Two roasters have raised their offers on Salvadors in the past few days, and show a greater disposition to purchase.

"Importers are firm in their views the strong situation in New York acting to sustain them."

New York, Nov. 15.—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"In our report of September 1st we expressed the opinion that the current Rio and Santos crop would turn out to be in the neighborhood of 10 000,000 bags. The best informed and most reliable firms in Brazil have since the cabled estimates of the crop correspond exactly with ours. The trade in general, however, is inclined to be skeptical; the majority of importers estimate the crop at 10,500,000 bags; but there are some who maintain that it will prove to be fully 11,000,000, claiming that the receipts at shipping ports during October and the first half of this month are too large to bear out the smaller crop idea.

"This year's crop has been delayed in its preparation by inclement weather, which explains the comparatively small receipts during the early part of the season, which at one time ran about 450,000 bags below those of last year. We stated then that the small receipts are no criterion as to the size of the crop. During the last six weeks the movement to shipping ports exceeded that of last year sufficiently to nearly wipe out the above named deficiency. The comparatively large receipts of late are natural, and have as little bearing on the size of the crop as the smaller receipts had earlier in the season.

"It is particularly noticeable that Europe now holds about 3,000,000 bags less Brazil coffee than two years ago, and when we consider that her consumption of Brazils is 5,750,000 to 6,000,000 bags annually, we must conclude that Europe will yet have to buy millions of bags of the current crop, especially as her port stocks are largely composed of undesirable quality.

"On the other hand, the stock of the United States is much larger than used to be carried in this country in former years, but more than one-half of this stock consists of high grades, which were imported for purposes of delivery against Coffee Exchange contracts and do not answer the requirements for consumption, the trade demand being nearly exclusively for medium to low grades. Therefore, large as existing stocks are this country will, like Europe, have to import millions of bags yet for its legitimate trade requirements.

"The consumption of Brail coffee on a conservative basis should be about 8,000,000 bags during the next eight months; Brazil cannot possibly furnish anything like this quantity, and it is a natural conclusion that a fair portion of these 8,000,000 bags will have to come out of existing stocks in consuming countries.

"Will the holders meet this prospective demand on their stocks without an effort to obtain some recompense?"

TEA.

New York, November 21—John H Brown & Co. report:

Formosa Oolongs—The market at Amoy has been very active considering the small quantity of tea on offer with prices slightly advanced, which has only set the decline in exchange.

Pouchongs—Arrivals of these kinds to date are 77,994 packages compared with 57,201 packages last year.

Japans—Our last mail advices are dated October 25th reporting that owing to the large supply of unsold old crop Japan teas held by American dealers at commencement of season the Japanese producers gave their best efforts toward raising and picking strictly first crop teas, which materially will reduce the general output for the season, as the plants were retarded largely owing to the first flush being permitted to grow to its fastest extent, thereby reducing the power of the bush to produce as much in the subsequent pickings, hence the smaller supplies of the second and third crops. Unfavorable weather has been another important factor in the matter of smaller supply. Stock of all tea companies and tea firms, fired and unfired teas, both goods shipped and not shipped, scarcely amount to one half the usual export. Notwithstanding all this shortage, but a slight advance has been noticed as yet in the American market. The tone, however of the general conditions after the turn of the year is, in our opinion, to be an entirely different affair from that which we quote to-day; simply a question of supply and demand, and we believe prices will materially improve.

Congous—Chinese native tea men purchased on or about October 20th some 2000 H-C of low common Congous for shipment to Vladivostock. Stocks are firmly held in anticipation of a good demand for Siberia. We hear of no business in Congous for London, and very little for America.

Pingsueys—Settleemnts since our last report have amounted to 36,000 H-C, of which 14.000 H-C were purchased by one firm. Prices have been so high that but few buyers cared to accumulate stock in large quantity.

Green Teas—There has been considerable activity in the market at Shanghai amounting to a total of 52,000 H-C for the month, most of the business being for American account at slightly declining prices by tales 2 since the opening of the season. Common Fychows are somewhat higher as the London buyers are freer purchasers. The arrivals of Country Green Teas is estimated to be 175,000 H-C for the season against 210,000 H-C, the total output of last year.

India Teas—The latest indications suggest the total crop may be somewhat smaller than that of 1904. The quality of the offerings have been satisfactory and prices are maintained at 1d. over sales of one year ago.

Ceylons—The average price has been somewhat higher than the same grades in Indias, which is to be accounted for entirely by the better quality which has been offered.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market on Japs has a firm upward tendency, and the last advances are well maintained. We look for the market to remain at present values until after the turn of the year, and after that time a gradual advance until Japs reach the price of Imported Japan, which is selling at present for $5.35, with an advance looked for as importers cannot sell at this price on present values of Brown Rice in Japan.

"Carolina—Fancy grades are hard to get and we advise stocking up for future wants on all classes of Fancies.

"Honolulu Rice—As we predicted some thirty days ago, Honolulu Rice is up to $4.25 to $4.35 with another advance looked for. This grade of rice is the cheapest on the market today considering the grain and cooking qualities. We look for another advance in this article before the turn of the year.

"China No. 2—$4.65; China No. 1, $5.50 to $6.50.

"Futures—We look for the market on all grades to advance considerable after the turn of the year. It would not surprise us to see rice advance another ½ cents in the next 90 days."

New York, November 21—Dan Talmadge's Sons' Co. report:

"There has been good inquiry during the week, local and nearby points sharing the volume of business transacted. The aggregate of transactions is fully up to any equal period of the past five years, not excepting the plethoric crop last year and the one preceding. There is a notable lack of the lower and medium grades. Prices on such are firmly held as resupplies are only obtained at decided advance. Prime to Fancy styles are in more plentiful supply and are taken freely at recent quotations.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note unfavorable crop conditions in the Far East. Excessive rains during planting season, destroyed a large portion of the Burmah crop, which is estimated at over 2,000,000 bags less than last year. This with the shortened Japan crop noticed in our last report,

Talmage, New Orleans, telegraphs Louisiana crop movement to date: Receipts, rough, 741,190 sacks; last year 1,026,836 sacks. Sales, cleaned, 585,693 pockets; last year, 598,755 pockets.

CANNED FRUITS.

None of the packers have full assortments of canned fruits and prices are still advancing. This is due to the unusual demand which was enough to overcome the effects of the unusually heavy pack.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., November 17th—The "Trade" reports:

"From present outlook we should say that corn packing will be exceedingly neglected next year, especially in the West and Northwest; therefore, all carryover of corn will be at present low prices a good investment, and will amply justify the interest cost of carrying it. In fact, the corn pack of next year will probably have to rest considerably upon the carryover from this season. It is something for congratulation that the general quality of the corn pack of 1906 was very good. There is no cause of complaint from bleach or chemicals of any kind. The simple fact is that corn prices went too high, and in the natural swing of the pendulum the other way they have gone too low. They will probably adjust themselves to a normal value about the end of March next, but it will not be a year for corn and both buyers and packers will turn their eyes to other staples. Reports from New York state that the corn market is in better shape there than it was a week ago. Quotations are from 2½ to 5 cent. higher on nearly all lines."

New York, November 15th—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"Demand is more active and jobbers appear disposed to take hold at present low prices. Packers are not urging sales in expectation of receiving more later. Western corn is unchanged except that holders are exerting less pressure to sell."

Philadelphia, Pa.—The "Grocery World" says:

"There is a faint reason to believe that the corn market may do a little better in the moderately near future. The price is admittedly below the cost of production, which almost always presages an advance. Anything good in the way of corn could probably not be laid down for less than 50 cents per dozen, while large sales have been made at 45 to 47½ cents. These low prices have caused a very large consumption. The Philadelphia chain stores, for instance, are retailng corn at 5 cents a can and usually giving a very good grade. There is reason to believe that they have pushed out a very large quantity and will continue to do so. In other markets equally large sales are reported."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, Nov. 29.—Canned tomatoes are easier. The demand is slow. The sale was reported today of 15,000 ful Standard Maryland 3's at 92½c delivered.

Baltimore, Md., Nov. 17.—The "Trade" reports:

"Tomatoes will probably be overplanted in 1906 and it would be difficult work to place future prices before next February. Jobbers' buyers, however, will rush in on tomato futures, reversing the situation of last February and March. This will make it necessary for all packers to be very careful as to the quality of their tomato pack next year in order to avoid rejections on account of decline in prices. Western buyers have been in the market this week looking for bargains. St. Louis complains that the middle West is delivering goods inferior to contract and label. All these reports strengthen the tomato market in general. Nevertheless it is doubtful if tomatoes will go as high in value as some promoters believe. The market has been shaded a little. No. 3 Standards are quoted at 90-95c and Extras for house labels 97½c.

New York, November 15—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"The tone of the market is easier. Small packers appear to be anxious to dispose of their holdings before the close of the year. To accomplish this, they are offering goods at a reduction. Jobbers do not appear to want to buy any more than they actually need."

DRIED FRUITS.

New York, Nov. 29.—Prunes are firmer in sympathy with Coast conditions although the demand is limited. Peaches and apricots are quiet but firm. California raisins are dull and imported raisins are easy.

RAISINS.

Fresno, Nov. 28.—Since the return of M. Theo. Kearney there has been trouble and dissension in the Raisin Growers Combine. Mr. Kearney, although a director o tfhe Combine, did not deliver to the association. At the meeting on Tuesday, he demanded that the control of the association be put in his hands and that he be allowed to sell the goods of the combine. Mr. Kearney insisted that the packers had been treating the growers unfairly. The directors refused to accede to Mr. Kearney's request by a vote of 18 to 11 and was roundly scored for his treachery to the growers. It is probable that a meeting of the growers will be called when the situation will be explained to them. The market for raisins is upset because of the uncertainty due to the quarreling of the directors. Practically no association raisins are being sold and the little business that is being done is done by the outside packers, who are selling raisins from ½ to 1c below association prices.

OLIVES.

California Products Reports:

"The olive crop all over the State is exceptionally good, both as to quality and quantity. The great advantage of California oil is that it has no cotton-seed or corn oil mixed with it."

Xeres, Ca.—"The olive crop of this vicinity is exceptionally large this year, and the product is bringing good prices. There has never been before so many olive buyers through this country."

Seville, Spain—U. S. Consul Bartlett writes:

"The olive crop will be very short. Queen olives of the size 70-80 and 80-90 will be scarce. The quality is poor. Prices are 50 per cent to 60 per cent higher than last year. There are prospects of a fair crop of Manzanillas. Continued dry weather has interfered with development to a large size. About 20 per cent more is being paid for the Manzanillas this year than last. It is said that the total crop this year will be much less than half that of last year.

Patsus, Greece—Acting U. S. Consul Lontas writes that the olive crop will be only half the average.

New York, Nov. 23—Tarragona walnuts are lower and quoted at 12c. California almonds are easier, spot Nonpareils being quoted at 15c, I. X. L. 14c, Ne Plus Ultra 13½c. Grenobles are firm at 13c. French walnuts are temporarily scarce and firm.

Santa Ana, Cal., Nov. 26.—The recent rains have in no way injured the walnuts. They have made gathering more expensive to the growers because pickers demand a higher price for their work.

Ventura, Cal.—Only 5 per cent of the output of the cleaning houses at Saticoy, Hines and Oxnard were No. 2 nuts last year. This year the percentage of No. 2 nuts is 18 per cent. The crop will be only half of that of last year. In 1904 Saticoy produced 40 cars, Hines 40 cars and Oxnard 20 cars.

PECANS.

Tyler, Tex.—The Woldert Grocery Co. reports.

"The crop of Mexican pecans will be about half what it was last year."

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. report:

"During the past week the volume of business has been large enough to keep prices of all varieties not only up to their last mark, but to advance some of them.

"The latter is especially true of pink beans, which have been in good demand during the week past, and are still continuing to share the attention of the buying element with white beans and limas.

"In view of the fact that pink beans are now the cheapest bean in the market the confidence of the buying public may be justified; of course, we raised a very large crop of pinks, but as the yield this year per acre was not so large as in previous seasons, we doubt whether the estimate made by an usually very reliable authority, of about 550,000 sacks pink beans, is correct We should say 475,000 sacks would be nearer the mark.

"There is every reason why white beans, large and small, should be strong and tend toward higher prices. There are probably not much over 20,000 sacks left on the river (of Lady Washingtons) and we judge that from two-thirds to three-quarters of the crop of small white beans are now out of growers' hands with a very large portion in the hands of consumers. Prices, as stated, are firm and tending higher.

"Lima beans are cornered and will go higher. All other varieties are firm, with moderate stocks."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, Nov. 25.—The salmon market is steady with some inquiry for spot sockeye flats with none offered. Small sales of pink are reported at 85c spot and the supply is light. The consumption of red Alaska salmon is much ahead of that of previous years.

New York—S. M. Irvine of Seattle, in an interview with the "Journal of Commerce," says:

"It is a well known fact that Columbia River salmon has been sold up for some months. Supplies of Columbia River salmon will undoubtedly be exhausted long before the pack of 1906 is available. Present appearances indicate that there will be no low grade Puget Sound and red Alaska salmon available to make up this deficiency. This will naturally have an effect in strengthening the position of Puget Sound sockeyes and red Alaska, which seem now to be the only grades of salmon in adequate supply. There were upwards of 40 canneries in operation three years ago in Southeast Alaska, only nine were running during the past season. These were not running to capacity owing to lack of fish. The consumption of all grades of salmon is reported as almost phenomenal since the reduction of prices in red Alaska last September, as the department stores and retailers generally advertised this fish extensively for 10c. This will naturally have an effect in increasing values in all salmon remaining unsold. The annual consumption of cheap grades of salmon since 1900 is estimated at 600,000 cases. Returns from all districts now indicate a pack of less than 250,000 cases of cheap salmon for 1905. These figures speak for themselves."

Astoria, Or., Nov. 24.—The fall salmon pack on Gray's Harbor and Shoalwater Bay is much less this year than last, although unusual preparations were made in expectation ot a large run. On Gray's Harbor the Hoquiam Packing Co. has packed 10,000 cases, as compared with 12,000 last year, and the Gray's Harbor Packing Co. has packed 13,250 this year, and 14,000 last. On Shoalwater Bay the decrease is more noticeable. The North River Packing Co. has put up but 3000 cases, where it packed 8000 in 1904, and the P. C. Barnes cannery has packed 11,000 to 15,000 last year. These estimates are on a basis of 48 pounds to the case. All these canneries had sold in advance at least double the number of cases that they have packed and at good prices.

SARDINES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"French sardines and sprats in oil will command high prices this season owing to a very short pack."

FISH.

New York, Nov. 23.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Irish Mackerel are somewhat easier. Still there is no catch in Ireland at present and it is likely that prices will move up when demand sets in.

Norway Mackerel—Very firmly held. Even the smallest fish is selling exceptionally well for this time of the year and there is little left in first hands.

Holland Herrings—No stocks in Holland at present and prices are firm.

French Sardines are held very firmly, and small stocks.

Portuguese Sardines—In good demand. Some small fish are now afloat and selling rapidly, as the market is quite bare.

Sprats are higher. Catch in France is over and very short. Stocks are very unimportant.

Norway Smoked Sardines—No catch in France and prices have advanced all around.

Swedish and Norwegian Anchovies—Very scarce and there will not be sufficient to supply the demand of this season.

CAVIAR.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Caviar is cheaper on account of a falling off in consumption because of the high prices prevailing during the last five years."

MUSTARD.

Lompoc, Cal., Nov. 24.—The crop of mustard of this vicinity will be far the largest of which there is a record. Prices have been exceptionally high.

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"The immediate effect of the rain will be to cause many farmers to offer their crops for sale who have been steadily refusing all offers. The grass season will necessarily be very short this year, so that more hay will be consumed throughout the State than usual.

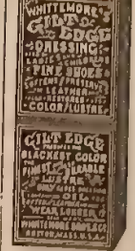
"Present quotations we give as follows:

"Choice wheat hay, $14 to $16.50.
"Good grades same, $11 to $13.50.
"Other grades wheat, $8 to $10.50
"Wheat and oat, $9 to $12.50.
"Tame oat, $8 to $12.
"Wild oat, $6.50 to $9.
"Stock hay, $6 to $7.
"Alfalfa, $7 to $10.50.
"Straw per bale, .30 to .55."

Toledo, O.—The opening night of the Pure Food Show was a great success. On the second night the manager was obliged to close the doors at 9 o'clock, since the house was full.

GOT THEM INTERESTED.

Considerable interest was excited in Oak Run Whisky on the day of the recent election of Oscar Tolle, of Brunsing, Tolle & Postel. Owing to the strict closing of all saloons, the town was very dry that day. Knowing that this would be so, Mr. Tolle visited some of his numerous friends at the various polling places and presented them with sample bo tles of Oak Run Whiskey. He was hailed as one of the saviors of the nation. The clamor that greeted him was so great that at one place it attracted the attention of a policeman. Mr. Tolle finally convinced the arm of the law that he was not attempting to sell liquor or break any ordinace or even crack them. It was as much the quall y of the Oak Run, however, as the superior brand of hot air supplied by Mr. Tolle that convinced the Police Department that any representative of Brunsing, Tolle & Postel could do no wrong.



PURE AND STERILIZED.

Since the recent disclosures respecting the unsanitary condition of many dairies upon which San Francisco is dependent for its milk supply, there has been a great increase in the use of canned milk.

Among these Carnation Cream is one of the best known and most popular. It is a pure, sterilized milk, canned under the most sanitary conditions, and is used by many people for tea and coffee, and for berries, in fact for all uses for which ordinary milk or cream is used, in preference to the latter.

Cigars and Tobacco

The tobacco exposition recently held in New York under the auspices of the Cigar and Tobacco Dealers' Association resulted in a neat profit for the Association of $1616.55.

Boltz, Clymer & Co. report that trade has been exceptionally good with them for the past few months, and that it was never better than at present.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. find trade exceptionally active and the demand for the Optimo steadily growing. This firm have made excellent progress in introducing their new nickel cigar, the Pathfinder, which shows signs of being a good repeater.

Jas. L. Jerichau, the Larkin street cigar and tobacco merchant, is not usually a man of wild enthusiasm, but he is "full to the brim" with expression of faith in his new clear Havana leader, the Publico. He says that it promises to be the best account he ever handled, and that it repeats beyond his most sanguine hopes when he took the account.

The National Cigar Stands Co., the new combination organized in the East to operate cigar stands and push trust goods in drug stores, has begun operations in Chicago.

The Treasury Department is not entirely satisfied with the situation existing as to examinations of imported tobacco at various ports of entry, and is planning to improve the system now in vogue. Practically no weight is attached at the department, however, to the charges that have been so freely made concerning discrimination alleged to have been shown at Tampa in favor of certain manufacturers located at that point, or as to the charges concerning pressure said to have been exerted upon intending purchasers of factory sites.

A. Santaella & Co. are working 600 cigarmakers this week. They need 200 additional workers to properly fill their orders on hand, which foot up to near 3 000,000 cigars. One of the extremely busy men in the Tampa cigar factories and one endowed with remarkable ability in many directions, who looks after the work of a large force of men without friction, and who secures results without a semblance of force, is Mariano Alvarez, manager of the Santaella factory. System, good order, close attention to the work in hand, and the prevalence of a cheerful, contented spirit among the great body of 600 cigarmakers, are some of the features of Senor Alvarez' management. He has no assistant manager in this heavy work. He needs none, for his influence is all prevailing. He is recognized as a friend by the working force, and his ability wins their loyal support.—Tampa correspondence of Tobacco of November 11th.

Cigar Bands in Demand.

Collecting cigar bands, which began a year or two ago, has grown to such proportions that manufacturers are often hard pressed to meet the demand. Decorative demand calls for millions of bands, and so great has this demand become that the lithographers are now far behind on orders. The bands are used in connection wtih labels for the decoration of glass bowls which can be used for a variety of purposes. Some exceedingly artistic work is done by trained operators, and any woman or girl who has any taste for fancy or decorative work can successfully decorate these bowls, and they are handsome additions to ornaments for center table or mantel. Enterprising dealers can attract women customers by announcing that they have these bands in stock and can supply them in quantities for decorative work.

Suspected of Smuggling.

Oakland, November 25—Cacildo Garcia was arrested this afternoon by Deputy Sheriff Murdock and taken to the city prison the charge of peddling without a license being placed against him.

Back of the charge there seems to be a story of an attempt at smuggling over the borders of Mexico into the United States. The man admits that he is a Mexican by birth, and gives out the statement that he was merely selling cigars. When Murdock was approached, Garcia, it is said, tried to sell him cigars and asked him to keep the matter of the sale quiet. The cigars have no label, and, while they are of exceptional quality, the police believe there may be a further end to the man's tale. Cigars have for some time, it is stated by the police been placed on the market, and local dealers have been trying to locate the source of their introduction.

Garcia is very strong in his statements that he represents no one outside of himself "as an agent." The reticence of the man regarding his dealing with cigar men causes the police to believe that they have an agent alleged to be "a stall" for a big outside combination which is violating the laws.

Tips for Cigar Smokers.

Don't use a holder.
Don't smoke continuously.
Don't chew the end of a cigar.
Don't smoke fast, smoke slowly.

Don't tear the leaf of your cigar by biting off the end; use a cutter or sharp knife.

Don't "worry" a cigar by constantly flicking off the ashes; they will fall off at the proper time.

Don't smoke a cigar like a fire engine; it will become needlessly heated and its good points impaired.

Don't squeeze or pinch a cigar until it cracks; you'll damage both the wrapper and the bunch wrapper and cause the cigar to "leak."

Don't relight your cigar until you have blown through it once to remove the stale smoke; when relit, the flavor will not have been impaired very much.

Don't light your cigar unless you are drawing on it simultaneously; otherwise you convert the tobacco into carbon, and spoil the flavor and aroma of that which is unburnt.—Commercial.

ROCHDALE CAUSES TROUBLE.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 17—Owing to the fact that the local Rochdale Store insisted on putting in trading stamps - think of it, a Rochdale Store giving away 5 per cent of its gross receipts—a war has been instituted among the retail grocers of Sacramento All price agreements are off for the time being

SUES FOR EIGHT CENTS.

Produce Man Wins Suit Against Retailer for Petty Amount.

In the famous eight-cent suit over a half pound of cheese Schermerhorn & Co., wholesale produce dealers of Los Angeles, secured a decision against W. H. Saxman, grocer. The suit was decided strictly on law points and exactly contrary to common custom. Aside from the lucrative award of eight cents the only other net result was the creation of much feeling against Schermerhorn & Co., on account of what the retailers regard as their small caliber, says the Commercial Bulletin.

The plaintiff based his entire case upon the fact that Mr. Saxman gave a written receipt for 32 pounds of cheese. H. M. Brock, the driver for the produce house, testified that he delivered the cheese to Mr. Saxman, and, as was his custom, presented for signature a slip designating the different items delivered, among which was a cheese marked (on the slip) to weigh 32 pounds. This receipt was presented in evidence and the decision was rendered on this prima facie evidence.

As against this evidence the defendant showed that it is the custom for all dealers to, as a matter of form, receipt for all goods delivered without first carefully checking weights and measures, depending upon the wholesale house to rectify minor mistakes when the final settlement is made. Several leading members of the Retail Grocers' Association were present to testify to this fact, but the court refused to hear this testimony on the ground that the general custom cannot be made effective in specific cases. Another point in favor of the produce house was the fact that on the back of all invoices sent out by this company is a plainly printed statement that all claims for damaged goods or shortages must be made known within twenty-four hours of the time of delivery. Mr. Saxman failed to comply with this special rule as he made no claim until after the cheese had been cut and sold.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

Berkeley—Joseph McClain, one of Berkeley's pioneer citizens, died November 18. He had been failing in health for some time, but not until the first of this year was he compelled to give up his several business interests consisting of the large grocery store on Center street and the local agency of the Wells, Fargo Co. which he had held for twenty-eight years. Mr. McClain was born in New York City 64 years ago. In 1857 he came to California and settled in San Francisco securing employment as assistant engineer on the old ferryboat San Antonio, one of the first ferry boats to operate on the San Francisco bay. After spending several years in the ferry service, McClain went to sea as assistant engineer on vessels operated by the Pacific Steamship Company, conducted then by Goodall, Nelson & Company. He followed the coast and island trade for twelve years, after which he came to Berkeley. McClain arrived in Berkeley in 1877, twenty-nine years ago, and in partnership with his brother-in-law Louis Gottshall, opened a grocery and general merchandise store at the corner of Addison street and Shattuck avenue. A year later the Wells, Fargo & Co. opened its office in Berkeley and McClain was appointed agent, which office he held until the first of the year He was succeeded by his son, Charles J. McClain, who still conducts the affairs of the office.

Hemet—D. W. Gauld has opened a grocery store at his old stand.

Madison, Nov. 23—Thomas J. Limerick, who owned a small grocery store and who mysteriously disappeared on September 12th, is believed to have been murdered. On the date mentioned he was to have gone to San Francisco according to plans previously made by him, but the railroad agent, who was acquainted with him, says that he bought no ticket and did not appear at the station. The bedclothes in the room occupied by Limerick were to-day found covered with blood. Physicians declare that only a very severe wound could have accounted for the quantity of blood on the bedclothing, and there is litle doubt in the minds of Limerick's friends that the missing grocer was killed.

Redlands—B. P. Dugan & Son have moved their grocery stock from their old stand to the corner of Orange and Central.

Riverside—Burrows & Elder have established a new grocery on the corner of Orange and Eighth streets. They will make a specialty of choice fruits and choice groceries.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

Antone Zietich, for five years manager Irvine Bros.' Stockton street store has opened an elegant grocery at 518 Montgomery avenue and 18 Stockton street. The store is newly and neatly fitted and has a spick and span new stock of staple and fancy groceries.

The Miller-Walker Co. have one of the finest stocks of groceries in their section of Berkeley. Their store on Dwight Way is centrally located and carries a large and select stock of groceries.

S. J. Sill, the popular Berkeley grocer, is expanding and has recently added a large new store room, wherein he will carry a large and varied stock of stoves and general hardware. Mr. Sill has one of the most important stores in the classic shades of Berkeley,, and has a trade the equal of which few can boast even in San Francisco.

Sneed & Nassic, of 2437 Shattuck avenue, Berkeley, have bought out the grocery of Mr. Shuey on Shattuck avenue and are greatly enlarging their stock of groceries. They are young and energetic men of affairs, and merit the success they are evidently obtaining.

C. J. Namany of South Berkeley is one of "the busy bees" of his thriving town. He carries a large and varied stock, and keeps well abreast of the times in all that relates to the grocery trade.

E. S. Blackwell of South Berkeley (Lorin) is 'a hummer" in the grocery line. He has a fine stock and is doing a big business.

KEEPS ACCOUNTS RIGHT.

Every grocer wants a simple system of bookkeeping. One that will insure him accuracy and freedom from danger of omissions and errors of all kinds, and those who have tried it say the McCaskey Cash Register is the one.

Keeping accounts in books is unkeeping them in many cases, as every time they are copied there's one more chance to make a mistake; it is like a story, every time it's told it's a little different. But keeping accounts in the McCaskey Register is right, because you only write them once, and they are correct.

Wm. A. Hawley James Flood building, Market and Powell streets, is Pacific Coast agent. He will gladly forward any information desired. The McCaskey Account Registers are sold on easy payments.

COFFEE TAX LIKELY.

Matter Being Seriously Considered By Authorities at Washington.

The Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives at Washington, D. C., has been wrestling with the problem of the deficit in income for some time. Chairman Payne is said to be in favor of a tax on tea and coffee. It is also claimed on authoritative information that the committee has decided to recommend to Congress that such action be taken. A tax of 5 cents per pound on coffee would bring in a revenue somewhere between $75 000 000 and $100,000,000 annually. This alone would be enough to wipe out the deficit. A 10-cent tax on tea would also bring in a large sum.

It has been proposed to increase the tax on beer and alcoholic beverages. These interests are so strongly organized and entrenched that there is practically no chance of such a measure passing.

The interests that would oppose the tax on coffee and tea are not welded together in such a way as to be very powerful in influencing Congressmen. The national organization of retail grocers is still in its infancy. The wholesalers are practically unorganized. The great mass of "plain people" cannot present an organized opposition.

Coffee Roasters Interested.

The big coffee roasters, most of whom have immense stocks on hand, are said to favor the tax. A tax of 3 cents per pound would increase the value of each bag they have in stock $6.50. On the million bags that one manufacturer is said to carry, the increase would be $5 500,000.

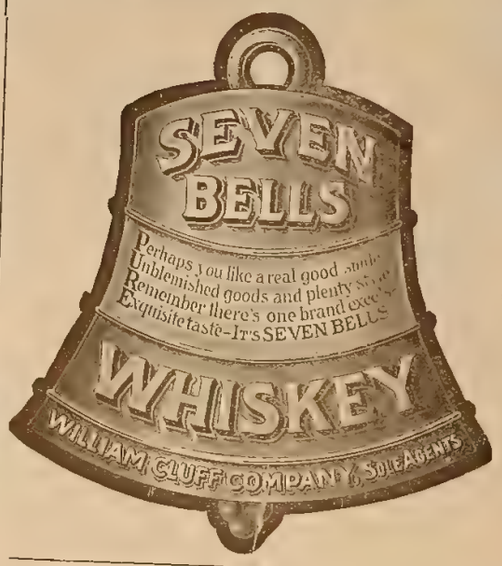
The action of the National Tea Association in sending out circulars to the trade urging them to work in every way against the proposed duty shows that there is likelihood that a strong attempt will be made to attach such a tax. Only the most strenuous efforts on the part of the organized grocer trade and tea trade will be effective in holding off this movement.

PREMIUMS WITH CEREALS.

National President John A. Green in his bulletin of November 11th says:

"I would again respectfully call your attention to resolutions adopted in your different local bodies, as to the doing away with premiums of all kinds and urge upon you the buying of such goods only, as those which are absolutely free from premiums of all kinds, believing by that so doing we shall see the premium evil eradicated entirely. There is no question but that the recent ruling of the railway companies in regard to freight rates, has helped us greatly in bringing the reform about and if the grocers themselves will now take the matter in their own hands, by the time of the next convention the premium evil will be a thing of the past, as far as cereals are concerned."

This paragraph is printed in conjunction with the following letter from the American Cereal Co.:



"As to doing away with the use of premiums, there is but little that we can add to what we said to you when you last called on us, excepting that we are steadily increasing our list of cereals without premiums. One step which we are about to take in particular we believe will interest you. We shall very soon place on the market a 5-pound package of Quaker Oats which will contain neither premium, coupon, nor scheme of any nature. It will be advertised and heavily pushed by us. We expect it to largely replace the 5-pound, or "family size" packages which now have a considerable sale in the smaller towns and country districts. If this step meets with the favor of the Ohio grocers, there is no way in which they can better give evidence of the fact than by helping us push the sale of the 'family size" Quaker Oats package. We thoroughly believe that with the co-operation of the retail grocer, this package can be made to absolutely crowd out the class of family packages now sold containing chinaware, glassware, or toys, and which you have so emphatically disapproved. Yours very truly,

"The American Cereal Co.,
"C. C. Coldron, Asst. Sales Mgr."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

This is the last week of Richard Mansfield at the Grand. The engagement has been a wonderful success. With the exception of the second night, the theatre has been well crowded. Next week will see the return of James Brophy, an old favorite of San Francisco, with a strong company in an interesting melodrama.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.

There are three hours of solid fun at the Alcazar this week, where "My Friend From India" gets everything tangled up and then straightens out the complications. Fred J. Butler makes a very decided success as the wealthy Chicago pork packer who is attempting to help his family break into New York society. John B. Maher is extremely funny as a barber who masquerades as a theosophist from India. He is strongly assisted by Nera Rosa, whose delineation of the Swedish serving girl is extremely funny. On Monday, December 4th, will be given the first stock performance of the spirited comedy romance, "The Sword of the King," in which Miss Evelyn takes the role which did so much towards securing for Henrietta Crossman her success.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

The Parisian Belles hold the boards at the California this week and are drawing good houses with their beauty chorus and all star cast. The company is headed by Maurice J. Burns and La Belle Marie and Clara Cole, two clever and shapely actresses with pretty voices. Sam J. Adams is also one of the stars of the company. There are two burlesque and vaudeville turns that keep the audience interested. Next week the London Gaiety Girls Company are to follow and are heralded as the best spoke of the "burlesque wheel."

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

Belasco and Mayer's stock company, which was located for five years at their theatre at Market and Eighth streets, was transferred by the firm to the Alhambra Theatre, last Monday night, opening with a big production of "The Millionaire Detective," which has done a vast business all week. The Alhambra has been made into as cozy and pretty a theatre as there is in the city and is destined to become a popular place with the public. Herschel Mayall, Edna Ellsmere, Henry Shumer, James Corrigan, George P. Webster, Charles Edler, George O. Nicholls, True Boardman, are bound to have as big a following of admirers at the Alhambra Theatre as they did at their former abode. "The Millionaire Detective" will be played for the last times this Sunday matinee and night and will be followed on Monday evening by a big scenic production of the famous melodrama, "After Midnight," in which many sensational effects will be shown.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The "Light Eternal" is still drawing good houses at this theatre. Next week the Neills will produce the "Private Secretary," assisted by Bishop's company of clever players.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"The Highwayman" is in its last nights at this theatre. Those who have not seen this clever production should make it a point to attend before Monday evening when it is to be followed by "Rob Roy." Barron Bearthold once more takes his place with the company and will play the part of Prince Charlie. The rest of the company will have strong roles and the piece will be staged with particular elaboration.

FISCHER'S.

The program is divided into two parts. The first part consists of acrobatic, musical, novelty and comedy specialties. It is followed by the musical skit, "The Telephone Girl," with a strengthened chorus and new songs. There is only one performance each evening, the curtain rising at 8:15. There is a matinee every afternoon.

CHUTES.

There has been a revival of Both well Brown's "Princess Fan Tan" with its pretty ballets and clever songs. Together with other specialties this piece has proven a great favorite. There are 300 children in the cast which makes the performance very attractive to little people. The diving elks, the Circle Swing, and other concessions serve to add to the interest of this great pleasure ground.

OPPOSE THE TEA DUTY.

The National Tea Association has taken up officially the matter of opposing by organized effort the proposition of imposing a duty on tea. The officers of this Association have sent out a circular letter to all the membership of the organization, which comprises all the largest tea interests of the country with very few exceptions. The result of this canvass, it is understood is overwhelmingly against imposition of any duty on tea.

San Francisco has been very active in opposition to the duty. The largest houses in this city have taken a leading part. Among those who have acted are M. J. Brandenstein & Co., J. A. Folger & Co., Haas Bros., Leege & Haskins, McCarthy Bros., and A. Schilling & Co.

AN ATTRACTIVE FOLDER.

One of the most attractive of the recent folders is that of "Lily" Cream, which is being issued by the Pacific Creamery Co. We reproduce herewith the cover cut. The folder also contains illustrations of "The Factory at Buena Park," "A Glimpse of the Warehouse," and "Some Lily Cream Babies," together with cuts of Lily Cream's gold medals.

The matter in the folder is a strong argument in favor of using condensed creams rather than unsterilized fresh milk. The direct application is made to Lily Cream and its superiority. The wide utility of Lily Cream, together with the many advantages that accrue from having the grocer as a milk man makes up a number of effective and interesting pages.

PURCHASE MANY WALNUTS.

The daily papers of Santa Rosa inform us that Kopf & Donovan, the leading grocers of that city, have purchased the entire crop of walnuts from the Vrooman place. There were six tons of the nuts. They are of very large size and splendid quality. The nuts will be shipped to New York, Portland and Seattle.

Greatest Bargain Ever.

A thorough grocer can buy one of the best established and best paying grocery businesses on the Pacific Coast in one of the finest residence towns of California.

Proprietor intends retiring from business. References: Bradstreet's Commercial Agency, or any wholesale grocery house.

A five years' lease will be given—moderate rent.

Opportunity Speaks.

Yes,
I am Opportunity;
But say, young man,
Don't wait for me
To come to you;
You buckle down
To win your crown,
And work with head
And heart and hands.
As does the man
Who understands
That those who wait
Expecting some reward from fate,—
Or luck, to call it so,—
Sit always in the 'way-back row.
And yet
You must not let
Me get away when I show up.
The golden cup
Is not for him who stands
With folded hands,
Expecting me
To serve his inactivity.
I serve the active mind,
The seeing eye,
The ready hand
That grasps me passing by.
And takes from me
The good I hold
For every spirit
Strong and bold.
He does not wait
On fate
Who seizes me,
For I am fortune
Luck, and fate,
The cornerstone
Of what is great
In man's accomplishment.
But I am none of these
To him who does not seize;
I must be caught,
If any good is wrought
Out of the treasures I possess.
Oh, yes,
I'm Opportunity;
I'm great;
I'm sometimes late,
But do not wait
For me;
Work on,
Watch on,
Good hands good heart,
And some day you will see—
Out of your effort rising,— Opportunity.
—Success.

The Clerk's Catechism.

Don't forget to call out the amount of sales loudly and distinctly and register it correctly, and use no slang names for money.

Don't forget to register the amount of sale immediately you receive the money; never hold the money in your hand while doing up a package; the quicker the money gets to the cashier the beter.

Don't forget if a customer buys two or more articles to be sure and add them up on one of the packages.

Don't forget to add items up correctly; count the packages of goods and the items and see if they agree.

Don't forget to charge for coal oil, potatoes or a broom you sell and put in front of the counter.

Don't forget to charge customers for goods they put in their baskets while you are waiting on them.

Don't forget that the only correct way for an honest clerk to correct an overcharge or an error on the register is to make out a rebate slip for same.

Don't forget when putting up an order that everything must be correct.

Don't forget to see that a bill is properly signed in every detail.

Don't forget when putting away goods to put the new goods back and old ones in front, so the old goods will be sold first.

Don't make a practice of coming late to business; it is a sign you are not worth your wages.

Don't dress dowdily or dudishly; be neat.

PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

It pays to advertise an article that is better than others of its kind. That is why the manufacturers of "x-Ray Stove Polish" have been able to place it so strongly before the public in all the great magazines.

It costs a fortune to buy advertising such as is being, and has been, used to popularize this article. But, when it is once used, the housewife comes back for it again and again and it is from these repeat orders that the manufacturer gets his profits.

The X-Ray Stove Polish is making the same record as a seller and repeater in Southern California that it has in other communities.

It is the repeating quality of the X-Ray Stove Polish that makes it such a valuable addition to the grocers' stock.

H. M. WOLTER & CO. MOVE.

The popular firm of H. M. Wolter & Co., ham boilers and dealers in provisions, have moved their factory to 417 Shotwell street, near 18th. This firm has made many friends among the retail grocers by their fair treatment and high class goods they handle.

ALAMEDA, CAL., November 17th, 1905.

WILLIAM A. HAWLEY, Esq., San Francisco.

Dear Sir—Your McCaskey System of account keeping has been in operation in one of our stores for almost two months, hence we have had ample opportunity to test its merits. To say that we are pleased is not to do justice to the case. We would not do without the system if it costs several times the price you are asking for it. We save a bookkeeper's salary every month. Our accounts are always up to the very minute. It is the most competent collector we ever had. It practically does away with errors and omissions. It is so simple a child can understand it, and last, but not least, our customers are simply delighted with it.

You are aware of the fact that we have recently placed an order for a larger system for our main store, though we had already invested in a modern duplicating loose leaf bill system, which we expected to start on the 1st of January. Your system has proved so superior that we have no hesitation in displacing the one already on hand and still unused before even putting it into commission. From a business point of view we consider our investment in the McCaskey the very best we have ever made. Very truly yours, H. HAUCH & CO.

Don't be Hoodwinked

The grocer who permits unscrupulous manufacturers to stock him with cheap and inferior evaporated creams makes a great mistake.

The frenzy of finance seems to have reached some manufacturers, especially when they claim they will give you for less money something "just as good."

Why take chances when you can please your customers by giving them

"CARNATION" CREAM

CARNATION CREAM has stood the test. The quantity, the quality and prices are right. The health authorities everywhere attest its purity.

Some grocers have lost money and customers by handling the "cheap creams." Are you going to repeat their experience? You will have dead stock on hand if you do.

Sell only CARNATION CREAM and insure your business against loss of patronage and profit.

Points to Watch

OLIVES

Spanish Queen and Manzanilla olives are steadily advancing in price.

SARDINES—

French packers have advanced the prices of sardines, stocks being very small. Norway also announces higher prices to come.

CHEESE

The market on all lines of cheese is strong with probable advances. An advance of one cent on Martin's cheese is expected by importers.

RICE—

The situation is very strong. Prices are steadily advancing on practically all grades, and still further advances are predicted by the trade

CRANBERRIES

The cranberry crop has been very short this year, and it now looks as if the present high prices may be only a forerunner of still higher prices.

TEA—

Every indication points to a continual advance in the tea market for the next few months. If the government should put a duty on tea that article will prove an exceptionally good holding.

The Houston Rice Industry says of the rice crop: "As the season advances and harvesting and threshing make their tangible showing the position taken early in the season that the yield would be 25 per cent less than that of last season is proven to be correct. It is sustained by reports from all the rice centers and the eagerness with which buyers are pushing their solicitations for the new crop everywhere in the Texas belt, and the sharp upward tendency of the market show plainly that they have no hope of a storage surfeit from which to draw at their pleasure and their own offer of price. As a general thing the late planting, contrary to fears of many, escaped the dangers of weather that were apt to assail it at a critical stage, and while it will of necessity be a light yield, the quality of the rice is reported as an excellent average. As a matter of fact, the particularly fine quality of the rice crop in Texas this season is commented upon from all quarters, and that as well as the conservative yield, has had its beneficial effect in giving the market its great and growing strength."

Association Progress.

..nat Is Being Done to Enforce Fair Selling Prices.

By Frank B. Connolly.

In almost every State in the Union where there are grocers' associations the matter of the protection of the retail selling price on such staple articles as sugar, flour and coal oil is now being put forth.

We know of list prices being maintained in Colorado, Texas, Georgia, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Washington and several other States, while California, outside of San Francisco and Oakland, is well advanced along this line of work.

Los Angeles and Southern California have ninety articles listed by the manufacturers. San Jose, Stockton, Fresno and Sacramento have card prices that pay at least the cost of doing business (15 per cent) on all the leading staples.

The Sacramento Association is having a little trouble over its list at the present time on account of some of its members giving away trading stamps, but its sensible merchants will straighten out this tangle soon.

The retail grocers of these cities are making twenty-five and thirty cents a sack on all the leading brands of flour. They are happy and prosperous and making money.

Flour Nets Loss to Grocers.

The grocers of San Francisco and Oakland have been compelled through competition with cutters to sell flour at a profit of seven and a half cents a sack when it costs them 15 per cent to do business, so that every sack we distribute for the millers of this city nets us a loss.

Why should we distribute their products without getting a fair compensation for our work? Are they producing flour at a loss. If not, then we say it is their duty to us to see that a proper selling price is maintained on their goods and not sell them to anyone who intends to cut them.

The millers of San Francisco are at present planning to set a uniform price to the grocers and also from the grocer to the consumer. I am personally in favor of this plan as it will mean the perpetuation of the retail selling price.

They should make the grocer sign an agreement not to cut the consumer's price. We also would expect them to refuse to sell to any grocer who cuts the listed price and buy up at the retail price, if necessary, any stock they may have on hand or offer for sale at less than the agreed price.

Big Cutters Hurt Trade.

Who are the grocers who, by constant cutting, have brought the profit on flour down to its present low state? They are the large Market street cutters who fail for a hundred thousand dollars and pay the millers thirty and forty cents on the dollar for the well known brands they have been selling at cost, and we have been the sufferers thereby, for our customers, seeing these brands advertised at ten or fifteen cents less than we have been charging imagine we overcharge them and hence lose confidence in us.

A very large majority of the leading grocers who have been distributing

Oakland Grocers' Smoker.

Address by H. Hauch of Alameda the Feature of the Evening.

A large number of grocers met at Franklin Hall last evening to talk, smoke and have a good time. This they certainly did, for a lengthy program had been prepared and an enjoyable spread of Spanish dishes and beer was set before them. The occasion of this entertainment and repast was the desire of Mr. E. A. Van Emden, manager of the Van Emden Cocoa Company, to meet the grocers and give them a good time.

The grocers were surprised to find upon their arrival at the hall a reproduction of the genuine German beer garden. The elaborate decoration gave a setting that carried many back to the times enjoyed in the Fatherland.

The program was started by a monologue from Mr. R. Folger, and was followed by performers sent from the Bell and Novelty theatres, some good stories by Mr. D. McLaughlin, and concluded by a solo from L. Warnke.

The last half of the program consisted of speeches by H. Hauch, F. B. Rourke and Mr. E. A. Van Emden.

Mr. Hauch took as his subject 'Association Work." It was one of the most forceful and eloquent talks the grocers have been pleased to listen to. It is to be hoped that it will be read by every reader of the Advocate.

Mr. Rourke followed with a talk on "Methods of Buying and What the Actual Cost Letter Can Save the Grocers."

Mr. Van Emden in a very forceful way described the grocer as the manufacturer sees him.

The evening was indeed a great success and the precision and quality of the program was largely due to the efforts of H. D. Cushing, who acted as toastmaster.

There was gathered at the festive board all of the most prominent grocers of Oakland, Alameda, Berkeley and Fruitvale.

The address of H. Hauch, the enterprising grocer of Alameda, which was the feature of the evening, will be given in next week's Advocate.

CONGRATULATE STULZ.

Joseph A. Stulz, the newly elected Public Administrator, is receiving hundreds of congratulatory letters. Among them was one from Julius Fleischmann Mayor of Cincinnati, Ohio, who said:

"I have just been informed that you were elected Public Administrator at the recent election in San Francisco. I desire to extend to you my hearty congratulations.

"We Republicans of Ohio have just traveled along a very rocky road. In fact, we were ditched. However, we do not believe that our o'd vehicle is beyond repair and we hope to be going along smoothly again before the next election takes place.

"Again assuring you of my personal gratification of your success, and with kindest regards, I am, etc."

Another letter from 'Daddy" Gray of New York, is highly prized by Mr Stulz The letter says among other personal matters:

"As a 'get there' good fellow you are certainly a success and I send you my hearty congratulations on your triumphant election. May it be but the stepping stone to still higher ambition until you land in the governor's hair. I am just a little bit sorry, as I fear it will mean that you will not be able to attend the convention at Niagara Falls."

DEATH OF MRS. POWERS.

Wife of Editor A. H. Powers Dies Suddenly in Los Angeles.

We record with deep regret the unexpected death at Los Angeles on Tuesday of this week of Mrs. A. H. Powers, wife of the editor of the Advocate. The immediate cause of her death was heart failure.

Mrs. Powers had been ailing for some time and had gone to Los Angeles only a few days before, anticipating good results from the change.

Her untimely demise will occasion much grief as she had endeared herself to scores of friends by her kindly and helpful disposition. In accordance with the desires of Mrs. Powers, her body was cremated.

Services were held at the undertaking parlors of Orr & Hinds on Wednesday afternoon. Messrs. J. F. Paulding, H. H. Mayberry, W. J. Variel and Oliver Morosco acted as pallbearers. The remains will be forwarded to the home of Mrs. Power's parents at Lewiston Idaho.

THREATENS INTEREST OF TRADE

Consumers and Retailers Will Suffer If Tea and Coffee Are Taxed.

The retailers of this country have good reason to be alarmed at the agitation in certain quarters to restore a duty on tea and the probability of having coffee also placed on the dutiable list.

The injury done to the trade, both wholesale and retail, to say nothing of the hardship suffered by tea consumers by the duty of 10c per pound placed on tea during the Spanish-American war should still be sufficiently impressed upon the memories of all as to arouse emphatic and vigorous protests from the united interests.

No one interested in handling tea will deny that the Spanish war tax was not only directly responsible for an alarmingly decreased consumption of "the cup that cheers," but the increased consumption of inferior grades could be directly traced to the duty imposed.

Should tea again become dutiable and coffee also, the retail interests will naturally be compelled to bear the heavier portion of this unnecessary burden.

We urge that prompt action be taken by individual grocers as well as by all associations on the Pacific Coast to place their views on this matter before their Senators and Representatives before a bill to tax these articles is introduced in Congress.

In this connection it may be interesting to note that all the importers of the country, except the few who already have enormous stocks on hand, are opposed to this proposed tariff and are doing all in their power to prevent its adoption.

It remains for the retailers now to do their duty. A word to the users of tea and coffee might help in this matter.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Get a profit.

Demonstrate coffee and tea these cold Saturdays.

Pop corn is one of the small lines that are now seasonable.

Broom corn is advancing and higher prices for brooms are looked for.

How is the oyster department doing? It is due for a big business from now on.

Look out for short weight spices. There are some still being offered the trade.

How about the canned plum pudding? About time for it to get to the front.

The cup test is the only real test of coffee and tea, for it is the final test to which all teas and coffees are subjected.

Canned vegetables, with the exception of corn, are all strong and some of them are advancing.

Cider is high. So are apples. This will tend to make the apple butter and mince meat markets firm.

Don't forget to figure in insurance, taxes, deterioration and interest when computing your expenses.

On account of high prices for vinegar and none too many cucumbers pickle prices are generally firm.

This is the lamp goods season. Candles, wicking, chimneys, burners and everything in the light line sell now.

Syrups in tin seem to be gaining rapidly over the pail and keg goods. Molasses in the smaller packages are also favored.

Crackers both in package and bulk are good sellers the year around Keep the stock fresh and in convenient bins or cases.

Have you seen your Congressman about the pure food law and the parcels post? These are two vital questions to the grocer.

Which is better, to sell baking powder under the retailer's private label or a well-known advertised brand? What do you think?

Nuts are selling very well. They are, as a rule, a little higher than a year ago, but not enough so as to curtail the demand appreciably.

Tell your trade all about rice—what a healthful and nutritious food it is and how the consumption is increasing. That ought to increase your sales.

Now is the time when the maple syrup is running the gauntlet. Some of it hasn't even a speaking acquaintance with the maple sap. Watch out for that kind.

There is always a demand for glassware and crockery. It may not be large and insistent but it can probably be increased by judicious advertising. Try it and see.

Lookout for the man with cheap vinegar these days. Nearly all vinegar is high and any thing much under the market may not come up to the food law requirements.

There is lots of room for the trade in olive oil to increase In some sections there is practically no sale for it. Its medicinal virtues are not understood by many.

Keep the seasonable articles to the front. It will not hurt to shift the stock considerably once in a while just to bring the lines that are most wanted up to the front of the store.

Good tea, good coffee, good butter—on this trinity should the grocer build his business temple. The difficulty is not great, but it is exceedingly difficult to build well without these three things.

This is the season when the box car merchant flourishes. Look out for him. Notify your food commissioner when the goods are to be delivered, and he will see that they are O. K. or they will not go out to purchasers

Some very large and fancy nutmegs are offered to the retail trade by the leading wholesale grocery houses at 75 cents a pound. These nutmegs count about 50 to the pound and are very suitable for show window display.

Laundry goods like bluing, starch laundry soaps, clothes lines, clothes pins, washboards, etc., should be given special attention occasionally. A window display devoted exclusively to this line once in a while would not come amiss.

Roasting, which is so important a process in the coffee trade, is so destructive to the distinguishing feature of raw or green coffee as to make it very difficult to tell the origin of samples of roasted coffee. Only the experts can tell much about roasted coffee.

Fruit cake has long been a Christmas feature in British grocery stores and it is coming into vogue in this country. There ought to be satisfactory possibilities in this novelty It is made and packed with the same care as the fancy crackers which are so popular.

The sauce cube, a novelty in the American market, enables the cook to flavor gulashes, roulades, meat balls, roast beef, beefsteaks, chops, sausages, etc., or provide a sauce for any kind of roast, at a moment's notice. It is a German invention and is neatly packed and labeled.

Bar-le-duc jelly, containing glucose and preservatives, is barred from our ports, but there are grave doubts as to whether this article would survive the hot weather of our summer months without the stiffening and preservative properties of the substances to which the Federal Department of Agriculture objects.

In the purchase of pepper the eye should let the nerves of taste be the guide. Extremely illogical is the attitude of the color-governed buyer. White pepper sells better than black because it is white, but Singapore black pepper is preferred to Lampong "black" pepper because the latter has a grayish hue.

Is there a richer or more satisfying and comforting drink at the price than good cocoa or chocolate? The sales of these articles are increasing faster than the increase of population, a sign that the manufacturers are giving a good article. Demonstrations of cocoa and chocolate are always welcomed by the public in cold weather.

It is reported that the Pennsylvania food authorities are now after Lea & Perrins Worcestershire sauce, which—as it was compounded at the time—was barred from Minnesota some time ago. Since it has been ruled out of Minnesota it is said that the manufacturers have eliminated the objectionable ingredient, however.

ers' Association is hammering away at the premiums in cereals. He does well to remind the local association of the solemn resolutions they passed declaring they would not handle premium cereals. Look on your shelves and then remember what your association said about premiums a while ago Are you consistent?

Glazing of coffee is a process that threatens to come within the scope of the investigations of more than one food commissioner in future as in the past. It is commendable as a means of preserving the strength and fragrance of the aromatic berry, and it is not conceivable that it should be extensively used to make inferior coffee appear better.

This is the time of the year when the storage egg comes forth from its hiding place and appears as "fresh laid." As a matter of fact, however, it is no easy job to distinguish a well kept storage egg fresh from the warehouse from an egg that has been off the nest but a few days. But that is no reason why the merchant should not knowing sell cold storage eggs as "strictly fresh."

Whenever sudden and mysterious sickness attacks an unfortunate it is the habit of the press to look for the reason in the food supply Recently a case of sickness in Detroit was attributed to poisoning by colors used in candy. The newspaper article was brought to the attention of Mr. H. W. Hoope, of the National Confectioners Association, who thoroughly investigated the matter and learned from the mother of the dead child that as the child had not touched candy for at least a week before the illness the cause of that illness must be looked for elsewhere. In the same way the accounts of the sickness caused by canned salmon, etc., usually fizzle out completely when investigated by competent persons.

LABOR SAVING GROCERIES.

The culinary duties in the household are being lightened by the manufacturers of labor-saving groceries, and perhaps the day is not far distant when the grocery store will provide practically all the dishes for every meal of the day in a form that will require only a slight warming-up process to make them ready for the table. Public kitchens for the supply of hot meals ready to serve will probably also simplify and reduce the culinary work in the family and such a step would no doubt inure to the profit of the grocer, because the average housekeeper would have more leisure to test the newer table delicacies, which at present suffer more or less because the multifarious duties of the housekeeper leave little time for such experiments. There can be no dispute as to the difficulty, under present conditions, of getting heads of families interested in samples of new brands, or indeed of the old brands, because there are so many samples claiming attention. A visit to any food show is convincing on that point.

A DESIRABLE MEASURE.

Washington, D. C., Grocers Start Movement to Make United States Officials Pay Their Grocery Bills.

The grocers of Washington, D. C. have had introduced in Congress a measure known as the "Dixon Bill" that will, if passed, be of great benefit to the dealers in the necessaries of life all over the country, since it is of general application.

This measure provides that any civil service employee who fails to pay a bill for groceries or other necessaries of life contracted after his appointment to the government position, shall stand suspended for three months. If, at the end of three months he still has failed to make a settlement of the bill, the measure provides that the employee be stricken from the rolls as unworthy.

The bill specially provides that the employee shall not be held because of obligations incurred before he had taken the government position and also that he shall not be jeopardized because of bills for anything other than the necessaries of life.

This measure has been referred to the Civil Service Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives. We print herewith a list of the committees in the two houses and would urge each of our readers who may be acquainted with any of these gentlemen to write them urging them to advance the interests of the measure in question.

Civil Service Reform Committee of United States Senate—George C. Perkins, Oakland, Cal.; Henry Cabot Lodge, Nahant, Mass.; Stephen B. Elkins, Elkins, W. Va.; Thomas C. Platt, Oswego, N. Y.; Joseph H. Millard, Omaha, Neb.; William B. Bate, Nashville, Tenn.; Fred T. Dubois, Blackfoot, Ind.; James P. Clark, Little Rock, Ark.

Committee on Reform in the Civil Service, House of Representatives—Frederick H. Gillett, Springfield, O.; John Y. Lacy, Oscaloosa, Ia.; Charles N Fowler, Elizabeth, N. J.; Justin B. Bowerstock, Lawrence, Kan.; James R. Mann, Chicago, Ill.; William O. Smith, Punxsutawney, Penn.; Amos L. Allen, Alfred, Me.; Jacob A. Biedler, Willoughby, O.; Edward W. Pou, Smithfield, N. ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Cincinnati, O.—The grocers are to give a dance at Armory Hall in February.

Akron, O.—Great preparations are being made for the entertainment of the State Grocers' Association, which is to be held in this city shortly.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Grocers' Association has brought pressure to bear upon the local administration to prevent turkey raffles. As a result, the Chief of Police has announced that he will arrest anyone caught raffling poultry. A check was sent to the National Association in payment of their per capita tax.

Buffalo, N. Y.—A large number of retail grocers of Buffalo, being dissatisfied with the action of the Association in resigning from the State Association, steps were taken to form a new organization. Several meetings have been held and officers will be elected shortly.

St. Louis, Mo.—The St. Louis Master Butchers have indorsed the ordinance of the Grocers' Association asking a license of $1000 on trading stamp companies.

Trenton, N. J.—The Retail Grocers' Association held a Pure Food Show the week beginning Monday, November 6th. The main feature was a series of five lectures on cooking.

Lowell, Mass.—The Retail Grocers have prepared a petition which they have sent to the wholesale firms of their city asking that they do not sell direct to consumers. The petition was signed by all the members of the Association and reads as follows:

Gentlemen: We, the undersigned dealers engaged in the retail business in the city of Lowell, respectfully ask each and all of the above-named firms to discontinue selling goods in any quantity, small or large, to individual housekeepers, boarding-house keepers, restaurants, hotels and lunch carts. We believe that the practice is injurious to the wholesaler and retailer alike, because it brings trouble and annoyance to both and a lack of confidence in each other. The wholesaler gains temporarily only, at the expense and disadvantage of the man he expects to maintain his business permanently, thereby bringing discontent and mistrust where confidence and good will should prevail. We believe that the men engaged in our business are the greatest toilers in the city and receive but the minimum compensation for their labor, taking into consideration the time and attention given to their business, not to mention the risk they take when doing a credit business. For these reasons it is common justice and equity that the prayer of your petitioners should be granted.

Indianapolis, Ind—The Food Show of the Retail Grocers' Association was a great success. All the booth space was sold a week before the day of opening the show.

Youngstown, O.—A committee of ten members of the Association at a recent meeting volunteered to obtain applications for the Retail Grocers' Mutual Fire Insurance Company.

Dayton, O.—Two members of the Association are candidates for the Board of Councilmen. It is believed that they will get the support of all grocers regardless of politics.

THE TEA MARKET.

An Eastern Authority Tells of Conditions in Various Fields.

New York, October 31—John B. Brown & Co. report:

Japans—Our last mail advices were dated September 28, indicating arrivals from the producers have been small. The total settlements at Kobe for the season have been 76,900 piculs, as against 112,408 piculs to corresponding time of last year. The settlements for both Kobe and Yokohama were 235,912 piculs showing a shortage of 80,000 piculs as compared with the settlements at same time of last year.

Freights remain at 1¼c per pound gross, to overland cities, and at 30s to New York, via Suez. Rates to the Pacific Coast are quoted @ $6 per ton.

Congous—The buying at Foochow has been confined almost exclusively of late to common grades, which would pass United States government standard. Business at Shanghai continues good, and the demand strong, owing to the brisk inquiry at Hankow by the Russian buyers. The conclusion of peace has stimulated the Russian, Manchurian and Siberian trade, as stocks of tea in these countries were practically nil, and the excessive demand both at Shanghai and Hankow during the last two months has increased values nearly 2c a pound, so much so that the quality of the remaining stock on hand is inferior, and nothing can be purchased at less than 10½ gold cents seaboard rate of freight. The Russian buyers have purchased everything in sight at the advance of 2c per pound over out last Hankow report, and buyers of other countries may justly consider the season at Hankow as closed, for the reason that no one except the Russians can afford to pay current prices.

Green Teas—Pingsueys—Arrivals at Shanghai have been more free and offerings have been readily sold at slightly increasing rates, especially for first crop teas, with good liquoring quality. These kinds are quoted at 1½ to 2 taels up during the month of September, with quotations 1 tael up for medium and commoner grades. Chinese native holders, owing to the small crop, anticipate a further rise, which has had a tendency to make them hold their teas at prices above the market, but as these kinds will have to be sold in America they will later on be offered, and it may possibly be the native buyers will lose the market. Arrivals, 185,859 boxes, against 248,971 boxes, against 319,912 boxes, settlements, 117,259 boxes, against 159,791 boxes, against 263,712 boxes; stock 28,700 boxes, against 89,000 boxes, against 56,200 boxes.

Green Country Teas—Arrivals have been on a more liberal scale during September than anticipated, but arrivals and settlements are still 20 per cent below those of last year. Teas of good cup quality command rates prevailing during August. Fychows and Taipings are selling at lower rates by 1 to 1½ taels.

Formosas—Our last mail advices were dated September 5, at which times a strong demand continued for all grades of teas, especially those grading "good cargo," notwithstanding the fact that exchange was up to 2 1-16. The quality of the different offerings was considered satisfactory and teas grading "fine" showed relatively good value. Estimates of the total yield are 332,000, against 337,000 for the same date of last year.

Black Ceylons—Common Broken Pekoes have sold well and prices are probably a ¼d. per lb. dearer than they were when our last report was issued. Lowest leaf grades have been very unsteady but the decline of ¼d. per pound recorded a few weeks ago has since been counterbalanced by a similar advance. Orange Pekoes a month back were very difficult of sale, and at that time showed remarkable value, but large orders have since been received from Russia, and consequently prices have advanced fully 1d. to 1¼d. per pound. The last auction held on the 20th inst., passed off with strong demand for all descriptions, and prices were only lower where quality showed a decline. Common Leaf Pekoe Souchongs were unexpectedly dearer and Orange Pekoes, Fannings and Dusts realized extreme rates, owing to the demand amongst Russian buyers. Medium fine Broken Pekoes, which were attractive either in cup or leaf, remained very firm.

Ceylon Greens—There is a good private business done, especially in attractive Hysons, and we expect to see this class of tea continue to harden.

Ceylon Prospects—An increased supply of tea, showing decline in quality, will be coming forward. The weather has favored flush and in consequence the quality has suffered.

WILL CAN ABALONE.

Santa Cruz—Major F. M. Spaulding and J. W. Gayetty of San Francisco are in the city with a view of establishing a canning business for the preserving and packing of abalone. The process used will be that instituted by Mr. Gayetty in his Cayucos cannery.

CALIFORNIA FRUIT INDUSTRY.

A Comparison of the Green Fruit Shipments For 1904 and 1905.

San Jose, December 2d.—In quantity and quality of fruit shipped and financial returns the green fruit season which has just closed was the best in the history of that important and growing California industry. For the season between April 22 and November 20 last, 8071 carloads were shipped East, as compared with 5626 cars during the 1904 season, an increase of 3445 cars. Each car netted an average of $800 to the growers and shippers, so the aggregate of their net returns amounted to the handsome sum of $6,456,800, or thereabouts.

Alden Anderson, Lieutenant Governor of California and general manager of the California Fruit Distributers, the organization which ships and routes the bulk of the green fruit, has compiled some interesting figures about the season's shipments and has compared them with last year's business as follows, the figures representing carloads:

	1905.	1904.
Cherries	79	209
Apricots	279	97
Peaches	1946	559
Plums and prunes	1391	1053
Pears	1013	2186
Grapes	1602	1451
Apples	1744	43
Quinces, figs and persimmons	17	28
Totals	8071	5626

All of this fruit is shipped in carloads of 24,000 pounds, with the exception of apples, which are loaded to the extent of 26,000 pounds per car. Expressed in another way, therefore, during the season just closed 197,192,000 pounds of green fruit were shipped East, as compared with 135,110 000 pounds for the season before, a gain of 62,082,000 pounds. This fruit was sold in 135 different cities, while 70 per cent of it was sold at auction. In 1904 the season opened on May 13 with a first shipment of cherries East. This year the season opened earlier, the date being April 22, with a first shipment of cherries.

POINTED TIPS ON CREDIT.

Some dealers do not appear to know:

That good credit is as valuable to them as cash capital.

That it is far better to be honest than to seem to be honest.

That in considering the opening of a new account many manufacturers look up the dealer's moral standing more closely than they do his financial rating.

That spending money in dissipation and then asking for more time in which to pay his legitimate bills knocks a big hole in a dealer's credit and frequently leads to the bankrupt court.

That making frequent claims for rebates on account of imaginary defects in goods will eventually lead to a lowering of their credit and jeopardize their chance to secure desirable lines of goods.

That buying goods of a manufacturer does not place him under any more obligations to the dealer than it does the buyer to the seller. Furniture must be made before it can be sold. Hundreds of dozens of manufacturers can rent a building and sell their product at retail, while it would require tens of thousands for the dealers to build and equip factories and secure men with a technical knowledge of manufacture and a good business training to run them.—C. S. Osgood.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

J. C. H. Dawes has bought out the grocery of G. Noschka at 18th and Dolores streets, and has made a number of improvements and greatly enlarged the stock.

The old Olsen stand, at 919 Washington street, Oakland, is now doing a larger trade than ever under the management of Geo. L. Fish & Co. They carry one of the most complete stocks of any grocery house in the Athens of the Pacific.

E. E. Ambrose & Co., of 9th and Washington streets, Oakland, have nearly doubled their business in the past three months, when the store came under the management of Mr. Hutchinson.

H. A. Howard has opened a neat grocery at 867 San Pablo avenue, Oakland, where he is building up a fine trade. He carries a fine stock of staple and fancy groceries.

J. P. Nolan has opened a fine grocery at 933 San Pablo avenue. He has an up-to-date stock and is doing a good trade.

Rourcke Bros. have purchased the store of George Hanson at the corner of Webster and Waller streets.

B. A. Schmidt, who sold out his grocery store at Tenth and Folsom streets to Reidt & Schwartau, has again started a grocery store at 399 Devisadero street, under the firm name of Schmidt & Thieke. Mr. Schmidt has a neat and attractive store at his new location, and is already working up a good trade.

Rochester, N. Y.—Owing to the general desire both of the former exhibitors and members of the Association, it was decided to hold another Food Show on April 16th, 1906.

Cleveland, Ohio.—The second week of the Food Show being given by the local Grocers' Association broke all records for attendance.

ASSOCIATION PROGRESS.

flour at a loss have made up the committee of one hundred (which is constantly increasing in numbers) to bring about the list price, and we have every reason to believe we will get it in the near future.

This will mean one step nearer placing the retail grocery business of San Francisco on the higher level where it belongs, when the manufacturer, jobber and retailer shall work toward a mutual profit, and the maker or producer shall say to the distributor (the jobber and retailer), "in order to perpetuate my goods you must sell them at a fair profit or I will not let you have them." Then the retail grocer will enjoy the prosperity which is really his.

SELL PROFITABLE GOODS.

How Grocers Can Increase Their Income by Properly Directed Effort.

The average grocer pays more attention to staples, such as corn, tomatoes and the like, than he does to specialties. Of course, corn sells oftener than specialties, but on which class of goods is the most money made?

Fair and legitimate profits are what a dealer wants. He should work to that end, even if he is compelled to sacrifice volume.

Corn will sell itself, but specialties need to be urged.

Pick out the articles that have comparatively little sale and keep them before the trade. Take, as an illustration, some high-grade marmalade, ice cream powder, gelatine or other articles that are used as dessert. Put a good brand of one or the other—but be sure that it is good—on your counter for a few days, changing them at intervals, and then put a sign alongside of the specialty telling in a few words what it is. Talk it up to your customers to get them to try it, and you will find they will take your advice. If the food is good and the claims made for it are substantiated, there will be a second and a third order, and eventually a steady customer.

There are many articles that are considered as luxuries which a retailer with the proper effort can induce his trade to buy.

True, in some localities the people are poor and cannot afford these luxuries to any extent, but the poorest will buy an occasional fancy grocery article for the home. All that is required is to put the specialty in a conspicuous place where it can easily be seen, and then draw attention to it at every opportunity.

Devote your energies to pushing fancy groceries; the staples will take care of themselves.

GROCERY SALESMEN WANTED.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. are greatly expanding their grocery business and are on the lookout for two first-class traveling grocery salesmen. They offer the very best inducements to experienced men. Any grocery salesman seeking a first-class opening will find it to his advantage to communicate with or call on the Lewin-Meyer Co., 34 Market street, at once.

PROGRESSIVE GROCERS.

Steiner & Company Attract Much Attention to Their Store.

In one of their recent ads. Steiner & Company, one of the largest merchants of Escondido, ran the following notice, which explains itself:

You Are Cordially Invited by the Ladies of the Trinity Guild, Who Will Hold a "MARKET DAY," Saturday, November 11th.

"Our large front show window will be given over entirely to the display and sale of home-made pies, cakes bread, cream puffs, baked beans brown bread, chicken pie, cooked meats, salads, and the various "good things" to eat. All prepared for you and will be sold at prices less than you can make them yourself. The proceeds from this sale will be used in furnishing the new Episcopal church, and you can help the good cause and at the same time enjoy the excellent foods prepared by the Guild Have a cup of delicious coffee with cake, which will be served during the day."

This notice occupied about one-third of the space devoted to their advertising. That this firm are thoroughly wide awake to various advertising possibilities is made apparent by the following article printed in a local paper under the heading of "A Pretty Window Display:"

"With other metropolitan airs, Escondido can boast of the nicest show-window display in the county. The grocery window of Steiner & Co.'s large department store is attracting much attention again. This time it contains a special display devoted exclusively to advertising "Grape-Nuts" and "Postum Cereal," and we understand that, as the Postum Cereal Company of Battle Creek, Mich., are offering a very liberal sum for the best display of their products, photographs will be sent them of this exhibition, which will no doubt prove a winner. No picture can do justice to the window display, as it is impossible to photograph distinctly through the glass, which, like a large mirror, reflects the opposite side of the street and spoils the effect. An arch seven feet high, perfectly formed, and keyed with cartons of these foods, is strikingly displayed, and a large golden eagle with a six-foot spread of wings is conspicuously noticeable, holding in its beak a package of the cereal, with many well-worded signs placed in prominent positions calling attention to the merits of the food and cereal. Palms and potted plants, curtains and screens form a beautiful background This is not the first time that Sig Steiner has shown his ability in window displays, as he has already won prizes in similar contests in competition with hundreds of others.

A WEIGHTY RECOMMENDATION.

Good Words for the McCaskey Account Register by a Well-Known Grocer.

Among the grocers of California there are none who rank higher for good business judgment and honesty than H. Hauch of Alameda. The chief elements of Mr. Hauch's nature are frankness and fearlessness. For this reason any word of approval that he might give to any article carries extraordinary weight. Mr. Hauch is an aggressive merchant who believes in keeping thoroughly up to date His store is a model of convenient arrangements and he employs many devices, some of them original with himself for lessening waste and increasing the effectiveness of his various assistants.

We would call the attention of our readers to the strong and interesting letter of Mr. Hauch's which is printed on the first page of the cover.

AFTER PUSH CARTS.

Los Angeles, November 14th—The Retail Grocers Association of Los Angeles has had introduced in the City Council an ordinance requiring peddlers to pay a heavy license and requiring that push carts shall be compelled to keep on the move instead of vending their wares from a permanent position close to the sidewalks and often near a grocery or fruit store.

The Los Angeles "Herald" in commenting on this matter. says:

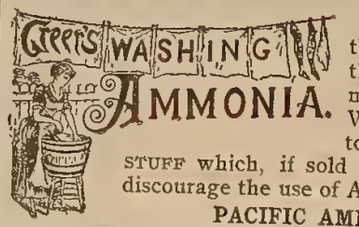
"Storekeepers with whom the peddlers compete have obviously good ground for compaint. Business rentals are high in Los Angeles, and it certainly seems unfair that peddlers, paying only a nominal license fee, should be allowed to vend their products in the street at the storekeeper's door. And it undoubtedly is true that much inferior and harmful stuff is sold by vendors, buyers being attracted by the relatively low prices.

"It would seem to be fair, as between the storekeepers and the street vendors, that the latter be prohibited from operating in the business part of the city, but that there be no restriction beyond a closely prescribed limit. The coming of vendors to the doors of residences outside the business section is a convenience to housekeepers and should not be interfered with."

THE COFFEE DUTY.

In the Trade Press Bulletin of October 14th is an article referring to an interview in which Representative Burton of Ohio was quoted as advocating a duty of 3 cents per pound on coffee. Noticing this extract in the paper John A. Green, president National Grocers' Association, sent Mr. Burton the following letter:

Hon. T. E. Burton, Washington, D. C.:



Dear Sir: The Cleveland Leader of Sunday morning, October 1, quotes you as favoring a tax on coffee of 3 cents pur pound. As a constituent of yours, I hope this is not true. If any such proposition should be passed by Congress, it will not only raise the price of coffee to the consumer, but will seriously interfere with the business of the merchants whom you represent.

As head of the retail grocery interests of the United States, I would say that we have had knowledge for some time of such a proposition and every trade paper in the country has devoted some space against it.

It is not necessary to go further into details at present, believing that if your attention is called to this matter you will consider it thoroughly before giving consent to any such bill.

Yours very truly,

John A. Green, President.

It has come to our knowledge that there is an attempt to introduce on the market a WASHING AMMONIA made from Bones and Animal Refuse. We trust that the trade will take time to investigate the character of this STUFF which, if sold to the consumer, will only tend to discourage the use of Ammonia as a household article.

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

Attracting Trade

Get Ready for the Holiday Trade.

Enterprising dealers are preparing for the holiday trade, and laying their plans to capture a generous share.

Take plenty of pains to let those people who wander from store to store in search of holiday goods, know that you have a desirable stock, and they'll come to you.

Go after December's easy business hard—choose the right goods and the right methods with which to do the work. Dealers who have acquired experience in holiday lines plan early, buy early, display early in the effort to sell early and then sell again.

Prepare your advertisements before the busy time begins. Get your headwork for your holiday campaign done in advance to as great an extent as possible

Establish that condition and they will be apt to come to your store as a matter of course when Christmas buying does begin in earnest.

Taking Advantage of Current Events.

The enterprising dealer should ever be on the alert to take advantage of current events and local celebrations in his particular section or city, to direct attention to his place of business.

The wideawake man who watches the daily newspapers can always find some topic of interest which can be seized upon and turned to account in exploiting his business.

The dealers in New York recently missed a capital opportunity of this sort. A young man was knocked down by an automobile in a busy part of Broadway and painfully injured.

He was picked up and carried into the lobby of an adjacent theater, where reclining upon an improvised couch and surrounded by a curious and more or less sympathetic crowd, he awaited the coming of an ambulance to take him to a hospital.

While in this position he asked for a cigarette, which was promptly furnished. As he lighted it the look of pain left his face, his groans ceased, and he awaited the ambulance with becoming fortitude, says Tobacco.

Most of the daily newspapers wrote up this little incident at greater or less length, and printed the story under conspicuous headings. What an opportunity this would have been for wideawake dealers to have clipped these articles from the newspapers, and secured them to the glass in their show windows, with an explanatory bulletin reading, "It was the ——— brand of cigarettes that eased the poor fellow's pain"; or, "The young man smoked one of our famous —— cigarettes and naturally forgot his pain"; or some similar phrase, of course using the name of the particular cigarette whose sales they desired to push.

If such a device had been employed and accompanied by an attractive display of the brand of cigarettes mentioned, it is practically certain that an immediate increase in sales would have resulted, while scores and hundreds of passers-by would have had their attention attracted to the store, and many would have commented upon the dealer's cleverness.

Catering to Cranky Customers.

One of the most delicate duties of the man behind the counter in a cigar store is the handling of cranky customers. There are several points to be considered in dealing with this all too numerous class. As a rule the crank has some decided ideas of his own as to what he wants, and as to what would be a good thing for every one else to have, and the man who desires his trade must not, therefore, disagree with him too strongly. If he expresses a decided preference for any particular brand of goods manifest an interest in his choice if not approval of it and leave him under the impression that he knows a good thing when he sees it, and that his ideas are correct.

Don't contradict the crank if you want his money. Let him talk, and after he is through you can sell to him without much trouble.

Don't argue with him if you want his business. Let him have his own way—apparently—and you will find he is not such a bad fellow after all.

Style in the Package Counts.

Style in the package counts, so does the character of the twine. A bit of green, red or pink twine may help to give a customer a favorable impression This is especially desirable at the holiday season, although it helps at all seasons of the year.

ANDERSON TOOL COMPANY.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

National—The Retail Grocers of St. Louis voted to send a donation of $100 to the National Grocers' Association in order to help supply it with the funds necessary for it to continue its existence without having to call upon outside interests for support.

Little Rock, Ark.—Arrangements have been made for a banquet on November 14th when President Green of the National Association is to be the guest of the Little Rock grocers. The Association collection department and credit rating department have both been making good progress and the fire insurance committee is also doing good business.

New Orleans, La.—The Association is seeking to have the Pelican Cracker Factory and National Biscuit Co. discontinue charging cracker prices for cardboard. The Pelican Cracker Factory has agreed to allow one-half pound per package. The Association does not believes that amount is sufficient and wants either to have the full allowance or have the cardboard taken out altogether. The Klotz Cracker Company quit using cardboard several weeks ago and since then has been doing a tremendous business with the retail grocers, who handle their goods in preference to goods packed with cardboard. Several of the largest retail grocers of the city have discontinued patronizing one of the wholesale grocery houses because it insisted upon supplying a large Canal street dry goods store with goods. A letter was received from the Wholesale Grocers' Association stating that they had adopted a resolution urging wholesalers to discontinue selling to dry goods stores. A resolution was adopted thanking the wholesalers for their action.

New Orleans, La.—The enactment of the Legislature requiring trading stamp companies to pay an annual license of $5,000 has practically done away with the nuisance in Louisiana.

Detroit, Mich.—The large baking establishments of this city have signed an agreement with the Grocers' Association not to sell bread at retail except to boarding-houses, restaurants, etc., that use at least three 2-lb. loaves per day. The business meeting of the Association was cut short as the entertainment committee had arranged for a pedro party, followed by a Dutch lunch. The members played until nearly midnight. The prizes awarded were as follows: Smoking jacket, silk umbrella, watch fob and meerschaum cigar holder.

Atlanta, Ga.—The Atlanta Retail Grocers' Association gave a smoker to all grocers and butchers of that city, members and non-members, on November 9th. The smoker was largely attended and the occasion very enjoyable. The Association has now fully 90 per cent of the available merchants as members.

Toledo, O. Members of the Association are complaining of retailing by the wholesalers. This matter came up once before and was stopped by the wholesalers when the retail grocers took action. It would seem as if the salesmen were again getting more anxious to do business than to protect their customers.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. reports:

"There is little doing in the coffee market as everybody is waiting until after the annual stock taking before they lay in new stock.

"Reports from Guatamala are to the effect that the crop up to the 2000 foot level will be all picked by the end of the month; that from a higher level will not be harvested until about February.

Mr. W. P. Powell, minister to Hayti, reports:

"Hayti's crop of coffee for the year will be very large, estimated to be over 75,000,000 pounds. This exceeds the last year's crop by about 30,000,000 pounds, but does not reach that of 1903, which was over 100,000,000 pounds. That, however, was considered a phenomenal crop. Added to this, the cacao crop for the year has been very large, much greater than that of the preceding year.

All the coffee that is produced here, as I have stated in previous dispatches, is sent to Europe, and as the price is very much better than that of last year, the country will reap the benefit of the same.

"The rains, which have been very severe in all sections of the republic for the past week, may reduce this estimate to a slight degree, but it is thought that the crop is in such an advanced state that it was not injured."

New York, November 27—G. S. Kutz, in reviewing the position of coffee, says: "The timidity and heaviness resulting from the liquidation and gradual adjustment of a large long interest for December delivery is evidently on the verge of disappearance and about to give way to a feeling of confidence in the future course of the market. A feeling amply justified by the general situation of the article. Among a number of causes making for improvement particular mention should be made of the small stocks at seaports in Europe, very scant supplies in the interior and increasing deliveries in this country. The interior of the United States has been buying sparingly, from hand to mouth as it were, during recent months, but is already showing a better demand and will become a liberal purchaser the moment prices begin to show an advancing tendency. Regarding European stocks F. Metz & Co., a well known Havre firm, in a circular of recent date, have this to say regarding the phenomenal decrease of stocks of Brazil coffee: On Jan. 1, 1904 stocks in Europe amounted to 6,420,000 bags, thus showing a decrease of 3,065,000 within the comparatively short space of 21 months. In this connection it may also be observed that the total visible supply of the world of all kinds of coffee on the 1st of November, 1905, amounts to 13,006,841 bags, as against 14,350,926 bags at the same time last year."

TEA.

New York, November 28th—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"Brokers both in an invoice and in a line way report a quiet market, the jobbing trade not being disposed at this week of the year to give attention to tea purchases, as their interests are diverted more particularly to the fancy grocery line. The strictly importing jobbing tea houses, however, are continually in the market, but prices seem to be above the views of most of the buyers.

New Crop Green Teas have shown such a considerable advance that most buyers feel disposed to wait until they are forced to buy before paying the market rates. This condition also exists with low grade Japans and Japan Tea Dust, and undoubtedly after the turn of the year, when all importations have arrived, a very much stronger condition will exist and full prices will be paid.

"Tea stocks seem to be held in strong hands and sellers express full confidence in the stability of the market. No cables from abroad would lead one to suppose there were any changes in prices or accumulation of stock."

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. say:

"The market is very firm, with an upward tendency on Japs and Fancy Carolina.

"Honolulu Rice.—The market is up 15c per 100 lbs. again on this rice, and will go higher. It is strange that the retail trade do not buy this rice more liberally when it is a fact that the cooking qualities are superior to the fancy Carolina Rice. It was only a few years ago when this rice was used exclusively by the American trade on the Coast."

New York, Nov. 28th, 1905—Talmage's Son's Co. report:

Market for the week has been rather quiet, nevertheless sales for the month just closing are ahead of any equal period since 1901. Assortments are in true better shape, although there is somewhat scanty supply of Honduras grades ranging from 4c to 5c. The same is true of screenings and broken styles 3c to 4c. Prime to choice grades are more plentiful. Prices on these are firmly held. Strictly fancy sorts are quickly absorbed when offering, prices being full, when quality demanded is satisfactory. Japans are in fair supply and held firmly at prices which are, at the moment, an item below relative value at primary points.

Advices from the South note good demand on the Atlantic Coast, with strong market. At New Orleans the week opens with very strong tone. Millers are not in a very thankful frame of mind, as they claim current prices of cleaned do not give them "a new dollar for an old one" paid out for rough rice and expenses, yet the demand is sufficient to take turn-out of mills daily and is eager enough to submit to the constant advance.

In the interior—Southwest Louisiana and Texas—there is a good demand for rough at firm prices. Values placed on Cleaned reflect the advances in rough. The movement of holiday commodities has taxed transportation facilities to the uttermost and interfered with the free movement of rice.

Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm markets, both spot and forward.

Talmage, New Orleans, telegraphs Louisiana crop movement to date: Receipts, rough, 791,413 sacks; last year, 1,063,008 sacks. Sales, cleaned, estimated 620,472 pockets, last year, 629,717 pockets. Market very strong.

Talmage, Charleston, telegraphs Carolina crop movement to date: Receipts, 14,292 barrels. Sales, 11,611 barrels. Market strong.

Consul Sharp, of Kobe, Japan, reports:

"The prospects for the rice crop in this consular district, which were very unfavorable earlier in the season, have much improved. In the prefecture of Hiogo it is officially estimated that the crop will be 10,515,160 bushels, a decrease of 3.9 per cent as compared with the unusually large crop of 10,975,170 bushels last year, but slightly more than the average yield of this prefecture, which is reckoned at 10,139,577 bushels. Similar figures for the other prefectures in this district are not available, but the official estimate for the crop of the whole country is 204,344,370 bushels, 19.9 per cent less than the total yield last year, and about 7 per cent less than the normal crop. As most of the important rice-growing regions of Japan are in this consular district, this estimate may fairly be taken as a general indication of the situation in the district as well."

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"Martins Cheese is firm at present quotations, with prospect of an advance of 1c per pound in the near future. There is no chance of a decline before June, 1906, when new Cheese comes to market."

SALMON.

Astoria, Ore.—Deputy Fish Warden Webster, who has returned from a trip to the various fisheries along the Oregon Coast, says that, despite the reports sent out early in the season regarding the immense runs of fish at those points, the pack will be far behind that of last year. It is true, he says, that when the season first opened there was a good run of salmon, but it continued for a few days only, and since then fish have been very slack. In Coos Bay nothing has been done; at Coquille the average will be about the same as last season, while at Umpqua only a fair pack has been put up. On the Siuslaw the pack is not more than half that of last season, and at Alsea practically the same condition prevails. At Yaquina the pack is fully one-third short, and the cannery at Siletz is far behind. Nestucca appears to have been more fortunate than the other points, and will have an average pack, but at Tillamook the season was almost a failure, and Nehalem will be below the average. Mr. Webster says that a strange feature of the coast fishing this season is the increased number of chinook salmon, which were more plentiful than ever before, especially in the Alsea River.

New York, December 5th.—Salmon strong and steady. Good demand for pinks, which are selling, spot, for 5½d.

Boston.—The New England Grocer says:

"The salmon market continues to show improvement, and there never was a time in the history of the business when so much Alaska salmon was being consumed as at the present time. This is brought about largely by the exceedingly low prices.

"A prominent brokerage concern which is in close touch with the canned salmon interests on the Coast, predicts an advance of 25c per dozen on red Alaska salmon before July 1 next."

FISH.

New York, December 1st.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Irish Mackerel.—"The storms prevailing on the British coast have prevented the curing of Mackerel, and prices have therefore taken an upward turn. Most lots of good Irish Mackerel of desirable size, which are here in receivers' hands, are now limited to higher prices.

Norway Mackerel.—There is hardly any left in Norway for shipment. Stocks are held in very few places and very firm hands, and they are not sellers, but waiting for higher prices, which are expected to rule, especially on the larger fish. The demand for the small Norway Mackerel has been exceptionally good, and continues so because the Norway small Mackerel are so very much superior to the Irish fish and comparatively cheaper.

Imported Sardines.—There is no change, except that French packers have all advanced their prices, stocks being very much reduced. From Portugal there is some small fish coming, but it is selling very nicely, as stocks of small fish had been almost entirely cleared.

Sprats.—In France the catch is finished and short, and prices are higher; elsewhere Sprats are being caught, but prices are higher than last season. The demand for Sprats continues exceptionally good for this time of the year.

In Norway the packers of smoked Sardines have formed a combination and advanced prices, and have advised the trade that further advances will follow.

CORN.

Baltimore, November 24th.—The Trade says:

"Corn is probably in little better request, and correspondingly in a little better price. Well-informed parties say that an immense amount of corn has been passed to the retailer and is going rapidly into consumption among the people. Our reports lend color to the belief that the weakness in the Northwest has passed and that corn has seen its lowest price on the pack of 1905, and that it will quietly and steadily improve in value from now until next pack."

New York, November 22d:

"The market is a shade more active, but without change of values. Moreover, no large lots are changing hands. Even at the inside quotations buyers are so critical as to quality that it is

U. S. Government Inspected.
For Quality, Unsurpassed.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY
SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

extremely difficult to do business. The situation as to supplies and general values remains substantially unchanged. There is, however, a better feeling in the market and business promises to improve."

TOMATOES.

New York, December 2d.—Tomatoes are firmer, there being less selling pressure at inside prices; bids of 85 cents, factory, turned down.

Baltimore, November 24th.—Trade says:

"Tomatoes are perhaps a little weaker, 90c to 95c being the quotations for regular No. 3 standard tomatoes, but the situation in respect to them has not altered. There are some parties who expect to see the repetition this year of the situation of three years ago, when tomatoes went up as high as $1.60 per dozen, going first at $1.25 and then jumping rapidly to higher figures. We do not believe in any such development; we do not wish to see it; we think it would be a disadvantage to all tomato packers, and we believe a buoyant and elastic market at the present values of 90c to $1 will give a very much better result in 1906 than would higher figures. One of the peculiarities of this season is the boom that has been given by some kind of circumstances to buyers' labels. In nearly all cases the largest and most reputable packers are catering to the force that holds the best goods for buyers' labels and quotes the house goods at a little less rates."

CRANBERRIES.

Philadelphia, December 1st.—Cranberries are scarce and high, with indications pointing to a further upward movement. Joseph Wilkinson, who is generally considered authority on cranberries, says:

"Cranberries are more active than for the past two weeks. Supplies are the lightest ever known at this season of the year. Steamers coming from Cape Cod are bringing from 75 to 100 barrels, where in former years the usual quantity was from 500 to 700 barrels. Receipts of Jersey berries are practically over, and I do not look for lower prices during the remainder of the year, or until after the holiday demand is over. By that time the very limited quantity remaining on the market will go at very high prices."

The firm of C. Wilkinson's Sons is one of the largest distributors of cranberries in the country.

APPLES.

Julian.—Fears that the apple crop—such of it as remained upon the trees—had been ruined, have been set at rest. The alternating snow and thaw have done no damage except dropping a few apples to the ground.

Santa Rosa.—Wetmore Bros., who own large apple orchards in Western Sonoma, near Stewart's Point and Annapolis, report the crop for this year to be 10,000 boxes. They ship their fruit abroad, and it goes to China, Japan, Australia and other countries. Wetmore Bros. also dry a large quantity of apples.

Fortuna.—The task of packing and shipping apples in this valley is now at its very height and will probably continue through the next six weeks. The apple crop, not only in this valley but throughout Humboldt County, has been an exceptionally good one this year.

Cove, Ore.—The Henningsen Produce Company of Butte, represented by R. W. Stevens, purchased nine cars of apples in the vicinity of Cove recently, for which $725 a car was paid, or a total of $6,525. Many of the Cove apples were sold to the Oregon Produce Company at La Grande; and while the crop was considerable short of last year, the apples are of unusual good quality and are bringing the best of prices.

APRICOTS.

Hemet.—Last week the Hemet Deciduous Fruit Association sold 40 tons of dried apricots. The price was $8.50 per 100 pounds. The sale was made to a Los Angeles firm. Some time ago the association shipped two cars of pits at $7 a ton. A small lot of whole cots was sold at $3.26 per 100 pounds.

PEACHES.

Dried peaches sell at quotations as quickly as offered. The market is nearly bare of them.

New York, December 2d.—Peaches and apricots are quiet, but firm.

PRUNES.

New York, December 2d.—Prunes are firm. There is a fair demand for small lots of spot 40s in 25 pound boxes at 7 cents; 50s at 6¼ to 6⅜ cents.

RAISINS.

Fresno, December 5th.—The combine among the raisin growers is very badly disturbed. M. Theo. Kearney, backed by the Democrat of this city, is using every influence to make the combine ineffective. The result is that the market is very badly upset.

Fresno.—Vice President Tarpey of the Raisin Growers' Company, in speaking of the troubles of the company, says: "There were two great difficulties in our way from the start. One was the inherent weakness in the fact that we did not control enough of the crop to make our position effective. Another was the dread of what would occur when Mr. Kearney came home. With Mr. Kearney in the equation, and under present conditions, I see nothing to do but to secure all the money we can for the growers." "And abandon all organization?" was asked. "No, not necessarily that. I presume the growers will pass on that part of the question at the meeting on the 18th." "Then what should be done?" "The grower wants money, and we want to secure as much for him as possible. The raisins already sold have brought a good price, and there is no danger but what we could obtain fair price for the remainder, so that the average will be good. We are not willing to sacrifice the goods, and that is all Mr. Kearney has to propose." "Do you think that Mr. Kearney's plan is to cut the prices?" "It cannot well be anything else—probably a proposition to sell the goods in a block. Now, we could have slaughtered prices and sold the goods and created a sensation before this had we so desired. Of course, Mr. Kearney's position in asking to be given absolute control is something that we could not consider. If he is to be given that power the rest of us will not stay."

New York, December 2d.—California raisins are dull; imported raisins easy.

FIGS.

New York, December 2d.—Figs are firm.

NUTS.

Arroyo Grande, Calif.—The J. K. Armsby Company have purchased 34 tons of walnuts from the growers of this valley, paying from 10c to 11c per pound for them.

Santa Ana.—The last of the walnuts of the Santa Ana Valley Walnut Growers' Association are being received at the local packing house. Shipments for this year will aggregate 40 cars, one-third less than for last year. Growers who have been holding back their crops on account of the rains are now rushing in the last pickings.

Chicago.—Information received here from various sections indicates that the crop of nuts this season is unmistakably short. Several firms say they are unable to get enough nuts to supply their trade, although good prices are being paid.

New York, December 2nd.—Tarragona almonds are scarce and higher at 12½ cents. Grenable walnuts are easy at 13 cents.

CHILI PEPPERS.

Hollister.—Ball & Abbe of San Juan have sold their crop of chili peppers to San Francisco merchants for 17½c a pound, dried, and have started a crew to work dying them in Flint's steam drier.

OLIVES.

Wieland Bros. say:

"Prices of Spanish Queen and Manzanilla Olives are constantly advancing, owing to short crop in Spain this year."

Redlands.—The olive crop this year promises to equal if not exceed that of past years, and it is quite probable that about 400 tons will be handled in this county. Of this amount J. C. Kubias will produce about 300 tons.

Wildomar.—J. R. White shipped the first car of olives going out of Wildomar this season, receiving $65 per ton. They were consigned to C. P. Grogan, Los Angeles. Mr. White will have about four cars.

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. say:

"Luring the past week the market has quieted down on some varieties of beans, the immediate demand evidently having been supplied with the heavy purchases that preceded it. In a measure this has led to lower quotations on Lima Beans than were prevailing a few days earlier, and while no other varieties were affected in their values, as yet, it may be that one or two other varieties will feel the effect of less inquiry.

"The firmest on the list to-day are still White Beans. We estimate that we did not have more than half a crop of White Beans in this State, and it is probably reasonable to assume that all of them will be wanted before anew crop, and that consequently prices may be expected to gradually harden.

"We consider the weakness in Limas only a temporary one, and confidently expect higher prices to rule before long, even if there should be a decline at ...t.

"Pink Beans have been finding a good market, and are still bought at full market rates. Arrivals should soon be down to the minimum, and with the likelihood of a good demand for this variety, prices should not go lower. We consider Pink Beans safe at present prices.

"Bayos are quiet. Prices are fairly well maintained. The minor varieties show no material fluctuations. A little more firmness in Red Kidney Beans, which are now exhibiting a tendency to advance."

New York, November 27th.—In the list of California products the most active during the past week has been dried Lima Beans. The movement is the result of actual consuming requirements, the supplying of which has been deferred in the expectation of a reaction in the market. On this point a well informed dealer said on Saturday: "Buyers seem to have discovered that they were entirely wrong in following the kind of information which has been put out by local authorities who were interested in circulating bearing reports. The confusion resulting from such statements is now disappearing in the face of free buying on the part of the largest handler of Lima Beans at prices which were considered to be too high a day or two ago by the bears. Bids of 3.85c f. o. b. Coast have been freely made, and that price has been paid for November-December shipment or for stock in transit."

The strongest interest is quoting 4c f. o. b., while smaller shippers who were mentioned early in the season as probably short sellers are now asking 4.10c to 4.25c f. o. b. Among prominent operators it is now accepted as conclusive that with the largest crop on record and the smallest carry-over in ten years the low price of the season has been passed, and that the recent advance of 75c a hundred pounds on the Coast will be maintained as fully warranted, and that a further advance in the near future is not improbable."

HAY.

Somers & Co. report:

"The San Francisco market is exceedingly dull. There is a scarcity of the cheapest grades, owing to the fact that much of same has been disposed of in the country for stock feed. There is also some inquiry for trans-Pacific shipment. A more active inquiry has developed along the California Coast during the past two weeks.

"Owing to the absence of the cheapest grades of hay on the market we quote stock hay higher, with choice grades a bit weaker again.

Choice wheat hay	$14.00 to $15.50
Good grades, same	11.00 to 13.50
Other grades wheat	8.00 to 10.50
Wheat and oat	9.00 to 12.50
Tame oat	8.00 to 12.00
Wild oat	7.00 to 9.00
Stock hay	7.00 to 7.50
Alfalfa	7.00 to 10.50
Straw, per bale	.30 to .65

NEW ORLEANS WANTS IT.

The Advocate is in receipt this week of a letter from the Grocers' Association of New Orleans in which they tell why they think the National Retail Grocers' Association should meet at New Orleans in 1907. Their communication gives many interesting statistics as to its population, its tax rate, birth rate, etc., and also declares that New Orleans is the healthiest city in the United States.

While the Advocate does not question the fact that all these things are true, we feel that New Orleans should be favored as the next convention city because it is a city that every good American citizen will be interested in visiting. The fact of the convention being held at Niagara Falls will give a special reason for many grocers desiring to attend the 1906 convention, just as many delegates were attracted to the convention at San Francisco in 1904 because practically every citizen of this country is interested and wants to visit and know California.

New Orleans is not only of interest because of its present attractiveness but also because of the splendid historical memories that have this Queen City of the South for its center. Its central location will also be another advantage. The citizens of New Orleans have extended an invitation to the National for many years in succession. Each time New Orleans grocers gave way to their sister cities.

The first point to be considered in a convention city should be as to which location will help draw the largest number of delegates. We are satisfied that in this respect New Orleans will prove more favorable than any other of the cities mentioned up to date.

The letter from New Orleans came over the signatures of T. C. King, president; Aug. Koch, vice-president; J. S. Fineran, secretary; C. G. Fletcher, Geo. Long, J. P. Vezien.

VALUABLE AND INTERESTING.

Two Important Contributions to Irrigation Literature Prepared for Free Distribution.

Two pamphlets splendidly illustrated from photographs have just been issued by the Southern Pacific Co. They deal with irrigation and its result as applied to California.

The first is an address made by Mr. J. B. Lippincott, supervising engineer Reclamation Service, United States Geological Survey, before the Irrigation Committees of the Senate and House of Representatives. This is of much value, coming as it does from an expert after the most careful investigation of the Sacramento Valley, its soil, possibilities, and water sources, the opportunity for storage reservoirs, and the results which would flow from putting water on the land.

The second is a reprint of an article on "Irrigated Agriculture" by Professor Samuel Fortier, in charge of the Pacific district of the irrigation and drainage investigations, United States Department of Agriculture. It is a careful, expert estimate of the land in California available for irrigation, the streams which can be utilized, the need of industrious and intelligent settlers, the cost of preparing the land for irrigation, the errors made by beginners, such as the use of too much water, the value of pumping plants, and a conservative estimate of the results which may be expected from a judicious use of water, judged by what has already been accomplished.

A perusal of these two booklets will be helpful to anyone who is thinking of coming to California to engage in farming.

Copies can be had for the asking by any one who sends 1 cent postage for each to the Advertising Bureau, Southern Pacific, 131 California street, San Francisco, Cal.

Hamilton, O.—S. Kriegenhofer, who has been in the grocery business for twenty years and is now president of the Retail Grocers' Association, is candidate for re-election as City Treasurer.

Cigars and Tobacco

Sol Hamburger of A. Santaella & Co., is expected to visit this city in January.

A general strike is in progress in the cigar factories of Key West.

The American Tobacco Company has just paid a regular dividend of 2½ per cent and an extra dividend of 10 per cent on the common stock.

The tobacco trust is completing plans to open a factory in Newport News for the manufacture of cigars, cigarettes, smoking and chewing tobacco.

A number of Portland, Or., cigar dealers have been fined up to $25 a piece for selling tobacco to boys under 18 years of age.

Competition is very active for the supply of cigarettes in Manchuria, between the Japanese tobacco monopoly and the British-American Tobacco Co., who have a factory at Shanghai.

Chicago, Nov. 20—Arrangements are already being perfected for the annual convention of the Cigar Dealers' Association of America, to be held early in January. At the regular meeting of the Executive Committee of the C. D. A. of A., Thursday, the matter of the national convention was discussed at length, and Secretary Leopold was instructed to write letters to the directors urging them to be present, and to the secretaries of the local associations, asking them to take the matter up at the earliest opportunity and to arrange to send a full delegation to the convention.

The many friends and patrons of Rinaldo Bros. & Co., cigar dealers, will learn with interest that they have consolidated their two stores. They have vacated their old quarters at Battery and Sacramento streets, and have moved their wholesale business into their retail store at No. 7 Montgomery street. Their new store runs through from Montgomery street to Lick place and their facilities for showing their goods to advantage are unequalled in this State or elsewhere. In addition to the fine line of cigars, pipes and smokers' articles of all descriptions to be found in the retail department, there will be shown a special selected stock of tobacco mixtures of all varieties for pipe and cigarette.

San Francisco has been captured by an advance guard of the Rough Riders. In a squad of three, mounted on prancing black chargers, they parade up and down the principal streets all day long a bugler at their head sounding the regular military calls. A beautiful silken banner which they carry aloft proclaims the glad intelligence that the Rough Riders cigars are always at the front, and are a truly enjoyable smoke. This is not the first invasion of these mounted bearers of cheerful news to the smokers of San Francisco. A lone rough rider in kaikki uniform visited San Francisco last year and the sales of this superior nickel cigar went up by leaps and bounds, and in a few months had increased four-fold. Now that three men proclaim the virtues of this cigar, even greater results may be expected.

Chicago, Nov. 21—The fact that the National Cigar Stands Co., which proposes to corner the cigar trade of a large proportion of the drug store cigar business of the country, has made its entrance into Chicago through the Public Drug Co., 150 State street, has excited considerable interest in the local trade. If the method of operation of the company is only as stated in the advertisements which have made their appearance in the drug journals and by Stephen Hexter, president of the Public Drug Co., the plans of this new ally of the tobacco trust are less comprehensive than local dealers had supposed. The idea which obtained here when the company was formed in the East was that the new corporation intended leasing the cigar privileges of drug stores and running the stands themselves. This is not the idea, according to Mr. Hexter.

EHRMAN BROS. & CO.,
S. F. Distributers.

EXAMPLES OF PRICE CUTTING.

If dealers were avowedly out to ruin each other's business they couldn't go at it any more certainly than they are doing in the price cutting which is going on. For example, a certain brand of smoking tobacco, which is one of the heaviest sellers in the New York market, is being cut by one or more retail distributors.

Price cutting comes up as regularly as the sun and somebody suffers. Distributors say that the difficulty is manufacturers have not been willing, recently, to do what they formerly did in helping the distributor to advertise and push the goods. It is the old story of seeking business by asking distributors to do all the work, is what the distributors say.

On the other hand manufacturers declare that they are giving all they can under the circumstances and declare that distributors should be willing to do more than they do now. It is an old controversy and represents the situation as it exists now. The market is badly cut up.—Tobacco.

SPAINS TOBACCO MONOPOLY.

In connection with the Philippine tobacco statistics, presented in another dispatch, it is interesting to note that the Department of Commerce and Labor has received the Spanish statistics on the same subject which are given for 1902-03-04, as follows:

1902—14,602,992 pounds, valued at $578,525.

1903—12,664,151 pounds, valued at $545,729.

1904—14,605,090 pounds, valued at $777,365.

The statement also shows that while the tobacco monopoly controls the larger part of the tobacco trade of Spain, considerable is imported by other parties.

In 1904 the monopoly imported 25,283,983 kilograms of leaf tobacco, valued at $4,990,652, gold. During the same period 54,746 kilograms of cigars, valued at $273,730 gold, were imported by the monopoly, the majority coming from Cuba. Cigarettes were imported by the monopoly to the amount of 1363 kilograms valued at $2726 in 1904.

Machinery to the value of $18,062 was imported for use by the monopoly from the United States and Great Britain in 1904. The total imports of the monopoly, including leaf tobacco, manufactures and machinery, was $5,285,170. Independent firms doing business in Spain imported during the year 1904 manufactured tobacco in its various forms to the value of $37 342, divided as follows: 7,082 kilograms of cigars, valued at $35,430; 256 kilograms of cigars, valued at $35,430; 256 kilograms of cigarettes valued at $512, and 710 kilograms of cut tobacco valued at $1400.—U. S. Tobacco Journal.

ADVICE TO SMOKERS.

"More smokers contract consumption from neglecting an ordinary precaution than from inhaling smoke," declared a physician at a banquet a few evenings ago. "None of us cares to infect the lungs with ordinary street dust, yet nearly every consumer of cigars inhales a more detrimental kind of dust every time he lights a fresh specimen.

"The majority of cigars have short interior fillings which contain lots of small particles of tobacco dust. Especially is this so of cigars that are handled a great deal, and of those that become very dry from age.

"The ordinary smoker bites or cuts off the end, and draws this dust into his lungs with the first puff. Often it only lodges in the throat, and produces irritation or horaseness, with which most smokers are afflicted.

"A safe precaution against such dangers is very simple. Before lighting the cigar merely blow through it, and you will see issuing from the large end the dust particles I refer to."

THE ST. LOUIS ORDINANCE.

The ordinance which the St. Louis grocers are seeking to have passed to restrain trading stamp companies is as follows:

An ordinance providing for the licensing of dealers in trading stamps, fixing the amount of such license, and the penalty for the violation thereof.

Be It Ordained, by the Municipal Assembly of the City of St. Louis, as follows:

Section 1. Every person engaged in the business of selling trading stamps to merchants or dealers shall be subject to pay a license to the city of St. Louis.

Section 2. There shall be levied and collected on every such license granted under this article the sum of one thousand dollars before the delivery thereof. Each license shall also show plainly the time when it shall expire.

Section 3. No license shall be granted under this article until the person applying therefore shall have filed with the license commissioner a bond with two or more good and sufficient securities, to be approved by the license commissioner, in the sum of one thousand dollars, to the effect that the said person applying therefor will refund to the merchant or dealer purchasing trading stamps, the money paid to said person applying for said license, for any trading stamps remaining unused, and in the possession of such merchant or dealer after said unused trading stamps shall have been in the possession of said dealer or merchant for a period of six months from the date of sale thereof.

Section 4. Every person violating the provisions of this article shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor and on conviction thereof shall be fined not less than two hundred and fifty dollars nor more than five hundred dollars.

News of the Coast.

CALIFORNIA.

San Francisco—Michael P. Furlong, the clerk who is accused of robbing his employer, J. H. Drewes grocer, at Twenty-eighth and Dolores streets, was recently arraigned before Judge Morgan on a charge of petty larceny. Furlong told the police that a masked man held him up in the store on the night of November 22d, and robbed the till of $50. A little investigation convinced the police that the robber existed only in the imagination of Furlong, and his own arrest quickly followed.

To the rear is the big model order department in its new building 50 by 35 feet. The order department is connected with the main store room by a great arch while to the west of this arch is the new electrical weighing department. In this department electrical scales correctly weigh all articles of the sugar, bean, tea, coffee class and they are then done up in neat packages and placed in neat piles for delivery. A brand new bake shop has been built in the basement of the new Goodrich building to the west of the main salesroom. PREMIUMS WITH MATCHES.

The President of the National Retail Grocers' Association, a short time since sent a request to the various match companies requesting the discontinuance of premiums and free deal methods. Among the answers received were the following:

Indiana Match Company, Crawfordsville, Ind.—"We have in use coupons only with two of our brands and those we expect to discontinue as soon as we use up the stock now on hand. We wish your Association would take up the matter of the free deals in the match trade. They result in the merchant overloading himself in stock of one kind, namely, matches. He cannot meet his bills as promptly for other goods and often has to ask his jobber for an extension of time on account of these matters."

Union Match Company, Duluth, Minn.—"We are at present giving premiums with our matches, but are perfectly willing to work in harmony with the National Association of Retail Grocers and the different State Associations. When they request us to discontinue the giving away of same, we would be very glad to do so. We are working hard to get the support of the retail grocers throughout the country and they will always find us willing and glad to do everything in our power to please them."

Ohio Match Company, Wadsworth, O.—"This company is not giving premiums in any form. We look upon prize giving by the manufacturer as an imposition upon the retailer and a fraud upon the public."

Strohmeyer & Arpe Company, New York, N. Y.—"We have never given premiums in any way or shape for the sale of our Viking brand of safety matches and will not begin to do so now."

Modern Match Company, Detroit, Mich.—"We have never offered any premiums with our goods. We neither countenance the idea or approve of the method. We always considered the trading stamp and premium business to be a nuisance to the trade."

Diamond Match Company, New York—"We have respected the wishes of the National Retail Grocers' Association by discontinuing all premiums on our goods because we believe premiums are demoralizing both to the quality of the goods and to the profits of the retailers."

Reliable Match Company, Ashland, O.—"We can get all the business we want without giving premiums. We consider it a very poor policy to offer such inducements to the consumer."

Shaw Match Company, Cincinnati, O.—"We are not running any premiums on matches."

CREDIT MEN DINE.

J. R. Newberry Sketches Business Follies in After-dinner Talk to Fifty-five Members.

Fifty-five members of the Los Angeles Credit Men's Association sat down together on the evening of November 23d at the Bristol, and after a hearty dinner, discussed the various phases of wholesale and retail business in an informal way.

The feature of the evening was a talk by J. R. Newberry, who chose as his subject, "A Retailer's Conception of a Credit Men's Association." As Mr. Newberry confronted a long rank of wholesalers his attack on certain methods of procedure elicited sharp replies.

His speech was not all of purely trade interest, for in it he took up and discussed, by way of illustration, several important facts which deal with the business conditions of today.

"The way the grocery business is run," said Mr. Newberry, "is one of the remarkable things of the age. The wonder is not that it is prosperous, but that it has survived. On present lines the grocery trade exists only because it has to. As long as humanity survives there will be grocery stores—that is our one feature of salvation.

"Another thing which faces us is the cost of getting products from the factory to the mouth of the consumer. According to one prominent tradesman, it is just 60 per cent at the present time. This figure is enormous, useless and extravagant beyond all reason. I tell you in all seriousness there are going to be ways and means to cut that squarely in two—to make it 30 per cent or less.

"When there is superfluous publicity, the consumer, and not the retailer or the wholesaler, pays the difference. A prominent cereal product factory, it is said, boasts that in the past few years it has spent $4,000,000 in advertising. They sell a package of a few ounces of wheat product for 15 cents. That wheat costs them 80 cents per bushel, and on that bushel they are getting back $16 for what cost them less than $1. As I said the consumer you and other men pay their awful advertising bill.

"Shall the business of the future be dominated by brains or printer's ink? Useless waste of money in frivolous advertising is bound to meet a reversal of opinion in business circles. A short time ago I was talking to a prominent manufacturer, who confessed that he had paid $2500 for a single page in one issue of a magazine. He said to me: 'The moment I signed that contract I felt like a fool, and I've never been able to reconcile that performance with reason.'"

LIQUID COFFEE.

Initial Steps Taken Towards Manufacturing It at Vallejo.

Citizens of Vallejo have contributed a site for the Palmer Liquid Coffee Co. This company proposes to establish factories for making its own glass bottles, metal taps, boxes, barrels and paper cartons In an address delivered before the "Twenty Thousand Club" of Vallejo, Mr. Palmer, the president of the company, stated that his company proposed to extract from the roasted coffee bean, in condensed form, all of its soluble matter without the loss of a particle of the aroma or any of its tonic, stimulating, nervine or nutrient virtues. He also stated that he had made numerous demonstrations of his product before the highest officers of the U. S. army and that in every case these officers had indorsed its value as an army ration. As a result, he assured his hearers, that he had received intimations from the commissary department that his condensed coffee would be placed upon the emergency ration list whenever his company could guarantee the supply.

The condensed coffee will be packed in hermetically sealed packages. It requires only the addition of twenty times its bulk of water, which may be either hot or cold, to produce a cup of strong, fragrant coffee. In his address, Mr. Palmer stated that his company had established the commercial value of his process and that his condensed coffee possessed the following points:

It is pure coffee, ready-to-drink.

It dispenses with the use of a coffee pot.

It contains all the aroma, flavor, strength, color and richness, in exact proportion, as is found in the roasted coffee berry.

It costs less to use than the raw coffee.

It obviates waste and uncleanliness

It eliminates the troubles and uncertainties incident to the brewing of good coffee.

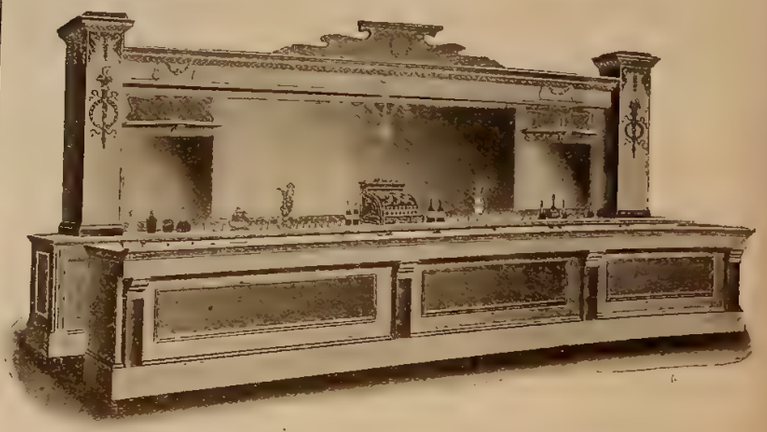
It is more delicious than coffee produced in the kitchen.

It saves time, labor and expense in coffee-making.

There being no excess of tannin, it is more healthful than the ordinary coffee beverage.

It will be found palatable and wholesome by invalids, and those who cannot use the coffee pot article.

It is put up in compact, convenient and portable form.



It can be packed in less than one-fourth the space required by the roasted coffee bean.

It will keep fresh and unimpaired in quality in any climate, for years.

As, during the processes in which it is perfected and up to the time it is turned into a beverage by the consumer, it does not come in contact with the atmosphere or human hands, its intrinsic value as a pure food product, which is absolutely clean and free from germs, cannot be overestimated.

Referring to what might happen in the event that the large speculative holders of tomatoes should suddenly decide to let go, the Chicago Canner says. "In our judgment such an eventuality is hardly worth a thought, for the 'syndicate' is vastly better 'heeled' than any group of men that ever attempted to make or add to a pile of purely speculative operations in tomatoes, and the 'syndicate' is also by all odds easily the best managed set that ever courted fortune through the medium of the festive tomato. Notwithstanding that weather and almost everything helped them, that luck seemed to tag onto their coat-tails, they have shown the best generalishp ever witnessed in this particular field, hence it doesn't seem reasonable to suppose they, when in control, would suddenly let go and offer their tomatoes here, there and everywhere."

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

"Shadows on the Hearth" is doing well this week and will be followed at the Sunday matinee by "At the Old Cross Roads." This will be the last week of the James Brophy and Estha Williams company at the Grand Nance O'Neil has arrived from Australia. She will reappear after a three years' absence at the Grand on Monday evening in Suderman's 'Fires of St. John." This is new to San Franciscans but Miss O'Neil is said to have made a great hit in it in Boston and in Australia.

ALCAZAR.

Next week at the Alcazar will be one of the most notable in any San Francisco theatre during the present season. It not only gives us the first local production of a famous international comedy sensation, 'The Secret of Polichinelle," but brings back that distinguished and favorite actor Geo. Osbourne, after a year spent in travel abroad. There is no finer character actor in America than George Osbourne. His gallery of exquisitely-shaded characterizations is worthy of even so great a player as Coquelin. In "The Secret of Polichinelle," Mr. Osbourne will personate the blustering, irascible, but tender hearted old Frenchman, Jouvenal, whose wrath over the secret marriage of his son is overcome by a great love for his little grandson. The comedy is based upon the French law forbidding the marriage of children of either sex, under the age of twenty-five, without the consent of both parents, and also refusing to legalize such marriages if contracted in other countries by French subjects.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

The Neills returned to the Majestic this week, where they were enthusiastically received by their many friends. They appear this week in "The Private Secretary." This old time Gillette farce goes with a whirl. James Neill is particularly funny in the role of the Rev. Robert Spaulding and Mrs. Neill makes a delightfully meek and unsophisticated Mrs. Spaulding. The other parts are all well cast.

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"Rob Roy" has been revived at this theatre, where it is being given one of the finest productions ever seen in San Francisco. Several new people appear in this production. Eunice Drake does well as the Captain, Arthur Cunningham is the Rob Roy and Cora Tracy appears as Flora MacDonald. Throughout the cast is even and serves to please the Tivoli patrons.

ALHAMBRA THEATRE.

"After Midnight" is being given a magnificent scenic production at this theatre. Herschel Mayall, Edna Ellsmere and the other members of the cast all have good roles. Next week will be given Count Tolstoi's powerful play, 'The Resurrection," which is a vivid story of the persecution of the people of Russia.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

"New London Gaiety Girls" are the attraction at this theatre this week. Pat White, a comedian, is at the head of the company and the program is replete with names of people well known in vaudeville and extravaganza. A feature of the performance is the excellent chorus, which is very attractive.

FISCHER'S.

The "Telephone Girl" still holds the boards at this house. New songs and specialties are introduced every week. There is one performance each evening on account of the length of the program, the first part of which is made up of vaudeville headliners. There is also a matinee each afternoon.

CHUTES.

The program at the big free theatre at the Chutes is made up as usual of high class specialty acts, consisting of Princess Trixie, the educated horse; Henderson and Ross, singers and dancers, and a boxing kangaroo. Bothwell Browne's Gaiety Girls present "Twirly Whirly." There are new pictures on the bioscope. This program, together with the diving elks, the circle swing etc., tend to attract large crowds to this great pleasure ground.

The retail grocer can best meet the competition of rabid cutters, trading stamp givers and other obstructive and radical dealers, by selling goods of quality and rendering the very best service of which the store is capable. That means a neat and attractive store, whether large or small. It means civility, courtesy, honesty, promptness between the customers and all the store force. The retailer who follows such a policy can laugh at the trade cutter, the pirate, the department store, the chain stores and the trading stamp premium.—American Grocer, N. Y.

HIS PRAYERS ANSWERED.

In the course of a letter to the editor of the Advocate, George R. Young of Pepperwood says:

"I hope our friend Joe Stulz is elected. Give him my best regards.

"Times are just about the same here. Young's Store is the place to buy your groceries and fine Humboldt apples and, in fact, everything the farmers need. Give my regards to my friends in Oakland when you go over."

Clerk's Corner

Best Place to Begin.

"The position of the stock boy is the best possible place for a boy to start in to work up with a big firm. The best place for him to start to learn merchandising." This is the verdict of the head of a great store when questioned in regard to the stock boy's chances, says Minneapolis Commercial Bulletin. It is interesting to know that there is one place in a large mercantile enterprise that is best for a starting point in an upward climb. It is also interesting to know that this place is at the lowest round of the ladder, accessible to any boy over 16 years of age. The old rule still holds good according to this store manager. "Begin at the bottom and work up." "Begin as stock boy and you will work up if you are of the right kind. More of the best employes in this store have started in as stock boys than in any other place. The chances there are best for the bright boy." It is the opportunities for learning that constantly are offered him that makes his position an enviable one in a big store or wholesale house.

He is placed where he is in daily and hourly touch with the inmost workings of the store. He is placed where he can learn the goods, their purchase price, selling price, value, quality, origin, and the profit they would yield. He can see how and where a big firm makes money, and this is the best thing a man can know in business.

Natural Line For Promotion.

The next step is a subclership in the stock room. Here the pay is better by a few dollars, the work more pleasant and the opportunities for learning and advancement immeasurably increased. It is here that the upward climb of the stockboy beginner really will begin As a stock boy he is in a position where he can be considered for a promotion only to the post of subclerk. But immediately he has attained to the dignity of this post he is eligible to a dozen different places, for then he has learned enough to fit him for the different branches of the work of selling, buying, keeping, and "knowing" goods.

Here also his chances for showing what is in him are much beter. He will be two, three, or four years older by the time he is a clerk and his business character and personality will have begun to form. His superiors will have a line on him as to what he can, will, and might do and they will treat him accordingly. He is of course still a minor employe, but the fact that he has made the first step up is a good sign. If he was entirely devoid of the stuff that makes good business men or good employes he would not have lasted long enough to take it.

The subclerk soon becomes a full-fledged clerk and after this he is apt to be taken into different departments and different lines of work. He may become a salesman, buyer or what not. His training has been such as to fit him for almost any position in the house with the exception of office positions, and the men above him are always watching for men of the right kind.

NEWBERRY WINS.

J. R. Newberry, the Los Angeles grocer, was arrested recently on a charge of violating the ordinance requiring the exact weight of the contents of each package of butter to be printed on the cover of it. Newberry had printed on his 2-lb. squares of butter "20 ozs. or over" and on his 1-lb. square "12 ozs. or over." It was claimed that this was contrary to the spirit of the law. The court, however, decided that the statements made by Mr. Newberry were statements of fact and did not deceive the public.

WANT STAMPS LICENSED.

St. Louis Merchants Uniting to Fight the Trading Stamp Nuisance.

The Retail Grocers' Association of St. Louis has had prepared an ordinance requiring an annual license of $1000 from trading stamp companies. Already four organizations of business men of St Louis have endorsed the measure. The last organization to act was the North St. Louis Business Men's Association. who passed the following resolutions:

Whereas, It has been called to the attention of this association that a bill to license concerns or individuals selling trading stamps has been introduced in the House of Delegates of the Municipal Assembly of St. Louis by the Hon. Timothy Maloney, and

Whereas, This association feels that trading stamps are of such a character of insecurity that their sale should be hedged about by all possible safeguards to protect alike the people of our city and our retail merchants from dishonesty and trickery of the unreliable who sell these stamps, and

Whereas, One of the leading trading stamp concerns has just departed from the city, leaving behind many unsatisfied claims, be it

Resolved, That the North St. Louis Business Men's Association hereby endorse the bill introduced by Delegate Maloney to require vendors of trading stamps to give a bond of $1,000 and to pay to the city a license and that we pledge our selves to aid and assist in its passage as far as possible.

The Strike and Boycott

Against the Seattle Brewing & Malting Company, Brewers of

"RAINIER BEER"

Has Been Declared Off

The differences between that brewery and its employees having been adjusted to the satisfaction of all parties concerned.

The boycott in San Francisco has likewise been called off.

We, the agents for this beer, wish to take this opportunity to thank our patrons and the public at large for their staunch support during our trouble, and likewise to assure our union friends so far as we are concerned there existed no differences with our employees. Our men and ourselves were the innocent victims of circumstances; the strike here being merely a sympathetic one.

We also wish to assure the public that the well-known standard of quality of

Points to Watch

SUGAR—
The price of raws is advancing in New York.

BEANS—
Read Sinsheimer Bros.' report on the bean market on page 23. It may make you money.

PRUNES—
The market has been firming materially. Strong hands control what is left on the Coast and advances are in order.

DRIED APPLES—
New York advices indicate that the pack this year will not be more than 15 per cent of former years. Prices will probably be higher than they are at present.

CANNED TOMATOES—
Eastern advices report that when the jobbing trade come into the market, after January 1st, that the increased demand will result in still higher prices.

CANNED CORN—
The pack of 1905 was the largest in the history of the business. Low prices have so increased consumption that packers are now beginning to talk advances.

RAISINS—
The combine of raisin growers is practically broken up. The market is upset and it will be some time before there will be any stability. Prices are being cut under recognized figures.

CANNED SALMON—
Authorities state that supplies of cheap salmon are practically exhausted and that the stock of sockeyes is so low that, when the probable small packs of the next three years is considered, present prices are not adequate.

DROPPING TRADE STAMPS.

In St. Louis the grocers have started a crusade against stamps. They are seeking to secure the passage of an ordinance that will make the stamp companies pay a tax of $1000 per year. The "Eli Grocer" states that one of the valuable results of the agitation has been that it has awakened many grocers to the value of organization and has resulted in many merchants dropping stamps.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

Serious Trade Disturbance Caused by Retailers Losing Good Customers Through Wholesalers.

"The wholesalers are to blame." That is what the retail grocers say.

"The retailers are to blame." That is what the wholesalers say.

And both are right.

There is no question about the fact that much first class trade belonging to retail grocers has been taken away from them by wholesalers and manufacturers.

Of course, they have a good excuse.

The big wholesaler looks over the field and sees some of the "small fry" wholesalers (who are three-quarters retailer, anyhow) selling the hotels, restaurants, mines, logging camps, etc., of a town. He says: "As long as this trade isn't going to one of my customers, I might as well have it."

Then he butts in and takes up what he finds lying around, quoting almost the same prices he asks the store keeper, although he knows that in every community, there is at least one store big enough to handle the business.

This looks as if the wholesaler was to blame.

But he isn't so bad as this looks

Is Worth Asking For.

Few men who saw a $20 gold piece lying on the sidewalk would spend much time looking up the owner. They would pick up the coin and feel happy over their good luck.

This is the condition that the wholesaler finds. The $20 is there (in the shape of possible business) and nobody is claiming it. All the retailer would need do, would be to say. "Here, sir, that is mine"

Immediately the reputable wholesaler would say: "Is that so, Mr. Retailer? Well, I'm really glad you told me. Here, take it. Let me see if I can help you pick up a few more"

Of course, there are the "pikers" who, like sneak thieves, are prowling around trying to pick up anything they find loose. These little fellows are likely to "scrap" for the things they have been enjoying through the carelessness of the retailers.

Here comes the greatest blame of the retailers.

Give Them Purchasing Power.

They keep alive these firms who are contemptible competitors for their largest business. From one-half to three-fourths of the purchasing power of these firms comes from the trade given them by retail grocers.

If the retailers traded only with firms big enough to do a straight wholesale business, the purchasing power of these peddling jobbers would be so cut away that they could no longer afford to travel the country competing with the men whom the afterwards sell and thus secure from the retailers themselves the money to pay their expenses in selling to the hotels, restaurants, etc.

Hate to Help Competitors.

The legitimate wholesaler would not be adverse to giving up trade if he knew it would be taken by a man whom he would at least have a chance to sell.

It is not surprising, however, that they do not want to give up trade to have it snapped up by a firm that buys

HELPS THE GROCERS.

Accomplishments That Have Won the Friendship and Respect of the Trade.

Ten years ago a number of the better class of retail grocers of San Francisco started The Grocers' Advocate in order to better trade conditions.

For ten years The Advocate has fought the fight of the retailers without regard to what influence might be in opposition

During the first five years of this time there was a certain element among the very small grocers who, for purely personal reasons, oppose the men at the head of the Retail Grocers' Association. For the same reason they extended a very violent and vicious opposition to The Advocate, which they recognized as the mouthpiece of these better grocers.

In spite of this opposition The Advocate was able to help the larger retail grocers of San Francisco to secure many results.

Through The Advocate interest in association work was engendered through the entire Pacific Coast.

Through The Advocate the grocers of San Francisco were able to unite with the grocers in the interior cities and thus secure the passage of numerous laws that otherwise could not have been received.

Through The Advocate the grocers of San Francisco have secured the cooperation of the grocers in nearly every large city of the Coast so that they can wield a very effective influence with every wholesaler and every manufacturer doing business on the Pacific Slope.

Through The Advocate grocers of San Francisco were shown the possibilities of co-operation in securing effective information concerning people who desired to secure credit and also in the matter of collecting bills and listing people who did not pay their grocery bills.

Through The Advocate grocers were shown how they could buy to as good advantage as their competitors and the first buying exchange was formed.

As a consequence of these accomplishments the retail grocers, not only of San Francisco, but through the entire Pacific Coast, take a personal interest in The Advocate that it would be impossible for them to take in any other publication

As a further consequence The Advocate has secured a circulation among the retail grocers of the Pacific Coast greater than even its most sanguine friends had hoped for in the beginning.

The Advocate to-day has the backing and friendship of practically all the best retail grocers of San Francisco There are a few exceptions to this rule of firms who are opposed to associations and others who oppose the paper for personal reasons.

The Advocate is proud of its enemies These enemies are, in every instance men who either oppose the association movement openly or secretly.

The Advocate has many warm friends among the manufacturers and wholesalers who have profited by its wide circulation and the interest with which grocers read its columns.

The Advocate has some enemies

NATIONAL CONVENTION.

California's Need of Representative in the Great Grocery Gathering at Naigara Falls.

Grocers from every part of the United States will convene at Niagara Falls January 23, 24, and 25. At this meeting there will be an exchange of plans and ideas that will be of great value to association workers all over the United States, if the various associations choose wisely in the matter of delegates.

The California State Grocers' Association should send both its president and its secretary is possible and should at least send its president, Ludwig Warnke, to this convention.

The expenses of a trip to Niagara Falls and return cannot be made under $250. The Alameda County Association, of which Mr. Warnke is a director, cannot afford to meet so heavy an expense The funds of the State Association are not sufficient to warrant paying so large a sum for this purpose.

The Advocate hopes that the grocers of California will feel the necessity and desirability of having a representative at this gathering.

Feeling that this is true, we take this means of presenting the matter to the grocers of the Pacific Coast and take the liberty of opening a subscription list with the idea of securing sufficient funds to meet the expenses of at least one delegate.

There will be much national legislation to be considered by Congress in the next few years.

The grocers must have a central organization to be able to deal with the problems effectively.

The trend of opinion that manufacturers should fix and maintain selling prices and refuse to supply department stores and other notorious cutters, has taken marvelous strides since Secretary Connolly first presented his plan to broaden the scope of the National after his return from the convention at Cincinnati.

Now is the time that the matter should be brought forcefully before the national convention. Every grocer on the Pacific Coast is interested in the outcome of this convention and The Advocate hopes that there will be enough interested to be willing to open up their purse strings.

If it could be possible to send both State Secretary Connolly and State President Warnke it would be of the greatest advantage to the grocers not only of California but the other Pacific Coast states

With this idea in view The Advocate takes the liberty of opening up the following

SUBSCRIPTION LIST.

The undersigned agree to pay the sums set opposite their names towards a fund to meet the expenses of delegates to the convention of the National Grocers' Association, which convenes at Niagara Falls on January 23, 24 and 25

PROFITS DECEIVING.

A Minneapolis Grocer Points Out Some Things Often Overlooked About the Cost of Doing Business.

At a recent meeting of the Minneapolis Retail Grocers' Association C. W. Meneilley read an interesting and valuable paper on profits in the grocery business which is well worth the perusal of every grocer:

"The supposed profits of the grocer's business are very deceiving and as you study and figure on that question, you will be almost discouraged at the paltry net amount of profit left to support your family on.

"Grocers should be more studious. They should study more along the line of finding out the exact profits, which should be the subject of their best thought, judgment, time and energy.

"After all that, you will find there are shrinkages which you never thought of.

"You must not think you are compelled to put in all the goods that are offered you by the manufacturer I am surprised what determination along the line of new brands can do for the grocer after having studied over the demands of his trade intelligently.

"You should know what goods your trade demands and under those circumstances should have no dead stock.

Expenses 15 Per Cent of Sales.

"I would call your attention to the profits on salable goods. I maintain that it costs the retail grocer 15 per cent of his gross sales to do business and most of you will not deny this assertion.

"Now, gentlemen, look at the gross profits on goods such as butter, eggs, potatoes, flour, sugar, and all breakfast foods, if you please. I shall not figure the individual items for you, as each man has to figure for himself.

"I shall defy anyone to show me when you can get more than 15 per cent gross profit on the above mentioned commodities.

"Below is an itemized statement giving the first cost, the cost with the 15 per cent added or the total cost to us, and the selling price of each of the above named articles. This shows an actual loss in some instances:

	Cost.	Added.	Price.
1 doz. eggs	$ .23	$ .26½	$ .27
1 lb. butter	.24	.27½	.27
Break. foods, doz.	1.50	1.72	1.89
Flour, sack	2.25	2.60	2.50
Potatoes, bu.	.65	.75	.75
Sack of sugar	4.75	5.46	4.85
Break. foods, doz.	1.00	1.15	1.20

"To demonstrate that it costs to do business I hereby submit an itemized statement as follows in a store doing $250 per day:

Clerk hire	$24.00
Paper, twine and bags, butter dishes, oyster pails, pickle pails, etc.	2.00
Rent	2.50
Interest on investemnt	2.00
Light	.50
Heat	.25
Horses, wagons, feed, etc., six rigs	6.00
Shrinkage in value on horses, harness, wagons, etc.	1.00
Loss on perishable goods, shrinkage in weighing	1.00
Wear and tear on fixtures	.50
Loss on bad bills	1.00
Proprietor's wages	3.00
Loss on stock sold in large quantities (usually 10 per cent gross profit)	.75
Insurance and taxes	.50
Total	$45.00

"The charge for horses, wagons, etc., is figured at fair wages for six horses and wagons per day and not at cost of maintenance

"This $45 is just 15 per cent of $250 gross sales and leaves no profit nor anything for interest on the money invested and merely a nominal salary for the proprietor.

"As you see, gentlemen, you are selling all those goods at cost and you think you are making a profit.

"The goods mentioned in the first schedule together comprise 75 per cent of our business. This is a fact without any doubt.

"Where are we to get our surplus? I will say that it is necessary for us to do some expert figuring on the remaining 25 per cent of our gross sales to get a little left for the proprietor.

Keep Down Stock.

"You certainly should limit yourself as to the brands of goods in your stock. Certainly it is not businesslike to take on a new piece of goods which you would necessarily buy in small lots to fill the place of an established brand which you had a growing demand for and which brand of goods you would buy in large quantities at quite a reduction in price.

"I could enumerate item after item which should be thought over very closely as regards to buying from the manufacturer at a less price than is being offered at present ,thereby giving us a better margin to work on.

"You have invariably heard from the representative of the manufacturer that 'we made the price to the grocer at $1.00 a dozen, so the retail price would not be cut lower than 10 cents.' I have always taken that as an insult and condemn such odds against the dealers.

"I maintain, and you will bear me out in this assertion, that the grocer of today is not to be compared with those of ten years ago We realize the large expense of doing business and thereby expect to get a reasonable profit on all goods.

"We are men of ordinary intelligence and have been endowed with the element of good, common sense and gifts of thoughts which when put into practical use in our business will show to our friends that the grocers can be and shall be successful merchants.

"Look after the little things about your store and by so doing you will be successful, as business is made up of many small items.

Some Miscellaneous Leaks.

"I would say, however, profits on the goods you sell are not all that needs your undivided attention.

"I refer now to careless weighing and measuring of goods, and rejecting all goods not up to grade.

"If you get stuck on a lot of good do not try to push them off on your custmer as first class goods, as your customers have selected you to supply good goods for them.

"Look to it very closely that your shipping department is run in an unquestionable manner and that all goods are paid for or charged that leave your store.

"Goods which you purchase should be gone over and counted and weighed and you should see that you get all you pay for."

Nut crackers and nut picks should be kept in stock.

California walnuts are higher than last year but the sales have not fallen off. The holidays make a demand for nuts of all kinds and a full stock must be carried from now on.

St. Louis grocers are hammering away on the shortweight cracker proposition. They insist that they should not pay cracker prices for the cardboard in which they are packed. Right.

Coffee and tea are attracting more attention on account of the possibility of an import tax. Now is a good time to push them. A coffee demonstration every Saturday during cold weather would certainly bring many to the store.

In spite of the number of new breakfast food there is still a good demand for the old fashioned oatmeal. Some jobbers say the demand is steadily increasing again, after being pretty badly knocked out for a while by the prepared foods.

Grape juice is not supposed to be so much of a winter line as it is a summer one nevertheless it sells well all through the year. As a medicine it is in demand while there is no reason why it is not as good a beverage in winter as in summer.

Seasonable Suggestions.

Get ready for the Christmas rush.

Keep Christmas specialties in front.

Now's the time for a little special advertising.

Demand for nuts is increasing. How is your stock?

Dried apples are climbing into the luxury class fast.

White grade of canned asparagus is scarce and in big demand.

Estimates of the tomato pack place the total output at close to 6,000,000 cases; 9 000,000 last year.

Winter's a good time to begin to increase your trade on coffee and tea. These articles are profit producers.

Push trade on salt fish, cheese, kraut, etc., by talking and advertising these items whenever the opportunity offers.

Canned corn is selling fast at the low prices prevailing. Quality is the best and prices the lowest for several seasons past. Push it!

There'll be a great scarcity of tomato catsup by early spring. Already stocks are light, so present prices are certain to be the lowest for a long time to come.

The supply of all kinds of dried fruits is light and well in hand. The usual December demand will clean stocks up closer than ever known at the corresponding time

Receipts of cloves at Zanzibar for the first half of November were officially reported as 3,200 bales. Total to date 16,100 bales, against 65,700 to same date last season.

Talk a lot about cider, apples, apple butter, mincemeat and all such things in your ads. A little talk is sure to stir up more or less business on these seasonable and appetizing goods.

There will be a call from now on for confectioners' sugar as in many households holiday candies are home made. This manufacturing of sweet stuff generally for the holidays increases the consumption of sugar.

Make the trade think of the fancy lines of groceries by constantly advertising them. Never mind advertising the staples so much now. If you hammer away on the fancy goods the staples will take care of themselves.

Handsome packages of raisins in clusters, baskets and boxes of fine figs, citron, stuffed dates, cartons of prunes, packages of seeded raisins and currants, with pomegranates, oranges, lemons and highly-colored apples should enable the grocer to make his window and counter display the talk of the neighborhood.

Washington Grocers Taking Action to Bring Manufacturers in Line.

Spokane—The Spokane Retail Grocers' Association is reported very active and doing good work. It has received favorable replies to the circular recently sent out advocating a joint meeting of representatives of all state associations to unite on a plan to bring about a general adoption of the maintenance of retail prices by manufacturers. A protest has been sent to the Postmaster General against the number of rural mail boxes to help the catalogue houses.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Dress your windows.

Use plenty of sign cards.

Christmas greens are here.

Don t let the dead beat escape.

Plan to get the Christmas trade.

Olives in glass make a nice display.

Fancy groceries sell best at this time.

Advertise oranges to your Christmas trade.

Order your Christmas trees and greens now.

Get the order for the Sunday school Christmas candy.

Raisins, prunes, citron, Almeria grapes figs, etc., are wanted now.

Keep figuring how to increase the sales without an increase of expenses.

Give the crockery department a better show. It has been neglected—maybe.

There's a lively demand for oysters of all kinds. Canned oysters are wanted.

Put in a good brand of canned plum pudding and talk about it in your advertising.

Candy will sell quicker than hot cakes, if it is good candy and well displayed.

It's easy to let the profit slip in these days of advancing cost of goods. Don't do it.

This is harvest time for the lamp goods, lanterns, etc. Even the candle is not neglected.

Make a window display of fancy cured fruits, such as cluster raisins candied fruits, etc.

If candy won't sell from now to Christmas, you may make up your mind that it never will.

Don't forget that by selling boxes and barrels you can save a neat sum in the course of the year.

Rice is always seasonable and the consumption is increasing. Tell your trade what a good food it is.

Honey is selling freely and the market is steady. The demand is probably better than the average.

Don't hold the eggs before shipping to the market. They have probably been held long enough already.

Coffee is in heavy sale now. Increase your business by advertising and demonstrating your best grade.

Molasses in cans seems to be gaining over the keg and barrel goods. It is easier to handle and quicker, too.

It is likely that pickels will hold up well until the next crop is on the market as this year's yield is not large.

Almonds are more closely cleaned up than is generally supposed. Remaining stock is in few and strong hands.

If the mice and matches get together in the back room there may be a fire. See that they are kept separate.

Two weeks until Christmas. Strenuous weeks they must be for the grocer as well as the merchant in other lines.

Time to get the stock of Christmas tree decorations to the front. Candles and ornaments of all kinds will soon be wanted.

With other fancy groceries jams and jellies come in for a good demand during the holiday season. Advertise these lines well.

If you get hold of anything that's new and appetitizing, advertise it. People are always looking for something new to eat.

Grocers ought to look out for high prices on gallon canned apples. All the packers are heavily short on their deliveries to jobbers.

The market on cheese is in very healthy shape and a rise in prices is not improbable at all. At least, lower prices aren't in sight.

Demand for flavoring extracts is very good as there is much baking and fancy cooking for the holidays. See that your line is complete.

A New York report says: "Cheese is now practically all under contract in this county, as well as in Lewis and St. Lawrence counties."

Cured apples are advancing as the crop is proving to be fully as short as anticipated earlier. Canned apples are showing an upward tendency.

Always be on the lookout for a profit You don't have to squeeze your customers on anything if you but make something on everything you sell.

Make a display of wash day goods occasionally or have a sale of them There are many things in the store that can be included in this line.

The market is strong on canned fruits with some kinds hard to get. There will probably be a good spring demand with comparatively little stock to meet it.

Eastern advices indicate a continuation of present high prices on smoked bloaters. At the present time bloaters are scare and higher quotations are thought likely.

Satisfy your customers. It is better to lose a few cents by taking back an unsatisfactory article than it is to make a few by insisting that the purchaser keep it.

This is the time of year when the farmer furnishes his own provisions and the demand is consequently lighter. Most lines of provisions have declined recently on the larger supply and smaller demand.

In their tea market report, Tarrant & Co. of Colombo, Ceylon, say: 'Pluckings are medium; prospects are good. The weather continues unfavorable and quality is poor."

Winter is supposedly the chocolate and cocoa season of the year and the jobbers have reported very good sales in this line. Keep a good assortment and advertise it frequently.

Demand for cereal breakfeast food is enormous and the market is firm. New brands are not appearing so frequently as they were some time ago. But there are plenty yet, thank you.

Canned soups will sell better in winter than summer. but they are a line of goods that respond surprisingly well to a little good advertising. Remind your customers that you handle canned soups.

The Standard Oil Co. is retailing oil in Toledo Ohio, as well as in St. Paul. At a recent meeting of the association of the former city a committee was appointed to see that company about the matter.

Sell fancy groceries for the next few weeks. The grocery trade certainly "loosens up" at this season as at no other and the merchant who does not take advantage of it loses a good chance.

Advices from Pomona, Cal., state that buyers of walnuts in that locality are having difficulty in securing the quantity of first-class nuts desired Many of the nuts show the effect of spots or sunburn.

Flour does not attract much attention but it constitutes quite a large chunck of the grocer's business. See that the stock is kept from contamination and from the rats and mice, and that you get a proper profit.

This is the time of the year when fires are most likely to occur. Guard against them in every way and as a further precaution, have your books in such shape that you can easily prove your loss if you are called upon to do so.

Catsup is in brisk demand and the prices are firm on the short crop of tomatoes. There was a time—sad to relate—when a shortage of tomatoes did not bother some of the catsup manufacturers, but times have changed.

Advices by mail from Dallas, Tex., report that pecan nuts are very scarce in that vicinity, the supply being scarcely sufficient to meet local demands. It is expected, however, that the supply will be more plentiful later, though the crop in that vicinity is smaller than anticipated.

Swift & Co. have acquired land and wharfage facilities at the great New England fish port of Gloucester, Mass. and will handle cod, haddock and other lines of dried, salt and packed fish through their provision branches throughout the country. This is the first incursion of the meat packers into the fish field.

PLAN ADVERTISING CAMPAIGN.

The Dr. Price Food Co. Planning Extensive Publicity Campaign for 1906.

Arrangements are being perfected by the Dr. Price Cereal Food Co. to conduct an extensive advertising campaign in this territory for the coming year.

This company will use the San Francisco daily papers extensively to exploit the merits of their products and this method of interesting consumers will be suplemented by other attractive matter that is certain to be of material benefit to the retailer.

The local representative of the company, Mr. E L. Mosley, is now sending out some unusually attractive matter to the trade.

REDUCTION IN PRICE.

The John H. Spohn Co. announce a reduction in the price of Carnation Cream, gallon size six cans in case, to the following: Single case to $3 80; five case lots to $3.75; twenty-five case lots to $3.70, and fifty case lots to $3.65.

WHO IS TO BLAME?

direct from the manufacturer, as the semi-jobbers do, and whom the foolish retailer is as likely as not to throw his business to.

How Retailers Can Help.

Retailers can control the situation if they approach it in a business-like way.

If the retailers, as a unit, would unite in saying:

"We will buy nothing from any firm that sells to any party who could be supplied TO GOOD ADVANTAGE by a retail grocer,"

The wholesaler would say:

"We are delighted. When one of our men sells such a party, let us know and we will have it stopped."

The result would be greatly to the advantage of the wholesalers They know this. They know that a condition such as we outline above would give them hundreds of thousands of dollars of business from retailers which is now done by firms that not only sell to retailers but also sell to firms that these retailers should be supplying.

At its last convention, the State Grocers' Association passed the following resolution:

Selling Hotels, Coleges, etc.

Whereas, Many wholesalers and manufacturers sell indiscriminately to all hotels, restaurants, boarding houses, colleges, etc.;

Whereas, Much of that trade would otherwise go to retail dealers; and

Whereas, The majority of this business is ultimately secured by those firms which, while doing a retail business, pretend to be wholesalers, be it

Resolved, That the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association disapprove of the practice on the part of wholesalers and manufacturers in selling to establishments that would otherwise be supplied by retail grocers and whose trade really belongs to the retailers of their respective communities. Be it further

Resolved, That when a wholesaler or manufacturer insists upon continuing such a policy in the face of opposition of the retail grocers of any community, that we will consider such action on their part as unfriendly, and act accordingly.

Selling to Consumers.

Whereas, The sale of goods to consumers by wholesalers and manufacturers is not profitable to the wholesaler and makes the wholesaler the rival of the retailer, to whom he looks for the distribution of his goods; be it

Resolved, That we decidedly denounce such practice as shortsighted and unfair.

Whereas, The firm that sells to consumers in any one community makes it evident that they would sell to the consumers in other communities if circumstances made it profitable, be it

Resolved, That the affiliating Associations and individual members of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association pledge themselves to confine their trade as far as possible to those concerns whose business is large enough to warrant their doing a strictly wholesale grocery business in each community where they operate.

MR. RETAILER—Are you willing to do your share to help the State Association correct this trade abuse? Let us hear from you.

CLUFF BUYS CIGARS.

Ehrman & Co Several of the best-known employes of M Ehrman & Co. have been retained by the Wm. Cluff Co. Wm. Hamilton and Thos. Elliott of the grocery department are included, and Manager Lanins of the cigar department will assist in making the transfer of that department.

ASSOCIATION NEWS.

Harrisburg, Pa.—The retail grocers have instructed their president to appoint a committee of five to request the Governor to ask that the special session of the Legislature, which convenes in January, take up the Pure Food law and correct some of the many abuses that now exist in it.

New York, N. Y.—The retail grocers of New York have indorsed the candidacy of Wm. Gray of Brooklyn for secretary of the National Association.

Port Huron, Mich.—The Retail Grocers' Association has decided not to handle the coupons being circulated by a certain soap concern. These coupons call for soap and washing powder from the grocer. The grocers consider such methods of introduction a detriment to the trade.

Buffalo, N. Y.—The Retail Grocers' Association has appointed a committee to act with similar committees of different lines of trade to bring about the abolishment of trading stamps.

Council Bluffs, Iowa—Congressman Walter I. Smith told the Grocers' Association at a recent meeting that he was decidedly against the proposed Parcels Post bill. He stated that if the law should be put into effect it would require at least 2,000,000 men to handle the business of the government and would place them in position where they could dictate their own policy, control elections and defeat any man not in harmony with their ideas.

Big Rapids, Mich.—The members of the Association met at the store of C. W. Barton. After the meeting was over, Mr. Barton asked the members to his house. On arriving there they found they had been preceded by their respective and prospective wives. Cards and refreshments followed. The members agreed that they would not fail to attend future meetings.

Topeka, Kan.—A credit rating system that has been instituted has already proven of great value to the members and has saved some of them from heavy losses through dead beats.

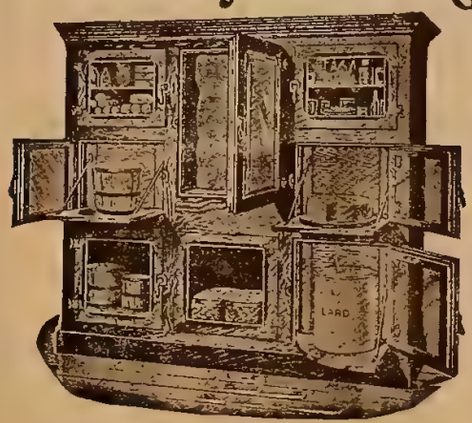
Detroit, Mich.—The retail grocers of this city have decided to take drastic measures to force wholesalers to discontinue selling the consumers.

Adrian, Mich.—There are thirty grocers in this city. All but one has joined the Grocers' Association. Practically all the members attend every meeting. One of the principal objects of the Association is to protect its members against dead beats.

Akron, Ohio—The State Grocers' Association of Ohio holds its State convention in this city on Tuesday, December 5th. Among the matters that will be considered are mutual fire insurance a garnishment law, abolishment of trading stamps, and national legislation, such as a food law, the Dixon bill requiring public employees to pay, and the Parcels Post law.

Toledo, Ohio—The Pure Food Show, recently closed, was a grand success All the exhibitors were more than pleased.

TRAVELERS TAKE ACTION.



The Travelers' Protective Association has taken a decided stand in opposition to the Parcels Post law. Every commercial traveler in the country should realize that the passage of the Parcels Post bill would mean a loss of millions of dollars' worth of business to the general merchants throughout the country. These general merchants buy their goods from the commercial travelers while the big houses who would otherwise get the business go direct to the manufacturer or manufacture themselves. It is to the interest of the commercial travelers to see that no such law is passed.

ROCHDALE SUES ASSOCIATION.

Sacramento, December 7th—The Sacramento Rochdale Co. is suing the Grocers' Association for $20 which is alleged to have been paid into the treasury of that organization as a deposit. The Rochdale Company claims that it resigned as a member of the Association on November 6th and that, while their signature was accepted later, their store was notified that the deposit money had been forfeited. F. F. Reed, manager of the company, takes the stand that since no charges were preferred against the company, the deposit should have been returned.

ROASTS THE KNOCKERS.

State Secretary Connoly Thinks Praise Should be Accorded Those Who Help.

San Francisco, Dec. 13, 1905.

Editor Advocate:—

The Southern Retail Grocers' Association recently appealed to the Diamond Match Company, in whose employ Fred Mason now is, to allow the former secretary of the National to assist in an organization in that territory Their request was complied with.

Because the efforts of Mr. Bratton, editor of the Southern Merchant, the Diamond Match Company allowed Mr. Mason to accompany Secretary Bratton to the South and, together they accomplished a great deal of good in awakening interest and forming new associations throughout that section.

Certain trade papers have been criticising in rather a nasty way Mr Mason's action and questioning his good faith.

It certainly shows much bitterness for trade papers that are dependent upon the manufacturer and the retailer for their existence, to criticise the actions of the Diamond Match Company or villify the character of ex-Secretary Fred Mason.

Was it not the Sapolio people who gave the services of "Sapolio" Stevens and Fred Lorenz and its other representatives to help build up the National Association besides donating largely to its treasury?

Was it not the National Food Company that was its largest supporter?

There are other manufacturers that should certainly be remembered by the Retail Grocers' Association of the United States for the good they have done in helping make a national association possible when it was in its infancy.

The "Omaha Trade Exhibit," which makes the worst attack upon Fred Mason, was at one time the official organ of the Omaha assaciation and the Nebraska State Association That honor was taken away from it some time since, so that what it says does not carry much weight and is evidently merely the rambling ideas of its narrow-minded editor.

Having met Secretary Fisher of the Nebraska Association at Cincinnati and knowing his friendly feeling toward Fred Mason and his appreciation of the ex-secretary's work I certainly feel that neither he nor his association approve of these attacks.

Fred Mason is a gentleman, a true friend, and an energetic worker in anything he undertakes. He has many friends in California who admire his talent and his eloquence.

The disagreeable duty of getting donations for the National's treasury fell to him and he handled it like the diplomat that he really it.

Fred Mason has earned the respect of every trade paper editor in the United States They know that after the years he has spent in association work, it would not be natural if he did not retain some interest in the organization.

I admire the work being done by President John A. Green to put the National on a self sustaining basis and hope the plan will be successful Yet we should not forget the generosity of those who donated to the National association in the past when the organization could not have lived without their help

I hope the proverbal ingratitude of retail grocers will not interfere with their doing full justice to the present president of the National association. I know I voice the sentiments of the delegation who attended the Cincinnati convention, including Joseph A. Stulz, when I say that President John A. Green should be re-elected unanimously, as he is the right man in the right place.

Yours very truly,
Frank B. Connoly.

HELPS THE GROCERS.

among the wholesale trade. In every instance these firms have been detected in methods that have been detrimental to the interests of the grocery trade and have have refused to treat the trade fairly.

The Advocate's crime, in the eyes of these men, has been that it made public their shortcomings.

Some of these firms have said that The Grocers' Advocate was a blackmailing paper. When they said this they not only lied but they knew they lied, because if The Advocate belonged to the blackmailing class, its editor would have suppressed the unpleasant information concerning these firms and secured business thereby, whereas, instead of doing this, it was faithful to the grocers' interest at the expense of advertising patronage.

While The Advocate has lost some advertising patronage through its fearless policy, its prestige with the retail grocers has grown correspondingly and its value as an advertising medium is correspondingly increased.

A glance at the list of firms advertising with The Advocate, most of whom use no other grocery paper of the Pacific Coast, shows how true this statement is

The Advocate not only has a very large circulation in San Francisco but it has a large general circulation through the entire Coast since up-to-date merchants are desirous of being posted on conditions in the San Francisco market. There is no other grocery paper that has a circulation of any consequence in San Francisco and there is no other trade paper devoted to grocery matters that dare open its subscription books and mailing lists for the investigation of its advertisers.

These facts all speak for themselves.

PRAISE FOR SCHILLING.

Georgia Editor Approves Protection of the Profits of the Retailer.

In a strong article commenting upon the action of A. Schilling & Co. in bringing suit against firms that have cut the established prices of "Schilling's Best" goods, the "Southern Merchant" of Atlanta, Ga., says:

"The price-cutter is one of the greatest enemies with which the legitimate grocer has to contend.

"When once a staple article of merchandise is cut, it takes months of hard work, on the part of the grocer, to place it on the live list again, and to induce his customers to believe it is worth more money. It has a black eye which only time and hard work can cure.

"The so-called 'cheap cash grocer' has accomplished his end and is using some other staple as a 'leader.' He never tries to rebuild the house he has torn down, but has his razor drawn and his eye fixed on the fifth rib of another staple to be used as a 'leader.'

"And so the merry work of the slasher goes on from one article to another.

Loses Sales and Customers.

"The retailer loses many sales and good customers by not being able to meet the cut price, and, therefore, the manufacturers and jobbers are losers and the people's confidence is shaken in the grocer

"When an article has been trodden in the mire by a price cutter, it is harder than trying to get justice from his satanic majesty to pull it out again.

"Give a man a bad name and, as a rule, he will go to the dogs. Cut the price of an article and all the combined eloquence of grocerymen can't make the public believe it is other than cheap.

A Right to Protection.

"The manufacturers and jobbers have a right to protect their goods from such attacks from unscrupulous, iconoclast grocers. It is the duty they owe themselves, as well as thousands of legitimate grocers, not to allow their goods to be advertised as cheap trash of little value. They should require all retailers to sell their goods at minimum profit. Such an agreement should be a condition precedent to each sale. They have a legal right to demand that the sale of their goods shall not be injured by the price-cutting grocer.

Atlanta Demands Protection.

"This matter was discussed at the last meeting of the Atlanta Association. A committee was appointed to meet with several prominent manufacturers and wholesalers, and ask them to co-operate with the association, and use their influence in establishing a minimum profit on staple articles. We have no doubt that this action will be well received by them, and that they will do all in their power to assist in accomplishing this end, which is of vital importance to them."

If you want a profitable coffee trade, keep coffee to the front all the time. Talk about it, being careful to emphasize quality. Don't mind the price, for the most economical consumers always lose sight of that if the gratification of the palate is assured by using a fine-flavored, heavy-bodied coffee every frosty morning and to put the finishing touch on a good dinner.

Keep stock away from the "sampling customers" as much as possible. In a city store the other day a woman bought five cents worth of candy and ate about two cents worth while her purchase was being put up. This could be avoided if the candy counter were enclosed with a glass railing in a show case. The latter is a good method, anyway, as it protects them from the dust that is constantly present in the store

PROTECTION THAT PROTECTS.

Manufacturers Can Require Agreements That Will Prove Effective.

The agreements required by honest manufacturers—we mean by this, manufacturers who intend to enforce their contracts and do not make them just for advertising purposes — STICK. They may be violated in a small way from time to time that is annoying. As a rule, however, the condition of trade can be bettered by a contract required by a firm with back bone.

This is well exemplified by the following article from "Drug Notes," which says:

"Mail order houses cannot get serially-numbered goods.

"Why?"

'Because by means of the serial numbers, the goods can be traced from the mail order house back to the person or firm guilty of a violation of the manufacturer's contract.

"Everybody in the trade knows this, hence will take no chances on selling numbered goods to price demoralizers

"The following letter sent to a Nebraska man, who ordered Swamp Root of Montgomery Ward & Co. by the mail order house named, and by the Nebraska man forwarded to Kilmer & Co., from whom the following letter was obtained; tells how effectually does the serially-numbering proposition eliminate a mail order house competition:

Chicago, Ill., July 6, 1905.—Mr. G. Anton Anderson, R. No. L., Box No. 73, Loomis, Nebraska.

Dear Sir: We are in receipt of your order enclosing $8 00 for a dozen bottles of Kilmer's Swamp Root, but cannot make the shipment as we do not handle medicine any longer.

"The manufacturers of several different medicines have combined and will not sign an agreement with them to sell the goods at a certain price. We prefer to make our own quotations on the goods we handle, so are unable to sign their agreement.

"They will not allow us to handle their goods, so we cannot forward your order for Swamp Root. We cancel your order and refund $8.00 herewith.

"We are very sorry we are unable to serve you this time, but hope we shall be favored with your future orders, and next time we trust our dealings will be more successful. Yours truly,

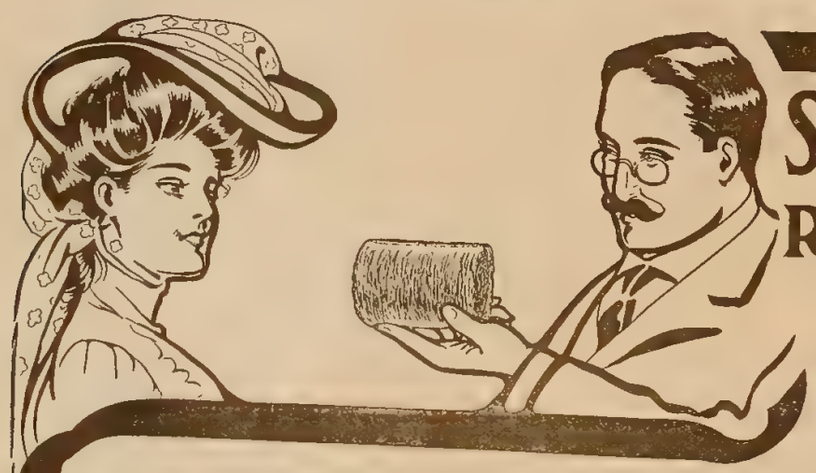
"Montgomery, Ward & Co.

"The above may furnish food for thought for Southwestern merchants who are feeling this sort of competition. There are some articles in every line of retail business which can be had with consecutive numbering. If it becomes necessary to trace them as the druggists do in some instances, the consecutive numbering idea may prove beneficial"

HAS ENTHUSIASTIC FRIENDS.

"Will you kindly let me ring up Mr. —— in the next town. You can talk to him at my expense and he will tell you whether the McCaskey Account Register is worth while or not."

This is the chief selling talk of W. A. Hawley and his agents.



When a man is so sure of his goods that he knows he can take a prospective customer to the stores of those who have already purchased, he certainly has a mighty good thing.

The McCaskey Account Register does for account sales what the Cash Register has done for cash sales, only more.

It saves time and expense, prevents mistakes, and insures satisfaction on the part of the customer and supplies a simple system of bookkeeping that enables the merchant to know where "he is at" at any moment.

All of these things are worth money.

If you want to know more about it, read the ad. on the first page of the cover.

Attracting Trade

Value of Show Window.

There is no one feature of the retail merchant's business of more importance than the show window.

As an evidence of this, witness the part the show window plays in the life of the big department stores of the great cities.

Department heads fight jealously for space in the show window, realizing the immense influence it wields in making sales.

Take any big retail establishment. A corps of expert window trimmers is constantly at work under the direction of an artist whose sole duty it is to see that his plans are carried out to the letter.

When a show window display is contemplated the dominant idea is carried out with a scientific attention to details really marvelous. Pencil, pen and water color sketches are made of the entire display as it will appear when completed. Period displays—that is, decorations intended to represent some period in art—are a strong feature with such houses, and are carried out with the very smallest details as to color and design.

The resultant effect is one of complete harmony; one that fills the eye, giving the observer the pleasing effect of a perfect picture.

Thousands of dollars are expended annully by the big stores for expert service in the window trimming departments. And it is a paying investment.

What is profitable for a large establishment in a city is proportionately profitable to the retailer in a small town.

It is, of course, out of the question for the small town dealer to follow out literally the ideas used by the big stores. But it is possible to emulate them in a small way.

The big lesson to be learned in this connection is that show window space is one of the most valuable assets the small retailer has. If he fails to appreciate this and neglects to use this space to the best possible advantage he is overlooking one of the most important adjuncts to successful merchandising.

A Seasonable Display.

"Can opening" displays are popular at this season, and the window display may be made to aid in their development. The most important work of this sort of a sale is of course done inside the store. A few cans of the best goods are opened and the contents used for sampling by visitors to the store. Dainty little dishes, spoons and forks are utilized in giving customers a taste of such special articles as seem to attract their attention, and this must of course be attended to by demonstrators inside the store. Where this plan is followed the interior display must be arranged as attractively as space and stock permit, while the window can be used only to suggest the operations within, says the Inland Grocer.

Window displays made up exclusively of canned goods are rather passe, and it is best to use the cans only for background. Boxes of stuffed figs, candied cherries and like delicacies can be displayed, open, in the foreground.

To attract visitors to the demonstration a window card will be serviceable. Attach to a column of the cans a card like this:

"DO NOT BUY THESE CANS UNTIL YOU HAVE TESTED A SAMPLE OF CONTENTS, WHICH AWAIT YOUR PLEASURE AT OUR CANNED GOODS COUNTER—THEN TELL US."

In a large window two or more cards may be used to advantage. One may read:

"CANNED GOODS UNDER TEST. TRY A FREE SAMPLE."

Another:

"EVERYTHING THAT IS GOOD IN CANS OPENED FOR YOUR INSPECTION TO-DAY."

Attempts have been made to push forward sales of this kind by displaying open cans in the window, but the effect is rarely satisfactory. Even when a part of the goods are placed in dishes the surroundings are rarely such as to be inviting. The window space can in some cases be utilized as a display counter for the demonstrator, and when its shape and location admits of this the results will be forthcoming.

Fancy soaps come to the front with the approach of the holiday season. There are some sterling brands in the market and there are some that are apparently made only to sell to people to whom price is the sole object. It is not good policy to offer at holiday time an article that will not reflect credit upon the store. A good article at a fair price pays a better profit in the end than a poor article at a low price, and this is true of soap as well as of other goods.

Powdered tea is preferred by the Japanese to tea in other forms. They usually strain the liquor before drinking, but sometimes drink the pulverized leaves and the liquor together. The ordinary coffee mill will serve as a tea mill in case any of the grocer's customers at any time are desirous of trying the powdered tea. The Japanese mix the powdered tea and water to the consistency of a thin pulp, and it is then sipped by the family and their guests. Boiling water is poured into cups, and into each cup a small quantity of the powdered tea is stirred.

CALIFORNIA CROP CONDITIONS.

The United States Department of Agriculture reports for last week:

"In Southern California the season has been unquestionably good until near the close of the present week. It is probable that the dry winds and sand storm have had an injurious effect on the crops. Much damage has been done to orange and olive crops by the high winds of the 9th and 10th."

SUGAR.

No change in price locally.

New York, December 13th—The week has been one of considerable activity with raw sugar selling at 3⅝ cents for centrifugals, 96 deg. test. This is an advance of ⅛ cent over last week's market. Sellers are now holding for an advance of 1-16-cent over this price.

Refined is quiet and unchanged but firm.

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. says:

"The coffee market is still dull, with few transactions reported in the past ten days. Buyers are holding off until after the opening of the new year.

"New coffee in parchment arrived by recent steamers, but finds no immediate demand in the market, as old and seasoned coffees are much preferred for immediate use.

"Low grades of coffee are scarce. There is no Peaberry in the market."

C. E. Bickford reports in his circular of December 8 as follows:

"All markets continue very quiet, with no feature of particular interest at this writing.

"The desire usually shown at this season by local importers to market their remnants before the close of the year has resulted in some yielding of prices in many instances, while, on the other hand, certain qualities—notably Peaberries and unwashed coffees—have hardened merely through scarcity.

"The liquidation of the large speculative interest in December coffee in New York, mentioned in our last circular, was accomplished without incident, partly by delivery and acceptance of actual coffee and by re-engagements in nearby and distant months."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, December 13th—The tomato market has firmed considerably but is rather quiet. Some estimates now place the total available stock east of the Rocky Mountains at about 1,800,000 cases. At present there are no offerings less than 90 cents f. o. b.

Baltimore, Md., December 4th—Thos. J. Meehan & Co. says:

"Practically the entire jobbing trade insist that they are waiting until the New Year before buying any more tomatoes. If they all come into the market at that time it will make business very active. Many jobbers expected the Tomato Syndicate to try to unload its holdings during November. Up to date there is no sign of any unloading of its holdings on the part of the Syndicate."

Baltimore, December 1st—The "Trade" reports:

"Jobbers' buyers are all watching for an opportunity to gather in bargains in tomatoes since they know that stock at present prices are good value on account of the conditions of the market and the scarcity of supplies. While they are waiting for bargains, they are careful to do nothing that would induce an advance and for this reason are giving the most attention to holiday goods. After Christmas the trade will find whether there are any weak holdings at present quotations. If there are any such, they will be quickly gathered in. No. 3 Standards are quoted at 95 cent; Extras $1.20; No. 3 Seconds 85 cents; No. 2 Standards 72½ cents; No. 2 Seconds 65 cents; Gallon Standards $3.25.

New York, December 29th—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"The output of tomatoes is the least since 1901. The pack in 1902 was 9,494,812 cases; 1903, 10,679,809; 1904, 8,968 303, an average of 9,714,308 cases. Nearly all packers are sold out and stocks are said to be in the hands of speculators or the trade at large. As there are nine months' requirements to be provided for and the heaviest consumption period of the year is still to come, it would seem that either consumption would have to be curtailed or there will be an actual shortage. Buyers are buying whatever is offered at 90 cents delivered New York. Holders are much less anxious to sell than they have been previously."

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., December 1st—The "Trade" reports:

"Jobbers' buyers do not anticipate any lower figures. They do not wish to see them. If there is an indication of a steady price along the whole line there will be considerable buying to anticipate January purchases.

New York, November 29th—The correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"According to semi-official returns the total pack of corn this year will aggregate 11,500,000 cases—probably the largest pack ever known. A feature of the business has been the heavy sales of cheap corn of which 300,000 cases have been sold on this market since the fall season opened. As long as the present weight of cheap corn depresses the market, good corn will not sell as readily as it would otherwise. The lower price of corn has caused an enormous increase in consumption. The heavy supply which has been placed for sale at 45 cents appears to have become reduced and holders a shade firmer in their views in price."

DRIED FRUITS.

Strong hands have been gradually acquiring stocks of dried prunes throughout the Coast. As prices are higher than for many years, still higher prices may be expected. Dried peaches are being firmly held at full market quotations with higher prices demanded and paid for fine fruit. Layer raisins are being held firmly but seeded are being sold at ½ cent to 1 cent below regular quotations. It is now authoritatively reported that the walnut crop is short. Almonds are in good supply. Prices on almonds are quoted as follows but are being shaded to effect sales: Nonpareil, 13-15 cents; I. X. L. 11½-13½ cents; Ne Plus Ultra, 11-13 cents; Drake's Seedling, 9½-11½ cents, and Languedoc, 8½-10½ cents.

New York, December 13th—Dried fruits of all sorts except raisins are firmly held. Only in prunes is their any activity. Spot prunes are tending upwards. Sales of 40s in 25-lb boxes have been made at 7½ cents with 7½ cents asked in many quarters. Peaches and apricots are dull.

New York, December 4th—The most active article among the staples at the present time is California prunes. Sales are mostly in small lots of 50 to 100 boxes. Prices on prunes are tending strongly upward. In 40s to 60s the price is 3½ cents basis for Santa Clara stock. One car of 40-70s with a few 30s was reported sold on a 3¾ cents basis. Offerings of peaches and apricots are light with little demand.

RAISINS.

Fresno, December 11th—The majority of the Raisin Growers' Combine are seeking to arrange a play whereby they can dissolve the combine of the grower with the packers at the least possible expense to the growers. The raisin growers had less than half the crop in their combine. This means that they were at the mercy of the outside packers when they started to make their prices. The breaking up of the combine at this time will probably mean the abolishment of all organization among the raisin growers for some years to come.

New York, December 13th—The jobbing trade are buying only from hand to mouth. They have anticipated the break-up in the Raisin Growers Combine and therefore the present situation has not caused any special interest.

CURRANTS.

Chicago, December 2nd—The "Grocers' Criterion" says:

"Recent advances in the currant market are due to the shortage in supplies. Shipments from Greece have been very light and cleaners have been forced to draw from reserve supplies. Local cleaners are said to be oversold up to the middle of December. It is likely that further advances will follow the entering on the market of two large interests that are now known to be much reduced in stocks."

New York, N. Y., November 25th—E. B. Pierson & Co. says.

"This week will see all the evaporators in this section of the country closed. Shortage in the crop has been greater than any packer expected. Production will not exceed 15 per cent of last year's. As the consumptive season is practically just commenced, we look for still higher prices."

Walcott, N. Y., November 21st—J. S. Tyrrell reports:

"Stocks of dried apples are mostly out of first hands. The market is strong with an upward tendency and is firm at 8 to 8¼ cents. There is not much stock good enough for 8¾ cents."

NUTS.

New York, December 13th—California almonds are easy with considerable jobbing demand. Tarragonas are scarce and firm. Princess Soft Shell are lower and offered at 14½ and 15 cents. Old crop California walnuts are closely cleaned up. New crop walnuts are still scarce here and are in demand. Imported walnuts are active.

St. Louis, Mo., November 25th—Geo. B. Spear, president of the St. Louis Edible Nut Co. reports:

"Peanuts—The crop of peanuts will probably be about 20 per cent larger than that of last year. The quality, on the whole, is very good. We believe the present prices on hand-picked are lower than they should be and are made for the purpose of enabling the cleaners to buy in from the farmers at a reasonable price. They certainly will not be any lower than they are to-day. Spanish peanuts are in a weak condition as liberal supplies have made lower prices logical. The best time to buy Spanish peanuts will probably be after the first of the year.

"Pecans—Receipts of pecans for the last six weeks have been less than orders. The price has advanced fully 1½ cents per lb. After the holiday trade is over they will be quiet and a few nuts will come into the market which can be bought on a lower basis."

PEANUTS.

Norfolk, Va., November 25th—Holmes & Dawson report:

"After a careful review of all the information to be had, our opinion is that the present crop of peanuts is larger than last year's by probably 20 per cent and about 25 per cent greater than the crop of 1903. We do not look for any advance in prices during the present season, although an unusual demand may alter the situation."

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. report:

"The bean market is firm, although the demand has increased materially during the past few weeks. This is quite natural in view of the heavy shipments that have taken place, and in view of the proximity of the holidays. Generally, the market is quiet at this time of the year, and this year may see the usual holiday dullness until after the turn of the year.

"The Merchants' Exchange reports the stock of beans on hand in this State, on the 1st of December, as being 596,455 sacks; we would add 100,000 sacks to this, and would estimate the total now in the state at about 700,000 sacks of all kinds. Taking into the calculation the quantity shipped out of the state and gone into consumption at home, we place the bean crop of California for the year 1905 at 2,000,000 bags. It will be seen that the shipments have been of tremendous volume, and the stock on hand, compared with the same date in other years, looks light to us. More beans are being consumed than ever before, and with ten months till another crop comes on the market, we may well expect all stocks to become used up, and prices not only to be maintained, but even to go higher.

"We firmly expect to see higher prices on limas, Lady Washingtons, small whites and blackeye beans, and it is likely that the advance will extend to all vareties, as well, as there is not too much of any. Therefore, in spite of a quiet market, prices can hardly be expected to ease off materially, while any strong demand at any one time may advance them materially."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, December 13th—The salmon market is firm and steady. There is a considerable demand for pinks sales of same being made on the spot at 87½ cents.

Now York, December 2nd—Deming & Gould Co. say:

"Alaska reds are totally cleaned up Few are obtainable under 90 cents f. o. b. Stocks of medium reds are so light as not worth figuring on. A few cases can probably be picked up at 80 cents f. o. b. There are no chums left in first hands and most packers are making pro rata deliveries. Puget Sound coshoes—tal's and flats—are cleaned up After filling orders, packers will have a small surplus of halves which will not last long at the present prices o. 70 cents per dozen.

"We know of only one lot, first class quality Alaska pinks in packers' hands These are held at 80 cents. Only about 5,000 cases of Puget Sound pinks remain. There will be no more of these high grade pinks until 1907 as humpbacks only run in the Puget Sound every other year. We are having an unusual demand for sockeyes from both domestic and foreign buyers. The light stocks controlled by our firm will be exhausted long before the new pack is available Sockeyes will be higher on all sizes talls, flats and halves. Our price today f. o. b. Bellingham, Wash., are: Talls $1.40; Flats, $1.60, and Halves, $1.05.

Seattle, Wash., December 1st—The "Trade Register" says:

"E. B. Deming, manager of the P. A F. cannery at Bellingham, says the salmon clean-up has been phenomenal. His firm has had to reject many orders Whatever remains unsold has been held intentionally. He expects an advance on Alaska reds."

FISH.

New York, December 8—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Ho land Herrings—Shipments have fallen off considerably. Market very firm and higher prices expected.

Scotch Herrings—Unchanged with fair demand.

Norway Herrings—The first shipment of Sloe Herrings has arrived and shows fairly good quality.

Norway Fat Herrings are selling exceptionally well, as they are of very fine quality.

Imported Oil Sardines—France, no catch. In Portugal and Spain the packers have combined and formed a trust, and have advanced prices all around. In Norway packers are also combining and prices are likely to advance on smoked sardines, as they have been losing money at the prevailing prices.

Sprats—France reports catch is over and short and prices higher.

CODFISH.

New Bedford, Mass., November 25th—New Bedford Fish Co. reports:

"At present codfish is very plentiful about here. All the boats are catching from 1,000 to 6,000 each when the weather is suitable for fishing."

COTTON SEED OIL.

New York, N. Y., November 23rd—Aspegren & Co. report:

"The downward tendency saw its end on November 16th. The lowest prices were reached on that day. Since then the market has been gradually creeping up and yesterday cotton seed oil was again selling at 30½ cents which is the highest point reached this season."

CAVIAR.

Wieland Bros. say.

"Caviar is cheaper on account of falling off in consumption—not because of a larger pack."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"All the country hay districts are doing their best to market their hay, but are still prevented from doing so only by the continuance of the car famine General trade continues dull; stock hay rules firm, however, as is also the case with strictly fancy lots. The bulk of the shipments are the medium grades, which may be said to determine the market at present.

"The demand for hay in the outside country points continues to increase and undoubtedly will continue to do so, for we are beginning to hear the talk of "dry year," and unless we have rain before a very great while the market will be affected. Alfalfa continues in very good demand with choicer grades higher. Straw is dragging badly.

"We quote present prices as follows:

Choice Wheat Hay	$14.00	to	$16.00
Other grades same.	11.00	to	13.50
Other grades Wheat.	8.00	to	10.50
Wheat and Oat	9.00	to	12.50
Tame Oat	8.00	to	12.00
Wild Oat	7.00	to	9.00
Stock Hay	7.00	to	8.00
Alfalfa	7.00	to	11.50
Straw, per bale	.30	to	.50

AMONG THE GROCERS.

William Reed has opened a store at 1997 Telegraph avenue, Oakland. His store is located at the corner of the Railroad and Telegraph avenue street car line, and is the center of a rapidly growing sections of that city.

The Rogers Company has opened a neat grocery at 4800 Telegraph avenue, Oakland, and are making a striking display of seasonable goods

R. C. Anderson of 4830 Telegraph avenue has a fine stock of fancy and staple groceries. His store presents evidence of prosperity. His goods are fresh and well selected.

H. R. Hilton has opened a neat and well stocked grocery store at 4098 Grove street, Oakland.

The new grocery and delicatessen of John Doelger at Seventh avenue and Hugo street, south of Golden Gate Park, is now open, and is already partaking of the prosperity of the Sunset district. The formal opening took place on Saturday, December 9, and was made notable by the presence of a large number of Mr. and Mrs. Doelger's old friends and acquaintances from the neighborhood of Pacific and Taylor streets, where they were in successful business for many years. They have a neat, attractive and well stocked grocery, and a most inviting bar at their new location.

An ash barrel near an oven is supposed to have caused a fire in the grocery store of F. Klingeberg, at 471 Eleventh street, Oakland, a few days since. A baker passing the store observed the smoke and turned in an alarm, but the kitchen of the grocer was ruined before the fire department arrived and extinguished the flames Klingeberg, who estimates his loss at $600, says there had been no fire in the oven for twelve hours before the blaze, and he thinks that heat from a restaurant oven next door may have set fire to the material in his kitchen, which is used for cooking meats for his delicatessen department.

Green.

Owing to its derivation the word "green" was originally applied to the color of vegetation, but not to the color of the sea. No application of "green" to the color of the sea is quoted before Chaucer, but as early as the year 700 it was used for vegetation. The word is akin to "grass" and "grow," which verb originally belonged to the vegetable world alone. Vegetables "grew," but animals "waxed." "Green" comes from an Aryan root, "ghahr," meaning to be green or yellow, and "yellow," "gold" and "yolk" come from that same root.

Tapioca and Pearl Tapioca.

Tapioca is manufactured from the plant called in Brazil manioc, in Peru yucca and in the West Indies cassava. When the true starch is separated from the root it is placed on hot plates and while it is heating is stirred with an iron rod. The starch grains burst, and the whole agglomerates into small, irregular masses. Pearl tapioca is not a product of the plant at all, but of potato starch.

An Error In English.

Even the greatest authors now and then make a little slip in their English. Thus Sir Walter Scott in his "Legend of Montrose" has this sentence: "But ere Montrose could almost see what happened Allan McAulay had rushed past him." The "almost" should come before "ere" in order to express the author's meaning.—St. Nicholas.

Lucky Man.

He (a former suitor)—So you are married after all. You told me once that you never intended to belong to any man. She—Well, that remark still holds good. "But your husband?" "Oh, he belongs to me."

Spanish Proverbs.

A Spanish proverb says that "he who makes himself all sugar the flies will eat up," but another observes, "He who makes himself all vinegar will never catch any flies."

There would be more excitement in the world if fish and hailstones were as big as the stories told about them.—Washington Post.

Cigars and Tobacco

The cavalcade of rough riders who are "doing" San Francisco in behalf of the celebrated Rough Riders cigars, are the talk of the town.

Bouquet & Cohn have opened the Ferry Cafe Cigar Store at 32 Market street in the new Terminus Hotel. They have one of the finest displays in the lower part of the city.

Sol Hamburger of A. Santaella & Co., manufacturers of the famous Optimo cigars, is expected to visit San Francisco in January. He will be here about the middle of the month.

The Floridora Tag Company is no more. On November 30 it passed out of existence, and hereafter the American Tobacco Company will attend to the distribution of its own prizes.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of November 25th, says: In his tour of the cigar factories Secretary Shaw was shown especially the handsome new factory of A Santaella & Co., one of the largest individual cigar factories in the world—and the finest—also the Havana-American which was formerly the Ybor factory, where the Tampa-Havana cigar industry had its birth. The actual process of cigar making was observed with much interest, and the party enjoyed "clear Havanas freshly made."

Temple Watson, cigar dealer and tobacconist at 527 Clay street, has greatly enlarged his cigar store, giving him much additional space for the display of his goods. He carries all the leading brands, both cigars and tobaccos, and has one of the best trades in the old business section of the city.

Berkeley.—With new stores opening up in the new Swan building lower I street and Ninth street are being wonderfully improved, and the last store to add to the general beauty and business aspect of that vicinity is the cigar and tobacco store of G. H. Bertram, which occupies the room at the corner of I and Ninth streets. This is one of the best locations in town for a store of this kind, and appreciating this Mr. Bertram has spared no effort or expense to make his store an attractive one. New cases, new cigar racks and tobacco shelves with plenty of electricity at night time give the store a most inviting appearance and the goods that are to be found on these shelves and in the cases are exactly what will reach the heart of the lover of tobacco. Years of experience as a manufacturer and salesman have had their effect upon Mr. Bertram's stock with the result that the best of everything in the tobacco line is to be found there.

Long Beach, Dec. 5—There is trouble in store for the dealers in tobacco in this city, if they do not at once cease selling the weed to boys under 16 years of age. Recently Principal Neel of the Daisy-avenue school complained to Truant Officer Folsom that a lad by the name of Pierpont, who is but 12 years old, had come into the school room so thoroughly saturated with tobacco smoke that his presence was obnoxious. The boy was sent home and the officer at once began an investigation. The latter took the boy out and secured from him tobacco purchased from three grocers who, it is said will be brought before Justice of the Peace Brayton, in the near future. When asked how he could secure tobacco young Pierpont replied that it was a very easy matter and to demonstrate this bought three sacks of Durham at three different stores

TRUST WINS LAW POINT.

New York Judge Decides That Trust Is Not Bound to Sell Retailers.

New York, December 11—The right of the American Tobacco Company to refuse to sell to small retailers if it choses to do was sustained by a decision rendered to-day by Justice Marean in the Supreme Court in Brooklyn. E. Cocker & Co, retailers, had brought a suit against the company demanding $10,000 damages, which, they allege, had resulted from the American Tobacco Company's refusal to do business with them. Justice Marean ordered the suit dismissed.

The union cigarmakers in St Louis who have been submitting to the cigar manufacturers a proposition for a reduced scale so that a five-cent cigar can be made to compete with those of Eastern manufacture, still have the plan pending. It is said that since the "lid" has been on in St. Louis compelling the Sunday closing of saloons, that trade has fallen off materially on cigars of St. Louis manufacture. Fully 150 cigarmakers, according to a statement at the headquarters of the cigarmakers' union, have left the city to seek employment elsewhere.

TRUST MUST DISGORGE.

English Tobacconists Secure Law Ruling Which Means Much to Independents.

London, Dec. 2—American trusts of every description have just received a severe blow in England. The decision given in the Court of Appeal in the litigation brought against "Ogden's Limited." the great tobacco firm, by retail tobacconists, will have a far-reaching influence on every American industry which attempts to establish a monopoly in England.

Retail tobacconists are jubilating over their really great victory. They will be able to compel the trust started in England by Duke to disgorge the best part of $7,500,000, and besides this the trust will have to pay an additional $3 500.000—making the colossal total of $11,000,000.

TOBACCO TRUST WINS.

The second great attempt of the Burley Tobacco Growers to control the leaf tobacco market in opposition to the American Tobacco Company has proved a failure and probably will be followed by the dissolution of the Ohio and Kentucky Burley Tobacco Growers' Association that was back of the movement. All attempts to corner the crop for the benefit of the Burley raisers has been abandoned, largely for two reasons. One is that the growers have shown apathy to the schemes of the promoters who are back of the association, and the other is that these same growers have grown such an enormous crop that it is beyond all possibilities for any association to control it.

According to the American Grocer, the pack of corn in 1905 will go ahead of the output in 1904, which was 11,462,969 cases. The States west of the Alleghenies have put up over 7,000,000 cases, of which 30 per cent at least are held by packers. Maine has had the largest pack in three years. Maryland and Virginia will come close to last year, when they were credited with 2,055,277 cases. New York is good for 1,500,000 or more cases; Canada, 400,000 cases; Pennsylvania is larger.

In this coffee-consuming country, the expert blender is the best friend of the retailer who lacks skill in judging of the merits and value of different growths of coffee. When a blend is satisfying and tickles the palate, the experienced blender insures against variation in cup quality by putting coffee into a package. He may be a retailer blending and packing coffee, or he may be one who devotes himself to that business in a wholesale way. In either case the consumer has, in the established package coffee, a guarantee of honest weight and satisfying product.—American Grocer.

There is a better chance for the grocer to sell box candies for the next few weeks than at any other time of the year. The holiday trade in this line is always good and will be especially so this year with everyone so prosperous. Get in a nice assortment of box candies and enlarge the department about the week before Christmas. In the cities the high grade candy stores do ten-fold the business of any other season the week preceding Christmas. There is no reason why the grocer cannot do as well. Try it this year. Decorate the candy counter and put a pretty girl in charge.

A number of wholesale grocery houses are attempting to determine the present whereabouts of Aristide Cicognani, who for about two months was the ostensible proprietor of a grocery supply house at 965 Franklin street and who is said to have accumulated about $6000 in that short period But his creditors can neither find Cicognani nor any portion of the alleged $6000.

Sacramento—Through the efforts of the sheriff's office in this city the arrest of a clever confidence man who victimized half a dozen business houses in Sacramento has been effected in San Francisco, and the prisoner has been brought back to this city. The man figured under two names, S. P. Reed and W. W. Wright, and he signed the checks with the latter in favor of the name of Reed. He represented himself as an agent of the United States Weather Bureau. Under the name of Wright he deposited $150 in the Goethe Bank and obtained a checkbook. With small checks he established himself in the good graces of the people victimized and then proceeded to order larger bills of goods, with a considerable difference between the cost and the amount of the check His next move was to draw his capital out of the bank, leaving $7 to allay suspicion. When the checks arrived it was found that the firms were losers to a considerable amount. The Ernest grocery store lost a few dollars, the McManus grocery about $33 and the Hunt grocery $38. The San Francisco authorities affirm that Reed's right name is Jack Barnes.

San Bernardino—Wesley Solomon has purchased the stock of groceries formerly owned by Mrs. Creighton and will continue the business. He has formed a partnership with Mr. Easton, who will move his goods to the old store. The building is being repainted and fixed up in general.

San Pedro—J. E Fulton of Hueneme and M. Saunders of Oxnard have purchased the Nelson Ward store. Mr. Saunders has been for several years of the firm of Saunders & Miller, Oxnard. He is a grocer of many years' experience and is popular with the traveling men. The Saunders & Miller store at Oxnard is the traveling men's headquarters.

ARIZONA.

Globe—After many years active hustling John H. Morehead has finally retired from the grocery firm of Oates & Morehead, formerly conducted solely by him, a controlling interest having been purchased by Percy Oates a few months ago. The firm will now be known as Oates, Scoble & Co, the Oates brothers having associated with them Fred Scoble, who is well known as a hustler of the first grade. The business is now controlled and managed by Percy Oates, whose well known executive ability and energy have done so much to enlarge the firm's business since he assumed the active management last summer.

HOW SUBMARINES WORK.

The Underwater Hornets of Modern Naval Warfare.

It is believed that submarine boats were used in the great naval battle in which Admiral Togo annihilated the Russian Pacific fleet and that they were responsible for the destruction of some of the Russian war vessels. If this be the case it was the first occasion of the use of the submarine boat in actual warfare or in an important battle.

It is known that four submarine boats were built for the Japanese last summer at Quincy, Mass. They were of the Fulton type, were built in sections and shipped by special train to Seattle, Wash., whence they were sent to Japan. Several other submarines which were designed and built by Mr. John P. Holland in Jersey City also went to Japan, and the inventor believes they took part in the battle.

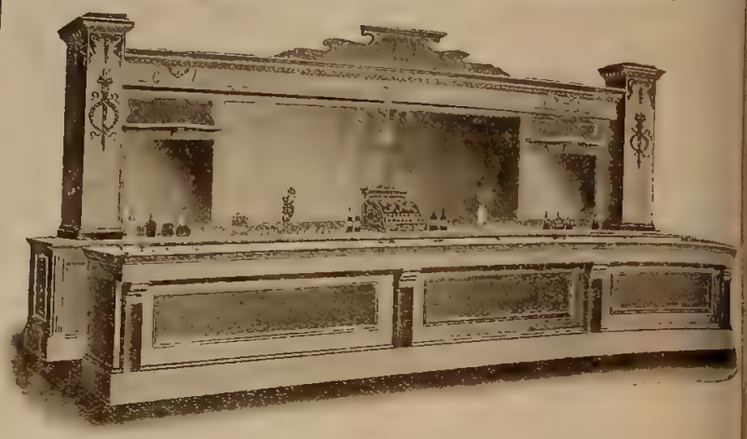
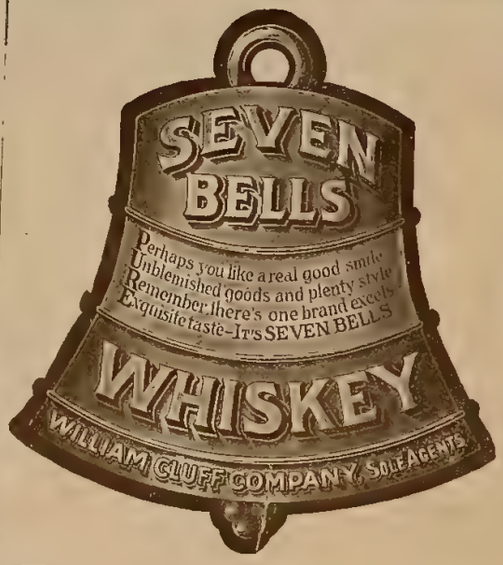
Feats of Photography.

Photography has caught the fastest express train in motion by means of the cinematograph, and it also shows the growth of a flower. A bud which bursts into bloom in, say, sixteen days is exposed to a camera every fifteen minutes during the sixteen days, and when the pictures developed from the films are assembled in order in the moving picture machine the observer may see, to his delight, all in a minute or two, the gradual breaking of the bud—the blossoms open, close by night and reopen in the morning, the leaves grow under the eye, the stamens peep from cover and finally the full blown flower



What a Stye Is.

A stye is in reality a little abscess which forms at the margin of the eyelid from inflammation of the glands or follicles. It is met with chiefly in delicate children, but occurs sometimes in adults where there is a general depression of the health The best plan is to bathe the eye frequently with hot water and to apply from time to time a bread and water poultice. After a time the abscess comes to a head and bursts, and there is an end of it. A succession of styes may be taken as an indication that a thorough course of tonic treatment is necessary, and such remedies as cod liver oil and iron and quinine should be taken frequently.



Commercial Use of Rabbit Fur.

If the industry now being carried on by a Frenchman at Lons le Saunier, in the Jura district, proves profitable on a large scale rabbit fur may become a rival to sheep's wool in the making of clothes generally. The breed utilized is the Angora, or "silk rabbit," which molts four times a year. The fur, just before it falls off naturally, can be stripped easily by skilled hands.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

The play of the week is unquestionably at the Grand, where Nance O'Neil is presenting "The Fires of St. John." Miss O'Neill has improved marvelously during the last two years and now stands easily as the first of living English speaking actresses. The "Fires of St. John" is a problem play. It carries the story of a man marrying one girl while loving another. Miss O'Neill invests the role of Marie which she plays with a wonderful strength. She is well supported by McKee Rankin, who plays the role of the father, and does some very clever work. The "Fires of St. John" continues during this week. Next week there will be presented "Magda," "Camille" and "Elizabeth."

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

There is plenty of fun and some very interesting situations in "Christopher Jr." at this theatre with Robert Wayne playing the title role. The company is a clever one. Every part is well cast and the play is staged with the elaboration for which Mr. Bishop has become noted. Next week, the Neills appear in an elaborate production of "If I Were King."

ALCAZAR THEATRE.

Like all French comedies, there are some very naughty moments in "The Secret of Polichinelle." George Osbourne, the veteran artist who has earned so many admirers in San Francisco, reappears after an extended trip abroad. His return was the occasion of a very decided demonstration this week. Mr. Osborne's work is, as usual, thoroughly artistic. John Maher and Edith Evelyn both have interesting parts which they fit perfectly. Juliet Crosby also made a decided hit. The rest of the company is cast to very good advantage. "Brown's in Town" will be produced next week. This is a screamingly funny comedy with a laugh every minute. For Christmas, the company is preparing an elaborate production of the dramatization of Mark Twain's "The Prince and the Pauper."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

Miner's Merry Burlesquers are giving a very good entertainment at the California. There is the usual musical and comedy turns. The chorus is particularly fine and wear their tights with a chic that is extremely interesting. The burlesque sketches are filled with catchy songs and pretty bits of chorus dancing. Among the specialty artists are two clever acrobats and barrel jumpers, an interesting team of coon singers and a comedian who makes a hit in the character of an opium fiend with a liberal stock of brand new slang. Next week 'The Thoroughbreds" will be put through their courses.

ALHAMBRA.

Tolstoi's 'Resurrection," a drama of Russian life, is being presented at the Alhambra this week. The play has a touching love story built upon the social inequality that rules in Russia and shows the struggle being made by the Russian peasants for political liberty. There are many thrilling situations and the interest never lags. The most important role is that of a young woman who has been betrayed by a young nobleman whose mother she serves. This part is played by Edna Elsmere with much force and cleverness. Herschell Mayall is also well cast in the leading role. The scenic effects are very striking. Next week "East Lynne" is to be revived.

TIVOLI.

This is the last week of "Rob Roy" at the Tivoli. The strengthened company fills every requirement for presenting the opera very effectively. Next week there is to be the holiday offering of "Orpheus in Hades." Alice Nielsen will appear at this theatre with her Italian opera company.

CHUTES.

This is the last week of "Princess Fan Tan" at the Chutes. Much interest has been excited, especially among the young folks, in this musical extravaganza in which Eunice Gilman fills the title role. The diving elks and the Circle Swing still attract curiosity seekers. Bothwelle Brown will present "Cleopatra Up to Date" next week in the big free theatre.

FISCHER'S.

An interesting vaudeville program fill up a good performance at Fischer's Theatre. The bill is made up of a great variety of entertainment. It includes a short musical comedy, which allows of the introduction of numerous songs and clever specialties. There is a matinee every afternoon and one performance each evening.

Chinese Mohammedans.

A traveler in the upper Tangtse provinces of China found in the town of Hinganfu many Chinese Mohammedans who keep up communication with their fellow religionists of Arabia. A missionary who has lived among them for years declares that they are very quarrelsome, much given to boasting of their Turkestan origin, and, in spite of the prophet's injunctions, drink a great deal of wine. This is usually the case with Chinese Mohammedans. In Hinganfu, and more especially in Kansuh, a few of their spiritual teachers keep up their knowledge of Arabic and are occasionally visited by Arab or central Asian mollahs, who follow the old Arab trade route by way of Hami, by which the Arabs originally traded and propagated their faith. These mollahs visit every country in the east where the followers of the prophet are to be found and keep up the ties of the faithful with Islam. As they often stir up dissatisfaction and foment disturbances against the Chinese authorities, the latter regard them with suspicion.

Clerk's Corner

Salesmen Defended.

Some strictures have been passed by this department of late, says the Inland Grocer, upon apparent unwillingness of the store salesman to meet their customers if they can occupy themselves otherwise. It is pleasure therefore that we reprint an article written by a clerk to the Michigan Tradesman, and giving his side of the story. It cannot be denied that the position of store assistant has its trials, some of them vexatious enough but it may be added that no one is carried to the haven of finished salesmanship upon a downy bed of ease. It takes tact, address, endless patience to sell goods to a fickle public, and it may be, as the writer quoted below intimates, that "the public" does not always show the consideration which it expects from the clerk. He says:

The Clerk Not Always Wrong.

One can scarcely pick up a paper nowadays, belonging to the commercial world without running amuck of advice and advice, and then some, to the clerk to deal with more politeness with the customer, just as if it were always the customer who is the abused one and the clerk always the transgressor whereas there is fully as much to be said on the other side, if not, very much more.

I am a clerk myself, and so I speak by the book when I say that I know well the failing of either party. I always, if I have time, read everything I run across in this line, so that I may better my services to the public, and by so doing make myself more valuable to my employer. In a way this is laudable on my part—commendable—and perhaps in another way it is "pure unadulterated" selfishness, for by enhancing my usefulness to my firm I am surely working for my own interest.

If one judged solely by the advice in the trade papers he would have only one view of the subject, for it is always inferred that the public have everything to endure from the one behind the counter, while really the one behind the counter is called upon to do much in the way of "long-suffering."

The Friend Who "Buts In."

Many and many a time have I hurried through with a customer in order to please a waiting lady with quick work, and get just nicely started in a sale with her, only to have her stop in the middle of a purchase by the interruption of a lady friend who happened along—"butted in," as the children say—and got the customer's mind so completely divorced from the matter in hand that the transfer of a particular piece of goods was lost, let alone others that might follow. And I would have to stand supinely by and see business slipping through my fingers like water off a duck's back.

Then another cause for annoyance to the clerk is to have a woman in a monstrous hurry to be waited on, and just as soon as she gets your attention she will "lie down on her oars," so to speak, and take up any amount of your time in puttering over a sale, while others who have come in since you began with her are standing impatiently waiting their chance to get what they came for. She will hurry you "like a house afire," but you must be deliberation itself when she gets you.

Petty Delays.

Another bother. A woman seldom or never has her money in an accessible part of her paraphernalia—she always has to hunt, and hunt, and hunt for it, and she does this with scant apology, either. This prolonged searching has really become second nature to her, so that she looks upon your time she consumes as her very own, her perquisite, you might say.

And think of the many, many disappointments we have to suffer—why, their name is legion! How often and often we think we have a customer all worked up for a fine sale, only to have it "flash in the pan" and turn out a fizzle. How often a lady says she "will come in again soon and decide about the goods" and that is the last you see of her for months at a stretch.

The Sample Fiend.

And how numerously the "sample fiend" gives us a "sample" of what one woman can do to harry a clerk. She never intends to buy. Getting samples has become a mania with her. Once acquired the habit stays by her. She is a first cousin to the woman who looks at goods merely to pass the time away when it hangs too heavily on her hands.

And so it goes. Every hour in the day appears to pile up our grievance until it seems as if we rather throw up our clerkships and "take to the tall timber." We would prefer to cut logs in a lumber camp for a living.

We do not look for the millennium in our situation, but we certainly would enjoy life better if the buying public showed us just a little more consideration.

This sort of thing is trying, of course but the next customer may be more considerate and the successful clerk will allow the annoyance to slip from his memory like water from a duck's back, so as to meet the newcomer cheerfully.

Telephones on Trains.

The Union Pacific will soon have in operation over all its lines a telephone system for the operation of trains and for the transaction of other business. The telephone system will not take the place of the telegraph, but will be supplementary to it. When the system is in successful operation, all trains will be equipped with telephone instruments which can be attached to the wires at any point along the lines for immediate use in case of accident or other emergency. The company has been using the telephone experimentally for two years or more, using its telegraph wires to carry telephone messages, and it has found that they can be used to advantage. It has been found to work best for short distances, but by means of relays it can be advantageously worked over the whole system.—Omaha Bee.

Bishop Clark and the Polite Stranger.

There was no limit to the humorous situation for which the Right Rev. Thomas L. Clark, bishop of Rhode Island, was responsible. Some years ago while attending a lecture in Boston he observed a man sitting three seats in front whom he thought he knew. He requested the person sitting next to him to "punch" the other individual with his umbrella.

The polite stranger did so and, the disturbed person turning his head a little, Bishop Clark discovered his mistake. It was not the person he supposed. Fixing his attention steadfastly on the lecturer and affecting unconsciousness of the whole affair he left the man with the umbrella to settle with the other for the disturbance, and, this man being wholly without an excuse, there was, of course, a ludicrous and embarrassing scene, during all of which Bishop Clark was profoundly interested in the lecture.

At last the man with the umbrella asked, rather indignantly, "Didn't you tell me to punch that person with my umbrella?"

"Yes."

"And what did you want?"

"I wanted to see whether you would punch him or not."—Boston Herald.

A Lawyer's Nerve.

A self satisfied young lawyer went over to Michigan from Ohio to represent a client of that state who was mixed up in some litigation over which the Wayne county court had original jurisdiction. In the course of argument the Buckeye lawyer became tangled, and the judge kindly advised him to back up and repeat with greater deliberation. Then the court let the youth down by saying, "If you do that I will be better able to follow the thread of your contention." "Glad to accommodate you, judge," said the young man as he recovered his confidence. "I am dealing with a very complicated point of law, and I suspected that it might be too intricate for your honor to follow at the rate I was going." The dignity of the court was knocked out, and he joined heartily in the general laugh.—Kansas City Star.

Points to Watch

BEANS—
Most dealers expect that higher prices will prevail for beans after the turn of the year, when new demand sets in. Lima beans are higher and held in strong hands.

MAPLE SYRUP—
Jobbers' stock of maple syrup is very low and supplies in first hands are practically exhausted. The market will be very low before new crop is at hand.

RICE—
The strong statistical position of rice indicates that it will be well to anticipate requirements fully.

AMERICAN SARDINES.
The close of the packing season finds the market stronger. Prices are very low now. With the spring demand advances are anticipated.

HERRING AND MACKEREL—
It will pay those interested to read the letter of Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. on page 23.

IMPORTED FIGS—
Stocks in this market are comparatively light. The spring demand will probably develop considerable strength.

THE GROCERS' PAPER.

State Board Authorizes the Issuance of a Letter Concerning the "Advocate."

At the recent regular monthly meeting for December of the directors of the California Retail Grocers' and Merchants' Association, the secretary was instructed to issue the following letter:

San Francisco, Dec. 15, 1905.

Dear Sirs:

The contemptible attacks made upon the better class of grocers of San Francisco and the State Grocers' Association by a small clique of San Francisco retail grocers found its culmination last week when they made an attempt to interfere with the advertising patronage of our official paper, the Retail Grocers Advocate.

No other single influence has done so much as the Retail Grocers' Advocate to better trade conditions for the grocers of the whole state of California, and particularly for the grocers of San Francisco.

If you want to help the condition of the grocery trade and patronize a paper that is read by grocers and general merchandise dealers in every large city on the Pacific Coast, you will be glad of the opportunity to make use of the columns of our paper, the Retail Grocers' Advocate. Yours truly,

California Retail Grocers and Merchants' Association.

Frank B. Connolly.
Secretary.

L. Warnke,
President.

The status of the movement to secure a profit on flour was discussed and plans made.

When the meeting adjourned it adjourned out of respect to the memory of Mrs. A. H Powers.

FAIR PLAY.

Retail Merchants Throughout the State Express a Desire for Better Conditions.

The article in last week's Advocate, referring to the practice of wholesalers and manufacturers selling direct to consumers, has aroused a great deal of interest among our retail merchants throughout the entire state. We have received many communications from readers of our paper, who express their opinions forcibly and earnestly. From the tenor of these communications, it can readily be perceived that no wholesaler or manufacturer could afford to continue this practice if the State Grocers' Association should call the attention of the trade to their refusal to deal with the retailers.

No legitimate wholesale grocer desires the trade of consumers. Many wholesale houses have taken on this trade merely because they wished to save it for themselves from other houses who have but little trade with retail merchants. The fact that the retail merchants have never effectively demanded that they discontinue the practice has also served to help increase it

A Wholesaler's Idea.

Among the communications received was a letter from Channel Commercial Co. of Ventura, Cal., who state the position of the wholesaler as follows:

"In our opinion the only remedy is for the wholesale grocers to make a division of territory, drawing dividing lines. So long as the wholesaler in one territory is allowed to trespass on the territory of another, and so long as the retailer living in Ventura can buy his goods of the wholesaler in San Francisco or Los Angeles for five per cent less than the retailer in San Francisco or Los Angeles can buy the same goods of the home wholesaler, then in turn the retailer in Los Angeles sends to Ventura or San Francisco and does the same thing, instead of supporting his home jobber.

So long as this practice continues, the wholesaler will naturally trespass on the trade of such retailers because they do not give him any protection. The retailer therefore is himself to blame for much of this, as well as the wholesaler. It should be a matter of reciprocity.

"It is natural for the wholesaler to protect the retailer who is his patron, and natural for him not to protect one who is a patron of a foreign competitor. It is also natural for the wholesaler or retailer to sell goods to one who lives under the nose of a competitor for less money than he could possibly sell to his own trade and pay expenses.

"These facts and these facts alone cause trouble."

Without exception, the retail grocers who have sent in communications with regard to the abuse of wholesalers selling to consumers, have stated that they would "cut out" any firm that might insist on selling to parties who ordinarily would be customers or some retail grocer. We quote from some of the letters received as follows:

P. B. Pancher, Sacramento.—"We fully approve of the sentiments expressed in the article in the Advocate. We at one time had trouble with our jobbers here. We went to them two years ago and they willingly gave up this business to us, and have refrained from selling consumers since that time. Our association will cut out any house in the jobbing business that interferes with their legitimate trade and be mightly glad to do it."

H L. Dean, Sacramento.—"I am in a position to know that almost every wholesale house, both grocery and produce, sells more or less to the consumer. The retailers certainly suffer from this. The names of the offenders can easily be found out by investigation. I

FLOUR.

Progress Being Made in the Movement Toward Getting a Fair Profit.

Several meetings have been held in the past few weeks by the grocers and the millers as a result of the agitation instituted by the "Committee of 100" of which Frank B. Connolly is secretary, and the Grocer's Advocate.

All of the millers realize the absolute necessity of protecting their grocer customers and with one exception they have expressed themselves as desirous of instituting the fixed price plan without delay.

The "Committee of 100" and the Alameda County Retail Grocers' Association were represented at the various meetings by grocers of weight and standing. All these men were listened to by the millers with attention and respect

When a standing vote was called for to learn if any of the gentlemen present did not desire to have a retail selling price on flour maintained, there was not a single dissenting vote.

The Legal Aspect.

It is illegal for several millers to get together and agree mutually among themselves that they will take certain steps to restrain trade on any article by fixing the price.

It is illegal for retail dealers and manufacturers to get together and in consideration of a mutual agreement decide to fix certain prices.

What Can Be Done.

Any mill has a right to fix a retail selling price on its product.

Any mill has a right to refuse to sell to any dealer who will not agree to maintain the price so fixed.

Any mill can enjoin by legal process any dealer from selling its product at a different price than that which it may have fixed. It also has recourse in damages against a dealer so offending.

What the Dealers May Do.

Every individual retail dealer has a right to refuse to handle any article on which he does not secure a profit sufficient to warrant his handling it

If any mill should insist upon allowing cutters to sell its product at a price such as to make that particular flour unprofitable to handle, the grocers of the state of California would have a perfect right to refrain from handling such flour and sell instead the product of such mills as should take steps to protect the selling price of their goods.

The Advocate's Position.

The Advocate, as the mouthpiece of the State Grocers' Association, has the right to call the attention of the retail grocery trade to those firms that protect the retail selling price of their goods, thus making them desirable articles for the grocery trade to handle.

The Advocate also has the right to call attention to those mills that allow the retail selling price of their product to be cut and to advise the trade of the whole Coast not to handle such goods.

The Advocate is prepared to do these things whenever the retail grocery trade decides that they want to have it done and will gladly use the power that accrues from its wide circulation to reward the mills that may maintain the retail selling price of their goods by giving as much publicity as possible to their actions in this regard.

GOOD GOVERNMENT.

Advocate's Editor Recognized by the Municipal Administration With Responsible Appointment.

It is with much pride and gratification that the Advocate announces the appointment of its editor, Aaron H. Powers, to the responsible position of Chief Examiner and Secretary of the Civil Service Commission.

Mr. Powers has been in position during the past four years to know absolutely the honesty of purpose of His Honor, Mayor Eugene E. Schmitz, and of the many mischiefs that served to interfere with his administration and lessen its effectiveness.

Mr. Powers also knew that on numerous occasions the administration had complied with requests made by the grocers which were always granted promptly as soon as the fairness and honesty of the requests were made evident.

Mr Powers knew that the stories of graft in connection with the administration were not as true as far as the grocery trade were concerned and also that they were not true in numerous other instances. He knew the men who would circulate lying statements at one time could hardly be believed when they made other statements of a similar character.

For these reasons Mr. Powers not only personally, but through the Advocate, expressed his opinion that the grocery trade of San Francisco would profit more largely by strengthening the arm of Mayor Schmitz since those who were willing to seek victory through lies could hardly be expected to reform themselves after election and given an honest administration.

The retail grocers of San Francisco are to be congratulated on the fact of having someone at the City Hall who has so long been identified with every movement to better trade conditions and who has been so thoroughly wedded to their interests.

Mr. Powers will continue the editorial direction of the Advocate. He has engaged as business manager Mr. H. W. Thurlow, whose long experience as a commercial traveler will specially fit him to add to the value of the paper.

A CIGAR THAT REPEATS.

The Prima Lucia is one of the best sellers in the clear Havana line ever introduced to this market, and although known here for only three months has already shown qualities as a repeater that is beyond even the expectations of its distributors. Wherever placed orders have duplicated.

The Lewin-Meyer Co., the successful grocery house, who are well known for the many successes they have made, are the distributors for California.

Mr. Arnold Poliak, the representative of the Prima Lucia factory of Tampa Florida has just paid the trade a visit to his Oregon and Washington agents, who have been as successful in placing this cigar in their respective territories as has the Lewin Meyer Co in the California market.

E J. Gillen is looking after the country trade in behalf of this cigar and H. H. Welsh of the San Francisco, and send in orders in bunches.

SEASONABLE SUGGESTIONS.

Pointers "Borrowed" From the Columns of Various Careful Contemporaries.

Keep profits in sight.

Go after Christmas trade.

Sell the boxes and barrels.

Canned oysters are moving well.

Get a Christmas tree or two out in front.

Don't forget the Sunday school candy trade.

Remember January first and the inventory.

Sell more holly and Christmas greens this year.

Cold weather stimulates tea and coffee trade.

Don't forget to blanket the delivery horses these days.

Canned mince meat and plum pudding are seasonable.

Display Christmas goods where they can be seen to advantage.

Are you leaving alone all cereals and other goods containing premiums?

Pop corn and poppers make a good combination to put in the window.

Give canned corn a push. Prices are low enough to stimulate demand.

A well-kept fish and oyster department ought to be a paying proposition now.

Christmas tree candles and ornaments are being shown by city grocers.

Remember that it costs you somewhere around 15 per cent to do business.

Look out for fires. Keep the store clean and the back room free from rubbish.

Brighten the store with a little holly and other greenstuff. It will be money well spent.

Canned peas are becoming very firm on the short pack and the continued good demand.

There is a big holiday trade due every grocer. Get your share. It is right in front of you.

How about the marcaroni and the noodles and spaghetti? Have you advertised this line lately.

Don't let a customer buy buckwheat flour without asking him if he needs any syrup to go with it.

How is the package tea trade? In some stores there is nothing doing in this line—yet there should be.

Baltimore's cove oyster pack has been lighter to date than expected. Look out for an advance on this item.

Canned and evaporated peaches are strong and it would not be surprising if both advanced after the first of the year.

Push fancy goods now as never before. You can sell stuff now that will not sell at any other time in a twelvemonth.

Wicks, chimneys, burners, etc., will result in sales these days when darkness comes early and stays late in the morning.

There is a strong market now on California dried lima beans. Recent advance is held to be fully warranted by conditions.

This is a good time to talk rice. This is one of the low-priced food products and can be prepared for the time in a variety of appetizing ways.

Try something new for the Christmas trade. There may be a line that you have never handled and which will yet take well with your customers.

Cheee—don't forget this item, which is always a good winter seller. A good cheese trade is a source of profit to the retailer which he cannot afford to overlook.

Maple syrup, if it's the real thing, will sell if it's talked now. But it isn't wise to represent an imitation article as the genuine, and in the long run it doesn't pay.

Coffee and tea require constant attention to build up a good trade on. Sales of coffees and teas help to fatten the merchant's bank account, and must not be neglected.

Newfoundland advices report a continued scarcity of herring. The American fishing fleet is off the Bay Islands in full force this year, but results to date are very disappointing.

Secretary Wilson of the department of agriculture emphasized the necessity of a national pure food law in an address before the annual convention of official agricultural chemists in session at Washington.

This country is now using about 2,000,000 tons of sugar. Of this amount about 1,000,000 tons are raised in Hawaii, Porto Rico and the United States, the balance being imported, 1,200,000 tons coming from Cuba.

French advices say the sardine catch this season is very much below the average and the fishermen are reported suffering much distress. The catch in other European waters will also be inadequate to fill the demand.

Advertise "dollar bargains" in Christmas specialties such as nuts, figs, dates, citron, peels, etc. Make up some attractive assortments of these goods and talk them in your advertising from now until December 24.

Fancy crockery is a line not to be overlooked at this season. A dozen plates or cups and saucers make an excellent Christmas gift and many a family that is to give a Christmas dinner will want some extra dishes.

According to one of the leading importers of Persian dates, it looks as though consumption will be decidedly heavier than usual this year, owing, no doubt, in a large measure, to the very excellent quality of the fruit and the moderate prices ruling.

Canned asparagus is coming in for a large demand. The consumption of this vegetable is showing a considerable increase and as the pack was short this year it is not improbable that there may be a shortage and higher prices. Indeed, it seems altogether likely.

Spice importers say that certain sizes of nutmegs are the cheapest ever. May not be so cheap again, not at least for a good while. This market at present is the cheapest in the world. In the producing countries about 2 cents per pound above our parity is asked.

Advices from Dallas, Texas, report that pecan nuts are very scarce in that vicinity, the supply being scarcely sufficien to meet local demands. It is expected, however, that the supply will be more plentiful later, though the crop in that vicinity is smaller than anticipated.

Many grocers who find it does not pay to carry green vegetables like lettuce, radishes and onions in the winter months make it a point to have a good assortment of these at Christmas time. No matter if they are expensive the trade will take them for the Christmas dinner. Try it and see.

The gradual reduction in earlier estimates of the probable output of walnuts this year has produced a firmer market in this line than would otherwise have been the case. Five thousand to six thousand tons is now the probability for the output of walnuts this year in place of 8,500 tons and upwards as originally indicated.

The United States leads all other nations in the consumption of tobacco, according to a recent report of the bureau of statistics. Reckoned according to pounds per capita, Belgium leads, with 6.21 for every inhabitant. The United States is second with 5.40 pounds; Germany, 3.44; Australia, 3.02; Canada, 2.74; France, 2.16, United Kingdom, 1.95, and Russia, 1.10.

Christmas trees, Christmas candy, nuts, figs, dates, fancy cured fruits fancy canned goods, candied and glace fruits, holly, smilax olives, shelled nuts, pickles, oranges, pineapples, bananas, celery, radishes, preserves, jams, jellies, marmalades and puddings. This is a small list of the lines that are wanted for the Christmas trade. Push them from now on.

The government has issued the first of a list of patent medicines that contain so much alcohol as to require the merchant handling them to take out a government liquor dealer's license. The test that the government makes it simpy that any compound in which there is alcohol in such quantities that the other ingredients do not materially change the nature of alcohol shall be considered as an alcoholic beverage.

There is only a small supply of canned fruits left to draw from. The supply of pears, however, in California is larger than at this time in 1904, being a result of the high opening prices on this fruit. The general tendency of California fruits is upward. The feeling on all packs of peaches is especially strong at present. Steady buying of small lots of peaches and berries is greatly reducing the stocks of those articles, both in the west and east and there are indications of stiffening prices in anticipation of the short supply next spring.

Tea imports have failed to hold their own during the ten months of the calendar year ended October 30. The net imports into this country for the ten months were only 72,005,721 pounds, as against 81,787,796 pounds in corresponding time last year. The 1903 figures correspond closely with those of 1904. It may surprise our readers to learn that it is not Japan, but China that shows a marked falling off in the exports of tea to the United States this season, the decline in the Chinese figures being 8,386,700 pounds, whereas the Japanese exports of tea to this country declined only 2,034,208 pounds.

"Coffee looks good to me," said a well-known jobber the other day. I can't for the life of me see anything in the market to warrant any decline. On the other hand, there is every reason to believe that the future will see higher prices. The production of coffees is well-known to be below the world's consumption at present, and this alone should prove a strong card. Aside from this, the possibility of an import tax, the high rate of exchange in Brazil and the increasing consumption would all indicate a steady or advancing market. The only bear argument that I can see is the 1906-1907 crop, which might, possibly, promise to be such a large one as to affect the spot market before the winter is over. But that is pretty remote."

CRUSHED OUT BY TRUST.

Denver, Dec. 4—"One of Denver's Old Industries Throttled," is the caption which appears in big, black type, over an article in a recent issue of the Denver Post. The opening paragraph reads as follows: "Throttled by an octopus, frozen out by the trust, the Silver State Cigar Co., at 1430 Arapahoe street, distinctively a Colorado and Denver concern, which twenty years ago was established by W. W. Arnold, has been forced to the wall and the deleted stock of the once famous cigar—the Silver State, a cigar which did much to make Color do famous—was last evening sold for a song by order of a referee in bankruptcy."

OPEN CO-OPERATIVE GROCERY.

Roberts Island, Dec. 6—Twenty farmers of the section of the island near Holt Station have erected a building at the station which will be used as a grocery store. The store will be run on the co-operative plan.

BEAN SITUATION.

Valuable Resume of Existing Conditions and Probable Future by a Recognized Authority.

The following letter from Holmes & Stockard Co., of Los Angeles, a firm that is recognized authority on beans, was misplaced last week. Its matter is of such value that we present it herewith.

Los Angeles, Dec. 6.—Holmes & Stockard Co., report:

"The great Lima bean rush being over let's glance at the situation—past, present and future.

"All of our bean letters, relating to this season's crop and business, have been decidedly bullish—that attitude alone having been the only correct reflection of the actual conditions, as we saw them, from time to time. However we are not going to say 'I told you so,' but will quote fro mour letter of August 17th as follows:

"'Now, as to prospective market conditions. First. No spot stocks at all to begin with. Second. An abnormally big demand absolutely assured. Third. One-third to one-half of a full average crop already sold East under contract for October-November delivery, though in some sections of the East that takes limas in fairly liberal quantities, not a bag has been contracted for yet. Fourth. One-half to two-thirds of the crop already out of the hands of growers and under contract to shippers. Such is the situation in a nut shell. Viewed logically, and from a cold business standpoint, is there a single phase of it that justifies, favors or foreshadows lower values even though a full crop materializes? Those who are familiar with the marketing methods and the manipulations that are incident to and which have become distinctive features of the business will hesitate, at least before answering that question affirmatively.'

"And again on September 19th we wrote:

"'Our estimate of the crop based on continued good weather is 750,000 sacks which we regard as outside. The probabilities are that the output will be under rather than over that quantity. As to prospective values, we adhere to the views heretofore expressed in our several letters, believing that even with favorable weather and harvesting conditions present prices are safe and rather in buyers' favor, while if early rains and unfavorable conditions ensue values will be elevated sharply.'

"Were those statements and predictions 'Fairy Tales or were they sound and fully warranted by the outlook and the existing conditions? Have they been verified? 'Let the facts of today answer.'

"'The total output is not more than 775,000 sacks or less than 725,000 sacks so that 750,000 sacks holds good in the absence of an actual count. Shipments to the first of the year will aggregate 500,000 to 525 000 sacks, leaving on hand then from 225,000 to 250,000 sacks. The requirement for seed will be from 20,000 to 40,000 sacks, which leaves a total available supply on hand January 1, of something like 200,000 sacks to meet the demand for the balance of the season.

"Is there 'enough to go 'round?'

"San Francisco will require about 50,000 sacks for shipment in mixed cars with other varieties to the southeastern territory and the balance (125,000 to 150,000 sacks) seems insufficient to supply the eastern demand.

"It would seem utterly futile to expect lower prices again this season. On the contrary, higher rates are scheduled. The entire stock, practically is in the hands of a very few strong holders and if prices are not 'boosted' at a lively rate later on we will be much surprised."

HOW TO SELL HAM.

A butcher can make a profit slicing ham, providing he sells sliced ham at an average of 50 per cent more than it costs him. In some instances he can get more, it being a question as to the class of trade he caters to.

He must start from the first cut of the butt end and slice up as far as possible to the shank end, using skinback hams, which are best suited for slicing, weighing from 12 to 16 pounds.

A 15-pound ham at 12½ cents per pound would cost $1.88 Ten pounds sliced at 20 cents bring $2.00, and four pounds of shank end at 10 cents bring 40 cents. Allow one pound for shrinkage. The profit is 52 cents.

All dealers should study to cut ham according to their trade. A Brooklyn dealer says: "We cut all hams right from the end and never cut down to the shank, always leaving enough on to sell the ham for half a ham, therefore having no ends. And in first-class shops where there is more call for sliced ham they can charge enough for middle cuts to pay and dispose of these ends at a low figure. Fourteen to sixteen pound hams are the best to cut up. In some shops where there is more call for half hams they can always cut one or two slices from each half and make extra profits. Educate your customers according to your trade Most butchers nowadays only spoil the customers."

A GROCERY WAR.

Toronto, Ont.—A correspondent of the Philadelphia "Grocery World" says that a co-operative buying concern of the retail grocers of that city doing business under the name of the "Grocers' Wholesale Company" have charged the Dominion Wholesale Grocers Guild with maintaining an illegal combination in restraint of trade. Criminal proceedings have been instituted against two officers of the Wholesalers' Association. The complaint of the retailers is that the wholesalers are "conspiring and combining with others to enhance the price of sugar, starch, canned goods and other commodities to restrict the production of the same."

OAKLAND GROCERS AWAKE.

Interesting Meeting of the Alameda County Retail Grocers' Considers Many Problems.

Oakland, Cal, Dec. 19—Notwithstanding that this is the busiest week of the year a large number of grocers came out to the meeting last Monday evening.

The long looked for answer of the California Millers' Association to the request presented by representatives of the grocers around the bay was what particularly interested many in being present at the meeting. Considerable surprise was expressed that so long a time had been taken to arrive at so few conclusions.

The secretary reported the entire question as presented by the millers and said that there had been no hesitancy on the part of the grocers in accepting the offer of the mills until the question of private brands was brought up.

Then a prolonged discussion was entered into on what was to be done with private brands. Many of those who had private brands were opposed to giving them up until they were assured 25 cents a sack margin and a uniform selling price on the standard brands put out by the millers. On the other hand the millers were opposed to giving what the grocers asked unless the matter of private brands was in some way provided for.

Mr. Hauch then spoke at length on what had been discussed at this conference and said that he was somewhat surprised at the little the millers had had to present to the grocers in reply to the request they had made upon them sometime ago. He thought however, one great result of meeting the millers had been to engender a friendlier feeling between them and the retailers and also to get them to consider very seriously and earnestly the demands made on them by the grocers.

Mr. Warnke spoke upon the opposition manifested by one of the mills to whatever decision the conferees were about to arrive at and said that the millers had been shown a very striking example of earnestness by the way the grocers expressed themselves on the questions at issue. He said that the outlook was most encouraging and that he was positive that we were about to realize the application of that vital principle, viz:

That the manufacturer establish and maintain the retail selling price on his commodities by the manufacturers of one of the largest used staple articles—Flour.

Once this principle was established as it has been elsewhere, its application by the manufacturers of other commodities would be as rapid as it has been in Los Angeles.

Mr. Connolly was called upon and explained many details of the subject. Another matter he called atention to was the effort that is being made to disparage the good work that is being done by the Retail Grocers' Advocate and to misrepresent its influence with the retail grocers. This is the work of certain disgruntled members of the S. F. Grocers' Association who were prostituting the organization in doing what the rank and file of its membership would most emphatically disapprove of. The Retail Grocers' Advocate is and has always been recognized as the staunch and loyal friend of the retail grocer. It is and has been the exponent of his ideas and those giving it their support are supporting the best interests of the retail grocery trade.

A talk was then promised by Mr. Hauch to be given in the near future on the subject of bookkeeping and the best system.

From a discussion of trade questions the members turned to politics and forthwith proceeded to elect officers for the ensuing term. The election resulted as follows.

President—H. K. Duncan.
1st Vice-President—F. G. Elben.
2d Vice-President—J. L. Woodworth.
3d Vice-President—G. T. Morris.
4th Vice-President—C. Hadlen.
5th Vice-President—A Sutherland.
Treasurer—G. A. Russell.
Directors—H. Hauch, A. J. Nor, H. D. Cushing, G. Hoffman, L. Warnke and J. Hopkins

The secretary called attention of the members to the new license ordinance now pending before the Oakland city council and particularly one of its provisions imposing a tax on solicitors for articles for sale. A committee consisting of Messrs. Cushing Hoffman and Russell were appointed to represent the Association before the city council should anything derogatory to the interests of the retail grocery trade be inserted in the ordinance.

Mr. Warnke then took the floor and informed the meeting of the death of Mrs. A. H. Powers, the wife of one of our honorary members, Mr. A. H. Powers, and moved that the meeting adjourn out of respect to the deceased. The motion was unanimously carried.

J. W. REED, Secretary.

ASSOCIATION WORK.

Interesting Address on Its Value and Importance Delivered by H. Hauch of Alameda.

The following is an outline of Mr. Hauch's address delivered at a recent meeting of the grocers of Alameda county:

"When this gathering was first proposed it was our hope that we might have had with us Mr. F. B. Fancher of Sacramento, a gentleman who would have been particularly fitted to impress you with the importance of the subject under consideration and also to inspire you to action by his masterful eloquence. Unfortunately, however, conditions have arisen that made it impossible to carry out this program and it has become my duty and privilege to give to you such thoughts as I may have on this subject.

'The era of unrestricted competition is a thing of the past.

"The old struggle in the business world of man against man has during the last quarter of a century been supplanted by the struggle of organized bodies against one another. The claim of by-gone days that 'competition is the life of trade' has been found to be faulty—to say the least—in the face of the facts of modern industrial and commercial life.

"Experience has taught that unrestricted competition not only is not the life of trade, but on the contrary, that it is a very destructive factor most likely to engulf any man or set of men engaged in it. That the truth of this statement has been acknowledged by the world of affairs is best demonstrated by the marvelous change that has transformed our business life during the past fifteen or twenty years.

Unrestricted Competition Evil.

'This country went through an experience with unrestricted competition during the eighties and the first half of the nineties that will not soon be forgotten. Probably it is yet fresh in the memories of most of you that are present her this evening. An era that wrought havoc and destruction to a large portion of our commercial enterprises and to which is directly traceable the later development of our great commercial corporations and still larger industrial trusts.

'It may be well to call attention to a few of the instances in point so that we may get the lesson driven home with better effect.

"The first instance that occurs to my mind of this almost insane unrestricted competition is that of our great common carriers, the railroads. You all remember how in the period previously mentioned, the great competing railroads lines of the country engaged in what was commonly known as 'Railroad Wars,' periods during which freight rates and passenger charges were frequently cut to a point that meant enormous losses to the lines engaged in this warfare that eventually resulted in the practical bankruptcy of a large number of railroad corporations who were obliged to call on the federal government to appoint receivers for their properties in order to re-establish them on a sound basis for the carrying on of business.

Railroads Learn the Lesson.

"Fraught as the experience was with disaster to thousands of investors in railroad securities it carried its lesson to such good effect, as far as the railroad are concerned, that these great railroad wars are a thing of the past. These gigantic struggles were directly responsible for the formation of the huge railroad combines of today that are able through the power of association to absolutely control the rates on all commodities produced in our vast domain, and through this power to make railroad investments not only secure in earning power but also to place them in a position of practical safety against depreciation.

The Wall Paper Trust.

'Another instance of the effect of restricted competition was furnished by the great wall paper factories. I well remember how a friend of mine, who represented one of the largest factories in the country for the Pacific Coast territory, complained of the fact that, in order to hold his trade and to do business in competition with other factories, he was obliged to cut prices to such an extent that on many of the orders taken by him the factory he represented would stand to lose considerable sums of money.

"This industrial warfare terminated by the forcing of a considerable number of the manufacturers into the bankruptcy courts. The survivors, having learned and paid dearly for their leson, found that the only way of escape was in combination. Hence the Wall Paper Trust.

Labor Unions as Examples.

"I desire for a moment to turn your attention towards another effect of previous unrestricted competition as illustrated by the labor unions of today. It seems but yesterday when the workers of the world—deprived through the marvelous mechanical revolution of the last century of their simple tools of production and herded together in the mammoth factories of modern times—were but an aggregation of units competing against one another for the chance of getting a job. Those left in the struggle were continually offering their labor power at a lower price than that paid to their more fortunate brethren.

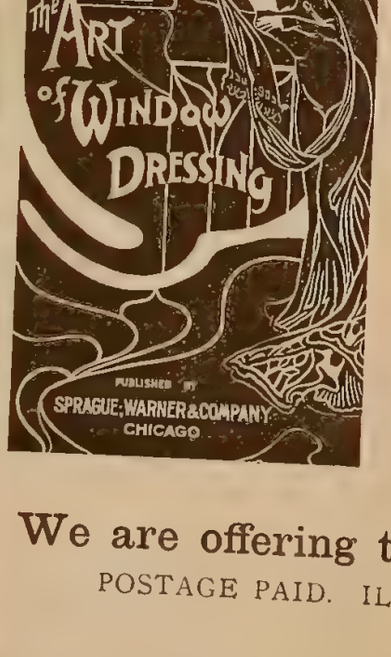
"These conditions of unrestricted competition for the jobs meant a lowering of wages for those employed. If persisted in long enough it would have spelled misery and want for the masses of the workers. Perceiving the inevitable outcome, the workers organized the labor unions with their present craft associations, powerful enough to practicallyy determine the conditions of their employment and to enforce wage scales that make it possible for the members to rear their families in reasonable comfort and maintain and even increase the general level of enlightment and mannood among the working classes.

Outside Interests Benefit.

"In passing let me remark that the influence of organized effort does not stop with the members within the organizations but that it has the tendency to create the general standard for the branch of labor or trade involved in the association. The workers outside the unions are the indirect beneficiaries of the accomplished results by the organizations of their craft in as much as the rate of their wages will be largely influenced by the rates paid to organized craftsmen.

"The same holds true in all other lines of effort for the reason that generally speaking, it is the more efficient and far seeing who perceive the necessity of association and by their united action they tend to raise the entire level of their craft or trade as the case may be. And right here I want to call attention to the fact that unrestricted competition can terminate in but one of three ways:

First, Either the weaker of the participants fail, or, second, if equally strong they both fail, or third, they effect a combination.



"No other outcome is possible.

"Let it be said to the credit of our industrial and commercial giants that they had brains enough to see and recognize these facts and wise enough to profit by them.

Retailers the Last.

"Among the last to participate in the benefits of organization are the retailers and it is only natural that it should be so. The interests involved are so vast and diversified, their numbers are so great and the very intensity of competitive struggle among them had a tendency to create feelings of personal bitterness and mistrust towards competitors. Unlike the workers who are gathered together in large numbers in shop and factory, they are isolated, almost entirely unacquainted with one another and ready to believe that every one else who happened to be in their line of busines was viciousness personified. But scant courtesy was generally shown between the individuals engaged in active competive warfare. The task of bringing them together seemed discouraging, yes, well nigh hopeless.

ASSOCIATION WORK.

Necessity Compelled Organization.

"Industrial and commercial evolution, however furnish the tools with which to work out its own ends.

"So also in this case.

"With the introduction of the department store and the chain store system, another factor in the retail distribution of commodities entered the field, a factor that had to be met by the individual retailer wheresoever located if he desired to perpetuate himself in the field. This simply compelled organization as the only method to achieve this purpose, but he was slow in making use of this weapon when the need for it first made its appearance and for this reason the department store was victor, hands down. In the fields first selected for operation and best adapted for this modern development of merchandising.

"I noticed some time ago an item in one of the large trade papers of the east telling of what the department store has done to the retailers in some sections there. It was stated that in Chicago where it probably has had its greatest development, nearly 22,000 retailers have been put out of business through its blighting influence, and that thousands of stores where formerly prosperous businesses had been located had been turned into cheap dwelling rooms in order to furnish some revenue to many nearly bankrupted landlords.

"In talking with a number of retailers, doing business in the very center of the city of New York a few years ago, the cry of all of them was that the department store was ruining them and driving them out of business. They certainly constitute a danger to the individual retailers the import of which has not yet dawned on the minds of our fellows here on the Pacific Coast. It is just beginning to be felt in spots but the near future is destined to make us better acquainted with this new creature of economic evolution.

Associations Here to Stay.

"But at last the Grocers' Association is a fact and it is here to stay. Comparatively small and weak as it is in most places yet it has so amply demonstrated its power for good that it is growing with an impetus that nothing can stop. It is more and more becoming recognized that it is only by the solid banding together of the individual grocers that results for the betterment of trade conditions can be accomplished. The jobber or manufacturer who will grant but scant hearing to the individual retailer presenting a case for his consideration will lend willing ear and give serious thought if the same case is presented by a body of men who are a unit in their demands and who stand as representatives of a powerful organization.

"It is self evident that the more solid and perfect the organization the more potent it is when it is set into motion. A fully organized body of grocers can practically dictate the terms and conditions of their trade. As this fact dawns on the minds of those yet outside the ranks of the associations, intelligent self interest, the most potent and determining factor in all economic development, will cause them to join hands with their fellows in order to advance their individual interests.

Advance by Helping Others.

"We shall yet come to realize the truth that our own welfare is dependent on the general welfare of the members of the grocery fraternity and that we help ourselves best by helping to build up the trade as a whole.

"It may possibly be asked by some of you who are present here this evening what results can show for our efforts in the past, and it is a legitimate question.

"Let me tell you that even if we were unable as yet to show any other result that the possibility of a gathering such as is here this evening, when we who formerly used to look upon one another with a feeling that might be characterized as akin to enmity can come together with hearty handshake and kindly words and feelings to one another and discuss the problems that confornt us, asking advice and giving advice, even then I should claim that every dollar that has even been invested in the Grocers' Association is a dollar well spent.

"But, great as is this achievement, we are able to show you some more tangible results of association work. When every one of you who are present this evening is able to save from $2.00 to $25 00 a month that was formerly given away in yeast cakes we claim that we have returned to you your investment in the shape of dollars manifold. This may be a comparatively trifling matter but it is full of promise for what the future may bring to us if we work together with a will and determination to accomplish.

Flour Question Pending.

"We have pending at this time a proposition that is being considered by the associated millers to guarantee to each of you a legitimate profit on flour, an article that we have been losing money on for these many years past if the cost of handling is considered. Prospects are that in a very short time we shall have carried this point successfully. If enough of us line up behind the movement the battle will be won without a shadow of a doubt.

Each Individual Responsible.

"But if no more has been accomplished do not blame the few of us who have spent freely of our time and energy to further our mutual interests.

"YOURS IS THE BLAME. YOU HAVE EITHER STOOD ALOOF FROM THE ASSOCIATION, THINKING IN THE FACE OF THE EXPERIENCES OF THE PAST THAT YOU WERE STRONG ENOUGH TO GO IT ALONE, REGARDLESS OF YOUR FELLOWS, OR YOU WHO HAVING JOINED THE ASSOCIATION HAVE BEEN CONTENT WITH PAYING YOUR DUES AND LEAVING IT TO US TO DO THE LABOR, IT IS ON YOU THE BLAME RESTS IF FAR GREATER RESULTS HAVE NOT BEEN OBTAINED.

"Let me tell you, friends, that not until you regard the work of the association as part of your own legitimate work and of the work that promises the best returns, not until you make it your business to attend the meetings and lend your helping hand in shaping the conditions of our trade, not until then will you have done your full duty to yourself, to your family and to your fellow grocers."

The Most Accurate Frontier.

As an instance of the jealousy existing in the relations between Norway and Sweden it may be noted that the boundary line between the two countries is the most minutely exact in Europe. In every parish touched by the line there is deposited an elaborate plan which is renewed every ten years, the whole of the work of surveying, etc., being carefully repeated each time.—Pearson's Magazine.

Qualities and the Sexes.

Outrageous.

Miss Listener—Then you didn't join that philanthropic organization? Mrs. Chatterbox—No; when I intimated to the ladies that I wanted to do something for charity one of them suggested that I might begin by holding my tongue.

Working Up.

Elsie—Your Uncle Harry seems awful young to be a doctor. Willie—Yes, he ain't a real growed up doctor yet. I expect he's only 'tendin' to children yet, so' to get some practice.

SUGAR.

Local—Market quiet with no change in prices

New York Dec, 19—Raw sugars have remained firm during the week on a basis of 3 5-8c for January shipments Raws are weak in Europe with estimates as to the crop increased. No change in refined.

New York, December 12—M. G. Wanzor & Co report:

"During the past week, holders were firm in their offerings and at the end were rewarded by an advance of 1-16c making the price 3⅝c. Weather conditions have favored sellers, since it has prevented the production of raws so that the refiners feared their present stocks would not be sufficient to cover the refined demand until the new crop sugars would be available. This caused refiners to enter the market at the advanced figures. Owing to labor troubles in Porto Rico the refiners can depend upon getting supplies promptly only from San Domingo, which does not raise over 50,000 tons during the season. It was expected the new crop could be counted on by January 15th. Developments the last few days show new sugars will not get here in necessary quantities before February 1st European sugars this week have been fairly steady.

Refined Sugars—Prices today at the time of writing this letter remain unchanged.

MOLASSES.

New York, December 12—N W. Taussig & Co. report:

"The supply of New Orleans molasses has been practically cleaned up and it will be a very difficult matter to supply the demand before Christmas. Receipts at New Orleans have decreased and the market has assumed a firmer tone, especially on cane juice and kettle cane juice now ranges from 1 to 2c per gallon higher than it did last week There is a good demand for black strap at an advance of fully 1c per gallon Foreign molasses remains unchanged."

MAPLE SUGAR.

Bellefontaine, O., December 4—F. N Johnson Co. reports.

"Our stocks of pure sap maple syrup is about exhausted Jobbers stocks are also very nearly exhausted. We believe that the same condition prevails everywhere, owing to the large consumption of maple syrup induced by the higher price of the fruit. There will be no new stock before next March or April. We expect to see the stock of maple syrup the lowest it has been in many years if it is not entirely cleaned up before the stock of 1906 is ready for the market."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. report:

"There is little buying going on Roasters are holding off until after the turn of the year."

New York December 15—Henry Nordlinger & Co. report:

"Our last report was dated November 15th. The market has remained unchanged since then, although the position of coffee has shown a perceptible improvement, especially in the sharp falling off of the receipts at Brazilian ports. The import cost of commercial grades is ruling at about ¼ to ⅜c. a lb. above the spot price, which has been the case with very few exceptions throughout the present season.

"The demand from inland distributors which at one time last month was quite general and healthy has fallen off, influenced, we think, by the erratic movement of prices on our exchange. Inasmuch as inland distributors carry very light stocks (which is verified by the majority of our correspondents) the demand from these sources is bound to be renewed at an early day, probably shortly after the turn of the year. It will then be found, however, that desirable qualities are not by any means as plentiful as the country at large thinks them to be.

"The visible supply of Brazil coffee in the United States, including what is afloat to this country, is now about four and one-half million bags. The consumption of Brazil coffee in the United States can safely be calculated for the remainder of the crop year to exceed three million bags, which promises to bring about a considerable reduction in the existing stocks here, even if it is found necessary to import an additional one and one-half million bags of commercial grades.

"The receipts at Rio and Santos show a considerable falling off during the first half of this month, in line with the expectations of those who were figuring on a ten million bag crop.

"With reference to the growing crop in Brazil, we can only report that the flowering in the State of Sao Paulo was very favorable, and in the Rio producing states good; therefore a larger crop should be expected of Santos, and a slightly smaller crop of Rios. Reliable estimates with regard to the size of the 1906-1907 crop cannot yet be given, and if some houses will nevertheless venture guesses, these should not be accepted at their face value. The past has conclusively proven that crop estimates made during November or December of the growing crop year are always millions of bags away from the actual result. We referred to this subject in detail in our report of the 1st of December last year when crop estimates of fourteen million bags for the 1905-1906 crop were current. Now that it is apparent that this crop will only produce about ten million bags, it is plain that no value can be placed on estimates made at this period of the year."

TEAS.

New York, December 12—John B. Brown & Co. report:

"No special cable has been received during the past week, continued mail advices from tea producing countries all show higher prices and decreased stocks.

The export of green teas in China will be the smallest for several years, which will have a natural tendency to increase prices throughout all tea centers after the commencement of the new year.

The unsettled political situation in Russia has had a tendency to retard business at Hankow, but as most of the crop of Congous has been marketed and shipped a decreased business for Russian account will have no downward influence on prices for remaining unsold stock.

Home Market—An active demand for teas is noted for all grades at prices slightly below the current market rates. Dealers are not disposed to sell, in consequence a quiet tendency is noted. Any large holder of tea could readily dispose of stock at most satisfactory prices. A hopeful feeling seems to be entertained by all and evidently higher prices will be secured. The stocks of teas throughout the country is small, under arrivals from producing countries will be the smallest on record."

RICE.

Temporarily the rice market is in a quiet condition, but jobbers and importers look for greater activity and a strong market after the new year opens.

New York, December 12—Lan Talmage Sons Co. report:

"The movement for the week has been of dull character, days of dullness succeeded by days of activity. Assortments, while far from satisfactory, are a much better form than for several weeks past. Prices are well sustained on Honduras, the only soft spots being in the off styles of the various grades offered by the wider assortment noted. Japan sorts, as early purchases are gradually being absorbed, are finding values more in correspondence with ruling rates at primary points, which are higher than recent values here.

"Advices from the South note fair movement on the Atlantic coast, offerings for planters' account are made sparingly in view of the known shortyield At New Orleans market is strong with good demand. Volume restricted by light output from the mills, which finds ready sale.

"In the interior, Southwest Louisiana and Texas, the market is firm. The most eager demand has been for the lower grades on Porto Rican account. Recently a renewed interest in Japan sorts has had its due effect, and holders are very firm in their ideas of value "Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm market on all transactions for immediate use and future delivery."

DRIED FRUITS.

The J. K. Armsby Co. report:

"All lines of dried fruits are firmly held, though there is practically no spot business being done.

"The Raisin Combine, since its meeting the other day, has taken no action, and it is not likely that it will do so until after January 1, as it has guaranteed prices until that time."

New York, December 20—Prunes peaches and apricots are firm but quiet Very few 40 s in 25-lb. boxes are offered below 7¼c. It is difficult to buy any desirable sizes below the 4c basis.

RAISINS.

Fresno, Cal., December 18—A mass meeting of the members of the California Raisin Growers' Combine yesterday voted against abandoning their combine with the packers. They were almost unanimous in deciding to leave the management in the hands of the 32 directors instead of transferring it to M Theo. Kearney, who has tried to disrupt the organization. They finally voted to give the directors power to dispose of the president and vice-president at any time. This will probably mean that as soon as the directors can get together Mr. Kearney will be thrown from the chair. The situation in raisins will then be considerably stronger.

New York, December 19—There is practically no movement in raisins. The trade is awaiting the result of the meeting of the Growers' Combine. Supplies of imported raisins have increased. The demand is light and the market considerably easier.

IMPORTED FIGS.

New York, December 9—Hills Bros Co report:

"Stocks in this market are unusually light for this season of the year. The carry-over in the first of the year will not be excessive. The trade will make no mistake in purchasing now for their early spring requirements, as much higher prices will probably be seen later on, owing to the market's strong position."

OLIVES

The crop of olives for California is being rapidly gathered. It promises to be one of the best in the history of the State. Owing to the short crop reported from Seville the business in California olives should show a marked improvement since the purity of the California product is now generally recognized while foreign oils are mixed largely with cotton seed oil shipped from the United States for that purpose.

Philadelphia, Pa., December 9—The "Grocery World" prints the following price list, showing the change of prices made in olives owing to the shortage in the producing countries:

Declines will be noted in certain sizes, which are fairly abundant. There is no probability of further immediate advances, although advances may come later.

Wieland Bros say:

"The crop of olives in Spain is nearly a total failure. Queen olives will be particularly scarce and prices have already risen 25 per cent."

HONEY.

Bishop, Cal.—The net output of selected honey this season for this district will be about 75 tons. This is at least 35 per cent less than the average crop.

NUTS.

New York, December 20—Almonds are weak and walnuts are easy. The heavy requirements of the holiday trade have been supplied and there is now almost nothing doing

BEANS.

Sirshimer Bros. say:

"With the exception of lima beans, there is very little doing at present. The market in general is firm and prices are maintained Most dealers expect prices to advance after the turn of the year, when there will probably be more demand again. The statistical position would seem to justify this expectation.

"Lima beans, as mentioned above, have been more active and have advanced another notch. They are in firm

U. S. Government Inspected.

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY
SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

hands, and there seems to be no anxiety on the part of any one holding limas to let go even at these advanced prices In view of this it is possible that the higher prices expected to rule on limas may be realized; the stock is not too heavy for this time of the year, and the demand is good. It may be, of course that jobbers in the East have enough to last until spring but there is some shipping going on all the time, and any sudden, heavy demand would be quickly felt in the share of even higher prices.

"Pink beans, being more plentiful than other varieties, seem to be a little more neglected just now than they were a few weeks ago. There is, however, no appreciable change in price, and we look for no material decline. We rather think that a good demand would raise the price in short order. They are still the cheapest bean on the list."

Chelsea, Mich., December 9—J. F. Wood reports:

"The bean market is very quiet at $1.45 to $1.47 net. Few are moving since the decline, since the farmers believe in higher prices. The trade are unwilling to pay them. Beans should be worth $1.60 to $1.75 in Michigan, and if there were no manipulation they would now be at that price."

Detroit, Fech, December 9—Lichtenberg & Sons report.

"Bean market is about 5c per bushel lower than a week ago. We do not look for any change until after the first of the year, when the trade throughout the country usually replenishes their stocks."

Ridgetown, Ont., December 7—Thos Steel & Co. report:

"A good stock of good quality beans is good property, since they are going to be scarce and the bean crop is no more than one-half as large as it was last year. We look for advances when the new year begins. We do not think Canada will have more than enough beans to satisfy home demand."

CANNED FRUITS.

The Central California Canneries report.

"The Eastern trade has been showing greatly increased interest in canned fruits of all kinds and are buying readily, indicating an advance after the opening of the new year.

"Tomatoes are a little weaker, which fact we attribute chiefly to small packers who need money to close up their year's accounts, clearing up their notes ings. Standard tomatoes are safe to advance after the holidays.

"All canned goods are good property at present prices. As showing the profit made by dealers who ordered at the opening of the season may be mentioned the fact that gallon pie apricots, which sold then in a large way at $1.75 are now held at $2.25 and hard to get at that price. Gallon blackberries opened at $2.75 and are now in demand at $3.75; gallon pie peaches have advanced from $2.50 to $2.90."

CANNED CORN.

Aberdeen, December 9—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report:

"The canned corn market is firmer. Cheap grades have all been cleaned up pretty well. Sellers are much firmer in their ideas. The lowest figures for Shoe Peg and Maine is 50c, less 1½c f. o. b factory. Fancy grades 55 to 60c, according to quality.

Baltimore, Md., December 9—H. H Taylor & Sons report:

"While there has been a very large pack of corn it is going rapidly into consumption at popular prices. Corn looks like a good speculation to hold for higher market. Many expect next year pack to be unprecedentedly light, since packers are losing money on it this year and will not be inclined to increase their holdings next year."

Baltimore, Md., December 8—The "Trade" reports:

"Quotations on corn are again quite low in this section, 45 to 50c being the prevailing quotations, and New York reports that 60c to 65c are best prices for State pack there. Maine is, however, in a happy position, being probably sold out, and Maine corn is higher

New York, N. Y., December 6—The special correspondent of the "Trade" reports:

"The market is still active, but without change in quotations. There is a vast quantity of poor corn weighing down the market, although 300,000 cases have been sold since the packing season closed. The market will do better after there is a change in the situation of cheap corn."

CANNED TOMATOES.

New York, December 20—The week has shown gradually increased strength for Standard goods. The market has been strong and more active. Offerings of 90c have been refused, although one or two large lots were reported sold at that price. Several smaller lots were sold earlier in the week at 92½c. The price asked is now 95c factory.

New York, December 11—Jobbers have seldom if ever been so highly supplied with tomatoes at this time of the year. The source of supplies during the past few months has been the jobbers who have had more stocks than they required for their own present needs and were satisfied to have the profits represented by the difference between the cost of the goods and the market price. The situation is stronger statistically than for several years at this time. A large portion of the available supply is in the hands of what is generally spoken of as the Syndicate, the members of which are financially strong The only uncertain element in the situation is the quantity held by parties outside the Syndicate, and the ability of the various outside holders to maintain prices. Recent developments tend to show that these outsiders have as great confidence in the future of the market as the members of the so called Syndicate, and are satisfied to wait until the exigencies of consumption compel jobbers to renew supplies.

Aberdeen, Md., December 9—Strasbaugh, Silver & Co. report.

"The tomato market seems to be tending upward again. Sellers are asking 92½c and 90c is the lowest figure. Many lots of 87½c have been turned down this week. Of course, off standards have been going for less money, and possibly some off standards sell at this low figure and have been called standards Judging from the volume of orders that we have received on the basis of 90c it is believed that this is the popular price. Some 2-lb. tomatoes, full standards, are being sold at 72½c f. o. b factory."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, N. Y., December 20—Canned salmon is firm but quiet. There is reported a quiet movement in red Alaska during the past two weeks that involves sales of about 100,000 cases. Sockeye are strong.

Seattle, Wash., December 9—The "Trade Register" says:

"Fish Commissioner T. R. Kershaw reports the salmon pack of 1905 by districts as follows:

District—	Cases.	Value.
Puget Sound.....1,018,641		$5,615,432.25
Columbia River (Wn. side)....	157,886	$852,409.5
Willapa Harbor..	14,950	53,125.0
Grays Harbor...	22,050	79,425.00
Totals 1,213 527		$6,600,391.8

"There were 51,586,126 salmon turned out of the State Hatcheries and 22,000,000 by the Government Hatcheries. The value of the output of the various hatcheries for 1905 for the entire state was $10 361,366.80.

"An estimate of the Coast pack, recently made, is as follows: Sockeye 1,831,620 cs.; red Alaska, 1,517,630 cs. cohoe and silvers, over 223,000 cs. inks, chums and humpbacks, about 550,000; total, under 4,500,000 cs."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, December 12—E. O. Bowers & Co. report.

"There is a firmer feeling in the market; ¼-mustards are quoted at $2.30 to $2.45; without keys $2.00 to $2.10; ¾ mustards. $2.00 to $2.10. Stocks in the hands of both packers and commission men are unusually light by comparison with former seasons. With the demand which is naturally looked for following the first of the year, prices will probably advance materially."

FISH.

New York, December 15—Strohmeyer & Arne Co. report:

Holland Herrings—Stocks here very small and nothing coming from Holland. Prices very firm and likely to go higher.

Scotch Herrings—In fair demand and very firm.

Irish Mackerel—Most curers have closed their stations and there is little more to come forward from Ireland Higher prices are looked for.

Norway Mackerel—Almost nothing to come forward any more from Norway. Large fish are very scarce and higher and small fish are held very firmly for considerably higher prices.

Imported Sardines—No change in the situation. They are very strong and in good demand.

Sprats are higher.

CANNED OYSTERS.

New York, December 12—B O. Bower & Co. report:

"Demand for the product of the Atlantic Coast factories has been greater than the supplies up to the present time The majority of the factories are oversold and are cautious about booking orders. Present market prices, f. o. b Savannah, Ga., or Charleston, S. C.: No. 1 lightweights, 37½c per dozen; No. 1 standard four-ounce, 65c per dozen; No 1 standard five-ounce, 70c per dozen; No 1 standard eight-ounce $1.25; No 1 standard ten-ounce $1.95."

CHEESE.

Wiel and Bros. say:

"Edam cheese has advanced on account of short supplies."

HAY.

Somers & Co. say:

"Shipments of hay from now on promise to be comparatively heavy. The rain which we are now having and which is reported to have extended all over the State comes at a time when greatly needed, and means much to the producers of hay.

"General prices show no change, and we still have to report dull town trade and very little doing in the export line The Government opened bids December 18th for 3500 tons of hay for shipment to the Philippines and it is certainly to be hoped that San Francisco will be awarded a good share of the quantity taken.

"The alfalfa demand still continues good, while straw continues to drag."

Cigars and Tobacco

The United Cigar Stores Company, which corporation is largely represented in San Francisco, paid an annual dividend of 7 per cent on preferred stock December 15.

The American Tobacco Company has declared a regular quarterly dividend of 1¾ per cent of the preferred stock, payable January 2.

The American West Indies Trading Co. have made arrangements with Rinaldo Bros. & Co., of San Francisco, to become the sole distributors for the popular and well-known brand, La Turina, throughout the State of California.

There have been three Rough Riders in Kaiki uniform going up and down the streets of San Francisco for the past three weeks. The other day an artist caught a snap shot of them at Union Park, and the Adovcate herewith presents a reproduction of the same. It is agreed on all hands that this troope is doing the most effective advertising ever done for any cigar in this market, and they promise to extend their usefulness in a few days by visiting the classic shades of Berkeley and the peaceful town of Alameda, after which they will spend some time in the leading cities of the interior and of Southern California. Dealers will find it to their advantage to have their Rough Rider cigars in a good place when the men of war visit their towns, for if they are they should receive a good benefit in the way of increased business in this superior nickel smoke.

J. L. Jerichau, distributor for the Rough Riders and Publicos cigars, has a new wagon which is the talk of the own. It is recognized as one of the finest rigs in the wholesale trade, and the decoration of it is of the very highest type of the painter's art. On one side of the wagon is painted a large fac simile of the well-known end of the Rough Riders cigar box, depecting the Rough Riders making that memorable charge at San Juan Hill. On the opposite side is an equally striking reproduction of the trade mark of the Publicos, Mr. Jerichau's new clear Havana cigar. By the way, Mr. Jerichau is doing things with these cigars. The Rough Riders he has placed on more than a thousand stands in this city and in Alameda county, and is constantly increasing the list. The Publicos is also a winner in Mr. Jerichau's hands, and he has already had to greatly increase his initial orders in order to surply the trade, repete orders coming in beyond his most sanguine expectations.

The well-known and progressive cigar and tobacco house of Ehrman Bros & Co. was founded in 1898 by Al and Lex Ehrman, two energetic young men of up-to-date business ideas and enthusiasm. The house has been prosperous from the start, but the foundation of its real success came with the taking of the Optimo account of A. Santaella & Co. in 1900. Since then the business has grown by leaps and bounds until now the annual sales of this one cigar through this firm have reached a total of over 10.000 000 annually. The firm was located for many years at 226 California street, but on account of their expanding trade they were compelled to seek larger quarters, which were secured in the latter part of 1904 at 225 California treet, across the street from their old stand. Here they have far greater facilities for the conduct of their extensive business and for the carrying of the increased stocks which the necessities of their trade requires. In the past few months the firm has added two important accounts, the Pathfinder, a superior nickel cigar, and the plug cut tobaccos of the Berry-Suhling Tobacco Company. Under the astute management of Ehrman Bros & Co the Optimo has become the most notable success in the clear Havana line in this city, and they have already become important factors in the tobacco line because of the success they have attained with the Berry-Suhling account.

The American Tobacco Company has purchased and paid for out of surplus $5,200,000 of its 4 per cent bonds and has surrendered them to the trustees, the Morton Trust Company for cancellation. The bonds have been cancelled, thus reducing the outstanding issue from $78,689.100 to $63,489,100.

The Tampa correspondent of tobacco under date of December 2, says: The A Santaella & Co. cigar factory, in its enlarged completeness, greatly impressed and pleased the distinguished government officials who were here last week. This factory is a marvel, as well as their business which has grown to such enormous proportions. The most perfect order, system and neatness prevail throughout the immense structure. There are seventeen packing tables in the long packing room, and twenty-five banders decorating the cigars. There are 605 cigar makers in the working room, rolling into fine, attractive shape 95,000 Optimo cigars a day, which amounts to a out 500,000 cigars a week. Their order books shows a footing of 3,000 000 cigars and over. Ehrman Bros., the noted San Francisco dealers, take about a million Optimos every month, and on the file is an order for 400,000 from one customer who calls for the Reina Victoria size.

Eureka—A new name has been added to the firm of Nichols & Barnum, F. E. Moll of San Francisco taking over the management of the stock of tobaccos. Some changes in the appearance of the store will be made and the tobacco department will be enlarged. Mr. Moll, formerly with C. B. Poar & Co. of San Francisco, is also a manufacturer of cigars and will place the home product on the market. The change was rendered necessary by the rapidly growing trade.

ORGANIZE AGAINST TRUST.

Baltimore, M. D, Dec. 5—Since the advent of the United Cigar Stores Co. in Baltimore the local independent dealers have come together and organized an association for the protection of the mutual interests of its members. This organization has been duly incorporated, and papers of incorporation have been filed in the Superior Court, the capital stock of the association being fixed at $1000. The purposes of the body are set forth as to further the general interests of the retail cigar dealers of Baltimore.

PASSING OF TRUST TAG CO.

The tobacco trust has tired of the free premium business, and the Florodora Tag Co., the subsidary corporation, which was organized for the sole purpose of attending to the redemption of tobacco tags cigarette box fronts, cigar-bands and coupons of various kinds, quietly passed out of existence at the end of November. The trust has for a year or more past been steadily curtailing the number of brands in connection with which it offered premiums, until they have now been reduced to a minimum. Where a few years ago there were actually hundreds, if not thousands of brands of trust products, ranging all the way from cheap cigarettes, cheroots and stogies, to cigars, plug and smoking tobaccos that carry tags, bands or coupons, these have been withdrawn until a limited number of brands of plug tobacco are left with any premium value. The expense of maintaining the Florodora Tag Co. undoubtedly diverted an enormous sum of money in the aggregate from the trust treasury. The expense for clerical work alone must have run into tens of thousands of dollars annually, to say nothing of the cost of the premiums, printing and advertising, and the maintainance of one or more tag coupon and band redemption depots in all of the larger cities throughout the United States.

Each of the three pleaded extenuating circumstances, claiming that the boy told them that the tobacco was for his father. Officer Folsom, who made the arrest, also asked the judge to be lenient as he felt that the offenders had not wilfully broken the law. He explained that he took the matter up at the instance of the school board, owing to the fact that youngsters were given to smoking in close proximity to the buildings.

The grocery is located at No. 261 North Fair Oaks avenue, opposite Throop Institute, and was entered some time during the night through a small back window. One of the peculiar features of the affair was the evident familiarity of the robbers with the location of the grocer's strong box. Mr. Green usually keeps a sack of small change in a box in the rear of the store and the compartment in which the box and sack are usually kept was thoroughly ransacked but no money had been left.

Sacramento—Fire damaged the building and grocery stock of Williams & Schweitzer on December 6 to the extent of about $4000. L. P. Williams, County Auditor, is senior member of the firm.

Attracting Trade

Enthusiasm in Advertising.

Enthusiasm is the life of trade, and also the breath of life in advertising. Healthy enthusiasm is always to be applauded. Not the irrational, headstrong ebullitions coming from those who imagine vainly that they know it all, but an enthusiasm born in confidence of goods and confidence in persons of ability to make goods move.

Enthusiasm in advertising means precisely the same thing and its influence is making itself felt the world over. The timid advertiser never succeeds, the tentative advertiser somelimes, but the thoroughly enthusiastic advertiser surely wins the goal of his ambition.

It is the knowledge of men and things, backed by h althy enthusiasm, that makes the successful advertiser.

There is something that is contagious about such enthusiasm, and it imparts a character to the advertising that carries conviction to those whom it reaches.

Get Out of the Beaten Track.

The most effective window dresser is the one who can avoid getting into a rut. The window displays that attract the most attention are those that possess a character and an individuality of their own.

The upto-date dealer should strive to have his window dressed in a style entirely different from that of every window display in the vicinity. If a dealer round about thinks that a certain brand is the finest things to show, do not follow meekly in his tracks. If the others show pyramids, you show horizontal d signs; if they display a flat arrangement of goods, you make your display perpendicular.

If you have tried autumn leaves and autumn vines and flowers for a while, go suddenly to the other extreme and show a bare window as regards all trimmings and decorations, for it is necessary to avoid slavish copying of one's own successes as well as the successes of business competitor. Originality is a necessary quality in all advertising and especially window dressing.

A Fish Window.

Now that the reign of the succulent oyster is in full sway a fish display is appropriate. While Friday alone is considered "fish day," and is so generally observed, oysters are eaten every day in the week.

The foundation of our display this week is composed entirely of oyster shells, strewn promiscuously over the floor. The shells should be thoroughly cleaned before being placed in the window by washing them in salt water, for one am perfectly willing to cut them out."

L. M. Lasse l Co., Martinez.—"The merchants in this vicinity suffer from having some wholesalers in San Francisco 'butt in' and sell to hotels, boarding houses, etc. We can not figure that the retailer is to blame in this instance, as we, the retailers, call on parties who are sold by the wholesalers and make all kinds of endeavors to procure the business. The particular case which we might mention only injures the business of the retailers in this locality. We are not averse toward mentioning names. The firm we have reference to is ——— ——— of San Francisco, who quote the hotels and boarding houses about the same prices we can purchase for. They not only quote, but sell them. We are willing to cut out any firms who sell to parties who would be customers of the retailer."

(The name of the wholesale house mentioned in this letter has been omitted until they can be communicated with by the State Grocers' Association.)

Rice & Clary, Modesto.—"About once every year in the spring there are traveling salesmen who come to our country and sell to farmers, making up carloads. We find it very difficult to find out the name of the firms as it is all done on the quiet. If we can get hold of the names of any of these firms, we will be glad to send them in. We have always fought this way of doing business. We positively refuse to do business with any firm that sells to any one except the retailer. We further agree to help to right the wrong with any limit in our power."

L. & E Seligman, Dinuba.—"The merchants of this community suffer to a small extent from wholesalers selling to consumers. We would gladly refuse to do business with any firm that should insist upon keeping this class of trade."

J. M Newman Co., Colfax.—"We suffer more or less from this trade abuse. The hotels and boarding houses seem to be able to get all the supplies they need from the wholesale houses."

The McCormick-Saeltzer Co., Redding.—"Several Sacramento jobbers and produce houses sell to the hotels, lumber camps and restaurants in this vicinity. We would be willing to discontinue purchasing from firms who offend in this regard."

A. Jacobs & Co., Whittier.—"The produce and seed houses and mills are the worst offenders in this regard. We are willing to discontinue purchasing from firms who sell consumers, and have already done so whenever it was brought to our attention."

Weavervil e Supply Co., Weaverville.—"We are too far from the railroad to suffer much from this abuse, although there have been a few times when the wholesalers have secured some of our trade. We are willing to cut out firms that interfere with the retail trade."

D. W. Strahan, Santa Ynez.—"I am willing to cut out any firm who insists on selling goods or groceries to people not regular merchants or grocers."

F. A. Antell & Brother, Soquel.—"We do not buy any goods whatever of any firm that sells to consumers if we know it."

W. F. Wilkie, Truckee.—"We have had no trouble with wholesalers selling to hotels, etc., here and certainly are in favor of cutting out any wholesaler who sells to the retail trade."

Joseph Fowler, Duarte.—"I do not think the wholesalers sell to consumers in this territory. We should be willing to cut out any firm that offended in that respect."

Parsons &McNaught, Santa Ana.—"We have no complaint to make of wholesalers selling to our customers."

C. Nammany Lorin.—"I do not know of any wholesalers selling to consumers in this territory. I would be willing to refuse to buy from a firm that did so."

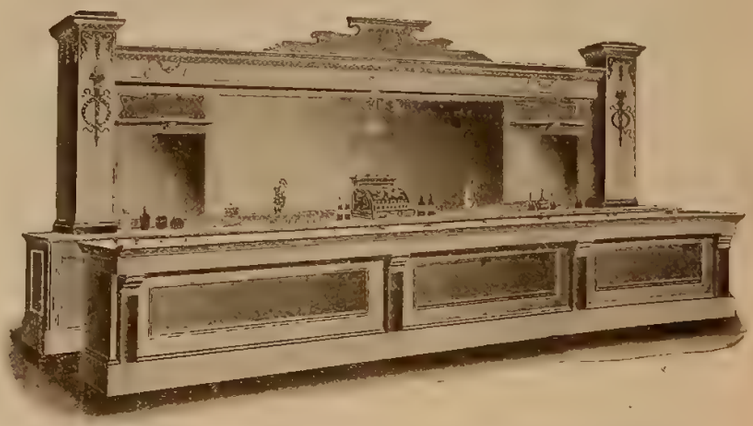
PURE OLIVE OIL.

Retailers will be interested in the following letter from Eugene E. Christian, the noted naturalist and food expert of New York, in regard to the Nicelle Olive Oil of the Seville Packing Company:

New York Nov. 10, 1905.

Seville Packing Co., 202 Franklin Street New York City.

Gentlemen:—I received the case of Nicelle Olive Oil you so kindly sent me and give you herewith a very brief report of the test I made of it.



Since the imitation and adulteration of Olive Oil has become so universal and since the inquiry comes to me almost daily in my professional work for a pure olive oil, it is a duty I owe to the pure food cause to say that I have tested your Nicelle brand of Olive Oil by both natural and chemical methods, and I find that it contains nothing but a pure rich olive fat which is one of the most healthful, wholesome and necessary food elements in nature.

I thank you very kindly for introducing me to this luxury. It has solved for me a very perplexing question.

Respectfully yours

Eugene E. Christian.

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Nance O'Neil has been the feature of the week theatrically. On Monday and Tuesday nights she presented "Magda," on Wednesday and Thursday nights, "Camille." Saturday and Sunday she will appear in "Elizabeth." Next week will be given up to "Monna Vanna." Miss O'Neil has climbed to the top of the theatrical ladder and is today recognized as the leading emotional actress of the American stage. Her strong face and fine physique make more impressive her wonderful dramatic force and in everything she is a true artist. McKee Rankin and a strong company make up her support. The present engagement at the Grand will be notable in the dramatic annals of San Francisco.

TIVOLI.

On Wednesday evening the Tivoli gave its first production of "Orpheus in Hades," its great Christmas special. The theatre has been making great preparations for this production for several weeks. There has been a great deal of new scenery, many gorgeous costumes and the chorus will be largely strength ened. There will be the introduction of new ballets, marches, songs and specialties. The play tells the story of Orpheus and Eurydice and the descent of the musician into the depths of Hades to find his beautiful wife, with whom Pluto has fallen in love. The cast includes Elenor Fredericks, Cora Tracy, Gertrude Zimmer, Baron Berthald, Arthur Cunningham, Teddy Webb and a strong company.

ALCAZAR.

"Brown's In Town" has been a byword for the numerous clientele of the Alcazar this week. The play is decidedly American and its web of comical complications is all spun from the happenings of a sunny summers day. All the fun is clean and sparkling. There are numerous catchy songs. Next week, this theatre is to produce a dramatization of Mark Twain's beautiful story, "The Prince and the Pauper." This is a story of the little Prince of Wales, who afterwards became Edward VI, and how he exchanged clothes with Tom Canty, a beggar lad. The two boys are so much alike that the little Prince is thrown into the street by a soldier that was angry because the Prince had reprimanded him for striking the boy. The play will be cast with special care.

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

"The Thoroughbreds" have been the attraction at the California this week. The company is an exceptionally large one and the program includes numerous excellent vaudeville numbers. Among the most effective are a contortionist, a strong man who breaks cobble stones with his naked fists, two buck and wing dancers, and a clever sketch in which two ladies indulge in sharp repartee. The show opens with a musical burlesque entitled "A Good Run for the Money," and concludes with another sketch entitled, "The Union Men." The chorus is large and, as usual, is splendidly costumed.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

James Neill and his charming wife, Edythe Chapman Neill, are presenting the beautiful drama, "If I Were King," in which F. H. Sothern achieved his greatest triumph and played in three successive seasons. Mr. Neill plays the part of Francois Villon, the vagabond poet and lover. Mrs. Neill is the beautiful Lady Catherine de Vancelles. The cast is a long one and brings out the full strength of the Bishop players. There has been no expense or pains spared in the preparations of this piece which will be staged with more than the usual elaborateness.

ALHAMBRA.

A revival of "East Lynne" is proving quite popular at the Alhambra. The piece has for years been a favorite with the public who never seem to tire of its pathos. Herschell Mayall plays the leading role, which fits him like a glove. Edna Elismere is seen in the great dual role of Lady Isabelle and Madame Vine. The young actress adds fresh laurels to her already great success. For Christmas week Bob Fitzsimmons is promised in a play entitled "A Fight for Love," which was written especially for him by Hal Reid and in which he has toured the entire country.

NEW CENTRAL THEATRE.

Saturday evening, December 23, will see the grand opening of the New Central Theatre under the direction of H. W. Bishop. This theatre has been entirely refitted, recarpeted and rearranged. There will be produced for the first time in San Francisco "An Eye Witness." This is a melodrama introducing a sensational scene where an automobile rushing over a draw bridge jumps the chasm just as the bridge is rising. There will be an entirely new company including Elmer Booth and Marie Howe. There will be popular prices ranging from 10 to 50 cents.

FISCHERS.

Vaudeville with brief musical comedy makes up the program at this house. There is a performance every evening and matinee every afternoon.

CHUTES.

Over 200 juvenile actors assist in the production of Bothwell Browne's musical extravaganza "Cleopatra-up-to-date," in which Bothwell Browne plays Cleopatra. Numerous specialties help make this program popular with the patrons of the big free theatre. Barnes' diving elks from the Portland exposition have excited much attention. These elks dive off an artificial precipice into a pond of water especially prepared for the purpose. With the Circle Swing, the Scenic Railroad and other concessions this great pleasure ground affords sufficient variety to keep all its visitors interested.

ALASKA PACKERS' FLEET.

The Alaska Packers' Association has purchased from Pope & Talbot the iron ships Star of France and Star of Italy, and from Capt. R. Sudden the steel bark Abby Palmer, all high-class vessels. The association now owns 2 steel, 6 iron and 8 wooden square-riggers, 2 schooners, 2 steel and 56 wooden steamers and 6 launches. The 1906 fleet of ships and barks of the association will consist of the following: Ship Star of Russia, tonnage 1981, barks Abby Palmer 1943, Euterpe 1318, Hima'ayat 1027, Coolinga 1091, Electra 985, Will W. Case 583, Servia 1867, Levi G. Burgess 1617, Isaac Reed 1542, ships Star of France 1644, Star of Italy 1613, Bavtutha 1627, Tacoma 1739, Bohemia 1623, Indiana 1697, Santa Clara 1535, Llewellyn J. Morse 1393, Centennial 1287, Chas. E. Moody 2004, and Columbia 1172. The Columbia, Isaac Reed, Levi G. Burgess, Servia and Chas. E. Moody are chartered vessels.

A Good Salesman, But—

He was a good salesman.

Few people entered his store without being impressed favorably with some of his lines, if they did not actually make purchases.

He was one of those merchants who could interest the people, but he was a might poor collector. One day he found himself unable to meet the demands of his creditors and the sheriff put up the shutters.

How can such a man be saved from his own follies or his own weakness?

Here is the combination:

A good salesman.

A poor credit man and collector.

Sell strictly for cash.

Many a merchant whose ability to sell goods was far superior to that of his competitors, but whose success was slow, due to failure to force collections, has solved his trouble by absolutely refusing to give credit and selling for cash.

The writer has in mind a merchant in Southern Minnesota who has made a splendid showing since he went on the strictly cash system three years ago.

Before that it was different. He never failed any year to do a big business, and counting out the bad accounts, it is doubtful if he ever showed a dollar of actual net porfit.

Sell goods he could, and sell them all around his competitors. He was such a good salesman that he could frequently get a better price for the same article than his competitors. He had the community thoroughly impressed with the splendid quality of his lines.

But he went down to defeat every time he tackled the collection problem. He was too good a fellow, well liked and liked the people so well that it was difficult for him to go after the slow pays as he should.

One day a friend advised him to put up the strictly cash sign and stick to it. He did.

In a nice way he has explained to the community probably many times over why he cannot give credit to anyone. They have taken their credit purchases to other stores. He gets the cash. He says he would not go back to the old system for anything.

Here is a man who had to adopt the strictly cash system of merchandising in self defense. There are many others like him who ought to adopt it for the same reason next Monday morning.—Commercial Bulletin.

ATTRACTING TRADE.

which will make them look fresh and clean. If you have any sea shells or salt water souvenirs, they will add to the attractiveness of the display.

Fish kegs are used for the bases that sustain the arch. These kegs should also be thoroughly cleaned before being placed on exhibition. A striking effect can be produced by painting the staves red, white and blue.

The two columns are constructed of canned fish goods. The great variety of goods of this class can be used to excellent purpose and present a striking appearance. Across the top of the columns place a board of the same width as the cans. In this board may be displayed any such line of goods as may be desired, preference of course being given to that pertaining to fish.

To make the arch, tack boards of light pine onto cleats, after which mark the arch out with pencil or chalk and saw away the superfluous wood. Make two of these arches, join them with cleats and cover with pink cheesecloth, or any other color desired. The outside of the arch should be decorated with oyster crackers and fancy cookies.

To make the sphere in the center obtain a number of barrel hoops and fasten them at various angles, inside of one another, so that when covered with white cheesecloth they will support it and make a perfect sphere. On this cheesecloth fasten the various articles in place with cords that pass around the hoops. The sign, "Fresh Fish," may be made with smoked herring.

If it can be arranged a small fountain playing in the background would add a unique feature to the display. Or a light spray of water might be directed on to the glass in front, causing a very novel effect.—Modern Grocer.

Novel Advertising Idea.

Davenport, Ia.—Hickey Bros., the enterprising cigar dealers on East Third street, have as novel a window display as was ever arranged in Davenport.

In their west window they have six large live turtles, each with a letter printed on its back. The various letters assembled in order would spell "Hickey," and the Hickey Bros. offer a reward of $50 to any one who will discover the turtles lined up in a row so as to spell the name "Hickey."

As yet no one has claimed the $50, although there is one man who thinks he is entitled to at least $25, as he says he saw them lined up so as to spell "Hickey" backwards.

The window is generally surrounded by a good sized crowd, anxious to gain at least a share of the handsome cash prize should the turtles happen to line up in the manner designated.

Novel Use for Court Plaster.

The advertisement of a Los Angeles grocer and liquor dealer, appearing on the cover of a directory to be circulated in Pasadena was partially covered with a strip of black court plaster. The object was to obliterate a line referring to liquors under the assumption that it would be offensive to Pasadena people. But it caused everybody to remark and was the most effective advertising done by the firm. Those who could not guess what was under the plaster carefully raised it until they could read "wines and liquors." It is even suspected that the advertiser appreciated the human trait of prying into things and suggested the obliteration scheme.

Points to Watch

CHEESE—
Mild California cheese is scarce.

BLOATERS—
Prices of bloaters are higher than last year, with indications pointing to continued high prices for the year.

CANNED PEAS—
A very heavy shortage in nearly every packing district makes these goods valuable property at present prices.

CANNED TOMATOES—
The last week saw the "Syndicate" buying all 3's offered at 95c in New York and prices advanced from 95c to $1.10.

TEAS—
It is estimated that the exports of green tea to the United States and Canada for this year will be less than 15,500,000 pounds as against 20,000,000 pounds for last year.

RICE—
At the present time the rice market is quiet, but greater activity is expected after the turn of the year, when it is believed prices will go higher, as stocks are less than usual.

RAISINS—
The Growers' Combine has asked for bids for the 12,000 tons of raisins they still hold. If the California Canners' Association secures the stock the market will be largely strengthened.

DRIED FRUIT—
Owing to the shortage of practically all Pacific Coast dried fruits it is considered a practical certainty that there will be advances on many, if not all lines, except raisins, shortly after the New Year.

WILL ATTEND CONVENTIONS

Of Grocers' Association and Natural Food Co. at Niagara Falls.

Mr. H. P. Getchell, the affable representative of the Natural Food Co., is leaving for Niagara Falls in the middle of January to attend the annual convention of the National Retail Grocers Association after which there is to be held the regular annual convention of all the representatives of the Natural Food Co..

This company makes it a regular practice to call all their representatives to the factory once each year for the exchange of ideas and for general discussion as to the best methods of improving upon their already splendid organization.

Mr. Getchell called at the Advocate office and left with us some very handsome printed invitations from his company to visit the home of "Shredded Wheat" and "Triscuit."

Our best wishes attend Mr. Getchell on his journey and we are certain that among reports of progress made by representatives of this company few, if any, will be entitled to greater encomiums than that of our esteemed friend.

DEALERS A UNIT.

Retail Merchants All Over the State Opposed to Wholesalers Selling Consumers.

The recent article in the Retail Grocers' Advocate referring to the practice of wholesalers and manufacturers selling to consumers has awakened a very general interest among the retail grocers throughout the entire State. Letters are arriving every day from retail grocers in different communities and without exception, they all express their willingness to refuse to patronize a firm that may insist upon selling parties who would otherwise be customers of retail dealers.

The practice of selling to customers does not rest entirely with wholesale grocers.

It frequently happens that the grocers will find the hotels and restaurants that once bought goods from them discontinuing. Inquiry as to the cause invariably results in the dealers being informed that the establishment is now buying direct from wholesalers. It frequently happens that the very firm the customer is buying from is a firm that has been supplying the retailer himself.

The same thing happens with provision and commission houses.

They will sell to the retail dealer eggs, butter and provision and then will supply the houses that ordinarily would buy from the retail dealer and sell to them at the same figure they did to the retail dealer.

It will be remembered that this practice was condemned without a dissenting vote at the convention of the State Grocers' Association held in August and resolutions were passed in this regard.

State Secretary Acting.

State Secretary Connolly is now conferring with the various affiliating members throughout the State and the matter will probably be taken up actively immediately upon the settlement of the flour question.

Among the expression of opinion received during the past week are the following:

Thos. Cornwall & Son, Santa Barbara, Cal.—"There is no harmony in the trade in this city and therefore the grocers suffer in many ways. We agree with every idea advanced in the recent article in the Advocate and would be surprised at a dissenting voice.

Common honesty is at the bottom of the whole business. We think that the wholesaler should abide by his trade although we are aware that in many instances they do not sell to the trade only.

The retail firm that is recognized as the wholesaler is the greatest curse of the trade and yet the very existence of these firms is due to the retail grocers themselves since, by buying from these firms, they give them the purchasing power which enables them to buy in wholesale quantities and thus secure the bed rock price which enables them to undersell the other retail dealers.

We know of many instances in which the grocers of this city have suffered from this abuse both on contract and uncontracted trade. The unknown volume of this illegitimate business is great and much of it must, per force, remain unknown. We feel that it would

TWO MORE MILLS.

Globe Milling Co. to Get Company in Its Policy of Maintaining Prices.

DELAY AMONG OTHER MILLS.

Retail Grocers Present Strength That Cannot be Ignored Longer.

When the retail grocers of San Francisco and Alameda county over a year ago asked the mills of San Francisco to fix and maintain a retail selling price on their flour, the Globe Milling Co. at once agreed to their request.

The flour of the Globe Mills at once sprang into general popularity as it not ony possessed satisfactory quality but paid the retail grocer a satisfactory profit as well.

At a conference of the retail grocers and millers held recently, the representatives of every mill in San Francisco expressed the sentiment that it would be a benefit to the trade as well as themselves to have the retail selling price of flour maintained. Without a dissenting voice, each man expressed his willingness to list the brands of flour put out by his particular mill.

Certain of the mills stated that they intended fixing the retail selling price on their flour the first of the year.

State Secretary Connolly during the past week has taken up the matter with the different mills.

The Del Monte mills have already sent out notices to the wholesale grocers stating that they must insist upon having not only the selling price on their various packages of meals and breakfast foods maintained, but also of their flour. They report that they have received a letter from Wellman Peck & Co. stating that they would take a great pleasure in compying with their requests in this regard.

The American Milling Co. have notified State Secretary Connolly that they intend to fix the retail selling price on their brands of flour on the first of the year They asked of Mr. Connolly if there were any particular form to be employed.

The other San Francisco mills said that they have not yet had time to make the arrangements to fix the price of the goods although they intend to do so as soon as they can get to it.

Retail Grocers Waiting.

Some of the mills do not seem to realize how great an interest the grocery trade takes in this matter.

Without exception, the mills know that the grocers in Alameda county have been able to make it profitable for the Globe Grain and Milling Company to maintain the price of their brand of flour in Alameda county. They have also learned by bitter experience that it has been very unprofitable for the mills that have not maintained the retail selling price of their goods in that market.

The reason that they have not learned the same lesson in San Francisco has been because the organized grocers of San Francisco have never demanded that the mills maintain the selling price of their flour.

The organized retail grocers have merely asked the mills to show the same consideration that they have shown the grocers of other communities. And they have asked this very meekly and very quietly and very humbly.

Over a year has elapsed since their moderate and mild voiced request went up to the mills. For a year the mills have been giving them evasive answers in public and "knocking" the proposal in private.

Prepared for Action.

Through the efforts of State Secretary Frank B. Connolly, a "Committee of 100," consisting of the largest retail grocers of San Francisco was brought together. This committee has DEMANDED that the mills give them consideration in this regard.

Those men are prepared to buy and sell only the flours that will pay them a profit.

Each of these one hundred retail grocers will be able to influence at least five more retail grocers.

The Retail Grocers' Advocate will reach several thousand retail grocers who otherwise would know nothing of conditions.

The mills will find that if they refuse this reasonable DEMAND of the grocers making up the "Committee of One Hundred," that they will feels the effects of their folly even in the Southern California and other territory in this State where there is commercial peace as far as the flour mills are concerned.

It seems too bad that it should be made necessary to again bring forward these facts.

The flour mills themselves will profit as largely as the retail grocers by protecting the welfare of the retail grocery trade.

The grocers for years have been distributing the product of the flour mills with a less margin than the actual cost of handling the flour.

It is an outrage that this thing should have continued so long.

It would be Doubly Outrageous now for any mill to seek to interfere with the movement to better these conditions.

The Advocate hopes that before the next issue, which will be the first in 1906 that it will be able to report that every mill in San Francisco has decided to lend its strength and influence towards helping its customers among the retail grocers to make money.

French sardine catch is much below the average this season.

Maraschino cherries ought to sell next week if never before.

French mushrooms are a short crop and prices have lately advanced.

This is the time when the candy department of the grocery will shine.

Fancy grades of French peas have been a light pack and are growing scarce.

Mice and matches are a bad combination. Keep them separate by all means.

It is hard work to do great things in window dressing without constant practice.

The man whose only incentive to exertion is his wages will always do bad work.

Never lose sight of the cost of doing business. You will then probably always get a profit.

No one finds more pleasure for himself than he who unselfishly gives pleasure to others.

The fall pack of cove oysters at Baltimore is short owing to bad weather. This may mean higher prices.

Remember that show windows are destructive to groceries of many kinds if the exposure is long continued.

Beware of those who economize at another's expense. They will fill their purse with the contents of yours.

Gallon apples are scarce as are also standards. The whole line of apples is high this year from pie to fancy.

According to reports, the European beet sugar crop this year is the largest on record except the big one of 1901-2.

Staple lines of canned goods are not very active just now. The trade will not load up until after the first of the year.

No. 2 walnuts are plentiful in this year's crop of California walnuts, but the flavor is superior and makes up for the smallness of size.

Cocoa and chocolate are unexcelled as cold weather drinks. They are more heating than any other beverage, we believe. Tell the trade so.

Don't condemn a new scale or a fixture because you do not know how it works. Some that appear complicated are simplicity itself in operation.

Celebrate the new year by inaugurating a better system of looking after deliveries. There is every chance that this department can be improved.

Coffee is the great big leader of the grocery business, though some grocers appear not to know it. Always keep pushing after more coffee business.

Maple syrup is in good demand. The trade is taking the pure stuff quite freely when obtainable and the mixtures are not neglected, by any means.

Be sure your trade is well served Saturday before the store closes. If you fail to make a simple delivery that day you are likely to lose a customer.

If you don't get a share of the business in lanterns, lamp wicks and such articles now you will have to wait until another year rolls around before you'll have another chance.

Cut prices a little on some of those slow-moving canned goods lines and on some fancy bottled goods that do not seem to take. This is the best chance you will have to sell them.

Can you tell your customers just the best way to prepare tea and coffee? There are many ways and some of them are very bad. Poor making is frequently responsible for condemning a good coffee.

The liking for olives must be cultivated in most persons. To do this it may be necessary to sample them among your trade quite freely at first. Even a small bottle to each of your best customers would probably not be a losing investment.

A few packers have had the temerity to venture prices on 1906 pack tomatoes but so far as heard no orders have been booked in the Northwest. The only price that has been heard of is about 10 or 12½ cents above the average opening price of tomatoes.

Ex-President Hanson of the National Association of Retail Grocers, says that a national food law should refer to food alone and not attempt to take in drugs, whiskies, etc. There are too many interests involved ever to come to an agreement at present.

According to some estimates the stock of canned tomatoes available to meet requirements of consumption to next September does not exceed 1,800,000 cases, whereas, it is claimed 6,000,000 cases would ordinarily be needed for consumption during that period.

The United States food standard committee has concluded its public hearings in Boston. It will send out to the trade standards of salad oils, fruits and preserves and flavoring extracts, to be recommended to the secretary of the Department of Agriculture.

Did you every try to tell a woman who came bouncing in to kick on your tea that she did not know how to make it properly? We guess you did not more than once, anyway. However, it is a good thing for the grocer to know how to make tea and to use his knowledge in his advertising matter, occasionally.

Lea & Perrin's sauce is getting some hard knocks these days. It has been given a black eye by the food officials in Minnesota and Pennsylvania because they say it contains "salicylic acid." We don't know whether it does or not, but the American people have been eating it for about a hundred years and not a single case of "pizen" or anything else harmful has been reported.

AMONG THE GROCERS.

Winsbach & Lamee have taken a lease of the store adjoining their old corner at 899 Sutter street, and are putting in a new front in their old stand. The new portion will be devoted to the bar, and the old section to their grocery, which has outgrown the capacity of the old store.

N. S. Sopotinos has opened a neat grocery and wine and liquor store at 1475 Haight street, where he carries a well selected stock of staple and fancy groceries, and is building up a fine trade.

E. G. Gould has bought the grocery of E. H. Ahlgreen at 5634 Telegraph avenue, Oakland and is greatly enlarging the place and putting in a larger and more select stock of groceries.

H. C. Meisel & Starke have purchased the grocery of B. Donnelly, at Bush and Fillmore streets, and have enlarged the stock, and greatly improved this popular old stand.

WANTS NEW SETTLERS.

A Public Spirited Merchant Offers to Help Induce Desirable Emigrants.

From one of the daily papers of Escondido we quote the following article by Sig Steiner, who is not only the Mayor of that thriving Southern California city but one of its leading merchants and also a close student of the Advocate. The ideas expressed by Mr. Steiner are worthy the careful perusal of every public spirited citizen.

"TIME IS MONEY."

Never before was the time more opportune and money more necessary than at this moment to help along the good work already begun and which will require persistent effort to accomplish the results desired. The Chamber of Commerce of a city is composed of citizens desirous of encouraging the growth and advancement of their locality. To that end they contribute time and money, frequently without any idea of personal aggrandizement.

These facts may be well understood.

Books, pamphlets and folders are essential to attract attention; if nicely gotten up, they do good.

A local newspaper is an excellent index of the class of business and people it represents, and should be freely distributed by those who have the welfare of the section at heart.

Also, a good live man who can approach strangers in such a manner that they would have confidence in his statements and be induced to act upon his suggestions should be located in Los Angeles to mix with the multitude of Eastern arrivals in that city and induce them to "come our way." He can tell the truth to them about Escondido and its environments, and once they arrive here they will find the half has not been told, and they will be charmed with the valley at first glance.

It will cost money to retain a capable man in this capacity, and he should be well paid for his services. If by public subscription is the only way we can pay him, I will be one of fifteen to contribute $10 each for every bona fide settler that he induces to purchase a small farm in the valley and locate, and I should like to see the experiment tried for a few months at least.

HAWAIIAN SUGAR CROP.

Returns of the yield of Hawaiian sugar for the past year have been compiled. They show an increase of nearly 12,000 tons over the crop of last year and are nearly equal to the production of 1903, which was the banner year of sugar production in the islands. The summary of the crop of the four islands for the last four years is as follows:

Island.	1902.	1903.	1904.	1905.
Hawaii	121,295	170,665	122,865	126,405
Maui	56,726	84,776	77,285	100,434
Oahu	107,870	121,066	102,019	123,095
Kauai	69,720	61,484	64,606	76,311
Totals	355,611	437,991	367,475	426,248

SAN PEDRO FISHERIES.

The fisheries industry at San Pedro, including the lobster industry, shows shipments to the extent of 4,138,528 pounds. This is an increase of 78 per cent over 1904. The shipments include about 17 500 cases of sardines, 4 dozen to the case. The pack of canned lobsters and canned abalone show a very decided increase over last year.

MONEY IN RAISING TROUT.

Handsome Returns Made by Vermont Farmer on His Labors.

That a farmer can derive more profit from raising brook trout for the market than from most any other source of like requirements of money and time has been clearly demonstrated by Lewis J. Johnson, who has a fish preserve on his farm, two miles out of West Brattleboro, Vt. By utilizing the clear spring water running through his farm, by his own ingenuity and with a very little hired assistance within a few years he has established an inexpensive hatchery, where he has succeeded in hatching and growing a large number of brook trout, with which he has, partly at least, supplied the local market, besides furnishing thousands of small fish for stocking different streams in the adjoining towns. All these have netted Mr. Johnson a handsome return upon his capital invested, aside from the pleasure afforded and incidental diversion from the usual farm labor, which, however, it has not been necessary to slight because of his fish culture.

From a modest beginning Mr. Johnson has gone on with his fish establishment, adding new and inexpensive ponds and miniature falls by dividing and diverting the little spring fed rills, till today he has a succession of long pools stocked with thousands of sportive trout of all sizes, strong and flourishing in the purest and coldest water. In connection with his plant Mr. Johnson has constructed at an expense of a few dollars modest hatching houses, with their numerous troughs, in which to propagate the trout from the eggs. Here he has hatched this season 800,000 trout, all of which are alive and thrifty and most of which he hopes to raise for the market. Already he has orders for part of this fry at $2 a pound.

It takes on an average two years to rear the fry to the fishing size, though of course some fish grow slower than others. Mr. Johnson has a few two pounders which are not much more than two years old.—Springfield (Mass.) Republican.

An Art Critic.

"What do you think of our new oil painting?" asked Mrs. Newrich.

"Well," answered Mr. Newrich, "it seems good enough from the front, but if you turn it round and look at the other side I must say the material seems kind o' cheap."

A Clever Hint.

SARDINE SEASON SUCCESSFUL.

Monterey, Cal., December 23—The Monterey Packing Company has closed down its sardine cannery for the season. The season has been a very successful one. The output being considerable greater than last year.

LIKES CALIFORNIA BEST.

E. D. Burrows, for the past year private secretary for Wm. E. Curtis, the noted correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald, is in the city with the purpose of engaging in literary and newspaper work here. Mr. Burrows is a son of Major F. S. Burrows, the Coast representative of E. M. Schwarz & Co., and the Jose Lovera Co. He has recently completed an extended tour of the United States with Mr. Curtis, and refused flattering offers to accompany that gentleman on a tour of the world, preferring to live and labor in California.

SUGAR PRODUCTION.

European Crop Probably to Exceed Usual Records.

United States Consul Diederich writes from Breman under date of December 7th that the European sugar crop will this year probably exceed all hitherto records except that of 1901-02. Consul Diederich says:

"The great interest as to Europe's sugar beet crop in 1905 is shown in many reviews now being published on the subject.

"While the crop lacks in quality it abounds in quantity. Last year 17 tons of beets were harvested per acre, whereas an average of about 23 tons is expected this year.

"It is safe to say that all previous records of beet sugar production in Europe will be surpassed, with the exception possibly of the year 1901-02, when it reached 6,722,051 tons. At any rate, there will be more sugar produced than can be used by consumers, and the final stocks at the end of the year, on September 1, 1906, will again be far over 1,000,000 tons. The estimates made by Messrs. Otto Licht and Gieseker, the German and Belgian experts, and by the "Zentralblatt," of Magdeburg show a great advance in the various beet using countries of Europe over former years, ranging from 20 to 98 per cent as to quantity of sugar.

"As to the cane sugar crops now growing in Cuba and other countries, they also give promise of a material increase over last year. According to the best information, we may look for about 5,200,000 tons of cane sugar. Therefore, taking these estimates, which are the most conservative, as a basis, we may consider the question of supply and demand for the coming year, or campaign, by noting the facts and figures in the following instructive table. The visible supply is that in sight September 1st:

Description.	1905-06. Tons.	1904-05. Tons.	1903-04. Tons.	1902-03. Tons.	1901-02. Tons.

Another interesting item connected with the beet sugar question is furnished by Consul Harris, of Mannheim. He calls attention to the reduced consumption in Europe, giving figures for the years 1903, 1904 and 1905.

"The consumption of sugar in the countries adhering to the Brussells sugar convention for the years ending June 30, 1905 and 1904, are given as follows:

"The year 1903-04 showed a gain in the countries named of 781,999 tons over the year 1902-03, or 24.5 per cent., while the year 1904-05 showed a gain of 461,487 tons over that of 1902-03, or a gain of 14.5 per cent."

CALIFORNIAN HONORED.

National Cigar Dealers' Association Postpones Convention Because of J. S. Parry.

The National Retail Cigar Dealers' Association, which was to have had a convention on January 10th in Chicago, has been postponed until January 16th because it would have been impossible for Mr. Parry to have attended the convention on that date. Mr. Parry wrote Albert Breitung, chairman of the executive committee of the National Association, explaining that owing to the fact, that the new local municipal administration was to take office on January 8th, it would be impossible for him to leave San Francisco until after that date, and therefore that he could not attend the National Convention this year. He expressed regret at not being able to attend. He also explained that owing to expenses that had been incurred by the cigar dealers in the matter of the trading stamp suit that their funds were not in condition to warrant their paying the expenses of the delegate to the convention.

Mr. Breitung's reply to Mr. Parry's letter shows how highly that gentleman is considered in the National Cigar Dealers' Association.

It is as follows.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 16, 1905.

My Dear Mr. Parry: I have your good letter of the 7th inst. and have conferred with the balance of the executive committee of the National Association and we have decided, on your account, to postpone the convention until Tuesday, January 16th This is official. The committee also wishes to offer to pay one-half of your transportation expenses, which I hope will be found satisfactory.

Your association can make up the difference by requesting that the stamp of the association be affixed to the cigars sent to your city and at the same time asking the manufacturers to notify us that one-half of the amount paid by them is to be turned over to the San Francisco Association.

Wishing you a very merry Christmas and assuring you that we are looking forward to your visit with pleasure, I am, Yours very truly,

Albert Breitung.

ONE EACH DAY.

The McCaskey Account Register is making many friends among the retail grocers. The remarkable record of a sale each day has been made in San Francisco territory by Messrs. Savage & Charleton, the San Francisco agents, during the last two weeks. This is very remarkable when one considers how difficult it is to secure the attention of a retail merchant during the holiday season.

Messrs. Savage & Carleton state that every sale made always results in three or four more sales. This is because each merchant who puts in the McCasky Account Register becomes so pleased with it that he recommends it to all his immediate friends. His warm expressions of approval attract their attention so strongly that they all become interested and eventually put a system in as well.

W. A. Hawley, who represents the McCaskey Account Register Co., on the Pacific Coast is now in Alliance, Ohio, attending a convention of the McCaskey representatives. The McCaskey Register Co. are greatly pleased with the record made on the Pacific Coast in the brief time he has held the account.

CANNED PINEAPPLE.

Honolulu, December 11—Hunt Bros & Co. have representatives in this city arranging to establish a pineapple cannery. They propose to construct an establishment with a capacity of 200,000 cases per year.

A Scotch Collie Story.

A story of a Scotch collie is current on the Derbyshire border, according to the Dundee Advertiser. A farmer in the Peak district, having purchased a small flock of sheep in the lowlands, drove the flock the whole way from Scotland to his farm in Derbyshire with the aid of a collie dog which was lent to him by the Scotch farmer from whom he purchased the sheep. "When you get to your home with the sheep," said the Scotchman, "let the dog fill his belly; then tell him to go home." The Derbyshire man duly arrived at his farm with the sheep and was so pleased with the collie dog and its performance that he decided to keep it a few days before sending it back. One day he was away from home during the whole of the day, and on returning in the evening he found that the Scotch collie was missing and also the flock of sheep. In a few days tidings came that the dog had arrived at his Scotch home and had brought the sheep back with him.

Breaking It Gently.

He is a rather serious minded boy who has more sense of responsibility than many grown persons. So when he was sent to his grandmother's to break the news of her aged sister's death he did so with much gravity and no little self importance.

"Now, Alfred," his mother said, "you mustn't tell grandma suddenly, because it might shock her, even though she knew Aunt Martha was ill. Tell it to her gently."

"All right," assented Alfred, starting out on his mission with mingled solemnity and eagerness.

Arrived at his grandmother's house, he greeted her with a sober "Hello!" and then proceeded to "break the news" by saying:

"Aunt Maria's dead, grandma, but you mustn't feel bad, 'cause she was pretty old, anyhow. You'll be the next one, I s'pose."—Brooklyn Life.

Not Mere Curiosity.

The world has a store of pleasures in waiting for the unaccustomed traveler. Sometimes, indeed, they may be mostly in anticipation, as was the case with Amos Riggs of Plumtown.

"How d'ye do?" said Mr. Riggs cordially to the stern visaged man who was his seat mate in the car on the occasion of Mr. Riggs' first trip to Boston. "Now what might your name be? Do you live in Nashuy or beyond?"

"I should like to know what business it is of yours where I live or who I am?" said his companion crossly.

"Well, now, it ain't any partic'lar business o' mine, strictly speaking," said Mr. Riggs mildly, "but it's jest like this: I've got a cousin up in Canady that I've never seen, and I've always thought I might come upon him some time jest by asking folks their name and so on."

Tides and Storms.

When a tempest is approaching or passing out on the ocean, the tides are noticeably higher than usual, as if the water had been driven in a vast wave before the storm. The influence extends to a great distance from the cyclonic storm center, so that the possibility exists of foretelling the approach of a dangerous hurricane by means of indications furnished by tide gauges situated far away from the place then occupied by the whirling winds. The fact that the tidal wave outstrips the advancing storm shows how extremely sensitive the surface of the sea is to the changes of pressure brought to bear upon it by the never resting atmosphere.

PROPER PROFITS.

Safe Margins As Outlined by English Grocers.

In England the grocers are frequently invited by wholesale houses and manufacturers to enter competitions for prizes awarded to the best articles on merchandising of one sort or another.

In this way the prize giver gets some good advertising, the lucky winner obtains the prize and the other fellow gets the benefit of the articles which their competitors prepare for the contest.

A recent prize offer was for the best essay on "What ought to be a grocer's profit, bearing in mind the cost of working expenses, etc.? Can the public be charged extra? If not, how can this added expense be met."

Some interesting papers wer submitted, full of store sense, and we present brief extracts from a few of them here:

Prize Winners' Views.

'For my own part, I consider 12½ to 15 per cent a fair profit for a grocer doing principally a cash trade, whilst 17½ to 20 per cent is deemed necessary, and calculated to be impossible for the maintenance of your business, if a 'family' trade is done and credit given.

"In calculating the profit on goods, it must clearly be remembered that the profit should be based upon the returns, otherwise mistakes are likely to arise. For instance, on an article costing 8d and sold at 10d, there is a profit on the cost of 25 per cent, but on the return it is only 20 per cent.

"An easy way of calculating profits is by adopting the following rules:

"Add to cost:

Half cost price to give 33 1-3 per cent on returns.

One-third cost price to give 25 per cent on returns.

One-quarter cost price to give 20 per cent on returns.

One-fifth cost price to give 16 2-5 per cent on returns.

One-sixth cost price to give 14 2-7 per cent on returns.

One-seventh cost price to give 12½ per cent on returns.

One-eighth cost price to give 11 1-9 per cent on returns.

One-ninth cost price to give 10 per cent on returns.

One-tenth cost price to give 9 1-11 per cent on returns.

One-eleventh cost price to give 8 1-3 per cent on returns.

One-twelfth cost price to give 7 9-15 per cent on returns.

"As to how the increased expenditures can best be met, I would suggest the pushing of those articles bearing the best profit, and by refusing to stock proprietary goods not showing the necessary amount of profit.

"Needless to say, your business must be carried on at the lowest expense, yet without that false economical idea that the cheapest is the best. . . . What assistants you have, let them be the very best. They may require a living wage, or even a little remuneration."

Sell Goods That Pay.

From another of the competing essayists the following is taken:

"If, as a general rule, they are content to pay cash and to take away the goods with them, business may, in a brisk market be made profitable at 12½ per cent; whereas, if the grocer has to send out the orders, deliver by horse, and cart, give credit and render periodical accounts, 20 per cent will not be too much—horse and cart work in actual experience alone representing a difference of 5 per cent. . . . It is, for instance, a far too common practice, especially with small traders, to give away the benefit of a purchase or contract luckily made before a rise in the market, but to bear the loss themselves when the market falls. . . . The chief remedy lies in noting what goods pay to sell, and resolutely pushing to the front only such as are reliable and remunerative. Friendly arrangements may also be made with neighboring tradesmen to readjust prices when they prove unsatisfactory. Initiative in this direction will often be found to meet with satisfactory response."

Five Per Cent Clear.

From a third essay the following extract is taken.

"To find what a fair profit should be, calculate what percentage on returns your working expenses amount to; charge to working expenses your own salary. Having found this, add thereto 5 per cent; fix the selling price so as to leave this percentage of profit. To give an instance: Suppose your working expenses are 10 per cent, add 5 per cent—equals 15 per cent. You must fix the selling price so that you receive 15 per cent on returns.

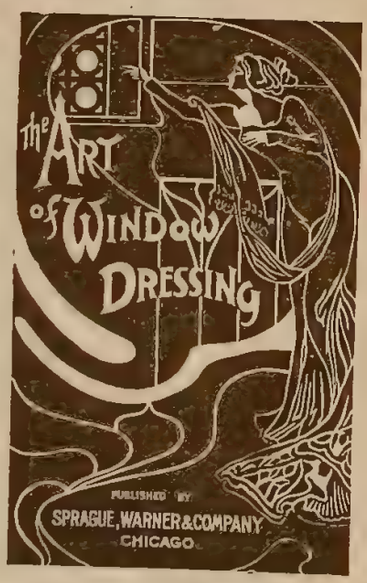
'Capital stock must be turned over from eight to twelve times a year, according to class of trade and amount of book debts.

"Buy for cash and take all discounts."

LOOK OUT FOR HIM.

"I have just moved into this neighborhood, and I want to trade with you."

This talk is made by a passer of bogus bank checks. Grocers are his favorite victims, and recently he caught John Heurhusen, a grocer at 1801 Folsom street, on a check for $20. The man entered Heurhusen's store and told him that he was an agent for a baking powder. He then said that he had just moved into that neighborhood and wanted to give Heurhusen his trade.



He bought $2 worth of groceries and gave Heurhusen a $20 check drawn on the Anglo-Californian Bank. The check was signed by the American Fruit Company and was in favor of Henry Baker. Heurhusen cashed the check and the new customer left the store with $18 of Heurhusen's cash and $2 worth of his groceries. Heurhusen negotiated the check and in the course of a few days it was returned to him marked "No funds."

Heurhusen describes the check passer as being a man about forty-five years old and five feet ten inches in height. He has a sandy moustache, is of slim build and weighs about 150 pounds. He wore a dark suit and a light overcoat.

HARRIS BROS. LOSE SUIT.

In the action instituted by Harris Bros. & Co., wholesale grocers, against Fred L. Hilmer, Geo. L. Fish, Olson Bros., the Olson Company and the City and County Bank Judge Hebbard has given judgment in favor of the defendants. The plaintff was seeking to set aside an assignment of the assets of the Olson companies, which was made for the purpose of liquidation, the firms being financially embarassed. The assignment was made to George L. Fish for $50,000, and the plaintiff contested, stating that the assets were easily worth $90,000. When the case was called Charles Harris of Harris Bros. & Co. testified that he had offered $60.000 for the assets, but said that his offer was refused and that of $50,000 made by Fish accepted.

Thorp—O. Bryan, with a complete line of staple and fancy groceries, has opened a store.

Attracting Trade

Brightness in the Window.

During the winter season dealers should plan to make their window displays of a brighter and warmer tone than the milder weather when something light and airy was more appropriate.

A necessary adjunct for such a display is a rich, bright colored drapery, which should be hung at the back and sides of the window. The brighter the colors the better the effect. With this as a background, the goods may be displayed in any arrangement that may suggest itself, but it is well to select those goods which will add to the brightness of the window.

Preferred Position in Advertising.

As has often been urged in the Mint of Hints, wide-awake dealers in cities of from 20,000 to 100,000 population can hardly afford to overlook the value of advertising space in the best daily newspapers in their town as an aid in building up and expanding their business.

There is one thing, however, that should not be overlooked, and that is the value of preferred position in advertising. Therefore, when the dealer makes a contract for advertising space he should always have a definite understanding as to the position in the newspaper which his advertisement will occupy.

Preferred position usually costs a little more, but in the right sort of a publication it is well worth the additional cost. Take a page of advertising in the ordinary newspaper and you will most likely find a lot of small advertisements, averaging two inches or less, all jumbled together in one portion of the page.

Now, if you are paying for a two-inch advertisement, and you are crowded in among these little fellows, your advertisement is losing at least half of its effectiveness.

On the other hand, if your two-inch advertisement costs you a few cents a line more and is put next to and following reading matter, then you are getting the full benefit of your advertisement.—Tobacco.

An Effective Window Display.

A novel window display and one that attracted more than the usual amount of attention was that of a Canadian dealer, who recently devised a clever conception of a hunter's camp.

The floor of the window was covered with twigs and leaves, and a few rough logs, just as they were taken from the forest. The back and side walls of the window were covered with autumn leaves and branches, as was also the ceiling, so that not a particle of the ordinary woodwork could be seen. In the center of the display was arranged a camp fire with a kettle suspended from crossed sticks, a couple of dead rabbits lying close by, and a brace of ducks suspended from an overhanging branch.

A neat window bulletin was displayed stating that hunters for good cigars would have their wants most satisfactorily filled inside.—Tobacco.

Keep Touch With Market.

One trouble with many unprogressive dealers is that their sole idea of business is to order whatever repeated inquiries show them to be in demand.

The progressive man does not wait to be forced to stock goods by public demand. He keeps posted on the market, he knows a salable line when he sees it, and purchasing it, he gets out and makes the demand while his less enterprising competitor begins to cater to it after the cream of the trade has drifted elsewhere.

Suggestion for Corner Stores.

Sometimes the corner of the building has a pier or an iron pillar. Under ordinary circumstances this is a detriment, but if this pier or pillar is covered with paneling and surrounded with a prominent case like fixture it can be made to greatly enhance the general appearance of the establishment.

The case at the corner covering the pier or pillar should, if practicable, be square, with glass on four sides and displaying goods all around. The awkward obstructiveness of the pier or pillar is not only mitigated, but it is transformed from a drawback into both an ornament and an aid in displaying goods.

The dealer gains increased window space, without sacrificing in any detail the advantages enjoyed by the usual manner of corner stores. And, besides, the front is pleasing to look at from any angle of vision and is really more effective than ordinarily.

Signs on Window Glass.

Some dealers desiring to have a few words printed on the window glass for a few days, to be rubbed off and changed, have tried soap and given it up as unsatisfactory.

Soap is all right on mirrors, but not on windows. Silver whiting mixed with water makes a good material for this purpose, but one must handle a brush well to use it. The sign may be marked off with soap on the outside and then traced on the inside of the glass.

DISCUSS ACTUAL COSTS.

San Jose Grocers Consider Matters of Trade Interest.

The Retail Grocers' Association of San Jose met in the Chamber of Commerce roms last evening. Owing to the inclement weather the attendance was not large, but this did not prevent a spirited and lively discussion of matters of interest relating both to details of the grocers' business and to matters of national importance.

An extract from the communication of H. W. Conkling, who was to have addressed the meeting but was unable to be present, was read and explained the reason for the establishment of the association.

A communication was received from the San Francisco Retail Grocers' Association protesting against a bill providing ten per cent duty on tea and coffee, which will be placed before Congress in the next session.

Secretary Borchers was instructed to communicate to Congressman E. A. Hayes the voice of the Association and ask his aid in the defeat of the bill.

A bulletin containing the bill of Congressman Dixon was also brought before the grocers for consideration. The proposed law provides that an employe in the civil service should pay his debts upon second demand of his creditors, under penalty of expulsion from the service of the government. A resolution was passed requesting the House of Representatives to give the bill a favorable consideration.

The remainder of the evening was spent in the discussion of an article printed in the "Actual Costs," published by the Pacific Retail Grocers' Association, entitled "Administrative Duties of the Retail Grocer."

COFFEE.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. say:

"There is no trading at present to report, but a better market is looked for after the New Year opens. Reports from Central America are to the effect that the Salvador crop will be large, and that of Guatemala and Costa Rica only fair. Little coffee has been bought in this market by the California trade. European buyers taking most of the offerings there."

TEAS.

New York, December 19.—John B. Brown & Co. report.

Congous.—Our last mail advices from Shanghai were to the effect that there had been a small business transacted in grades equivalent to United States standards at full prices and some business for Vladivostock in the commonest grades. An advance of 5½ per cent was noted in exchange.

Country Green Teas.—The enhanced value of exchange has restricted business and that which was transacted was only effected by a concession on the part of the tea men of the amount equivalent to the advance in exchange.

Japans.—The market at Kobe and Yokohama is practically closed.

Pingsueys.—The market at Shanghai has been quiet and holders to effect business have been obliged to drop prices in order to meet the advance in exchange. Owing to the poor quality of the late arrivals but a small proportion of the remaining unsold stock will be shipped to America. We estimate the export of Green Tea to United States and Canada will amount to fifteen or fifteen and a half million pounds, which figures show a good reduction on last year's export of twenty million pounds.

Indian Teas.—The offerings at London public auctions were 197,000 packages against 193,000 packages in the same month of 1904. The quality was not equal to that of earlier arrivals, and the quantity offered in several weeks proved more than the trade could easily handle. The level of prices was consequently somewhat irregular and lower for most classes, especially for commonest. In the closing auction prices were more steady at the lower level established.

Ceylons.—The offerings at London public auctions were 89,000 packages against 103,000 packages in the same month of 1904. The quality was only moderately good, and for everything of distinctive character there was a strong demand. The course of prices moved in sympathy with that for Indian Teas, there being irregularity with a lower tendency.

RICE.

M. Phillips & Co. report:

"At the present time the market is quiet, owing to small demand preceding the holidays. After the turn of the year business will pick up and by the 15th of January we look for an advance in all grades of American rice.

"Japan Rice.—Market remains the same with a tendency to advance as soon as the New Year's trade start in buying. We look for higher prices in this quality shortly after the turn of the year.

"Honolulu Rice.—This grade of rice has taken hold with the trade, and from now on will grow more popular as it is the best cooking rice that comes to America, and at prevailing prices is the cheapest rice on the market. A quality of Carolina rice equal in grain to the Honolulu rice, would cost over $1 per bag more."

New York, December 19.—Dan Talmage's Sons' Co. report:

"Market for the week has been steady with fair demand for both Honduras and Japan sorts. Prices are well sustained, particularly on the lower and medium grades for which there is quite an active inquiry. The assortment of price and choice has widened, and some very attractive parcels are being offered Strictly fancy sorts are rather scarce, being taken at full prices. Prime to choice being in larger supply, offer peculiar opportunities in the matter of selection, and forehanded buyers are not slow in taking advantage of this condition of market.

"Advices from the South note an improved inquiry on the Atlantic Coast. At New Orleans the market is firm, although restricted out-turn from mills has limited transactions. Lower and medium grades are somewhat scarce and full prices are exacted and paid. Prime to choice are in better supply, and buyers are now and then enabled to make attractive selections. Mills generally have shut down until after the holidays, claiming that current prices are not profitable, considering cost of rough rice.

"In the interior—Southwest Louisiana and Texas—prices are firm. Advance samples indicate a better assortment of medium grades held at properly relative value to the lower and higher styles.

"Cables and correspondence from abroad note firm conditions. Prices on styles suited to the United States are high in comparison with the home product, hence little inducement for importation."

DRIED FRUIT.

The dried fruit market is quiet, and transactions are small. No carload lots have been sold in the past few days, owing to the holiday season.

New York, December 23rd.—The entire dried fruit market is slow but firm with the exception of raisins. This is due to the prevailing holiday conditions.

New York, December 14th.—The trade in dried fruit is good for this season of the year. The present activity is the result of the small stocks in the hands of the jobbers as a consequence of their unusually small purchases during the fall. Consumption is as large, if not larger, than its usual volume for this time of the year and the jobbers have therefore found it necessary to come into the market frequently in order to keep up with the demands of the retail trade. There is no disposition to buy more than for immediate wants, although owing to the well known shortage of all Pacific Coast dried fruit products there is an apparent certainty that prices must advance during the season of active consumption which opens soon after the first of the year. The rather active demand for spot prunes in lots ranging from 25 to several hundred boxes is the most important factor of the market at present. Supplies here are moderate and there is a strong tendency of prices. Most holders quote 10s at 7½c as inside. Others ask from 7¼ to 7½c. Only small holdings are offered at lower than these figures. There is quite an active demand for cluster and layer raisins and some inquiry for spot seeded raisins in 25 and 50-lb lots.

RAISINS.

Fresno, Cal., December 21st.—The Executive Committee of the Raisin Growers' Combine has decided to call for bids for the unsold portion of this year's raisin crop. Bids will be opened at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of January 3rd. The amount to be sold is some 12,000 tons of the 1905 crop. The company retains the right to reject all bids. In commenting on this matter the Republican says:

"There will probably be only two bidders, the Cal. Fruit Canners' Association and the combine of packers now working with the growers' combine. Some trouble is expected since it is thought that the combine of packers will lay claim to ½c per pound on every pound sold, even though they did not sell the goods. The directors of the Growers' Combine do not want to pay the Mercantile Company this ½c if the goods are sold at auction, although there is a clause in their agreement that if the packers' combine do not purchase the raisins with due expedition, then the growers' combine might sell the raisins themselves, after giving five days' notice to the packers, in which case the packers shall still be entitled to the usual profit.

New York, December 27th.—The sale is reported of several hundred cases of fancy seeded Coast raisins at 8⅝ cents. Imported raisins are easy. Jobbers are buying merely from hand to mouth as they anticipate a break after January 1.

PRUNES.

New York, December 27th.—The demand for spot prunes is unusually good for the holiday season. Sales are numerous but of small volume.

NUTS.

New York, December 27th.—Walnuts are easy and almonds are weak. Sales are reported in small lots of Tarragonas at 11⅝ cents, California Nonpareils 13 cents, I. X. L. 12 cents, Ne Plus Ultra 12 cents, spot, New York.

BEANS.

Sinsheimer Bros. say:

"San Francisco, December 27.—Since our last report there has been little change in the situation. A little more inquiry from the Southwest is to be noted.

"The business still continues light.

"Lima beans are still advancing.

"The Combination is putting up prices without any effort. They are helped by circumstances, such as short sales in the East, which now have to be filled, and the unusually heavy consumption of Lima beans, which has taken out of this state about three-quarters of the crop of this variety, so that now there are probably not over 200,000 sacks left on hand in California.

"Of this probably 20,000 will be needed for seed, which would leave us a comparatively small stock to run on for the next eight or nine months.

"It is true that the high prices may stop the buying of large quantities, yet while this level of prices has come early in the season, it seems as if conditions would justify quotations.

"It may be well worth mentioning that the stock of B. E. beans in this state is unusually small, and to us it seems as if by next summer this variety would be the scarcest in California. Higher prices should be looked for.

"Pink beans continue steady. Arrivals from the interior have stopped for the present.

"White Beans—The crop having been unusually small, there is a comparatively light stock left on hand, which in case of any considerable demand, should bring higher prices.

"Favas have met with a great demand, and the stock now in the state is light.

"The same may be said of Cranberry Beans and of Garvanzos, as well as of Red Kidney Beans."

CANNED FRUITS.

Owing to the holidays very little is doing in the canned fruit market. Jobbers are more interested in closing up the year's business than in buying.

Baltimore, Md., December 15th.—"The Trade" reports:

"The market in all lines of canned goods is getting into excellent position for the year of 1906. The prospects for the packing business next year are quite encouraging. From the general tone of the market and the temper of its pulse, it is expected that there will be unusually free buying early in January, after the holiday trade is disposed of and the tax reports are sworn to. Owing to the low price of some things in the canned goods lines, their distribution is at present immense and a large volume is going into consumption. In consequence, packers feel safe in making preparations for a large pack next year of peas, pineapples, peaches, corn and tomatoes."

New York, December 13th.—The special correspondent of "The Trade" reports:

"The market is firm on the more important varieties. Holders are not anxious to sell while buyers do not care to take hold unless price consideration favors them. As a consequence, the movement is restricted to comparatively small quantities."

CANNED TOMATOES.

There are only small quantities of canned tomatoes in sight, and while there is little trading going on at present, a brisk market is reported by the middle of January. Outside territory is calling for tomatoes every day at present prices, but as what stock there is is in strong hands holders are awaiting higher prices, and are not disposed to sell at present quotations.

New York, December 27th.—The market has been very active with strong advances. On Thursday of last week the Syndicate went into the market, taking up about 10,000 cases of 3s at 95 cents, and 15,000 2s at 72½ cents. The Syndicate was reported buying during the week and on Friday the market closed strong at 97½ cents for 3s and 80 cents for 2s. On Saturday there were sales at $1 with the market firm. Today orders for $1.15 were turned down, sales being made at $1.05 to $1.10.

Baltimore, Md., December 15th.—"The Trade" reports:

"Jobbers all over the country are engaged in two diverse actions. They are seeking to "bear" tomatoes so as to buy at low prices and to advance the price of corn which they have bought at very low rates. Tomatoes remain exactly as quoted last week in this market as follows: Standard 3s being quoted 87½ to 95 cents. The lower price represents what may be called the cleaning up of inferior stock and the higher figures represent good Standards. The real market is about 90-92½ cents less 1½ cents regular. The market is very quiet.

New York, December 13th.—The special correspondent of "The Trade" reports:

"The market is generally firm with 90 cents, regular, f. o. b. factory quoted inside on full Standard Maryland 3s. Here and there a small lot is offered below the figures mentioned. Such offerings are generally to clean up holdings and really do not represent the market. No weakness is expected. Some sanguine holders look for a $1.50 tomato market before the next pack is ready for distribution."

WESTERN MEAT COMPANY

SAN FRANCISCO, U. S. A.

CANNED CORN.

Baltimore, Md., December 15th.—"The Trade" reports:

"The West has unloaded an immense amount of very common corn on New York city and state. The New York jobbers are now back of this supply and are therefore interested in its advance. The western holders are in strong position because they have been relieved of surplus stock and they are therefore prepared to hold for an advance. It is probable, therefore, that corn will feel the beneficial effects shortly of a slight advance in quotations. These conditions have already strengthened the entire corn situation somewhat but the market as yet shows no change whatever. Maryland corn is quoted at from 45 cents to 55 cents. The lower price represents Harford county style and the higher price extra Standard Maryland."

New York, December 13th.—The special correspondent of "The Trade" reports.

"Cheap grades of corn are not placed on sale at present prices when the quality is satisfactory. Any material activity is prevented by a vast amount of poor corn, called "pig feed," by some holders, which hangs heavy on the market. When this poor stock is disposed of there will be less difficulty in selling good goods."

CANNED PEAS.

New York, December 13th.—The special correspondenct of "The Trade" reports:

"Holders of medium and fine grade peas are not offering stocks freely since they look for better selling opportunities later in the season."

Philadelphia, Pa., December 16th—The "Grocery World" says:

"The pea market is strong owing to short pack and all indications point to an advance shortly after the first of the year, specially in lower grades. One leading New York state packer, whose normal stock is 40,000 cases, now has less than 6,000. Another who usually holds 20,000 cases, today has about 1,700. The New York packers are short. On an average they hold about 25 per cent of their usual stock. In every section, the situation is about the same. Cheap peas are cleaned up and in the west the stock is much lighter than usual at this season. These conditions only include the low and medium grades. High grade peas are in much better supply than the lower grade and present no probability of an advance.

"Advances in the medium grades have been gradual. Delaware and Maryland brands, which sold shortly after the close of the packing season at 55 cents, are now quoted 70 to 72½ cents. New York state peas that last year sold at 60-65 cents about this time, are now worth 75-80 cents. Western brands are also fully 15 cents higher than last year."

CANNED SALMON.

New York, December 27th.—The salmon market is dull and unchanged for the week.

Portland, Ore., December 26th.—The "Oregonian" says:

"The situation in the canned salmon market is causing much interest just now. The indications are that Columbia River fish will rule higher next year than this season. The price this year was $1.45 and canners look for a $1.50 or $1.55 market in 1906. At the present time stocks of No. 1 fish, as well as the cheaper grades, are out of the market. A local buyer attempted to place an order for a fair-sized block this week, but could not find the goods. The only obstacle in the way of an advance next season in Columbia River fish would be the imposing of a duty by the German government on pickled salmon. A proposition is now before the Reichstag to levy a tax of 60 per cent on this article, which would of course stop pickling on the river, as the only market for such fish is in the Germna Empire. About a third of the catch has been pickled in past years, and this action by the kaiser's government would of course mean more canned fish which might operate against an advance. Interest among salmon jobbers in the Eastern markets has been stimulated by reports regarding the extremely favorable situation on the Coast in all descriptions of fish and by the statements made on good authority regarding the conditions in the several important English markets."

Astoria, Ore., December 20th.—W. T. Chutter, manager of the Klesbec Packing Co., of Seattle, says:

"It is my belief that the big runs of sockeye salmon are over. This variety of fish has been the mainstay of the industry on the Sound, but I am afraid that there will be no future heavy runs. The supply has been almost exhausted; nature has been unable to keep up with the demands of commerce. Generally, the outlook for the fishing industry is bright. The demand is constantly increasing and the supply is becoming no greater. Indeed, I look for a shorter supply than has been available in the past. Prices ought to be better with each year. In my opinion, the Columbia River outlook is particularly good. There salmon are artificially propagated and the supply is fairly steady. Unless something unforseen should transpire the Columbia River market ought to make yearly gains, both as to price and quality."

New York, December 15th.—Daniel Drysdale, vice-president of the Alaska Packers' Association, who recently returned from an extended visit to England, reports:

"The salmon market in England was in good shape at the time of my visit. The last three months shows a volume of business considerably greater than for the same time of last year. There is a particularly strong inquiry for ½-pound flats, the pack of which was short. Stocks of salmon in Great Britain are moderate and prospects are good."

AMERICAN SARDINES.

New York, December 13th.—The special correspondent of "The Trade" reports:

"An advance of 10 cents in drawn cans, domestic ¼-oils, is announced by the packers and the market is firm. Stocks in packers' hands are reported light. Official figures have not yet been given out but the total pack is estimated at about 2,000,000 cases. The market is now quoted as follows: ¼-oils, keyless, $2.10; key opening, $2.35 to $2.45; ¼-mustards, $2.60; ¾-mustards, $2 to $2.10.

FISH.

Wieland Bros. report:

"New bloaters have arrived this week. Price is higher than last year and we hardly think we will see lower quotations the rest of the season."

New York, December 21.—Strohmeyer & Arpe Co. report:

Holland Herrings—Dull but very firm. Stocks small and prices are expected to go higher after the turn of the year.

Mackerel—Very little trade now, as usual, at this time of the year, when trade is buying goods and not salt fish. Stocks in Ireland are not large and are very firmly held.

Norway Mackerel—There are hardly any unsold of the large sizes, and small 3s, of which there is a small supply, are held very firm in anticipation of higher prices.

Imported Oil Sardines—Very firm with exceptionally good jobbing demand for them. The first shipments of new Portuguese sardines have arrived and have been taken by the trade, as these goods have been quite scarce for some time.

Sprats—Arrivals are finding ready sale at full prices, and higher quotations are looked for when spring demand opens.

Caviar—Has been advanced all around, owing to scarcity of stock.

Norway Smoked Sardines—Are scarce, and prices are higher all around.

CHEESE.

Wieland Bros. report:

"California cheese mild is scarce and top price is paid for fancy quality."

Slavery In America.

"One of the common, everyday errors which are taught in the schools in America is that which relates to the introduction into the western hemisphere of African slavery," writes a critic. "The school histories which the schoolgirl and schoolboy study say that it dates from 1619 or 1620, when a Dutch sea captain sold the English settlers the first African. The year 1501, however, is the date of the earliest reference in American history to negroes coming from Spain to America, 122 years before Albany, N. Y., was settled by the Dutch and 106 years before Jamestown, Va., was settled by the English. In 1505 King Ferdinand of Spain wrote to Orando, then governor of Hispaniola, 'I will send more negro slaves, as you request.' In 1510 fifty negro slaves were sent to work in the mines of Hispaniola. There is a record of King Ferdinand's response to a request of Las Casas, bishop of La Concepcion, in Hispaniola, that more negroes should be imported. He said, 'There are already many negroes on the island.' This was in the year 1514."

Grace Knives.

There is a curious class of knives of the sixteenth century the blades of which have engraved on one side the musical notes to the benediction of the table, or grace before meat, and on the other the grace after meat. These knives usually went in sets of four, representing a four part harmony of bass, tenor, alto and treble. They were kept in an upright case of stamped leather and were placed before the singers according to the adaptation of each one to his particular part. As may be supposed, the inscription was usually in Latin. The following specimen is taken from actual knives of the period: "Pro tuis beneficiis Deus, gratias agimus tibi" (For thy good gifts, O God, we thank thee).

Mares and Fillies.

A song of bygone generation reproached the French with calling their mothers "mares" and all their daughters "fillies," and it is easy to imagine that "filly" is connected with "fille." As a matter of fact, the word "filly" is of Scandinavian origin and is really a diminutive of "foal." Shakespeare makes Puck disguise himself in "likeness of a filly foal." "Mare" is the Anglo-Saxon "mere," feminine of "mearh," a horse, a trace of which remains in "marshal," which properly signifies master of the horse.

A Different Meaning.

Beaks—What brought on old Wilkin's paralytic stroke? Peaks—I didn't know he was afflicted with one. Beaks—But you just told me he was paralyzed. Peaks—Quite true; but I didn't say he was suffering from a paralytic stroke.—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Cigars and Tobacco

The cigar makers' strike at Key West is still unsettled.

Ehrman Bros. & Co. have been doing a phenomenal holiday trade, and find the prospects for 1906 are exceptionally bright.

The Lewin-Meyer Co. have made a great hit with the Prima Lucia clear Havanas of the El Arte Cigar Co., which are repeating splendidly in the higher class of stands.

C. B. Boar & Co. have purchased the stand of Harry Hinton, at Taylor and Golden Gate, which they will immediately restock.

J. L. Jerichau has the Rough Rider cigar placed on nearly a thousand stands in San Francisco and Alameda county, and repeat orders come in more rapidly than ever. The recent campaign in behalf of this cigar, the troop of Rough Riders mentioned in last week's Advocate being a special and notable feature, has contributed largely to the success of this cigar.

M. A. Gunst & Co. have secured additional accommodation at Third and Mission on a twenty years' lease, involving a total payment of $300,000.

H. L. Pollock, Pacific coast representative of the Cuba-American Manufacturing Co., expresses himself as pleased with the results which are being accomplished by the vigorous campaign which he is making in behalf of the El Modelo.

The Jose Lovera Co., manufacturers of the Flor de Lovera and other high grade clear Havana cigars, shipped over 1,000,000 cigars from their Tampa factory in November.

The Tampa correspondent of Tobacco, under date of December 9th, says: A. Santaella & Co. are receiving three and four wires a day to rush cigars by express. Shipments in November amounted to 2,500,000 cigars. They shipped 38 cases last Friday, and there is no regular shipping day. Every day all the cigars are sent off that can be gotten in readiness.

The price of Pittsburg stogies has been advanced, and hereafter instead of getting four stogies for a nickel the smoker will get only three. They will be three for five, or seven for a dime. The reason given for the advance in prices is a shortage in the supply of domestic tobacco from which stogies are made. Local manufacturers say that they have been forced to not only increase the price to the retailer, but decrease the size of the stogie.—Pittsburg Despatch.

Customs Inspector Sackett recently seized 1100 cigars hidden on board the steamer Korea. A false bottom was discovered in one of the porter's chests containing 300 cigars and silk stuff valued at $15. On board the transport Thomas 500 cigars were seized which were stowed away with the evident intention of being smuggled ashore.

Washington, Dec. 19.—By a vote of 7 to 5 the House committee on ways and means reported favorably to-day on the Payne bill admitting all Philippine products into the United States free excepting sugar and tobacco, which are to pay 25 per cent of the Dingley rates until 1909, when they are also to go on the free list. Two amendments were made to the measures originally introduced in the House by Mr. Payne. At the suggestion of Representative Hill of Connecticut a provision was added that all American sugar and tobacco are to be admitted into the Philippines free of duty, and a new section was added which provides that no Philippine products now in warehouses in the United States shall be exempted from duties under the proposed measure.

Madera—Tim Williams & Co., the cigar and tobacco dealers, have moved into their new home in the Schmitz block on Yosemite avenue and a finer store cannot be found in the San Joaquin Valley and few places in San Francisco excel it. A neat show window takes up but a small part of the front, which leaves a wide entrance. Neat oakwood and plate glass show cases set off the large room and display to great advantage a fine stock of cigars, tobacco and smoker's articles. Neat cases on the walls contain reserve stock. The wood work is tinted a cherry-red, which is a great contrast to the walls which are papered green, giving a very pretty effect.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The Payne bill for the reduction of the tariff on cigar and tobacco products from the Philippines has now been introduced in Congress and has been printed. Discussion of the measure has already begun, and a number of weak or doubtful points are being noted, even by those who are favorable to the reduction of the tariff. The Hill amendment to the Payne bill, which provides for the admission of our sugar and tobacco to the Philippines at rates no higher than are to be charged in our ports upon similar Philippine products, is, however, creating some division of opinion among these interests. It is claimed that, when relations between the United States and the Philippines are reduced to a working basis, there will be a considerable demand for Connecticut wrapper tobacco in the islands as the cigar industry expands. The best informed members of the tobacco trade treat this claim as altogether preposterous, however.

Brooklyn, N. Y.—An appeal has been taken from the court ruling dismissing the complaint of E. Locker & Co. against the American Tobacco Co., the Metropolitan Tobacco Co. and Messrs. Adolph Bendheim and Arthur Stern, alleging that these defendants had been parties to an illegal combination in restraint of trade. The plaintiffs prayed for a mandatory injunction to restrain said defendants from refusing to sell to the plaintiffs the article in common use (tobacco) without which they would be and were hindered in the free pursuit of their lawful business. The Locker case, in which the plaintiffs were John A. Locker and Elma Locker, constituting the well known firm of E. Locker & Co., of 267-273 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn Borough, is one which has attracted widespread attention, not alone in the tobacco trade, but in every branch of industry, because of the principle involved, which is, can a corporation, within its corporate powers, form a trust or combination to monopolize an article in common use and then arbitrarily boycott one of its customers. The American Tobacco Co. was made the chief defendant in the suit.

Trading Stamps Are Expensive.

A Biddeford grocer says: "This talk about the cost of the stamps coming out of the dealers is all bosh; it comes direct from the consumer, and as an evidence of this, my store will begin next Monday to sell for 25 cents a pound tea which we have been charging 40 cents a pound for while giving stamps."

Plans are about completed for the building. It will be two stories high with basement and will have a frontage of 97 feet and be 250 feet deep. The change is made necessary by the great increase in business which the United Wholesale Grocery Company has enjoyed.

Los Angeles—Representatives of the Retail Grocers' and Fruit Dealers' Association recently appeared before the legislative committee of the city council with a request that the zone in which the peddling of fruits, fish and vegetables is prohibited, be extended. The prohibitive district the association would have made to include the entire business portion of the city. The committee was inclined to recommend the legislation which the association asks, but no action will be taken until the entire committee passes upon the question.

Los Angeles—The Sterling Grocery has made an assignment in favor of the Los Angeles Wholesale Grocers' Board of Trade, and W. W. White is in charge. There is in the store from $3500 to $3800 worth of groceries and the fixtures cost about $1300. The business will be continued, strictly on a cash basis, until disposed of, either at retail or in a lump. The Sterling Grocery has been conducted by J. A. Weisenborn, who came here from Southern Georgia about three years ago and in March opened the grocery store in the Lombard building, where he has been in the business since that time.

Smith & Co. have purchased the business of V. R. Cheeney at 611 North State street. T. Harris has opened an up-to-date grocery store at Crocker and Agatha streets. He is an experienced grocery man. His trade mark is: "We sell good things to eat." The Richardson Grocery Co.'s store at 201 North Broadway believes in an attractive store for the holidays. They have a chimney built in their large show window and Japanese lanterns hung around the store, and over all the electric lights, which makes a very pretty effect at night. M. W. DEALERS A UNIT.

be injudicious for us to give any names at the present time as it would bring upon us much ill feeling without commensurate good results since the grocers of this town are not united in an organization and therefore cannot act effectively.

Our firm will have nothing to do with a house that supplies private families, boarding houses and hotels that would otherwise be the customers of retail grocers, no matter what values they may present. We feel that to do so would be to commit commercial suicide and would be about as wise as to stroke the back of a rattlesnake. We regret that the intelligence of the members of the grocery trade is such that such questions have to be submitted to them for consideration.

J. Michel & Co., Sonora, Cal.—"We are fully in accord with the sentiments expressed in the Grocers' Advocate. The merchants of this community are all suffering more or less from these trade abuses. If necessary, we can give you instances and names of jobbers that are selling consumers to the detriment of the retail merchants here. For several years past our firm has made it part of its policy to cut out any and all firms whom we know are injuring our trade in this and other ways. We feel certain that if the merchants of Sonora were pulling together better, these so-called jobbers could not do any business here.

We find that the commercial travelers who are working on commission are mainly the ones who are the cause of these trade abuses. This results from the fact that their only interest is in the commission they receive on their sales and they are anxious to sell as many goods as they can, no matter to whom.

W. E. Kent, Jackson, Cal.—"Some of the San Francisco wholesale dealers sell in this community to the hotels and boarding houses who otherwise would deal with local merchants. The names of the offending firms could easily be looked up if such a step were desired. I would be glad to cut out anyone who would be found guilty.

Edw. Stein, Monrovia, Cal.—"Although the merchants of this community do not suffer from having the wholesalers sell to parties who would otherwise buy from our firm, we would be glad to cut out any firms who offended in this way.

Chair of the Giant Idris.

One of the mountain peaks of north Wales is known as the Chair of Idris, or Cader Idris, as the Welsh people call it, because its top is hollowed out like an immense couch. According to local tradition, whoever spends a night in the Chair of Idris will on the following morning be dead, raving mad or endowed with the loftiest poetical inspiration. No one seems to know exactly who Idris was or when he lived, but he must have been a giant if his body was in proportion with his celebrated "chair." Mrs. Hemans has a fine poem with the Chair of Idris as the theme, and Tennyson also mentions it in "Ænid."

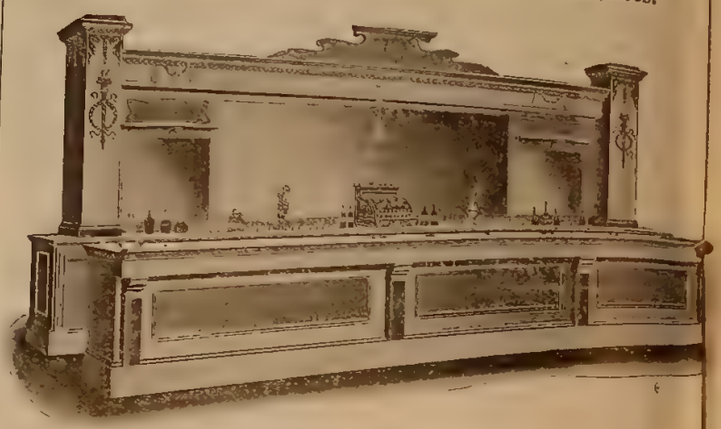
Circassian Beauty.

Painting the eyes and eyelids is considered a great aid to the fascination of the female orbs. A Circassian to be really lovely must, in addition to being very corpulent, have golden hair and jet black lashes. Kohl is used by the Persian and Armenian women to lengthen their eyes. The bazaar women and nautch girls of most eastern countries dye their finger nails with henna, and where they wish to be thought great ladies they allow their finger nails to grow to an immense length and keep them in finely wrought gold sheaths.

Doomed.

"He'll never reach the top in his profession."

"Why, he believes he's there now."



"That's the very reason that he'll never get there."—Philadelphia Ledger.

A good action is never lost. It is a treasure laid up and guarded for the doer's need.—Calderon.

Amusements

GRAND OPERA HOUSE.

Nance O'Neil has been producing Maerterlinck's masterpiece "Monna Vanna," during the past week. The play in itself is one full of dramatic feeling and subtle sugestion. Nance O'Neil as the heroine whose soul is torn between love and duty is the central figure of the play. She interprets the role with remarkable dramatic feeling and leaves an impression of great dramatic reserve force that is extremely effective. The cast is a strong one and is thoroughly well proportioned.

ALHAMBRA.

Bob Fitzsimmons has been the drawing card at the Alhambra this week in his own piece, "A Fight For Love." Fitzsimmons has been assisted by Sam Berger, the Olympic Club's amateur champion heavyweight, who makes a very effective actor and reads his lines with quite a professional accuracy. The story is a complicated one with plots and counterplots in which Fitzsimmons always appears as Johnny-on-the-spot to prevent the villain from committing his dastardly crimes. At every point in the play that brought Fitzsimmons forward, the audience burst into enthusiastic applause, which showed how thoroughly popular the old gladiator is in spite of his recent defeat. Through special arrangement with David Belasco, "The Heart of Maryland" will be produced next week with a special matinee on Monday afternoon.

ALCAZAR THEATRE.

"The Prince and the Pauper" has been attracting crowds to the Alcazar. It is one of the prettiest stories that Mark Twain ever wrote and carries with it a beautiful lesson of how the soul is shaped and life is made better by adversity. Little Ollie Cooper takes the part of the young Prince Edward who, having put on a beggar's clothes, is thrown into the streets because of the remarkable resemblance which causes the little pauper who has assumed the prince's clothes to be recognized as the prince himself and afterwards as king for a brief time. The story of the trials of the little prince and of the equally harassing experiences of the little pauper, make up a very interesting evening's entertainment. Mr. Waldron as Miles Herdick, who defends the little prince, all the while thinking the youngster is not quite right in his head, and Edith Evelyn as the mother of the pauper lad, have particularly sympathetic roles. The presentation has required much special scenery and costuming. Next week the funny farce comedy, "A Stranger in a Strange Land" will be presented, beginning with the matinee on Monday afternoon. George Osbourne appears in this as the Indian, the role created by him in the original production in New York at the Manhattan Theatre.

NEW CENTRAL.

The old Central opened up as the "New Central" on December 23rd, with Lincoln J. Carter's thrilling dramatic piece, "The Eye Witness," for the initial performance. The theatre has been entirely re-carpeted, re-painted and the stage supplied with many improvements. The company presents many faces new to San Francisco. This stock company is particularly well balanced and gives promise of very effective work. Next week they will produce Ralph Stewart's "By Right of Sword."

CALIFORNIA THEATRE.

"The Broadway Galety Girls" are the Christmas attraction at the California. The program is a mixture of burlesque and vaudeville presented with a dash and glitter that makes the very lightness of the frothy production attractive. The chorus, as usual, is shapely and well costumed and adds to the effectiveness of the songs by numerous changes of costume and pretty dances and by-play during the choruses. The variety specialties are among the best in their line. On Monday afternoon "The Jolly Girls" give their first matinee and appear for the rest of the week.

MAJESTIC THEATRE.

"If I Were King" has been drawing crowds to the Majestic Theatre during its second week. This is a beautiful production of the romance of Francois Villon, the poet and soldier who, during the time of Louis XI, did so much for French literature and succeeded in setting a pace for rascally Bohemianism that has never been equaled since. Of course Villon's life is idealized in the play, which tells an extremely romantic and dramatic story. Amelia Gardner returns next week and will open at the new Years matinee on Monday in Esmond's delightful comedy, "When We Were Twenty-One."

TIVOLI OPERA HOUSE.

"Orpheus in Hades," the Tivoli's Christmas extravaganza, is still drawing crowds to this theatre. The opera has so much of a story and pretty music that it rises far above the usual Christmas offering. At the same time it has so much of Christmas spectacle that it fulfills the necessities of the holiday production.

CHUTES.

Eunice Gilman and 200 other clever children are giving a production of Bothwell Browne's "Cleopatra-up-to-Date" at the Chutes. This is a nonsensical bit of burlesque, full of fun and frolic that is particularly attractive to the little folks because of its catchy songs and pretty dances. Barnes' Diving Elks, the Circle Swing, and numerous other open air attractions keep the crowds interested.

FISCHER'S.

The program for this week is up to the standard which announces that "If 'Tis Fischer's, it's good." It consists of vaudeville in which there is real variety. There is a matinee every afternoon.

A Curious Tale.

This curious tale of the Venerable Bede is told in the mediaeval "Golden Legend:" One day, when he was old and blind, the desire to preach came upon him. An attendant led him to a spot where he faced a heap of stones, and Bede, believing that a human audience was before him, delivered an eloquent sermon. At the end, it is gravely recorded, the stones cried "Amen!" no doubt to save Bede's feelings.

Those Lost Positions.

As the "How-I-LostMy-Job" prize contest in the Chicago Tribune proceeds, it appears that a great many of those who have been "chased" out of their jobs, who have had "cans tied to them," been "bounced," or "kicked out," complain that the petty bosses usually have some "spite at them"—for some reason or other. Some frankly avow their own faults and declare, or at least tacitly admit, that theirs was the blame.

The interest in the latest batch of letters lies in the insight given to abuses that exist in some big concerns where the employer himself cannot know all that is going on, and where the employes are abused. The abuse of overwork without recompense is complained of in several cases. Also there is the ever present curse, of which Kipling says.

"When they carved the Sphinx's visage
Favoritism governed kissage,
Even as it does in this age."

Reason for Losing Positions.

Here is a list of the latest reasons assigned for the loss of positions:

Drunks	3
Loafers	4
Careless	2
Ignorant of work	2
Bad companions	2
Late hours	2
Overworked, refused to do more	1
Bos didn't like him	2
Foreman had it in for him	2
Knew too much	1
Housewife ignorant of housekeeping (cook)	1
Lost interest when he reached limit of advancement	1
Paid too much attention to his girl	1
Refused to take bull dog for walk	1
Refused to marry employer	1
Forced to work night, afraid to go home alone	1
Foreman wanted the place for his son	1
Beat the boss playing pool	1
Dropped letters on sidewalk	1
Caused an explosion	1

Lost Place and Girl.

"W. J. H" left three positions without giving warning, and the fourth—not a good one—he got tired of when he had advanced as far as he could. He was engaged to a girl, and secured her a position in the place, and paid more attention to her than to his work, and finally lost the place and the girl, too.

"A. I." was neither honest nor faithful. He was sent to the postoffice with letters, and had an engagement to meet two girls. He wanted to meet them but wanted to escape going home with them, so he mailed part of the letters at the postoffice, and kept the rest to show the girls that he could not go home with them. His excuse worked, but, in dropping the letters into a mail box, he let some of them fall on the pavement, where they were found by the postman, who reported to the firm. The boss forgave him, but the next in command, who did not like him anyhow, "put the skids under him" and rolled him out of his job

Too Much "System" Doesn't Pay.

His desk was a model of neatness, and it was a great pleasure to his employer to be able to go to his clerk and know that a paper might be discovered in a second. Each pigeon-hole in the desk was marked and submarked; the inkstand never varied from its chosen spot an eighth of an inch; the paper weight the same. Dust was an enemy which was routed almost before it settled.

Yet this employe had not advanced to anything higher than the position that was given him four years before. Why? He was systematic, punctual and trustworthy, but he had the phlegmatic temperament that goes with the systematic—the slow, systematic man.

Too Much Time Wasted.

In the morning half an hour would be spent dusting his desk. Then several minutes would be consumed while he mastered the difficult problem of where his paper weight should lie. And his employer looked upon him as a necessity, a sort of higher janitor. But an employer does not like to pay a man a big salary for having no dust on his desk and for keeping his papers in order. Nor does he advance one who opens his morning mail carefully and deposits the empty envelopes in the ready waste-basket with an almost tender air of reverence, or one who hesitates about the exact placing of a chair.

A large firm out in Chicago—says E. R. Calvin, commenting on this slow, systematic type of man in business—employs many solicitors. Not long ago it hired a young man of good appearance whose references were of the best. The three members of the firm all liked him and felt kindly disposed toward him. But his systematic nature proved his downfall. It was almost a mania with him. He reached his office early in the morning and spent an hour arranging his desk. Another half hour was spent in reading his mail. Three mornings in the week he arrived at the office with a new idea for systematizing his affairs The ideas were all good—for instance, he spent three hours indexing a set of books in a way that would simplify his orders and their description—if he ever received any. At the end of two months he was asked to hand in his resignation.

"We are sorry to let you out," said the head of the firm, "but the business you have brought in does not pay your salary."

Work Out System After Business.

Arranging papers and dusting desks are not paid for at a high rate in this busy world. Besides, an employe has no right to take the time he should devote to soliciting, to bookkeeping or anything else in order to evolve and put into execution any idea he may have for simplifying his work. Let him take the time at home or during his noon hour. Other important matters stand ready for attention, and a good idea is worth less at the wrong time than a poor idea at the right time.

Everett—There is a movement on foot to dispense with grocery solicitors and thereby secure cheaper groceries for the city's trade. Manager Jacobs of the Mercantile Grocery Company strongly advocates an agreement among all of the retail grocers in the city not to solicit in any manner. In support of his idea he says that it would bring a greater number of people out on the streets and would have a tendency to centralize the business. The matter will be taken up soon at a meeting of the grocers and after thorough discussion will be decided. One grocer stated, in speaking of the plan of having solicitors, that it added $125 to his expenses every month.

Somber Christianity.

The Auld Licht kirk when Dr. Chalmers visited it was a terribly bare little building. The elders were a grim set. They kept their bonnets on their heads till the minister entered, and they had each a large stick in hand, which they used for "chappin" their noses through all the service. The minister wore no gown or bands. He gave a very long sermon, full of sound divinity, but without the smallest practical application and without a vestige of feeling. At length Dr. Chalmers got out, the dismal worship being ended, and his word was, "If these people ever get to heaven, they will live on the north side of it."

Indian Magic.

A traveler tells a story of Indian magic. The juggler was a Malay, who stroked with his fingers the blade of a long knife or creese. The observer saw water fall drop by drop from the blade, which became flaccid, like a strip of india rubber. Thrown on the ground, it bounced about, but was a knife blade again when lifted by the juggler. An examination showed that there was no water on the mat on which the observer saw the drops falling.

A Prayer Before Work.

The day returns and brings us the petty round of irritating concerns and duties. Help us to play the man; help us to perform them with laughter and kind faces; let cheerfulness abound with industry; give us to go blithely on our way all this day; bring us to our resting beds weary and content and undishonored, and grant us in the end the gift of sleep. Amen!—Robert Louis Stevenson.

Would Like to Be There.

A Maine French Canadian mill operative in Biddeford asked his overseer for a few days leave of absence. Being short of help, the overseer asked him if it was anything very particular that he wanted to stay out for, and he replied, "Yaasir; I'm goin' to git marrit, an I'd lak be there; that all."

SHREDDED WHOLE WHEAT RECOMMENDATION

The Best Cereal Food to Eat, and
The Best Cereal Food to Sell, is

Shredded Whole Wheat

It is made in two forms, Shredded Wheat BISCUIT and TRISCUIT.

TRISCUIT is a CRACKER, not a "breakfast food." It is used as toast in place of ordinary bread toast, and for all purposes for which the common white cracker of commerce is used.

Shredded Wheat BISCUIT is the standard wheat food of the world, delicious for breakfast, or for every meal for every day in the year. It contains all the nutriment in the whole wheat in digestible form. A good seller all the year round.
